SENATE PASSES BILL FOR REAPPORTIONMENT WITH SLIGHT CHANGES

All Hostile Amendments Are Beaten By Good Majorities.

Increases the Senators to 67 and House Members to 130.

Tendency in the House Is to Accept Senate's Changes.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house reapportionment bill, as amended by the senate committee on reapportionment, passed the senate yesterday afternoon by a vote of 48 to 10, after every hostile amendment that was offered had been beaten by substantial majorities.

The first hostile move, though it was made in the guise of friendship for reapportionment, was a motion by Senator C. S. Marden of Clay county to refer the bill to the reapportionment committee for redrafting along the lines of the seven-senators propositon of two years ago. This was beaten, 43 to 18, the vote being as follows:

For reference to committee—Senators Anderson, C. F. Cook, Duxbury, Glotzbach, Haycroft, Johnston, Klein, McGrath, Marden, Moonan, Murray, Nelson, Olson, Poehler, Putnam, Thoe, Weis—18.

Against—Ahmann, Bedford, Benson, Boyle, Carpenter, Cheadle, Clague, Col-

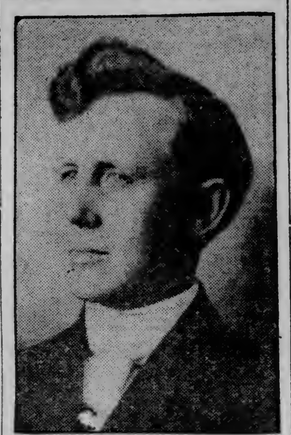
LED FIGHT IN SENATE FOR REAPPORTIONMENT



SENATOR VICTOR L. JOHNSON Of Chisago County, Whose Tact and Good Judgment Steered Reapportionment Bill Through Senate.

SAYS HE IS VICTIM OF "CODE OF HONOR"

Man Sentenced to Death in Electric Chair Asks Reprieve.

Ossining, N. Y., March 15.—John Mulraney, appointed to die in the electric chair on Monday for the murder of "Paddy the Priest," a New York saloonkeeper, today sent a letter to Governor Sulzer in which he declared that unless reprieved he would go to his death, the victim of the underworld's "code of honor," which condemned a "squealer" as the most "contemptible thing on earth." He asks for a reprieve of sixty days in order to bring forward new evidence to prove his innocence.

He declares in the missive, that believing in the "code of honor," and thinking he could not be convicted because he was innocent, he had done what he considered a brave act in trying to protect supposed friends by permitting this infamous charge to be lodged."

The prisoner adds that he was "framed up" by the New York police, and that while intoxicated by whisky given him by the police he signed a confession which he supposed was merely a statement describing his movements on the night of the murder.

HAWTHORNE SENTENCED

Gets One Year in Penitentiary for Fraudulent Use of Mails.

Josiah Quincy, Twice Mayor of Boston, Is Acquitted By Jury.

New York, March 15.—The Hawthorne mining trial, which has dragged along nearly four months before a jury in the Federal court here came to a conclusion yesterday with the conviction of three of the defendants, Julian Hawthorne, Dr. William J. Morton and Albert Freeman, and the acquittal of Josiah Quincy, twice mayor of Boston and assistant secretary of state during the Cleveland administration.

Hawthorne, Morton and Freeman were found guilty of making fraudulent use of the mails in selling stock in the exploitation of Canadian ore claims. Quincy was held not guilty of conspiracy in allowing his name to be used in promoting the stock. The jury was out seventy-seven hours.

Sentence Pronounced.

Judge Mayer pronounced sentence on the three men whom the jury found guilty and paroled Quincy until next October, when he is directed to appear in answer to two indictments still pending against him. Freeman, a New York business man for twenty-six years, was sentenced to five years in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta. Hawthorne, son of Nathaniel Hawthorne, the novelist, and himself an author, and Dr. William J. Morton, son of Dr. W. T. G. Morton, the first user of ether in surgical operations, were each sentenced to one year and one day at Atlanta. Freeman's prison term is to date from the first of the present year, and the terms of Hawthorne and Morton from Nov. 25, the day the trial was begun.

Judge Mayer granted a ten-day stay to allow an appeal. Counsel for Hawthorne pleaded for suspension of sentence for the author.

Judge Mayer, in passing sentence, declared that the defendants had "the fairest trial possible." They were charged by the government with having obtained about $600,000 from the public in their exploitation of the so-called Hawthorne properties.

GREAT GRIST OF MEASURES

Total of 1,782 Bills Introduced in Legislature So Far.

Senate Grain Probe Committee Splits on Admitting Evidence.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house passed the 1,000 mark this morning in the number of bills, reaching 1,011, which, with 771 in the senate, makes a total of 1,782 bills introduced so far at this session, 81 of which have become laws. Next Wednesday is the last day for introducing bills in the house and April 1 is the last day in the senate.

The reapportionment bill as amended by the senate committee did not reach the house this morning but will come in Monday. The sentiment seems to be among the friends of reapportionment in the house that the best thing to do is to accept the senate amendments and repass the bill, settling the matter finally without incurring the risk of complications that might lead to the defeat of the bill.

Senate Probers Split.

The senate grain investigation committee split this morning over the matter of whether Secretary McHugh of the chamber of commerce should be compelled to submit a list of members who have been disciplined. When Mr. McHugh was on the stand the Equity attorneys demanded such a list, and Chairman Works overruled the demand.

"Then I overrule the chairman," said Linde of the committee. Turning to Senator Johnson of the committee, he demanded his vote on the question. Senator Johnson said he thought the

YOUTH TO BE TRIED FOR KILLING FOUR

Ray Pfanschmidt Charged With Murder of His Whole Family.

Quincy, Ill., March 15. — Ray Pfanschmidt, next Tuesday, will be placed on trial for his life in the circuit court of Adams county. Pfanschmidt is the youth, just 21 years old last Saturday, who is accused of having killed his father, mother and sister, and a young lady school teacher, a boarder in the home, with an axe, and then returning the next night and burning the house. The alleged murder took place September 27, 1912. Pfanschmidt will be tried first for the murder of his sister, Blanche, as in her case, because of the condition of the body, the evidence of murder was strongest.

The trial is attracting more attention than any criminal trial ever held in Western Illinois, as the Pfanschmidt family is one of the best known and wealthiest in Adams county. The case also is unique because of the fact that the resident judge, Albert Akers, was disqualified by two affidavits filed alleging bias, and because a special act of the Illinois legislature was required to assure the legality of continuing from one term of court to another. Judge Guy Williams of Havana, Ill., will preside.

DONALDSON MAN KILLS HIMSELF AT SPOONER.

WIRES DOWN AND TRAINS ARE DELAYED

Blizzard Plays Havoc With Schedules of Some of Railroads.

Chicago Train Does Not Arrive in Duluth Until 2:30 a. m.

Storm Approaching Tornado in Intensity Does Damage in Wisconsin.

That the storm has caused a good deal of havoc with train schedules and telegraph wires goes without saying in the case of people who have been forced to use them during the last twenty-four hours, but the chief storm seems to have been to the west, northwest, and southeast of the city.

There has not been much trouble between Duluth and the Twin Cities and the trains between here and there have been coming in practically on time during all of the blizzard. So far as the railroads are concerned, the Omaha road suffered the worst. A series of mishaps delayed the train due here yesterday morning at 9:35 and it did not get in until 2:30 this morning, although the officials here were expecting it momentarily. First there was a washout at Elroy, Wis., and the train did not get past there until 10:30 yesterday morning. A little further there was another slight mishap and more delay. Then the blizzard had caught the train and it was a case of the balance of the way of bucking

SAYS PROGRESSIVES MUST KEEP APART

Roosevelt Tells Them They Are to Make Separate Party.

Philadelphia, March 15.—Congressmen elected on the Progressive ticket were told that they are expected to make a separate party and to remain apart from the other parties by Former President Roosevelt in his speech at the banquet held here last night under the auspices of the Pennsylvania state Progressive conference.

The next national Progressive campaign in 1916 was referred to in speeches by Col. Roosevelt and Former Senator Albert Beveridge, Col. Roosevelt declaring the greatest number of delegates from any state in the next national convention will be from Pennsylvania, while Senator Beveridge urged his hearers to not only act as missionaries, but as organizers, and added that "if you do the next nominee of the Progressive party will be the next president of the United States."

Declaring that it would be necessary to go back to Civil War days to find times like the present, Col. Roosevelt said "there have been three great movements of righteousness in this country: the time it was founded; the time it was saved, and now when it is being dedicated anew to the lives of the average man and woman who compose it."

COMMITTEES OF SENATE AND NEW REGULATIONS PRESENTED TO CAUCUS

Senator Tillman Will Not Continue Fight for Chairmanship.

Resolutions Provide for Distribution of Power in Upper House.

Radical Changes Made in Method of Controlling Legislation.

Washington, March 15.—Senator Tillman had decided not to prolong his fight for the chairmanship of the appropriations committee when the senate caucus committee met today to approve the committee assignments made by the "steering" committee. He had prepared a resolution proposing to substitute his name for that of Senator Martin, whom the party managers had selected for the chairmanship. It was understood that he would present this resolution to the caucus and demand a vote on it, but that if defeated, he would not carry the fight to the floor of the senate.

The "steering" committee of nine, headed by Senator Kern, Democratic leader, presented the full Democratic committee lists to the party conference when it assembled. A week of continuous work by the committee, in

HYDE JURY LIKELY TO DISAGREE

Report Made Judge Porterfield Who Sends Them Back.

Kansas City, Mo., March 15.—Disagreement loomed in the Hyde murder trial when the jury reported at 10:15 o'clock this morning that there was little chance of reaching a verdict.

Judge Porterfield immediately sent the jurors back for further deliberation.

Deliberations were resumed today after the jury had taken less than six hours' rest. The case went to the jury at 10 o'clock Thursday night.

The fact that the jurors had conferred in their hotel until long after midnight and the foreman's report at 11 o'clock last night when they were formally excused by the court, that "good progress" had been made, led to the expectation that a verdict would be rendered before tonight.

Judge Porterfield gave the jurors permission to continue their deliberations at the hotel if they chose and sounds of arguments were heard from the jury quarters as late as 2 o'clock this morning.

The strain of waiting and suppressed excitement has so told upon Mrs. Hyde that she appeared in the courtroom today more worn than at any time since the trial began.

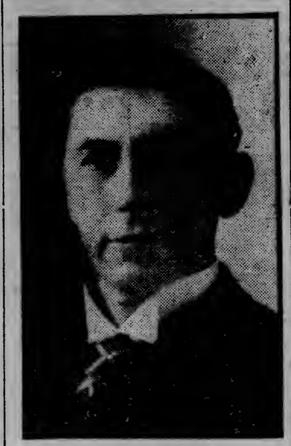
DULUTH TEACHERS TO BE GIVEN ADVANCE OF $50 APIECE IN SALARY

TO BE NEXT TREASURER OF THE UNITED STATES



JOHN BURKE.

Washington, March 15.—The nomination of John Burke, former governor of North Dakota, as treasurer of the United States, was sent to the senate by President Wilson this afternoon.

Committee Will Recommend Increase in Report Now Being Prepared.

Action Will Abolish Present Limit for Grade Schools.

Not All Teachers Asked But All the Board Can Afford.

A general increase of $50 a year each will be given approximately 400 Duluth teachers when the schedule of salaries is made this year, according to one member of the board of education.

The question of salaries did not come up at the special meeting of the board yesterday, but it was made known that the committee on schools and teachers is preparing a salary report that will be submitted at a meeting to be held later.

Information from an authentic source is to the effect that all teachers employed in the city schools will be given an arbitrary increase of $50 for next year. The committee will make that recommendation and the members of the board will undoubtedly concur in it.

"We cannot go any faster than our taxes will allow," said a member of the board, who prefers to remain unnamed for the present. "The proposed increase of $50 each to the teachers will mean an added expenditure for salaries of $20,000 next year. For the new buildings new teachers will be needed, and that will add about $15,000 to the payroll. The added expenditure of $35,000 is all our available funds will permit."

The action of the board when taken will virtually abolish the limit on grade salaries now in effect. The limit, made two years ago, is $850 for eighth grade teachers and $800 for teachers under the eighth grade. Ten teachers are now drawing the $850 limit and will get $900 under the new arrangement, and ninety-nine teachers now drawing $800 will get $850 under the proposed increase.

The teachers have requested that the

NEW POLICIES TO TAKE FORM

Next Week Will See Changes in Activities at White House.

Some Announcements of Interest Will Also Be Made.

Washington, March 15.—While the present week has been given over largely to organization and filling some of the vacancies occasioned by the change in administration, the word went out from the White House today that next week will be a change of activity. Some of the administration's new policies, it was said, will take definite form. It is expected that President Wilson not only will issue his proclamation calling the next congress but will make some announcement on the course his administration will take toward some public works.

The president's conferences for today indicated that some important questions of appointments might be settled.

First Caller.

Dudley Field Malone of New York, who has been offered the position of assistant attorney general, in charge of cases before the customs court, was first on President Wilson's list of callers. National Chairman William F. McCombs was to follow. It was reported that something definite might be known as to whether Mr. McCombs would accept the post of ambassador.

CONN'S COMPANION GIVEN FREEDOM

Mrs. Clarkson, Released in Milwaukee, Starts for Chicago.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 15.—Mrs. Mabel Clarkson who deserted her husband, the Rev. N. K. Clarkson, and for a time lived with Owen C. Conn, held by the police at San Francisco as a "society burglar," was given her freedom by the Milwaukee police department at 9:30 a. m. today and left for Chicago at 10 a. m.

Mrs. Clarkson was detained by the Milwaukee authorities on a request from the police department of San Francisco in the hope that she might be able to give some information in connection with Conn's associates and operations.

The woman avers that she has no knowledge of Conn's doings in the far West.

There is no indication of a reconciliation between the Clarksons for the present at least.

A message received by the Milwaukee police department from the department at Chicago reads:

"Clarkson will do nothing."

The police here infer from the telegram that Clarkson will have nothing to do with his wife.

FIVE PERSONS HURT IN FIRE IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, March 15.—Five persons were injured, two probably fatally, early today when fire destroyed a three-story brick building, the lower floor of which was used as a private garage, at 46 East Oak street.

Alexander Tennant, 28 years old, a chauffeur and his wife, 18 years old, who lived in the building, were the most seriously injured. Both were badly burned and jumped from the third story. George Scott, also a chauffeur, jumped from the second floor but was less seriously hurt. Two firemen were slightly injured. Three automobiles were destroyed.

OLNEY DECLINES AMBASSADORSHIP

Massachusetts Man's Refusal in Hands of President Wilson.

Washington, March 15.—Richard Olney of Boston, to whom President Wilson offered the post of ambassador to Great Britain, has declined. His letter of refusal was received at the White House today.

Mr. Olney's letter was said to be of a confidential nature and was not made public. Secretary Tumulty, however, announced that Mr. Olney had declined "for family reasons." It is understood that Mrs. Olney has been in poor health and that Mr. Olney was loath to change his residence at his advanced age. His many business connections through his law practice also are said to have influenced him to remain in this country.

Speculation as to who might be chosen ambassador to Great Britain began immediately on the announcement of Mr. Olney's declination. It was pointed out that beside Mr. Olney, President Wilson had had in mind Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harverd, but had offered Mr. Olney the place because of his conspicuous record in the Democratic party.

It is not known that Dr. Eliot would accept the post, as it was always understood that he declined a diplomatic offer from President Taft.

SUFFRAGETTE CRACKED NOSE

Militant Member Tells Committee of Her Physical Efforts.

Played on Heads of Insulting Men With Her Baton.

Washington, March 15.—Some examples of militant suffrage were today expounded to the senate committee investigating the disorder which attended the suffrage parade of March 3. Dr. Mary D. Mark of Maryland told of her physical efforts to defend the girls in the parade from the attentions of men in the crowd. Dr. Mark is a robust woman and she drew considerable applause when she said:

"Some of them attempted to manhandle me. I carried a baton and they got the worst of it."

Dr. Mark said that the police all along the line displayed "jellyfish indifference."

Police Stood Idly By.

"I marched in the Maryland college women's section," she said. "The Maryland section just ahead of us carried a large Maryland state flag. The police stood by idly, while the crowd which surged close about the marchers spat on the flag and threw lighted cigarettes and matches into it. The police appeared to get a great deal of

ARE YOU SICK?

YOU CAN GET WELL!
Electro Medical Methods Are the Treatments You Need to Restore Health, Strength and Vitality.

The Electro Medical Doctors at No. 26 West Superior street, Duluth, have received a great many patients who suffered for many years. There is hardly anything more wonderful than the method of these doctors, and it probably would be hard to find people who are more happy than those who have been treated by the Electro Medical method.

Healing diseases through the medium of high electro-medical power is but a natural phenomenon whereby the nerves and vitality itself is restored and liberated from disease and the blood will flow unobstructed through veins and arteries of the body.

Electricity has been the master key which has unlocked the doors which have revealed nearly all of the important discoveries up to the present time and there is no doubt that the solution of the medicine difficulty lies in electricity.

That does not say that the doctors are strictly opposed to medicines. Greater, however, than all power of medicines, in the art of curing diseases, is the power of medical electricity. The Electro Medical doctors desire a few more cases of people who found no cure elsewhere. There are separate waiting rooms for men and women and so are the treating rooms. All consultations are free, 9 to 8, and Sundays, 10 to 1. Married women, however, are requested to be accompanied by their husbands.

London, March 15.—The estimated amount which the house of commons is to be asked to appropriate this year for the expenditure on the British army is $141,000,000 against $139,300,000 last year, an increase of $1,800,000. The sum of $1,170,000 is to be devoted to aviation.

Japs Adopt Budget.

Tokio, Japan, March 15.—The Japanese diet today adopted the government budget by a close vote—186 to 181. The total ordinary revenue is estimated as $265,800,825, and the extraordinary revenue $27,500,000. Against these the ordinary expenditures are $211,000,000 and the extraordinary expenditures are $81,500,000.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

The beginning of the end of the "roughneck saloon" in Duluth seems to be at hand.

The days are passing in this burg when tough boze peddlers or their bouncers can fill a victim of his own foolishness with rotten squirrel whisky and then beat him up and throw him out because he does not comply with an arbitrary standard of ethics expounded by the keepers of the gin mills or their hirelings themselves.

"A bartender hasn't any license whatever to assault a man who gets drunk in his place or comes in drunk," declared Judge Windom in police court yesterday afternoon in handing John Peterson a straight jail sentence of thirty days for having slugged John Nelson, a woodsman, Thursday night.

"The person who works back of the bar must expect to be called vile names by men whose minds are inflamed with the poison which they sell them," he continued. "He has'nt got any right to take the law into his own hands or to lay a finger upon the unfortunate who heaps abusive epithets upon him. He fits some of the names which he is called or he wouldn't be in that business."

"If any bartender or saloon keeper did to me what the bartender, Peterson, did to that man sitting there," indicating Nelson, who sat on the bench before him with one eye puffed and swollen so that he couldn't see from it, "I would follow him to the end of the earth. I would sue him under the law which makes such actions possible and if I obtained judgment I would garnishee his wages for the rest of his natural life, if it took that long to obtain satisfaction of the verdict."

Nelson testified yesterday that he went into the saloon of Charles Carlson on West Superior street and was invited by Peterson, employed there as a bartender, to have a lunch. He said that he ordered a sandwich. Before touching it ,he asserted that he asked Peterson to pay for it. Apparently angered by Nelson's request, Nelson stated that Peterson struck him violently over the eye and threw him out the side entrance. Peterson denied his guilt but the court did not find that the weight of the evidence sustained his contention that he was innocent.

If suits are started against saloon keepers and bartenders by men who are attacked in their places, they will spell the doom of the low class saloons in which such assaults are so common that they scarcely excite comment.

Coupled with the announced determination of Judge Windom of the police court to show no mercy to men who are convicted of such assaults, there would appear to be but little doubt but what the rowdy saloon is on the run to oblivion as far as Duluth is concerned.

Fred Hamilton, a cabaret entertainer, sought personal surcease from sorrow through the medium of the flowing bowl last Monday morning. With several others he entered the automobile of Fred Wilson, a chauffeur, for a joy ride to Superior.

To prevent any possibility of the happiness flames running low they stopped at a licensed refreshment parlor at Eleventh avenue west. After a "cup" or two Hamilton went out in advance of the others. He thought he would try to start the internal wheels of the joytub to spinning and turned the crank. The engine buzzed and hummed. He threw the machine into gear, or something like that. Anyhow, he monkeyed with the levers and something happened. The technical description includes a phrase about ripping the gears from the differential, whatever that is.

However, he put the joytub on the blink and it had to be rescued by another buzz cart summoned from a garage. As far as Wilson's gasoline cart went, the lark was at an end.

Yesterday Wilson heard that Hamilton was planning to leave the city. Hamilton had refused to settle the damages and he caused his arrest on a charge of tampering with an automobile. The case was settled upon Hamilton paying for the repairs, amounting to some $40 of the good and lawful money of the U. S.

The son and daughter claimed that Vexel had been making his home with their mother, who is 66 years old, for some past nine or ten months. They complained that their existence had been characterized chiefly by the quantities of strong drink which they consumed.

This morning Vexel was arraigned in police court on a charge of second offense drunkenness. He pleaded guilty to the charge and got a straight sentence of sixty days in the county jail. Upon his solemn promise to leave the city and to keep away sentence was continued for the period of one year.

Little is known of him. It was stated this morning that he had been in the habit of working in the woods or on railroads for several months at a time and that after he had accumulated a stake he would come into town to blow it. He is said to have frequented Johnson's gin mill on these occasions, extending over a period of many years.

There was a Champaign jag in police court yesterday. But it wasn't one of those costly joy water kind, either. To be strictly correct it was a Peter Champaign Jag. Peter declared that he took just three drinks of squirrel redeye in a Bowery joint and didn't remember any more until he woke up in the police station. Strange to relate, he had some change in his pockets together with a check for some $90. He announced his intention of keeping sober so that he could vist his folks and sentence was suspended.

Lawrence Habner, a West Duluth youth, pleaded guilty in police court yesterday to having sold liquor without a license. He was fined $100 with the alternative of thirty days in the county jail. It appears that Lawrence got a dozen bottles of lager as the piece de resistance of a little card game. The stakes were a bottle of the amber fluid. Lawrence won only one game and the loser paid him for the thirst quencher, but it was sufficient to cause his conviction of violating the laws regulating the sale of liquor.

CHIEF OF SIOUX DIES AT CAPITAL

Hollowhorn Bear Succumbs to Pneumonia While in Washington.

Washington, March 15.—Hollowhorn Bear, chief of the Sioux Indians on the Rosebud, S. D., reservation, and probably the most famous of all Sioux chieftains, died here early today of pneumonia. For sixty-four years the big chief had defied death on the warpath, the plains, the mountains and in the forest, but the inclemency of March weather in Washington, where he came to attend President Wilson's inauguration, was too much for the old warrior. When he was stricken last Wednesday the young chiefs of his party consented to take him to the paleface medicine men at a hospital, where it was seen there was no hope.

Hollowhorn lingered in a semi-conscious condition until early today when just about the time the breakfast smoke was curling through the tops of his people's tepees on the Dakota reservation, the Great Spirit called him. Born a pagan, Hollowhorn died a devout Christian. His body will be laid at rest with those of his ancestors in the West.

GRAND RAPIDS TEAM DEFEATS DULUTH

Brilliant Debate Takes Place at Former City Upon Railroad Ownership.

The debating team of the Grand Rapids high school was winner in a debate last night against the team of the Duluth high school, the debate taking place at the home city of the victors. The subject of the debate was: "Resolved, That the Federal government should own and operate all railroads doing an interstate business."

The teams consisted of the following:

Duluth—Nathan Cook, Irving Grover and Jesse Cohen. Grand Rapids—Robert Gilbert, Miss Muriel Fairbanks and Miss Ella Mills. Grand Rapids took the affirmative and Duluth the negative side of the question.

The decision of Judges A. J. McGuire, Courtenay Buell and Gilruth was that Duluth was defeated.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson's Paintings Shipped to Washington.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 15.—The twenty-six paintings by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the president, which had been on sale in the gallery of the Arts and Crafts guild in this city for several weeks, were today boxed and sent to Washington, no offers for their purchase having been received.

The paintings were all landscapes and the proceeds from their sale were to have gone toward the maintenance fund of the Manon Berry school for boys and girls in Rome, Ga. The original prices set for the canvasses by Mrs. Wilson were $100, $200 and $500, according to size, and those were reduced to $75, $150 and $300.

WANTS DAMAGES FROM RAILROAD.

The Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific railroad is made defendant in a suit filed in district court this morning by Walter Butler, who owns a farm on the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 3, 49-16 across which the railroad right-of-way was built about three years ago. Butler claims that he has sustained damages in the amount of $2,500 because the railroad tracks cut off access to and from his land. When the road was built he says, the contractors failed to establish a grade crossing on an intersecting highway.

BYRON BROOKS. RAY ABBOTT.
MISS EVA McLYMAN.

The Asbury quartet of the Asbury M. E. church, Sixtieth avenue west and Raleigh street, will take part in the musical program for the annual sunrise service to be held on Easter Sunday morning by all the Protestant churches of West Duluth at the Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street. Twelve churches will participate in the service.

The quartet is well known in local church circles, having taken part in a number of concerts and entertainments during the past two years. The members of the quartet are the Misses Daisy and Eva McLyman and Ray Abbott and Byron Brooks.

In addition to taking part in the services every Sunday, the quartet, during the past nine weeks, has given an illustrated song in connection with the illustrated sermons of Rev. W. H. Farrell each Sunday evening. These songs and sermons will be continued until Easter Sunday.

This week the annual pre-Easter revival meetings were started and the quartet is assisting the pastor each evening. The revival will come to a close on Easter Sunday evening.

CHOIR WILL SING EASTER CANTATA

"Love Triumphant" to Be Given Easter Sunday at Westminster Church.

The choir of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street, will give the Easter cantata, "Love Triumphant," on Easter Sunday evening, under the direction of the pastor, Rev. W. L. Staub.

Following is the program of selections for the cantata to be rendered on Easter Sunday evening:

Selection—"Not a Sparrow Falleth" .....Franz Abt
Chorus, with soprano solo, soprano and alto duet and soprano, alto and tenor trio.
Song—"Blessed Are the Pure in Heart" .....Meredith
Choir.
Song and bass solo—"Hosanna" .....Peace
Choir.
Song—"We Would See Jesus" ...Tullor
Choir.
Soprano solo and chorus—"Love That Passeth Knowledge" .....Meredith
Song—"O Calvary" .....Meredith
Choir.
Selection—"He Did Not Die in Vain" .....Tullor
Chorus, with tenor and soprano duet and soprano and alto duet.
Song—"Hallelujah!" .....Peace
Choir.

In addition to the cantata Easter Sunday evening, the eleventh annual union sunrise service will be held at the Westminster church. The regular service will be held at 10:30 o'clock, with Rev. Mr. Staub in charge. The following selections will be rendered at the morning service:

Song—"Hallelujah" .....Simpler
Choir.
Vocal solo—"Easter Song" ...Ashford
Mrs. Charles Towner.
Vocal solo—"The Resurrection" .Shelley
Rev. Mr. Staub.

A special Sunday school service will be held at noon, when a program of music and exercises will be rendered by the young people. L. A. Barnes, superintendent of the class, will be in charge of the festivities.

BOAT CLUB WILL HAVE NEW HOME

The Western Boat club, which was organized last fall, will build a clubhouse this spring. Arrangements for the construction of the proposed building will be made at a special meeting to be held Wednesday evening at the Commercial club rooms.

It was announced this morning that the activities of the club would be resumed at once. The second annual election of officers will be held the last week in April.

Merwin H. Murray, the secretary of the club, announced this morning that a site has been secured at the foot of Sixty-third avenue west, adjacent to the new Fairmont park extension. The dimensions and size of the building will all be decided upon at the meeting next Wednesday.

The officers of the club for this year are:

Frank H. Wade, commodore; A. E. Swanstrom, vice commodore; Ernest Larson, rear commodore; Stanley Strand, secretary. The members of the site committee are: Robert Jennings, A. E. Swanstrom, M. H. Murray, Charles Dahl and Melvin Olson.

Men as Hosts.

The men of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street, will entertain informally Monday evening for the members of the congregation. A program of music will be rendered, after which refreshments will be served. The chairmen of the committees in charge of the arrangements are: J. P. Wier, reception; William Towner, refreshments; Andrew Johnson, serving, and John Galbraith, kitchen.

Surprise Party.

Miss Emma Korth and William Shaw, who will be married the latter part of next month, were the guests of honor at a surprise party given last evening by the Young People's society of the St. Stephen's German Lutheran church, at the home of the former, 6101 Roosevelt street. The guests present were: Miss Gussie Coster, Miss Clara Wills, Miss Esther Seline, Miss Clara Schuster, Miss Bertha Giese, Miss Erna Korth, Miss Mabel Seline, Miss Emma Lissack, Miss Olga Giese, Miss Elsie Korth, Miss Hulda Plechelman, Miss Henrietta Myers, Miss Emily Neitzling, Oscar Budde, Joe Klug, Paul Daehlenbach, John Mathey, Carl Korth and William Hill.

WADE WINNER IN ESTERLY EVENT

Olson Defeated in Final Game By 13 to 9 Score.

Frank H. Wade last evening won the Esterly Jewelry company trophy at the Western Curling club by defeating Melvin Olson, 13 to 9.

The trophy is the best one offered at the local club and considerable rivalry is shown among local curlers each year in the play for the cup. In addition to the trophy handsome jewelry prizes are to be awarded this year to the members of the winning rink, which is composed of A. B. Kapplin, lead; Russell Kittin, second; Richard F. Wade, third, and Frank H. Wade, skip.

The lights at the rink went out shortly after 10 o'clock last evening, and as a result play had to be dropped. The Wade-Olson game was in the last head and the winner was easily decided upon. The game between Simpson and Iltis in the semi-finals of the Bagley event stood 9 to 8 in favor of Iltis in the eleventh end, just at the time the lights went out. As a result the two rinks will play one more end this evening to complete the game.

The other games scheduled for this evening are between Wieland and Holland in the semi-finals of the Bagley event and Olson and Iltis in the finals of the Henricksen event, the winner of the latter game receiving the trophy.

The draws for the St. Patrick's day bonspiel, Monday afternoon and evening, will be announced tomorrow.

DEATH WAS VERY SUDDEN

Mrs. Mary O'Brien Stricken While Eating Breakfast With Family.

After eating breakfast with the other members of the family and feeling in the best of spirits, Mrs. Mary O'Brien was taken ill just as she left the table and died a few minutes later. Death occurred shortly after 8 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. O'Brien was the wife of Michael F. O'Brien of 332 South Fifty-eighth avenue west. She was a resident of Duluth for over twenty years and was very well known throughout the city. She was 39 years old.

Besides her husband, Mrs. O'Brien is survived by nine sons, all of Duluth, one sister and three brothers. The latter are: Mrs. A. C. MacDonnell of Chicago, Gregory Doherty of Indianapolis and John and William J. Doherty of Duluth.

The body has been taken to the Fillatrault undertaking rooms, where the funeral arrangements will be made some time today. Sancta Maria court, No. 322, W. C. O. F., of which the deceased was a member, will have charge of the funeral.

Meeting Postponed.

Owing to the inclement weather last evening there was no meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club. The scheduled business will be taken up next Friday. This evening the banquet committee will meet in the clubrooms and arrange the program for the eleventh annual banquet to be held on April 10 at the Dormedy hall.

Given Use of Theater.

The management of the Grand theater, 5505 Grand avenue, has donated the use of the playhouse to the senior class of the Duluth Industrial high school this afternoon and evening. The proceeds of the two performances to be given by the pupils of the school will be used in the publishing of the first senior annual this year. The program will be in charge of Earl Brooks, president of the class.

THE BIG ISSUE!

Mr. Good Citizen:

Do you realize what the REAL issue of this campaign is?

Let me state it for you plainly, as I see it.

On February 6, 1912, you decided to get rid of the influence of a certain special interest in your city affairs. You decided that the people themselves could run their city government better than any public utility corporation could.

So you voted, by a majority of 1,545, to own your own electric light plant.

But you neglected to elect men to office who would carry out your wishes in this respect.

So, on May 7, 1912, you adopted the Initiative, Referendum and Recall amendment to your old city charter in order to prevent a betrayal of your interests into the hands of any private public utility corporation.

And again, on Dec. 3, 1912, you adopted the Commission Form of government, thus recalling, at one election both your faithful public servants and the servants of the special interests—you got both the sheep and the goats at one shot.

And the issue before you now is this:

Are you going to elect men as Mayor and Commissioners who will represent YOUR interests, carry out YOUR wishes, and work for the upbuilding of YOUR city?

Or, are you going to elect men who will represent the special privilege of one or more big corporations?

I have been fighting for GOOD CITY GOVERNMENT, and I am still fighting for it.

And I shall keep on fighting for GOOD CITY GOVERNMENT, either as MAYOR or as a private citizen until we get it.

I would rather make my fight for GOOD CITY GOVERNMENT as MAYOR than as a private citizen.

And that part of it I must leave to you, Mr. Good Citizen.

DAVID H. DAY, Candidate for Mayor.

Superior

MAY MOVE SEAT OF THE DIOCESE.

The seat of the Superior diocese of the Roman Catholic church may be removed from Superior to a Wisconsin city farther south, probably to Eau Claire.

Bishop Schinner, now in charge, some months ago, asked to be removed from the episcopacy because the lake climate had proved detrimental to his health.

In order to retain him in the services of the diocese, it is proposed by the holy see to remove the seat farther south. No official action has yet been taken.

It is said that Bishop Schinner would prefer to go to South America to work among the Indians, but is hardly probable that he will be detailed there by his superiors.

Club May Affiliate.

The Superior Automobile club will in all probability affiliate with the state automobile association. At the next meeting the matter will be discussed and final action taken by the members, most of whom are in favor of the move.

Children Will Celebrate.

All the school children of Superior will hold a Perry Centennial celebration of their own, according to the arrangements of Supt. Maddock. The festivities will be held sometime in May and will include programs of addresses and recitations by the pupils.

Monster Bridge Planned.

The unloading bridge to be erected this spring by the Heyl-Patterson company for the Northwestern Fuel company will be the largest at the Head of the Lakes. It will be erected at dock No. 1 and will be 700 feet in length. The bridge will have a capacity of 10,000 tons of coal in less than twenty-four hours. Construction work is expected to start next week.

Start Work on College.

Work was started yesterday on the repairing of the two houses at Twenty-second street and John avenue, which were purchased last fall by the Jesuit Brothers for the purpose of establishing a Catholic boys' college. It is planned to have the buildings ready by this fall.

Anderson Returning.

Tokio, Japan, March 15.—Lars Anderson, who recently resigned the post of United States ambassador to Japan, sailed today with Mrs. Lars Anderson from Yokohama on board the Manchurian for San Francisco. Col. Arthur Bailly-Blanchard, secretary of embassy, is acting as charge d'affaires.

OJEDA MARCHES OUT OF NACO

Mexican General Feared for Safety of Americans Across Line.

Naco, Ariz., March 15.—Fearing for American civilians and troops on the Arizona line here, Gen. Ojeda shortly after 10 o'clock gave the order to evacuate the town. With his 475 men he marched away to the southeast, leaving his fortifications and facing an enemy twice his strength.

Want Recognition.

Washington, March 15.—Immediate recognition of the Huerta government in Mexico was urged upon Secretary Bryan today by Maj. Cassius E. Gillette, U. S. A., interested in mining properties in the state of Mexico.

Maj. Gillette called at the White House but did not see President Wilson. He would not discuss Mr. Bryan's view of recognition.

THE AZALEA.

Northwestern Agriculturalist: Many people like to have some house plant which is in continuous flower during the winter and which will make a pretty decoration ofr a dinner table. This can be found in the azalea which commends itself for several reasons. It is imported from Holland in the fall and is forced by the florists into bloom for the winter. It is full of blossoms from December until April and is a constant joy with its variety of colors and cheery looks. We find them in white, red and all shades of pink, while some are striped or mottled. The flowers are in thick clusters, so that often the leaves, which are small, thick and of a rich dark green, are almost entirely hidden by the masses of color about them.

The azalea does not require much care, except to keep it well watered. It should be kept in as cool a place as possible and needs a good supply of water daily. Florists recommend that the plant should be given at least one quart of water when it is taken to the home and the same amount or more each day.

If the plant should seem to be frozen while carrying, or at any time, it can be revived by placing it in a cool room a little above freezing. Place a piece of paper over the flowers and sprinkle well with water. Let at this several times and, if it has not been too badly frozen, it will revive and will show no signs of being injured.

JURORS VISIT TWO SALOONS TO GET LIGHT ON NOVEL CASES

The jury which is trying the issues involved in the district court lawsuit brought by Inga Rensaa against Gust Egdahl, saloon keeper, and the Illinois Surety company for $10,500 damages, yesterday afternoon visited Egdahl's two saloons at 509 West Michigan street and 512 West Superior street.

The places visited are the scene of an alleged assault where Delaus Rensaa, husband of the plaintiff, received injuries, it is claimed, which left him blind. The case is one in which the wife of the injured man seeks to recover damages from the saloon keeper and his sureties on the ground that the latter are liable, in cases where it is proven that liquor was sold to an intoxicated man who is later assaulted and hurt.

The wife's grounds for damages are based on what support she has been deprived of by reason of her husband's disabilities and the action is distinctly apart from any action for damages which the husband may bring.

Appeals From Order.
Michael Jordan, whose claim for services made against the estate of John Wilson was disallowed by Judge Gilpin in probate court, has appealed to the district court. In his complaint, Jordan states that he was employed for eighteen months, three weeks and two days by Wilson at an agreed wage of $8 a week and that he started at work on Dec. 25, 1910. His claim for services amounted to $643.32, of which he says but $15 has been paid. He asks for a judgment of $628.32 against the estate.

Object to Telephone Rates.
Members of the Duluth Commercial club are taking up the agitation for a reduction of telephone tolls between Duluth and Brainerd commensurate with the rate charged between Duluth and Minneapolis. The rate, Duluth to Brainerd, is 70 cents for three minutes. From Duluth to Minneapolis, a much longer distance with many times more business being handled, is 40 cents for three minutes.

Direct Mail Service.
Direct mail service from Duluth was instituted today on the new Duluth-Twin City Soo line between Markville and the Twin Cities. Heretofore there has been no direct service, but in the future Duluth mail will go to the towns along the line by closed pouch. The change was obtained after negotiations between the traffic commission of the Commercial club and the officers of the railway mail service.

Scribe Gets Mail.
The order of R. P. Goodwin, assistant attorney general, dated March 10, and already intimated in The Herald, ordering mail of the Modern Samaritans to be delivered to the imperial scribe, has just been made public coincident with the beginning of the end in the fight of the order.

Sin a Sneaker.
Rev. M. S. Rice preached last night at the Lyceum theater to a fairly large audience in spite of the storm. He took for his subject "Iniquity at My Heels." He declared that sin never appears in the open but seeks the shadows ever; that it haunts men. Temptation sneaks upon one, he declared, and always comes on the sly.

Talks About Explosions.
An address was given last evening on "Boiler Explosions" before members and friends of the stationery engineers' association at the Real Estate exchange by Charles J. Enger, a steam boiler expert. The poor quality of pig iron, the speaker said, is often the cause of an explosion and by no means always the negligence of the engineer.

FIGHT FAT AT NEWPORT

Exclusive Society Women Enthusiastic Over Navy Gymnastics.

Strenuous Swedish Exercises Banish Flabby Muscles.

Boston Post: A club exclusive as it is unique has been formed among the women of Newport's "winter set" to fight beauty's greatest enemy—fat.

There are few who realize that the same exclusive set reigns at Newport in the winter as in the summer. The only difference is that the winter set is not as large.

Among this "year round" colony are many of the naval officers' families. It is the wife of one of these officers who organized the "Anti-Fat Club." Mrs. William N. Hughes, whose husband is paymaster of the naval training station, realized the great benefit to be derived from a club intended to aid women in attaining and keeping perfect health.

Help From the Navy.

To her assistance came Lieut. J. R. Morrison, who is the physical instructor at the naval training station. He is introducing gymnastics into the navy. These Swedish movements were just what Mrs. Hughes was looking for. So it came about that Mr. Morrison willingly offered to instruct the members of the fair sex three times a week in the exercises introduced by Ling of Sweden, which made him famous the world over. Mrs. Morrison, the wife of the instructor, proved a worthy assistant in forming the club, for she, too, knew the need of physical training.

The success of this club has been pronounced, for no sooner had Mrs. Hughes suggested her intention than telephones were ringing and anxious maidens and matrons of the wealthiest families were asking to be allowed to join.

The lessons are taken in Cloin's hall, which is near the training station. They last from one-half to three-quarters of an hour, according to the power of endurance of the class in general. The regular gymnasium suits are worn, for the Swedish exercises require the entire freedom of every part of the body.

"The women of today are beginning to realize the need of physical training," said Mrs. Hughes, "and women of leisure need this training more than anyone else, because they are altogether too willing to ride rather than walk. Every woman, nevertheless, dreads to get fat, and the great trouble with us all is that we dread it but do nothing to keep from it."

Exercise For Everything.

"I thought at first that the women were joking when they expressed a desire to receive instructions in Swedish gymnastics," said Lieut. Morrison, "but I soon learned that they were in earnest, and it is really marvelous how proficient they have become in a short time.

"Swedish gymnastics differ from other forms of physical training in that they require the co-operation of the brain and muscle. For instance, take the simple exercise of stretching the arm out from the shoulders. In this position the elbows are close at the side, which calls for count 'one.' The stretching takes count 'two.' Let the instructor keep counting 'one-two' very quickly and then suddenly stop or change the time, and dine-tenths of the class, if not all, will invariably keep right on stretching regardless of count. Swedish gymnastics demand the muscles and brains to be so well trained that, regardless of the inclination on the command 'one,' the arms remain in the position until further orders are given. These exercises are splendid for the women.

"The women of today need to be reduced, and that is what the majority of them don't know how to do. In the first place, they take exercises that don't reduce. For instance, the exercise of bending forward is the very exercise that does not reduce the abdomen. To bend backward and not forward is what the women should do. All these exercises are eventually to be given to my class.

"If half of the enthusiasm continues that now exists in this club I am sure it will be success."

ABANDON PLAN OF DISSOLUTION

Judge Lovett of Union Pacific Announces New Plans Will Be Made.

St. Louis, Mo., March 15.—Chairman Lovett of the Union Pacific system, announced in the Federal court here that the modified plan for the dissolution of the Union-South Pacific had been abandoned because of the opposition of the California railroad commission.

As a result of the abandonment of the dissolution plans it now is necessary for the representatives of the Harriman interests and the attorney-general to devise a new plan that shall meet the approval of the judges of the Eighth Federal circuit, who are sitting in this case as the district court of Utah.

When the new plan will be ready to submit, Judge Lovett did not indicate further than to say that the supreme court had granted three months for compliance with its dissolution decree. As the dissolution decree was handed down in the latter part of the December it is thought that the plan will be devised within a few days.

Judge Lovett said the failure of the plan was due to the opposition of the California railroad commission to traffic agreement contemplated between the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific. This arrangement, which provided for the preferential interchange of traffic by the two roads in the use of the short line between Oakland and Sacramento, he said in addressing the court, "applied only to interstate traffic, concerning which the California railroad commission has no jurisdiction.

"However, in order to satisfy the French banking interests which hold a $50,000,000 loan against the Central Pacific, it is necessary to lease the Central Pacific to the Union Pacific. We recognize that this lease must have the approval of the California railroad commission in order to be valid and for that reason the opposition of the California commission to the preferential traffic agreement makes it impossible for the Union Pacific to continue with the modified plan."

Opposed in California.

San Francisco, March 15.—Lacking information upon which to base a final opinion, the California railroad commission is skeptical of the good faith in which the Union Pacific submits its modified plan for dissolution of the Harriman merger of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific properties in obedience to the decree of the United States supreme court. In a telegram to Attorney General McReynolds, the commission wrote yesterday: "The supreme court wants these lines to be unmerged and we will prevent, if we can, combinations in such merging. For want of fuller data, the commission withholds its approval."

FIFTY YEARS OF NEGRO FREEDOM.

An impressive measurement of Negro progress in the fifty years since emancipation is contributed by W. E. Burghardt Du Bois, editor of The Crisis, as one article in a group which appears in The Survey, to celebrate the completion of the half century. Prof. Du Bois says:

"In 1863 there were about 5,000,000 persons of Negro descent in the United States. Of these 4,000,000 and more were just being released from slavery. Ninety per cent were totally illiterate, and only one adult in six was a nominal Christian. Fifty years later, in 1913, there are in the United States 10,250,000 persons of Negro descent, an increase of 105 per cent.

"The Negro was freed as a penniless, landless, naked, ignorant laborer. By 1910 he had gotten hold of 15,000,000 acres of land and we can estimate his total wealth today at $570,000,000.

"Today the Negro is a recognized part of the American government; he holds 9,000 offices in the nation, furnishes four regiments in the army and a large number of sailors, holds at least 10,000 state and city offices, and furnishes 500,000 of the votes which rule the Union.

"Today Negroes have 35,000 church edifices, worth $56,000,000. There are 200 private schools and colleges managed and almost entirely supported by Negroes, and other public and private Negro schools have received in forty years $45,000,000 of Negro money in taxes and donations.

"This, then, is the transformation of the Negro in America in fifty years; from slavery to freedom, from 5,000,000 to 10,250,000, from denial of citizenship to enfranchisement, from being owned chattels to ownership of $570,000,000 in property, from unorganized irresponsibility to organized group life, from being spoken for to speaking, from contemptuous forgetfulness on the part of their neighbors to uneasy fear and dawning reepect, and from inarticulate complaint to self-expression and dawning consciousness of manhood."

HENRY J. MULLIN

CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER

(SHORT TERM)

I stand first and foremost for a clean, efficient, business adminstration, and I further stand for the municipal ownership of public utilities, as has been, or hereafter may be, outlined by the will of the people, expressed by their vote;

The establishment of municipal docks at the earliest possible moment;

The equal and impartial enforcement of the laws;

The suppression of the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors;

A determined and vigorous effort to suppress and eliminate the social evil. There is no legal excuse for the segregation of vice;

The equitable distribution of public improvements;

The establishment of a more efficient system of street cleaning, repairing and improvement;

The employment of capable, honest assistants in the department to which I may be assigned;

An 8-hour day for all municipal work done for or by the city at the current and established wages prevailing at the time the work is performed.

It is my firm belief that a commissioner under this new form of city government can give to the city his most efficient efforts only by entering office absolutely free from corporation or individual obligation.

AUTO DEALERS OPTIMISTIC

Inquiry Indicates Good Season for Business in Duluth This Year.

Y. M. C. A. Auto School Continues to Attract Many Students.

While inquiry still is good, the weather conditions preclude what were expected to be normal sales of motors in the garages of Duluth, so the dealers agree. They talk to The Herald brightly, however, for they feel that the year of 1913 will see all records for sales of cars broken not only locally but throughout the country. They say in reply to questions as to prospects, that they could not be much better, and that it is a certainty that a majority of the present prospects will be landed soon. Each pleasant day brings out more prospects than usual and they spend a good deal of time looking over the various makes.

The classes in the Y. M. C. A. auto school are getting along well and increasing. The number of prospective buyers of machines are getting anxious to be able not only to handle their own cars but to fix up all but major breaks. An exchange says:

"Get acquainted and learn to know and understand your own car. This little truism and bit of advice applies to every owner of an automobile, from the possessor of the modest little moderate-priced runabout to the owner of the big touring car or limousine, who has forever tabooed 'I should worry.' The automobile of today is ono of the most perfect bits of man-made mechanism, almost as intricately, although not so delicately, constructed as is the high-priced and dependable watch or chronometer, and it can hardly be classed as insenate. It needs understanding care; it even needs loving care, and this will never be given it by a hired chauffeur, working simply for a wage and having no proprietary interest in the car which he is called upon to handle."

Lieut. Theodore Metcalfe—a British army officer—shattered the Australian road record from Brisbane to Toowoomba, Australia, in a Hudson car, making the distance in three hours and seventeen minutes, which is one hour and thirteen minutes better than any previous performance. The run was official, being held under the auspices of the Brisbane Automobile club.

The Hudson factory sent the Electric Service & Repair company, the local Hudson dealer, news of the record performance. The distance is ninety miles. The only preparation that was made for the run was the sealing of the hood and gasoline tanks. The best previous record for that distance was four hours and thirty minutes—Lieut. Metcalfe clipping one hour and thirteen minutes off the mark. His time was forty-eight minutes faster than the time occupied by the fast Sydney mail train between the two towns. The roads over which the run was made were very bad. But with the exception of a moment's halt to remove an obstruction from the road, it was a non-stop run. In spots where the roads were best, a speed of fifty miles an hour was made. A climb up the mountain side, a distance of four miles, was made in eight minutes, the car proving itself a magnificent climber.

Lieut. Metcalfe after the run stated that the performance of his Hudson was remarkable. N. L. Blake, the local Hudson dealer, commented upon the event today by saying: "The performance of the Hudson in breaking this Australian record is not tremendously surprising to me for the car is gifted with power and stamina to resist the fearful road conditions that are met by an automobile in Australia. No American roads compare with some of those on that continent.

"The fact that the latest Hudson cars were designed by forty-eight engineers who previously had a hand in the construction of 200,000 automobiles of ninety-seven well known makes is a voucher for their power and stamina. The Hudson being built by engineers from every automobile building nation very naturally has the ability to meet conditions in all sections of the world and there are none that feaze it."

Motor Notes.

Walter Holmberg, the local Indian motorcycle rider and dealer, states that the Indian cycle is now made only with spring frame models and without the option of a stiff frame, regardless of rumors to the contrary, as the Hendee Manufacturing company, which builds this noted machine has abandoned the stiff frame entirely. It is claimed that with the spring frame and the additional footboard on which the rider may rest part of his weight, older people than before are able to enjoy the spins only permitted to the younger heretofore.

Mr. Holmberg announces also that he is willing to meet any local rider or dealer in a motorcycle contest regardless of horse power. He still rides for track events the 7-horse power twin on which he won the Hibbing races last fall.

The Mutual Auto company in the advertisement which they are running in this issue, quotes one of the most wonderful mileage records which, it is claimed, motorists have ever heard of. It is made by Chalmers cars, eleven of which have traveled over 1,000,000 miles or almost 100,000 miles each.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD

George A. Kissel, president of the Kissel Motor Car company of Hartford, Wis., is taking a "swing around the circle," which will include the Pacific coast. His trip will cover a period of about five weeks. When seen in Kansas City, Mr. Kissel said:

"There is not another year in the history of our company that I would have ventured away from my desk for so long a period, but I am doing so now without the slightest misgiving. Our scheduled output is spoken for, our manufacturing problems are solved and there is nothing to bother us. Times are fine. An automobile manufacturer has perhaps the nearest finger to the pulse of prosperity and ought to know. I observe that Mr. Lawson places the motor car among the necessities of life, and while I am inclined to agree with him, I am equally sure that it would be the first necessity to feel the ax in case of a period of depression.

"Our truck business has excelled the pace set in the growth of the pleasure car trade. Nothing can obstruct its wonderful future. Motor delivery is an established success because it has fully proved itself as more economical, reliable, clean and satisfactory than horse hauiage.

"In fact, I may say that with us the 1913 automobile season has already passed the stage of brilliant promise and reached a fulfillment far beyond our roslest hopes," concluded Mr. Kissel.

The satisfaction of the United States government with the five Kissel Kar motor wagons placed four weeks ago in the parcel post service of Washington has been emphasized in the most substantial manner by an order of ten more cars of the samo kind.

The new Kissel Kars will vary from those now in commission in Washington in the respect that the bodies will be of the closed panel type instead of screened. The insides are to be provided with hardwood or metal strips on which racks are to be placed for two tiers of hampers or crates. The rear of the cars are to be equipped with doors that can be securely locked. These are to have circular windows. The drivers' seats will have double "lazy backs," so that the carrier may have ready access to the parcels. The cars are to be painted vermilion. Otherwise these government Kissel Kars are the standard 1,500-pound wagons with a Kissel 30-horse power motor and the other features which have made this model popular.

The electrical equipment of the gasoline motor car was set out by Henry L. Doherty, president of the Society for Electrical Development, in his open address, at the organization meeting of the society in New York, as one of the most important fields for the attention of electrical engineers and manufacturers. Mr. Doherty advanced the belief that a gasoline motor car without an electric starter would be unsaleable two years hence and that with the power plant necessary for the starter once installed electricity would be employed in a great many ways not now thought of.

As one of the steps that the society will undertake for electrical development, it was suggested that the organization co-operate with one manufacturer in each line with a view to pushing development in that particular line to the farthest possible point. In this connection Mr. Doherty referred to correspondence with the Peerless Motor Car company of Cleveland in which the company outlined the research electrical work it had had under way for some time.

E. J. Kulas, general manager of sales of the Peerless company, who attended the meetings of the society, estimated that during the present year motor car manufacturers will spend $25,000,000 in equipping their cars with electrical devices.

Through the active participation in its affairs by the National incandescent lamp group of men who have recently purchased a controlling interest in the Peerless Motor Car company, it is placed in a position to augment its own extensive research work by the co-operation of many of the most advanced thinkers and producers in the electrical field.

Postmaster General Hitchcock signalized his last day in the office he has filled so effectively during the last four years by the purchase of five silent Waverley 1,000-pound wagons for service in the parcel post.

The parcel post service has taken so strong a hold upon the popular imagination that there has been a tendency to overlook the difficulties involved in the problem of handling many thousand small packages on long routes with frequent stops in the crowded traffic conditions of the average American city. A writer in the Indianapolis News stated the problem and its solution in the following terms:

"The Indianapolis parcel post problem is at present rapidly being solved with the aid of the Waverley electric. This light, yet fast and longwinded little vehicle will in all probability be depended upon ultimately to handle the bulk of parcel post matter within the city limits. With a definite route, with many stops to cover each day, comparable to the beat of a regular mail carrier, it is predicted that its simplicity of operation, and low cost of maintenance, will give it preference over other types of vehicles. The preliminary work which the car is doing in actual service would seem to justify this claim."

Definite word has been received from the Pougeot company of Paris that two of their fastest cars, with Jules Goux and Zucarrelli as drivers, will be entered in the third annual 500-mile international sweepstakes race at the Indianapolis motor speedway, May 30. The Peugeot cars have now left the factory and are being tested under the supervision of the engineers who designed them. It has been necessary to change the cylinder bore in order to lower the piston displacement to the 450-cubit inch ruling made by the speedway this year. According to present arrangements Goux and Zucarrelli will arrive in America about May 12, and will proceed immediately to Indianapolis, where they will have a chance to become thoroughly acquainted with the speedway before the day of the race. Albert Guyot, who is to pilot the famous English Sunbeam car, will arrive in America about the same time and will also train at the speedway.

Owing to the fact that all of these drivers are scheduled to drive in the French Grand Prix on July 12, it will be necessary for them to return to France immediately after the Indianapolis race.

First shipments of the new Packard "48" were made this week. The first month's sales of this model exceeded the wonderful record made by the previous "48," which was practically sold out six weeks after the announcement. The mid-winter sales record of the new "48" is even more significant when it is recalled that the former model made its appearance at the height of the selling season.

The new Packard "48" embodies all of the advanced engineering features of the "38"—left drive, electric self-starter, separate magneto ignition, and centralized control.

Several enclosed bodies, new in design, have been added to the wide range of styles comprehended in the Packard line.

The phaeton-runabout, designed to fit the phaeton chassis, is a rakish two-passenger car. A sloping deck at the rear provides carrying space for two extra tires and an ample compartment for luggage. A door on either side gives free access to this compartment.

The brougham and imperial limousine may be had in either the double compartment or salon type. The salon type is a single compartment body which permits the owner to drive without being separated from the passengers in the rear. The cabette is a distinctive type of body, designed as a woman's town car. The imperial coupe is a new style, seating four and designed to fit the runabout chassis.

The enclosed bodies will be built in two styles, to be known as type 1 and type 2. Type 1 is fitted with stationary rear side windows, affording a more roomy interior. Bodies of the type 2 design will have as standard equipment—window regulators, drop cab sides and drop rear side windows. The new arm style folding seats will be standard for both types.

"The importance of the motor car in the nation's business is well illustrated by the statistics recently published by the state of Kansas," says President G. W. Bennett, of the Gramm Motor Truck company of Lima, Ohio. "The report stated that 16,000 motor-propelled vehicles were in use in the state during the past year, in farm work alone. Many other trucks are used in city commercial transportation. These figures are especially interesting when it is recalled that Kansas for years has been considered one of the leading agricultural commonwealths of the United States. Our factory sales records show that many Gramm trucks are being sold there for the production and marketing of the vast yields of corn, wheat and other crops."

That national government participation in the highway progress of the country should first concentrate itself upon main roads was the predominant current of opinion in the second Federal aid good roads convention held in Washington, D. C., during inauguration week. Called by the American Automobile association, motorist delegates, nevertheless, were in the minority, as general roads bodies and chambers of commerce supplied the greater part of the several hundred representatives from the forty-six states which in one form or another were embraced in the nation-wide gathering. Members of congress in many instances spoke for their home organizations and their utterances indicated growing knowledge of the bigness of the subject.

One of the features of the convention was the call at the White House, President Wilson receiving the delegates in the East room and expressing to them his great interest in highways improvement. John A. Wilson, first vice president of the A. A. A., introduced the good roads advocates to the nation's chief executive, who paid a special compliment to Chairman George C. Diehl in reference to his extensive knowledge of the roads question.

No more concrete summing up of the situation was expressed than that employed by Chas. B. Stetson, chairman of the executive committee of the National grange, who in concluding his address, said:

"We do not believe that Federal aid means the appropriating of national funds for local improvement of roads. It is certainly wrong to ask national aid to do what properly belongs to the local community to perform, and in any good roads movement the state is the unit to which the municipality should look for aid, and the state in turn to co-operate with the national government for interstate roads and other roads that are of sufficient importance to warrant the employment of national aid in building. Any other course in untenable, unconstitutional, and basically wrong. But we do ask of the men who are trying, and conscientiously trying, to build interstate and transcontinental highways to remember the necessity of improving the road from the home to the city of the man who is promoting the great basic industry of our country to the end that all the people in this great country may ultimately be benefited."

The committee on resolutions comprised a number from every one of the forty-six states which sent delegates, and before Chairman L. R. Speare and his associates concluded their labors several sessions were required. In the adoption of the committee's report the convention unequivocally placed itself on record as favoring a plan of interstate roads.

WIVES TELL SAD TALES

One Claims Husband Is Habitual Drunkard and Beats Her.

Another Says Her Husband Is Dope Fiend and Deserted Her.

August Swenson, aged 48, section foreman for the Union Depot company, residing at 119 Eighteenth avenue west, is far from being his wife's conception of a good, kind and dutiful spouse if the charges which she brings against him in a divorce suit filed today are to be credited.

The story of his wife, Amanda Swenson, who is five years his senior, is one of cruelty. She declares that she has been struck, kicked and pounded and daily subjected to profane and abusive language.

Her husband, she states, is an habitual drunkard and abusive when under the influence of liquor. She recites in her complaint that on Christmas day last he flourished a razor and made threats to kill both her and himself. Ten days before, she says, he attempted to strike her and would have done so if he had not been prevented by a minor son.

The Swensons have been married for twenty-nine years and have lived in the city during that time. They are parents of six children: Ida, 27; Charles, 26; Harry, 18; Hjalmar, 15; Theodore, 13; and Elvin, 11.

Yesterday, Judge Dibell made an order directing Swenson to pay $50 suit money and attorney fees and $30 temporary alimony, during the pendency of the action. Mrs. Swenson claims that her husband has a monthly revenue of $70 and that he is the owner of a house and lot at Superior worth $1,200 from which he receives a monthly rental of $10. Haroldson & Colton are her attorneys.

Claiming that her husband, Daniel Turner, aged 36, is a victim of the drug habit and is also addicted to the use of intoxicants, Mildred Elizabeth Turner, 34, has filed suit for divorce against him in district court. Turner is now a resident of Ottowa, Can. Under an order he is given to March 24 to answer to the complaint which has been served upon him.

The Turners were married at Fort William, Ont., on Aug. 26, 1903, and have three children, May, 8; Kendall, 6; and Margurite, 4. In her complaint she alleges that her husband spent his money for morphine, of which he was a constant user, and that when her youngest child was a mere infant she was obliged to go to her mother, then living in Port Arthur for support. She says that this constitutes desertion on his part.

FINALS WILL BE PLAYED MONDAY

This afternoon it was announced at the Curling club that the finals in two events would be played Monday evening at the curling club. "Dave" Stocking's rink will meet Sam Cleveland's "green" bunch in the finals of the Bagley event, and Dinham's squad will meet S. H. Jones' quartet in the finals of The Herald event.

These two games will be played at 8 o'clock, and will be free to members of the club and their friends.

The semi-final in the Manley event will be played at 6 o'clock Monday between Dinham and Bradley. Only one other event, the Universal, will remain unfinished.

Dr. Erskine Acquitted.

Winnipeg, Man., March 15.—After being out six hours the jury in the case of Dr. George Erskin of Sarles, N. CHALMERS MOTOR CO. Detroit, Mich. U.S.A.

This monogram on the radiator stands for all you can ask in a motor car

Ask the Chalmers Owners Who Have Driven Their Cars Four or Five Years

Almost any car will give satisfactory service for six months—or a year.

The differences in quality begin to show after that time.

Don't ask only the owners who have driven their Chalmers cars but one season.

Ask the men who have used Chalmers cars for 4 or 5 years—the men who still cling to their old Chalmers cars even after they have been driven 50,000 to 100,000 miles.

There are many such.

Here are eleven Chalmers cars which have been driven more than 1,000,000 miles—an average of nearly 100,000 miles each.

Owner	Address	Mileage
Fred Roberts	Corpus Christi, Tex	80,000
Geo. Stump	Independence, Kas	140,000
Frank W. Fiske, Jr	Buffalo, N. Y	54,752
Louis Pacheco	Oakland, Cal	122,000
Dr. F. S. Cuthbert	Kingman, Ind	75,000
A. D. Williams	Buffalo, N. Y	100,000
W. H. Caffery	Kansas City, Mo	125,000
P. May	Kingsley, Ia	50,000
E. Watson Gardiner	Amsterdam, N. Y	78,648
R. L. Holt	Burlington, N. C	120,000
W. C. Kramer	Joplin, Mo	75,000
		1,020,400

And at the Chalmers factory are the records of many more cars which have been driven 25,000 to 50,000 miles.

Cars built of poor materials or by slip-shod methods don't make such records.

Men don't continue to drive, year after year, a car which gives constant trouble or which is expensive to maintain.

Ask the Chalmers owners who have made these records why they continue to drive the Chalmers in preference to other cars.

Then decide if the Chalmers isn't worth your careful consideration. If you are looking for real service you will hardly want to select a car, after reading these records, without seeing the Chalmers. Won't you call or write and arrange for a demonstration?

PASSION FOR WAR EVIDENT

France, Germany, Austria, Russia, Belgium and Switzerland Taking Serious Count of Their Military Preparedness.

Paris, March 15.—A passion for war seems to be sweeping over all the countries of Europe. The Balkan states have found a field of expression for their militancy, but countries which have not this vent are expending their energies in war-like preparations. The small states are involved equally with the greater powers, and today France, Germany, Austria, Russia, Belgium and Switzerland are taking serious count of their military preparedness.

Belgium is raising her army from a war footing of 100,000 to 150,000 men. Baron de Broqueville, the Belgian minister of war, in concluding a speech on this subject before the Belgian chamber, urged that the army increase be voted as quickly as possible, for the sake of "Belgian security and honor." The country lives under the shadows of the great states, the minister declared, and Belgium must put forth great exertions to protect her frontiers should her neighboring powers fall upon each other.

The most important newspapers of Switzerland are publishing the official notices of the government warning Swiss citizens residing in European countries to hold themselves in readiness to return immediately in the event of war, and Swiss living in the United States have been requested to stand ready to come back to Switzerland on call. The Swiss republic, under its present military organization, could put into the field 100,000 men in twenty-four hours and 200,000 in forty-eight hours. One-third of the government's revenues are spent on military objects. In case of supreme necessity, the government expects to be able to place 275,000 men under arms within a week.

The French cabinet has adopted a measure extending the term of service in the army from two to three years; this adds something over 200,000 men to the peace footing of the army. "Every Frenchman," said M. Cheron, official analyist of the appropriations committee of the chamber of deputies, in a recent address, "must at the present moment fix his attention upon the military activity on the other side of the frontier." He then compared Germany's expenditures on her army with the expenditures of France during the past ten years. The cost of the German army had augmented constantly until now it was double that of France. Next year, under the new German law, the outlay on the army would be $100,000,000 more than that of France.

The new German military bill will add 84,000 recruits to the army, giving a total of 806,000 men, excluding officers. Compared to this France, including the latest numerical increase, has a total of 578,783 men in her army on a peace footing, excluding officers.

Ahead of France.

French opinion is waking up to the fact that Germany, in the sphere of military aeronautics, is leaving France badly in the rear.

Gen. Lacroix and a number of other eminent strategists unite in declaring that France has nothing to show against Germany's aerial cruisers but a fleet of "penny steamers," and they strongly deprecate the attitude taken generally in France towards dirigibles. They think the sudden development of aeroplanes caused an entirely unwarranted enthusiasm for those machines, and a corresponding disparagement of dirigibles. Gen. Lacroix holds that opposition to rigid dirigibles in France is quite wrong; the supple type of airship favored by the French military authorities is, from the military point of view, exceedingly risky, a pin prick suffering to destroy them. Air ships of the German rigid type, with their several compartments, are capable of withstanding considerable damage before being put absolutely out of action.

New Wireless "Compass."

Ships that feel their way along the coasts of France in foggy weather are to have the benefit of a new wireless "compass" which will enable them to ascertain, practically automatically, their correct position, and so steer a safe course.

The wireless "compass" permits the detection of the direction from which a wireless electric signal is sent, and the signal itself will designate the points of its origin. Sending stations are to be established at lighthouses and other points of vantage along the coast, and two already are in operation on small islands off the harbor of Brest. Signals from this chain of shore points will be sent automatically at regular intervals whenever fog prevails, and a vessel equipped with the receiving "compass" will be able to read the exact direction of the place of origin of these warnings. On the receipt of two such signals a ship will find it possible, by a simple process of triangulation, very readily to determine her exact position.

A great advantage of this system of safety at sea is the fact that the new "compass" is very cheap; furthermore, it is self operating and does not require the attention of an operator. The next step will be to install two more sending stations near Havre, and others will be set up in due course until the entire coast is protected.

General Disappears.

The public administrator of Paris has just sold the property of Maj. Gen. Alexandre Dumas for the benefit of the general's wife.

Gen. Dumas, who had retired from the army after forty years of notable service, chiefly in the colonies, left his residence in the Paris suburbs one afternoon sixteen months ago, and has not been heard of since. He disappeared completely. His wife waited for months, and inquired for her husband in practically every country in the world, but particularly in the French colonies where he had served so many years of his life. No news of the old soldier has been received, and now the police, at the request of his wife, have officially declared that the general "left Paris without communicating his plans to any one, abandoning a pension of $2,800 a year." The sale of his property followed.

Save Your Hair! Beautify It! Invigorate Your Scalp! Danderine Grows Hair and We Can Prove It.

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most, will be after a few weeks' use, when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine now will immediately double the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove to yourself tonight—now—that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all.

SCHOOLS CLOSE FOR VACATION

Pupils and Teachers Will Enjoy One Week of Holidays.

The Duluth schools closed for the Easter vacation yesterday, to reopen Monday morning, March 24.

There was some talk of cutting the Easter vacation to two days, Thursday and Friday of Holy week, this year, but it was later abandoned and the full week given. If the vacation had been curtailed, the schools would have closed one week earlier in June.

There was an exodus of teachers on all trains last evening, all those living within a reasonable travelling distance of Duluth going to their homes. Many will remain in Duluth for the short period of vacation, however.

Minto Has Coal Famine.

Minto, N. D., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a hard coal famine here. The dealers thought they had a sufficient supply till too late and now claim they are unable to secure shipments anywhere, because of the reported hard coal shortage all over the Northwest. Many people are burning lignite in the hard coal stoves.

HARD RUNS IN THE STORM

Fire Fighters Brave Blizzard to Extinguish Two Blazes.

Reaching the Scene Made Difficult By the Deep Snow.

Duluth firemen were forced to brave the blizzard which has the city in its grasp, to squelch two fires which broke out last night.

Getting to the fires was much harder than the work which confronted the members of the department when they reached their destination. The drifted snow and the gale made it extremely difficult to travel, particularly for the heavy fire apparatus. The horses had all that they could do to make progress despite the fact that the men ran beside their rigs where possible.

The first blaze broke out about 8 o'clock in the sub-basement of the Glass Block store, Second avenue west and Superior street. Patrolman Wanvick saw smoke curling upwards as he was patroling his beat and promptly turned in an alarm. Telephone Operator Thomas Forrestal was passing at the time and helped the watchmen hold the flames in check pending the arrival of the firemen. The blaze was confined to the passageway in the engine room which is used for getting coal. The loss was trivial, amounting to less than $100. No merchandise was damaged. Being in the downtown retail district all the downtown apparatus responded.

The second alarm came from the home of Mrs. A. Ferguson at 211 Minneapolis avenue shortly before 11 o'clock. The damage to the five-room cottage is estimated at $500. No one was at home when the fire broke out and the origin is unknown. Five horses were required to drag the hose cart from No. 4 fire hall to the scene of the blaze.

pleasure out of the parade and the antics of the crowd. They jeered at the marchers.

"One woman, who was a marshal of the section preceding mine, was pinched by men all along the line of march. Police made no effort to interefere. I could see them pinch her from where I marched. She showed me her arm afterward. It was black and blue from wrist to shoulder.

Cracked His Nose.

"I saw a man leave the crowd and chuck a girl in the line under the chin, tear her sash and try to put his arm around her. I went to her assistance and hit him a crack on the nose and he disappeared in the crowd. I think his nose is swollen to this day.

"Did anyone attempt to interfere you?" asked Senator Dillingham.

"Some of them attempted it but they got the worst of it," replied Dr. Mark emphatically.

Knocked His Teeth Out.

"Another man broke into the parade and almost tore a girl's coat from her back. I hit another one of them pretty badly," she continued. "I heard him make a very ugly remark to a woman in front of me. He prepared to say something to me but as he opened his mouth my baton accidentally struck him in the teeth. I think his teeth went down because he gulped a great deal. I haven't yet heard what he was going to say."

Miss Bliss Finley, who marched with a section of striking garment workers from Baltimore, told of a number of attempts by men in the crowd to ill-treat girls in her section. She said that several times she was forced to go to the assistance of girls whom men tried to pull from the parade.

"The police made no attempt to interfere with these men," said Miss Finley. Several other witnesses said they believed the police had done all in their power to control the crowd.

DULUTH TEACHERS TO BE GIVEN ADVANCE

board make the maximum salary for grade teachers $1,000 and that increases be made at the rate of $100. Members of the board say that the demands of the teachers cannot be met at present, but the board will go that far as it can in making the increase of $50 this year.

Present Salaries.

Clerk C. A. Bronson submitted at the meeting yesterday, for the guidance of the committee on schools, a compilation showing the salaries paid to the teachers as classified.

The table shows that there are 318 grade teachers drawing an average of $725. The highest salary is $900, drawn by a manual training teacher in the grades, and the lowest is $500, which is the salary of four beginners. Twelve are paid $550, thirty-two draw $600 and thirty-eight are paid $650.

There are twenty-six grade principals, whose average salary is $1,094. Four are paid the lowest figure, $900, and ten the highest, $1,250.

Five teachers divide their time between the grades and high schools at an average salary of $1,120. One is an assistant at $40 and another a principal at $2,350.

Four special teachers are paid an average of $1,062, $600 being the lowest and $1,400 the highest.

The sixty-one high school teachers are paid an average of $1,097. The lowest salary paid in the high school is $400 for an assistant and the highest $3,000 for the principal of the Central high school. Next to the principal the highest salary paid is $1,850 to the director of manual training. Thirty-six high school teachers are paid $1,000 or over.

Mr. Bronson's statement also shows the percentage of the total expense of maintenance going into teachers' salaries. It is estimated that for the year ending July 31, 1913, $489,400 will be expended for maintenance, of which $352,000 will go for teachers' salaries, a percentage of .719 going to salaries. The percentage for the year ending in 1912 was .696. In 1902 the percentage was .61, and there has been a gradual increase each year.

New School Plans.

The only business taken up at the special meeting of the board yesterday was the adoption of the plans of the E. R. Cobb school at Woodland. The plans, which were prepared by Kelly & Williams, provide for the first unit of a building that will eventually have eight class rooms. The first unit will provide for four class rooms, an assembly hall, a manual training room, domestic science room and a gymnasium. It will be a brick building and will cost approximately $33,250.

In order to provide for the addition of the other class rooms it will be necessary to build the first unit so that it will not be as sightly as some would wish, but looks have been sacrificed to utility, and when the addition is made the building will be one of the finest in the city.

Militiaman Accidentally Shot.

Stillwater, Minn., March 15.—Lawrence Sundberg, aged 23, a private in Company K, Third regiment, was shot in the head at the Company K and Stillwater Rifle club competitive shoot Thursday. A bullet of .22-caliber passed through the lobe of the left ear into the cavity and out below the ball of the left eye. Sundberg was taken to the city hospital. He has not been unconscious. The loss of his eye is probable, but the chance for recovery is fair.

the snow and the train had a hard time of it. The train due this morning at 9:35 did not get in until almost 11 o'clock, but the Omaha people here claim that all the trouble is over and they will run on "sked" from now on until something else happens.

The Soo road lost its Chicago train this morning for a time. The wires were down and for a while all trace of the train was gone. It was due at 10 o'clock, but was not very long delayed.

The Great Northern train due here last night from Minneapolis was one hour late, that from Cass Lake was 25 minutes late and the train from Ashland was two and a half hours late, having run into big drifts of snow. The two trains from Minneapolis were on time this morning but the Canadian Northern train from Winnipeg was two hours late and the Northern Pacific from Staples was about the same.

Wires caught it hard. The North American lost about four miles of wire west of West Duluth and about two miles south of Thomson. The men on the North American who are out replacing the wire today say that they have neevr seen such sleet.

The men say that the sleet on the wires made them actually as large as a man's arm. The Western Union lost a few wires, but was much more fortunate than its rival. Both companies expect to have a full quota of wires in service before the day is over. The telephone companies had less trouble than was expected, and most of it was in the outlying districts. Each says that conditions are normal this morning.

The Duluth street railway, for which statement Supt. Moore is authortiy, reports that the main trouble encountered by it was the blockade which occurred between the interstate bridge and that across Howard's pocket, on the Connor's Point side, last night. The snow reached such a bad state that all the cars on that line were blocked and there was a delay of over three hours. He says that cars ran on the average last evening fifteen to twenty minutes late up to about 11:30 o'clock, when the storm let up and better service became possible. Today cars are running on time.

Wisconsin Storm-Swept.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 15.—A storm approaching a tornado in intensity accompanied by sheets of rain lasting for long periods, which swept over Wisconsin Thursday night and yesterday forced many people to leave their homes, razed many small buildings, affected traffic in several cities and resulted in property loss of many thousands of dollars.

Independence, Blair, Arcadia and White Hall, small towns along the Trempeleau river, were flooded during the night and are still beneath several feet of water. An ice jam formed and backed the water over banks and broke dams. Melting snows formed turbulent rivers as they streamed down the hillsides into the valleys. These were augmented by a series of heavy rainfalls, which buried the country under four feet of water.

Sheboygan Hit Hard.

A terrific wind blowing nearly seventy miles an hour struck Sheboygan and caused a damage of about $10,000. Many people were driven from their homes when these were threatened with destruction. Chimneys were blown down by the score and the falling bricks endangered lives. Many windows were broken and several business houses were forced to lay idle part of the day because the lower floors of their places were filled with water. The warm weather and rain caused the ice in the Sheboygan river to break up. At a narrow place in the river, a jam resulted and the water was "backed up" and forced to overflow the banks and rush into the city.

Scores of men prevented a serious flood at Fond du Lac by a liberal use of dynamite. Thousands of tons of ice were blown to pieces just west of the city where several jams had formed in the Fond du Lac river and the water began to rush over the banks into the city, encroaching upon the business section.

Flood Was Feared.

The immense fall of rain resulted in the river rising several feet and for a time a serious flood was expected. Families did not go to bed during the night owing to the fear that the rapidly rising river would result in a flood. Many were forced to leave their homes but the business section of the city did not suffer. Late yesterday afternoon the Eldorado river dam went out and the western branch of the Fond du Lac river rose considerably, but all danger from the flood is now past.

A storm almost approaching a tornado hit Sheboygan causing a flood, which tied up traffic and toppled over a number of small buildings. Three-quarters of an inch of rain fell, causing the river to rise and an ice jam to form in the factory district being flooded for a number of hours. Three schooners and a steamer suffered considerable damage from the ice in the river.

Black River Dam Wrecked.

La Crosse, Wis., March 15.—A rise during the night of eleven feet in the Black river proved too much for the new dam built after the disaster of 1911, which destroyed the Black River Falls business district and wrecked the dam at Black River Falls this morning, according to word just received here. Four gates were taken out. Latest information is that the city which following the last flood has taken costly steps for protection, will probably escape serious damage, though a great district around the city is inundated.

NEW POLICIES TO TAKE FORM

dian Rights' association, J. Horace McFarland and Richard B. Watrous, president and secretary respectively of the American Civic association, and Speaker Byrd of the Virginia legislature, who managed Mr. Wilson's preconvention campaign in that state, were among the president's callers. The president was to receive the Washington newspaper correspondents in a body at 1 o'clock. During the afternoon in the East room, the president was to receive members of the commerce court and the court of claims and twenty-five Washington clergymen.

Not Offered Peabody.

George Foster Peabody was an early White House caller. He declared he had not been offered the position of collector of the port of New York.

Dudley Field Malone declined to discuss his visit with the president. It was intimated by friends that he might finally decline any public office.

Joseph E. Davies of Wisconsin, secretary of the Democratic national committee, probably will accept the post of assistant secretary of war, which the president has offered. Mr. Davies had been offered a diplomatic post and was considering it when Secretary Garrison offered to make him his assistant.

COMMITTEES OF SENATE

which many serious differences developed, resulted in the completion of the various senate committees last night and the adoption of resolutions providing for a distribution of power in the new senate.

Radical changes in the method of controlling senate legislation and committees which formed the basis for the so-called Progressive Democratic reorganization fight, begun last December, were approved by the Democratic managers, and will be offered for adoption.

These recommendations are:

Democrats to Elect Chairmen.

All committee chairmen shall be elected by the Democratic members of the committees. The practice has been for the "steering" committee to appoint all chairmen.

A majority of the Democratic members of any committee may call a meeting of that committee at any time.

Members of "conference committees" shall be selected by the Democratic majority of the committee having charge of the legislation in question.

"Steering" committee members shall be selected by a Democratic caucus instead of through appointment by the caucus chairman.

Appointments by the "steering" committee to fill vacancies on all senate committees, must be passed upon by the full caucus.

The recommendations constitute important departures from the practice that has prevailed in the senate and are similar in many ways to the changes that were made in the house at the beginning of the last congress.

Leading Committees.

The personnel of the leading committees, including Democrats and Republicans, has been agreed upon as follows:

Appropriations — Democrats: Senators Martin (Virginia), chairman; Tillman (South Carolina), Culberson (Texas), Overman (North Carolina), Owen (Oklahoma), Smith (Maryland), Chilton (West Virginia), Lea (Tennessee), Bryan (Florida), Shafroth (Colorado). Republicans: Senators Warren (Wyoming), Perkins, (California), Gallinger (New Hampshire), Smoot (Utah), Oliver (Pennsylvania), Dillingham (Vermont), Jones (Washington).

Foreign relations—Democrats—Senators Bacon (Georgia), chairman; Stone (Missouri), Shiveley (Indiana), Clark (Arkansas), Hitchcock (Nebraska), Norman (New York), Williams (Mississippi), Swanson (Virginia), Pomerene (Ohio), Smith (New Mexico). Republicans—Senators Lodge (Massachusetts), Smith (Michigan), Root (New York), McCumber (North Dakota), Sutherland (Utah), Borah (Idaho), Burton (Ohio), Judiciary—Democrats—Senators Culberson (Texas), chairman; Overman (North Carolina), Chilton (West Virginia), O'Gorman (New York), Fletcher (Florida), Reed (Missouri), Ashurst (Arizona), Shields (Tennessee), Walsh (Montana), Bacon (Georgia). Republicans — Clark (Wyoming), Nelson (Minnesota), Dillingham (Vermont), Sutherland (Utah), Brandegee (Connecticut), Borah (Idaho), Cummins (Iowa), Root (New York).

Banking and currency (new)—Democrats—Senators Owen (Oklahoma), chairman; Hitchcock (Nebraska), O'Gorman (New York), Reed (Missouri), Shafroth (Colorado), Hollis (New Hampshire), Pomerene (Ohio), Republicans—Nelson (Minnesota), Bristow (Kansas), Burton (Ohio), Jones (Washington), Weeks (Massachusetts).

Senator Clarke of Arkansas has been slated for the chairmanship of the committee on commerce, which handles river and harbor improvement legislation; Senator Hoke Smith has been added to the finance committee and named as chairman of the committee of education and labor; Senator Chamberlain has been selected for the chairmanship of the public lands committee and Senator Luke Lea is slated for chairmanship of the committee on library.

list of offenses and penalties, submitted to the committee so it could decide whether there would be any public benefit in disclosing the names, would be all that could be fairly asked. Senator Hanson supported Senator Lende, and as Senator George Sullivan was absent this made a tie.

Sullivan Upholds Chairman.

Later Senator Sullivan came in and Senator Lende put it up to him. He held with Senator Johnson and Chairman Works, stating that if the committee found instances where the offenses were of such a character that the public interest would be served the names could be demanded and made public.

C. A. Russell of Brainerd, attorney for the house committee in the Duluth inquiry, appeared before the senate committee in behalf of the Equity concern, and demanded that the committee investigate the grain inspection and elevator situation, which he asserted to be not all it ought to be. Senator Lende said the committee probably would have no time to go into that.

A good share of the morning was spent in arguments over whether the committee is to go into the affairs of the Equity when Pliny C. Cooper was manager. Attorney Drake for the Equity said that spending so much time over one concern amounted to persecution, and Senator Lende said he was ready to drop the Equity and take up the chamber of commerce members. It was understood that the Equity people were to have a chance to submit any testimony they might have reflecting on chamber of commerce members.

House Grain Inquiry.

The house committee, before taking up its work this morning, excluded all the attorneys from the room, including Congressman Manahan, its own counsel, and adopted a resolution to the effect that hereafter attorneys must not impugn the motives of witnesses, and that anybody violating this rule, or speaking without getting the recognition of the chair would be reprimanded and barred from the hearing if he persisted, and if necessary ejected from the room. W. S. Williams, manager of the clearing house at the chamber of commerce, and F. B. Wells, president of the chamber, were on the stand this morning in the house committee testifying as to the practices of the clearing house association.

The house this morning received a bitter complaint from H. B. Bundy, treasurer of the Voltaire, N. D., Farmers' elevator, of unfair treatment by the house committee and Mr. Manahan, its attorney. He said that he had been held here a week, and insulted and abused by Manahan, and that he ought to be allowed at least $200 for loss of time and business. The communication was referred to the house committee on grain and warehouses.

For Gettysburg Trip.

The house in committee of the whole advanced to the calendar the R. C. Dunn bill appropriating $30,000 to take the veterans of the battle of Gettysburg to the semi-centennial celebration on the battleground in July.

The following bills came into the house:

Committee on normal schools—Appropriating $100,000 for a library at the Moorhead normal, and $75,000 for a model school building at the Winona normal.

Representative Reed—Providing for the employment of readers for blind students in institutions of learning.

Representative Elmer—To admit war nurses to the state soldiers' home.

Representatives Larson and Swenson—Requiring dealers in all commodities to furnish on demand sales slips giving the weight or measure and the price of all commodities purchased.

BUSY WEEK FOR THE CANDIDATES

Many Meetings Will Be Held During Last Days of Campaign.

The campaign for municipal office will assume the final stages of organization and endeavor next week. Candidates have been busy as bees in the last few weeks, but they have not let themselves out to the last notch, holding something in reserve for the last two weeks of the campaign. Election is a week from next Tuesday and the time is ripe for opening the reserves.

There will be meetings almost every evening for the next two weeks and candidates who have not yet taken the platform will do so. The attendance at political meetings thus far has not been up to expectations, but the weather has had something to do with that. If the weather should let up, good sized crowds may be assembled during the final days of the campaign.

Seven candidates and five lookers-on gathered at the council chambers in the city hall last night for the advertised meeting of the Municipal Ownership league. The weather was too much for other public ownership enthusiasts. As a result, the meeting was postponed and it will be held next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the city hall.

DULUTH VOTERS TO ELECT FIRST COMMISSION APRIL 1

FIFTY-EIGHT IN FIELD FOR FIVE OFFICES

Campaign Is One of Warmest in History of the City.

New Charter Opens Way for Efficient and Economical Methods.

Great Task Faces First Commission on Taking Charge April 14.

Duluth is in the throes of one of the warmest municipal campaigns in its history.

Fifty-eight candidates are earnestly striving for places on the city's first commission under the new charter adopted Dec. 3.

Tuesday, April 1, the voters will go to the polls with the fate of the candidates in their hands. They will elect a mayor from among ten candidates, two commissioners for the long term from among eleven candidates, two commissioners for the short term from among thirty-seven candidates, a special judge of the municipal court from two candidates and an assistant municipal judge for the West Duluth court from three candidates.

Today is the last registration day. Anyone who fails to register by 9 o'clock tonight will be unable to vote election day unless he files an affidavit of residence attested by the affidavits of two freeholders of the election district in which he lives.

It is doubtful if even in the hey-dey of political activity in Duluth there has been as much interest in a municipal campaign. On Dec. 3 the voters of the city called for a new deal in municipal government and they intend to see the game through. They decided to do away with ward boundaries, partisanship, the city council, divided responsibility and inefficient methods. They decided that a city can be conducted just as any other big business is conducted—by a few men directly responsible for the affairs placed in their charge.

Picking the Men.

Now the voters are engaged in picking the men. The mayor is only an honorary figure under the new charter. He has no more power over the departments other than his own than the heads of other departments have over his. He is the "outside" man; the visible head of the government; the man who makes the speeches of welcome, and the man at whom anathemas will be hurled if the government falls short of the high degree of expectancy to which many citizens have worked themselves.

Stripped of the empty honor of the mayoralty, the mayor will be merely a member of the commission. He will have a department assigned to him and he will be responsible for that department. He will preside over the meetings of the commission, but he will have no veto power. He will have one vote, and his vote will be worth no more in the consideration of an ordinance or resolution than the vote of any other commissioner.

What the people need and what the theory of commission government intends they shall get is five men of sound business judgment, broad vision of public affairs and absolute honesty to conduct the municipal government in about the same way as a board of directors conducts the business of a big corporation.

Leaving the honorary title of mayor aside the people will elect April 1 a commissioner of public affairs, a commissioner of finance, a commissioner of public works, a commissioner of public safety and a commissioner of public utilities.

The New Charter.

The Duluth charter is one of the most remarkable bases of municipal government in the United States. It is composed purely and simply of fundamentals, and is stripped of all administrative detail that can be supplied by the commission. It is unworkable without the assistance of an administrative code, but it has the virtue of allowing the commission to make changes in administrative methods without going to the people for a charter amendment on a matter of detail.

The charter throws upon the first commission an immense task. The commissioners must first classify the city departments and assign the divisions to the members of the commission. Each commissioner will be the head of one division and will be supreme in that division. The commission in the first few months of its administration must work out administrative methods and provide machinery of government. All the detail under the old charter has been thrown into the discard and the commission must provide detail to replace it.

The charter leaves the voters blind as to the heads of departments before the first election. The departments will not be assigned until after the commission is elected, nor will the classification be made.

The division of public affairs will include the park, library and welfare work now conducted by the city government.

The division of finance will have charge of the finances and accounting system of the city.

The division of public safety will include the police, fire and health departments.

The division of public works will include the engineering and public improvement work.

The division of public utilities will include the water and light department and any other utilities that may be obtained by the city.

The New Ballot.

The ballot provided for the city election gives opportunity for first, second and other choices. Only the first choice is compulsory, but the second and third choices are provided that the voter may extend the influence of his vote to men whom he would like to see elected if his first choice cannot gain the place.

The ballot will be in five divisions. One man is to be elected for mayor, two for commissioners for four years, two for commissioners for two years, one for special judge of the municipal court and one for assistant municipal judge for the West Duluth court.

In the case of the mayor, the voter may vote one first choice, one second choice and as many third choices as he chooses.

For the long-term commissioners, the voter must mark two first choices and may mark two second and any number of third choices. The rule as to short-term commissioners is the same. The charter provides that unless the voter mark four first choices for commissioners, his ballot will be void.

The names of the candidates for special municipal judge will be followed by only one column, as there are only two candidates.

For assistant municipal judge, provision will be made on the ballot for first and second choice, but no third choice, as there are only three candidates.

Under the system adopted in the new charter, any man who has in first choice votes a majority of all the votes cast for the office he seeks, will be elected. If no candidate has a majority, or if only one of two to be elected has a majority, the second choice votes will be added to the first choice votes, and a majority will then elect. If no majority is then attained, the "other choice" votes will be added in and the plurality candidate or candidates will win.

The elimination of partisanship has made the campaign one of personal popularity largely. Any number of issues have been raised, including the purchase of the electric lighting plant, the abolition of segregation and the enforcement of the liquor laws, but the campaign is proceeding largely on a personal basis.

PUTTING BILLY WISE

Brother-to-Brother Letters By Johnny Wise.

Dear Bill—Are you a municipal ownershipper, Bill? If you aren't you had better not return to Duluth, for everybody here is municipal ownershipping. If any candidate was to appear with a plank declaring for the private ownership of public utilities he would be looked upon with the same feelings as if he were the ebony-hued son of a former slave declaring his candidacy for the presidency of the United States.

Everybody's got the municipal ownership bug in some form. Of course most of them want to put the Duluth Edison Electric company out of business, but there are others. Some would buy up the street railway company, some want to chuck the Northern Pacific into the bay and take over the water terminals, others want to seize the tracks along the bay front and put in municipal rail terminals, and the Socialists take off the limit and declare for municipal stores and hotels.

Municipal ownershipping is a nice little game for the candidates and other enthusiasts, but just like other campaign issues it settles down to a question of what the people want. Time was when the politicians and office holders gave the people what said politicians and office holders wanted to give them, but in this day of vice investigations and initiating, referendumming and recalling, the people have acquired a habit of getting just what they want when they want it. Likewise the politicians and office holders (those that want to remain attached to the public payroll) see that the people get what they demand just about as soon after they demand it as it can be supplied.

They can talk as they will about the blindness of the Old Guard which cannot realize the spirit of the times, but believe me, William, the people are ruling with a rod of iron and the office holder that threatens to hop over the traces and hit the high spots for the unbroken field is brought up with a sudden and most effective jolt.

This campaign is one of extraordinary unanimity of views. Everybody is municipal ownershipping, as I said. So is everybody law enforcing and suppressing the social evil. Obviously if they were law enforcing to the limit of enforcement, there wouldn't be any question of the social evil, for it is beyond the law. But people have come to regard the liquor laws and the social evil as something apart under the law, requiring special law enforcement, as it were.

Some of the candidates would eliminate the social evil by segregating it. Others would abolish segregation and take chances on eliminating scattertion also. Still others declare that the problem is deeper than the surface action of elimination and requires the service of a vice commission. There are any number of views, but they all are designed to catch the votes.

I claim to be a fairly observing cuss, and I declare here and now my firm belief that the voters of Duluth at this coming election aren't going to be drawn aside from the main issue by any glittering signs or hideous masks. They are going to the polls to select a commission. Most voters know almost every man who is running. They know their past performances and their present disposition. They know their records and their reputations. They know about all there is to know about a man, and they are going to put their knowledge to use when they mark their ballots.

There's a lot of shouting going on. The municipal ownershipping of which I spoke heretofore is causing most of the shouting, but there are other cries. The breweries are being denounced. The Commercial club has been hauled into the campaign by the scruff of the neck. The aforesaid electric light company is being lambasted. The railroads are getting their usual broadside of invective. But with all that, strange to say, I don't notice any citizens rushing around with wild looks, in their eyes and their tongues hanging out in feverish excitement. I believe the men who go to the polls April 1 will be calm, calculating and deliberate, and when the results are announced the next day it will be seen that sanity has prevailed and that the five men selected were the best in the bunch, anyway.

Saving the country is a mighty hard job for a politician, but it's a cinch for the people, Bill. Yours,

JOHNNY.

TRIBUTE TO IRISH SAINT

St. Patrick's Day Celebration Is Held at Cathedral Hall.

Ray M. Hughes as Orator of Day—Two Irish Sketches.

Despite the high wind and drifting snow, which threatened to tie up street railway traffic, a large crowd gathered last evening at the Cathedral hall for the annual celebration in honor of St. Patrick. St. Patrick's day falling in Holy Week this year, the entertainment was held a few days earlier than usual.

The program consisted of an address by Ray M. Hughes and two Irish sketches, "Between Two Fires," and "Kerry," presented by the Cathedral Dramatic club under the direction of Mrs. A. V. Kelly.

Mr. Hughes paid a glowing tribute to St. Patrick and to the Irishmen of history, and called upon the Irishmen of today to take an interest in public questions and to disprove by their citizenship the charges of those who malign them.

Mr. Hughes divided history of the world into epochs, showing that one man had been the dominating influence in each epoch. He pointed to the Roman emperors and the English kings, who had shaped the destiny of the periods in which they lived.

"Fifteen or sixteen hundred years ago, there dawned an epoch in Ireland, in which the genius and influence of one individual shaped not only the history of that epoch, but the entire history of a nation down to the present day," he said. "St. Patrick served is God well when he planted Christianity in the little green isle, for the Irishmen of all generations since St. Patrick have loved and served their God, and have had their lives shaped for them by the influences of their religion."

Attacks on Church.

Mr. Hughes paid brief attention to the present anti-Catholic crusade in the United States, and to the publications that are endeavoring to foment in the hearts of their readers the un-American sentiment of bigotry.

"I saw one such magazine in which a vile attack was made on the Catholic sisterhood," he said. "The man who edits that magazine bases his attacks on the Catholic church on the ground of patriotism, and holding up his citizenship for admiration, he dares to defame pure womanhood. No fair-minded man will consider that representative American citizenship.

"It is up to the Irishmen of today to prove their citizenship. We love our country and our flag and are anxious to further the glory of our government and the prosperity of our nation. We must study the great questions of the day and study them with the idea of doing something to aid in their solution.

"Take the labor question, which is always to the front. We are facing a condition by which the bulk of the wealth of the nation is being amassed by the few. Something must be done and done quickly. The laboring man is entitled to the fruits of his labor, but the amelioration of his condition can be brought about only through a sane arousing of public sentiment that will condemn the practices by which great wealth is accumulated by an individual, while another individual, industrious and hard-working, is deprived of his proper wage.

Respects To Socialists.

"The so-called school of social and political economists, which holds that community property is the solution of the labor problem are chasing a rainbow. With community property, the laboring man would be worse off than he is today, for he would not only be deprived of his wages, but of the disposition of his wages.

"The theories of these propagandists still find ready acceptance with some classes of people. We must fight against such theories that threaten to undermine our government and our social life. We must prove ourselves good American citizens, active in social endeavor, active in the ranks of pure politics, ever zealous for the public good and unselfishly working for the advancement of our country."

In the two sketches, the Cathedral Dramatic club scored another pronounced success. The casts were well selected, and the plays were given with appreciation and art.

Miss Emily Mackey was a winsome Laura in the leading role in "Between Two Fires," and the leading comedy role was taken by Ambrose Fogarty as Patrick McNoggerty, the Irish servant. Elmer Poirier gave an adequate portrayal of the role of Livingstone, and Miss Mae Maloney and F. Archie McDowell appeared as Nancy and Maj. Puffjacket.

The leading part in "Kerry" was taken by James W. Lydon who scored a pronounced success as the faithful family servant, Kerry. Miss Anna P Fitzgerald was most attractive as Kate, and Miss Mae Lydon gave a good interpretation of the role of Mrs. Desmond. Gerald Desmond was played by Edward F. Casey, and Will T. McAuley and P. W. Dasey appeared as Dr. Mellish and Capt. Goldham.

The musical program was played by Flaaten's orchestra.

Another Neenah Paper Mill.

Neenah, Wis., March 15.—When the Bergstrom Paper company finishes its new plant, this city will boast of seven paper mills making about as many kinds of paper. A number of years ago this city had fourteen flour mills, a majority of them standing where the paper mills have been built.

Steals Karlstad Overcoat.

Karlstad, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—A stranger, who has been staying at the Karlstad hotel the past two days, slipped out of town Thursday, taking a valuable fur coat belonging to Walter Anderson. No trace of him has been found, although Marshal Algot Paterson has searched. The man, whose name is not known, is also wanted by the sheriff of Red Lake county for stealing on overcoat there.

JOHN HOGAN
Candidate for Commissioner, SHORT TERM.

For twenty-five years I have been a resident of the city of Duluth and since the year 1893, I have been engaged in the painting and decorating business, located for the last five years in John Hogan & Co.'s building, No. 22 East First street.

For five years, ending March 1st, 1913, I have represented the Fifth ward in the City Council and my record as an Alderman, I believe, is generally well known to the majority of voters in the city and I shall leave it to them to decide whether or not I am worthy of their consideration at the coming election on April 1st.

I have always stood for, and I shall continue to stand for economy and efficiency in city government, adequate protection of the people's interest in the city's dealings with public service corporations, or concerns asking special privileges.

I am unqualifiedly in favor of immediate acquirement through the most practical way of a Municipal Electric Light Plant both for municipal and commercial purposes and City Ownership of all public utilities as soon as practical.

I believe in an eight-hour work day, both in public and private work.

I shall stand for impartial enforcement of all laws without fear or favors to any one.

I shall work for the establishment of public markets and improvements of roads leading out of our city which will encourage agriculture and gardening in the surrounding territory and tend to reduce the cost of living in our city. I am in sympathy with, and will support, all movements which tend to protect health and morals, such as systematic collection of garbage, public bathhouses, workfarm, detention homes, etc.

BOOST FOR DULUTH

We are taught that self-preservation is the first law of nature. It is perfectly natural that one should preserve and protect his home, but how many realize that every dollar out of town to the merchant or manufacturer in the larger cities is, so to speak, "a shingle taken off his own roof?" The merchant, the farmer and the individual citizen are all dependent upon each other.

Buying From Foreign Concerns a Menace to Your Own Home!

Every time you fail in allegiance to home industries you strike a blow against your own permanent success. As the home merchant and manufacturer enlarge their business and plant just so surely does the city extend greater chances for success and growth to all its citizens. If on no higher grounds than that of self-preservation, let us all pull together for the success of all Duluth firms.

SMOKE THE PIPE OF PEACE

Hatchet Is Buried By Warring Factions in Modern Samaritans.

Collier - McManus - Hicken Faction Wins Long Fight for Control.

The delegates and others who attended the meeting of the grand council which has been in session for several days in Minneapolis have returned.

W. A. Hicken, one of the leaders of the so-called insurgents, returned last night and announced that as a result of the action taken by the grand council of Minnesota, the end of the Christie-Austin faction of the order will come when the imperial council meets on the second Tuesday of June. The delegates from the Minnesota grand council, to the imperial council which is the governing body of the whole order, are pledged against this faction, which has been in the saddle in the past.

The end is in sight and the faction commonly known as the Collier-McManus-Hicken faction has been successful.

This is the end of a long fight which has kept the members of the order stirred up and uneasy.

The Test Fight.

The fight of the Minneapolis convention came over the seating of a Christie-Austin delegate from Duluth council No. 3, recently organized by the Christie faction. The latter faction was beaten and that practically settled the affair. Z. H. Austin of Minneapolis, candidate to succeed himself as grand good samaritan, withdrew and the rest went through smoothly.

Those from Duluth attending the convention but not as delegates were: W. A. Hicken, O. F. Collier, A. E. McManus, H. J. Achenbach, John Christie and Mrs. Lottie Hately.

The Duluth delegates to the convention were:

Alpha council, No 1—James Kelley, T. A. Gall, W. P. Wellbanks, W. B. Henderson, Frank A. Noble, Mrs. Jessie Butchart, Mrs. May Larson, Mrs. Delina and N. B. Morrison.

Beta council No. 2—W. F. Homerichous, A. A. Farrington, W. L. Anderson and Nils Nissen.

Duluth council No. 3—Simon Clark and John G. Ross.

West Duluth council No. 4—G. W. Boutin.

Agate council No. 14—Charles J. Birch, Proctor.

Grand council officers—David A. Cone and H. C. Gilderman.

The delegates elected by the grand council to the imperial council meeting at Duluth, are: T. A. Gall, Duluth; J. D. Markham, Rush City; Joseph E. Reynolds, Mankato; Ira B. King, Stillwater; S. E. Kellerman, St. Paul; W. P. Murphy, Crookston; A. L. Sperry, Owatonna; S. P. Eggan, Minneapolis; Curtis Johnson, Rush City; Peter Capretz, Austin; J. H. Haines, Stillwater; Charles E. Keller, St. Paul; E. H. Krelwitz, Aitkin; A. C. Davidson, Winona; C. C. Hirschey, Wabasha.

Grand Officers.

The following grand officers were elected: C. H. Richter, St. Paul, grand good samaritan; H. G. Gilderman, Proctor, grand vice samaritan; J. C. Schnacke, St. Paul, grand scribe; Edward Mattson, Minneapolis, grand treasurer; J. D. Markham, Rush City, grand counselor; A. C. Davidson, Winona, grand high priest. John J. Roeser of St. Cloud was a candidate for grand counselor until he learned of his appointment to the district bench of Stearns county.

A. E. McManus also returned from Minneapolis this morning and stated that all the troubles were now settled and the trouble makers ousted. The full management of the order would, on June 1 next, pass into the hands of the membership, he said.

"After the defeat of the Christie faction became apparent conciliatory measures were adopted," said Mr. McManus, "and a get-together program entered into. I look for a great growth of membership under the new officers to be elected in June. The Samaritans have their home in Duluth and include in their membership some of the most prominent and influential business men. Their reserve fund, which is all in bonds, includes over $80,000 of Duluth water and light bonds.

The society to date has paid some $600,000 in death benefits and is financially one of our strongest local institutions."

CONGRATULATIONS FOR "JUDGE" FESLER

Holds Informal Reception on His Return From St. Paul.

Bert Fesler, who on April 1 will become judge of the district court, returned this morning from St. Paul, and is receiving congratulations of hundreds of friends.

Mr. Fesler was in St. Paul as special counsel for the city of Virginia when the announcement of his appointment to the district bench was made by Governor A. O. Eberhart. Mr. Fesler will succeed Judge Homer B. Dibell, who on April 1 will become one of the two commissioners of the supreme court provided for in recent legislation.

Mr. Fesler had nothing to say on his appointment this morning. He said there was nothing to say. He contented himself with holding a reception in his office in the First National bank building, alternating shaking hands with his friends and acknowledging the congratulations that came to him over the telephone.

WILL PURCHASE NEW AMBULANCE

Council Expected to Appropriate $4,000 Needed Monday Night.

The council Monday night is expected to pass the ordinance appropriating $4,000 with which to purchase an automobile police patrol and emergency ambulance and keep it in repair the current year.

The ordinance was introduced and given its second reading last Monday night. The machine is badly needed by the department and should be put in commission at the earliest possible moment, it is claimed.

The ordinance authorizing the employment of a social welfare expert whose salary would be $2,000 a year is scheduled to come up for final passage. It was laid over last week after the committee had reported adversely on the ordinance. The committee stated that the commissioner who has charge of public affairs will have ample authority under the charter to hire any employes necessary, including the proposed expert.

WILL SUE UNCLE SAM.

Fort Berthold Indians Want Lands Given to Northern Pacific.

Elbowoods, N. D., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Indians of the Fort Berthold reservation probably will bring proceedings against the Federal government to recover the value of certain land grants made to the Northern Pacific railroad to which they claim they are entitled.

At a conference of the Indians held at this point, when the report of the delegation to Washington was heard, the matter was placed in the hands of a committee for further investigation.

MOB DISPERSES; TOWN IS QUIET

Alleged Assailant of Girl Taken to East St. Louis By Sheriff.

Salem, Ill., March 15.—The mob that last night threatened to storm the county jail and lynch Frank Sullens, who is charged with attacking Dorothy Holt, was entirely dispersed today and the streets practically were deserted this morning.

The four companies of the National Guard are still on duty and there appears to be no disposition on the part of any one to start trouble.

Sheriff Purcell said that later in the day or tomorrow he would take Sullens and Ernest Harrison, who also is under arrest in connection with the attack, to some other county seat for safe keeping.

Later in the day Sheriff Purcell decided to take Sullens and Harrison to East St. Louis for safe keeping.

GETS MONTH FOR THROWING PAINT

Miss Marjorie Masters, Suffragette School Teacher, Sentenced.

London, March 15.—Miss Marjorie Masters, the suffragette school teacher who yesterday threw a pot of green paint through a window of the home office, was sentenced today to a month's imprisonment. Addressing the police magistrate in court, she said:

"This was my method of lifting the gauntlet thrown down to women by the government in ignoring the question of votes for women in the king's speech at the opening of parliament."

She was followed in the prisoner's enclosure by a male anti-suffragist, who had harangued a crowd outside the headquarters of the militant suffragette society. He had shouted:

"That's the place which ought to be burned down," and the police promptly arrested him. He was put under bonds to keep the peace.

Bane of Brainerd.

PROF. BOLLEY HITS SOME OLD IDEAS

Insanitary, Rather Than Deteriorated Soil, Blamed for Poor Crops.

Fargo, N. D., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The old theory of deteriorated soil being the cause of lessened crop production must give away to the new one enunciated by Prof. Bolley of the North Dakota agricultural college that infected and insanitary soils are responsible. The loss of nitrogen, humus, phosphates and lime and the decreased fecility of the soil is not wholly or even primarily responsible for lessened yields, according to the head of the botany department of the agricultural college.

Gives Results of Tests.

He cites a long line of experiments to show that diseased seed infect the land, that the use of fresh barnyard manure, under certain conditions, is a menace and asserts that he will soon be able to give a classification by rotation of farm crops that will cure the sick soil. This will be accomplished by planting the lands to certain crops in which the diseases of one will not injure the following, then by proper seed selection, seed disinfection and care in the application of manure.

The details are to be worked out in bulletins that are soon to be issued covering the different points.

Prof. Bolley's experiments with diseased flax, or flax wilt and flax-sick soil and his development of wilt resistant flax have convinced him of the correctness of his theory.

Experiments with potatoes have corroborated his flax test

Sunday Services in Duluth Churches

MANY of the Duluth pastors, especially those of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches, will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the birth of Dr. David Livingstone in their sermons tomorrow. Celebrations of the same occasion will be held by several of the church auxiliary societies.

Sunday is not the exact anniversary of the birth of the renowned missionary and explorer of Africa, but it is only three days away.

David Livingstone was born at Blantgre, near Glasgow, Scotland, March 19, 1813. His parents were very poor. They could give him no aid to acquire a scholarly education. He was possessed, however, of a great religious enthusiasm, and this, combined with a passion for traveling in foreign countries, early created the idea of a missionary life in his mind.

He contrived to prepare himself thoroughly for his task, first by attending an evening school, when he was employed during the day in the cotton mills, and later by working hard in the summer and studying during the winter.

He made four journeys to Africa, where he spent many years exploring the continent and Christianizing the natives. He was for sixteen years in the employ of the London Missionary society. Later he was supported by the British government.

His wife, who accompanied him on one of his African tours, died at Shupanga in 1864. He himself died in 1873 on the shores of Lake Bangweolo.

Mr. Livingstone left many immortal works of literature, relating to his adventures and giving the world geographical knowledge of inestimable value.

ler, L. O. Cooke, Denegre, Donaldson, Duea, Dunn, Dwinnell, Elwell, Fosseen, Gunderson, Gunn, Hackney, Handlan, Hanson, C. D. Johnson, V. L. Johnson, Lende, L'Herault, Odell, Pauly, Peterson, Pugh, Rockne, Rustad, Sageng, Saugstad, Schaller, Stebbins, G. H. Sullivan, J. D. Sullivan, Sundberg, Van Hoven, Wallace, Wilson, Works—43.

Seven-Senator Amendment.

The next move against the bill was an amendment offered by Senator F. E. Putnam of Blue Earth City, which proposed to cut one senator from Ramsey county, two from Hennepin county and one from St. Louis county, and to give these senators to Southern Minnesota.

This amendment was defeated, 38 to 20, by the following vote:

For the seven-senator amendment—Anderson, Bedford, Benson, Cashman, Cook, C. F., Cooke, L. O., Duxbury, Glotzbach, Haycraft, Lende, McGrath, Moonan, Nelson, Olson, Poehler, Putnam, Rustad, Stebbins, Thoe, Wels—20.

Against the seven-senator amendment—Ahmann, Boyle, Cheadle, Claguc, Collier, Denegre, Donaldson, Duea, Dunn, Dwinnell, Elwell, Fosseen, Gunderson, Gunn, Hackney, Handlan, Hanson, Johnson, C. D. D., Sundberg, Swanson, Van Hoven, Wallace, Wilson, Works—38.

The last stand of the opponents of the bill was made on an amendment offered by Senator F. A. Duxbury of Caledonia, which only proposed to cut one senator from Hennepin county, which had already consented to accept one less senator than it was entitled to on a population basis. This attempt was beaten, 36 to 20, by the following vote:

Against—Ahmann, Boyle, Carpenter, Cheadle, Collier, Denegre, Donaldson, Dunn, Dwinnell, Elwell, Fosscen, Gunderson, Gunn, Hackney, Handlan, Hanson, C. D. Johnson, V. L. Johnson, Klein, L'Herault, Odell, Pauly, Peterson, Pugh, Rockne, Rustad, Sageng, Saugstad, G. H. Sullivan, J. D. Sullivan, Sundberg, Swanson, Van Hoven, Wallace, Wilson—36.

The Final Vote.

On the final passage of the bill the vote was as follows:

For — Ahmann, Bedford, Benson, Boyle, Carpenter, Cheadle, Claguc, Collier, L. O. Cooke, Dale, Denegre, Donaldson, Duea, Dunn, Dwinnell, Elwell, Fosseen, Glotzbach, Gunderson, Gunn, Hackney, Hanson, C. D. Johnson, V. L. Johnson, Johnston, Lende, Marden, Murray, Odell, Pauly, Peterson, Pugh, Rockne, Rustad, Sageng, Saugstad, Schaller, Stebbins, G. H. Sullivan, J. D. Sullivan, Suudberg, Swanson, Van Hoven, Wallace, Wels, Wilson, Works—48.

Against—Anderson, Cashman, Duxbury, Handlan, Haycraft, Moonan, Olson, Poehler, Thoe—10.

Those who voted for reapportionment according to population, as the Constitution requires, through every roll call, were as follows: Ahmann, Boyle, Carpenter, Cheadle, Clague, Collier, Denegre, Donaldson, Dunn, Dwinnell, Elwell, Fosseen, Gunderson, Gunn, Hackney, Handlan, Hanson, C. D. Johnson, V. L. Johnson, L'Herault, Odell, Pauly, Peterson, Pugh, Rockne, Sageng, Saugstad, G. H. Sullivan, J. D. Sullivan Sundberg, Swanson, Van Hoven; Wallace, Wels, Wilson—32.

Increase in Membership.

The bill as it passed the senate provides for sixty-seven senators against the present sixty-three, and 130 house members against the present 120.

This increase, was made necessary by expediency. It resulted from concessions made to satisfy those who complained, and to induce their support for the bill.

It makes both bodies too large, beyond question; but the tendency of friends of reapportionment in the house will be—at least it ought to be—to accept the senate amendments and let reapportionment become a fact.

Once reapportionment is a fact, it will be possible to remedy minor defects on a basis of perfect fairness.

In all probability a conference will be necessary between the two houses. One or two of the changes made by the senate are objectionable to house members; but no difficulty whatever is anticipated in straightening out these difficulties in conference, as both presiding officers are friendly to reapportionment, and would be held personally responsible if the substantial justice provided by the bill as it passed the senate were forfeited because of a disagreement of committees appointed by them.

The fight for reapportionment in the senate has been led by Chairman Victor L. Johnson of the reapportionment committee, with tact, good judgment and good sense. He has been ably backed by Senators Boyle, Collier, Cheadle, J. D. Sullivan and others, both in the committee and on the floor of the senate.

Fight Not Spirited.

The fight against the bill in the senate yesterday afternoon was by no means so spirited as the fight of two years ago. In fact at times it seemed almost perfunotory, and as though it were made by some of the senators because their position against constitutional reapportionment in 1911 made it necessary for them to put up a show of fight now for the sake of consistency.

The debate was opened by Senator Victor L. Johnson of Center City, chairman of the reapportionment committee, who said that the friends of reapportionment had decided not to make long talks for the bill, but to let it

Sunday Services in Duluth Churches

MANY of the Duluth pastors, especially those of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches, will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the birth of Dr. David Livingstone in their sermons tomorrow. Celebrations of the same occasion will be held by several of the church auxiliary societies.

Sunday is not the exact anniversary of the birth of the renowned missionary and explorer of Africa, but it is only three days away.

David Livingstone was born at Blantyre, near Glasgow, Scotland, March 19, 1813. His parents were very poor. They could give him no aid to acquire a scholarly education. He was possessed, however, of a great religious enthusiasm, and this, combined with a passion for traveling in foreign countries, early created the idea of a missionary life in his mind.

He contrived to prepare himself thoroughly for his task, first by attending an evening school, when he was employed during the day in the cotton mills, and later by working hard in the summer and studying during the winter.

He made four journeys to Africa, where he spent many years exploring the continent and Christianizing the natives. He was for sixteen years in the employ of the London Missionary society. Later he was supported by the British government.

His wife, who accompanied him on one of his African tours, died at Shupanga in 1861. He himself died in 1873 on the shores of Lake Bangweolo.

Mr. Livingstone left many immortal works of literature, relating to his adventures and giving the world geographical knowledge of inestimable value.

Seven-Senator Amendment.

The next move against the bill was an amendment offered by Senator F. E. Putnam of Blue Earth City, which proposed to cut one senator from Ramsey county, two from Hennepin county and one from St. Louis county, and to give these senators to Southern Minnesota.

This amendment was defeated, 38 to 20, by the following vote:

For the seven-senator amendment—Anderson, Bedford, Benson, Cashman, Cook, C. F. Cooke, L. O., Duxbury, Glotzbach, Haycraft, Lende, McGrath, Moonan, Nelson, Olson, Poehler, Putnam, Rustad, Stebbins, Thoe, Wels—20.

Against the seven-senator amendment—Ahmann, Boyle, Cheadle, Clague, Coller, Denegre, Donaldson, Duea, Dunn, Dwinnell, Elwell, Fosseen, Gunderson, Gunn, Hackney, Handlan, Hanson, Johnson, C. D. Johnson, V. L. Johston. Klein, L'Herault, Marden, Odell, Pauly, Peterson, Pugh, Rockne, Sageng, Saugstad, Schaller, Sullivan, G. H., Sullivan, J. D., Sundberg, Swanson, Van Hoven, Wallace, Wilson, Works—38.

The last stand of the opponents of the bill was made on an amendment offered by Senator F. A. Duxbury of Caledonia, which only proposed to cut one senator from Hennepin county, which had already consented to accept one less senator than it was entitled to on a population basis. This attempt was beaten, 36 to 20, by the following vote:

For — Anderson, Bedford, Benson, Cashman, C. F. Cook, Dale, Duea, Duxbury, Haycraft, Johnston, Lende, Moonan, Nelson, Olson, Poehler, Putnam, Schaller, Stebbins, Thoe, Wels, Works—20.

Against—Ahmann, Boyle, Carpenter, Cheadle, Coller, Denegre, Donaldson, Dunn, Dwinnell, Elwell, Fosseen, Gunderson, Gunn, Hackney, Handlan, Hanson, C. D. Johnson, V. L. Johnson, Klein, L'Herault, Odell, Pauly, Peterson, Pugh, Rockne, Rustad, Sageng, Saugstad, G. H. Sullivan, J. D. Sullivan, Sundberg, Swanson, Van Hoven, Wallace, Wilson—36.

The Final Vote.

On the final passage of the bill the vote was as follows:

For — Ahmann, Bedford, Benson, Boyle, Carpenter, Cheadle, Clague, Coller, L. O. Cooke, Dale, Denegre, Donaldson, Duea, Dunn, Dwinnell, Elwell, Fosseen, Glotzbach, Gunderson, Gunn, Hackney, Hanson, C. D. Johnson, V. L. Johnson, Johnston, Lende, Marden, Murray, Odell, Pauly, Peterson, Pugh, Rockne, Rustad, Sageng, Saugstad, Schaller, Stebbins, G. H. Sullivan, J. D. Sullivan, Sundberg, Swanson, Van Hoven, Wallace, Weis, Wilson, Works—48.

Against—Anderson, Cashman, Duxbury, Handlan, Haycraft, Moonan, Olson, Poehler, Thoe—10.

Those who voted for reapportionment according to population, as the Constitution requires, through every roll call, were as follows: Ahmann, Boyle, Carpenter, Cheadle, Clague, Coller, Denegre, Donaldson, Dunn, Dwinnell, Elwell, Fosseen, Gunderson, Gunn, Hackney, Hanson, C. D. Johnson, V. L. Johnson, L'Herault, Odell, Pauly, Peterson, Pugh, Rockne, Sageng, Saugstad, G. H. Sullivan, J. D. Sullivan, Sundberg, Swanson, Van Hoven, Wallace, Wilson—32.

Increase in Membership.

The bill as it passed the senate provides for sixty-seven senators against the present sixty-three, and 130 house members against the present 120.

This increase, not justified by other reasons, was made necessary by expediency. It represented concessions made to satisfy those who complained, and to induce their support for the bill.

It makes both bodies too large, beyond question; but the tendency of friends of reapportionment in the house will be—at least it ought to be—to accept the senate amendments and let reapportionment become a fact.

Once reapportionment is a fact, it will be possible to remedy minor defects on a basis of perfect fairness.

In all probability a conference will be necessary between the two houses. One or two of the changes made by the senate are objectionable to house members; but no difficulty whatever is anticipated in straightening out these difficulties in conference, as both presiding officers are friendly to reapportionment, and would be held personally responsible if the substantial justice provided by the bill as it passed the senate were forfeited because of a disagreement of committees appointed by them.

The New Districts.

The districts as fixed by the senate, and their number of representatives in each—each district having one senator—are as follows:

First—Houston and Fillmore counties; three representatives, one for each county and one at large.

The fight for reapportionment in the senate has been led by Chairman Victor L. Johnson of the reapportionment committee, with tact, good judgment and good sense. He has been ably backed by Senators Boyle, Coller, Cheadle, J. D. Sullivan and others, both in the committee and on the floor of the senate.

Fight Not Spirited.

The fight against the bill in the senate yesterday afternoon was by no means so spirited as the fight of two years ago. In fact at times it seemed almost perfunctory, and as though it were made by some of the senators because their position against constitutional reapportionment in 1911 made it necessary for them to put up a show of fight now for the sake of consistency.

The debate was opened by Senator Victor L. Johnson of Center City, chairman of the reapportionment committee, who said that the friends of reapportionment had decided not to make long talks for the bill, but to let it stand on its merits.

"We have waited for at least sixteen long and weary years for justice," said Senator Johnson, "feeling that we have not had proper representation, and our case is familiar to all of you. We believe we have produced a fair and satisfactory bill after many weeks of work—fair to all parts of the state except the Twin Cities, which have less than they are entitled to on a population basis. This bill provides six more senators than the Congd

ROGER SHERMAN MUNGER, DULUTH'S "GRAND OLD MAN," IS SUMMONED

Pioneer Resident Dies of Complications, Due to Old Age.

Identified With Every Big Industry in City's Early History.

Built First Sawmill, First Coal Dock and Spalding Hotel.

ROGER S. MUNGER.

Roger Sherman Munger, 83 years of age, pioneer resident of Duluth and a moulder of the destiny of the city, died last night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Dwight E. Woodbridge of 1735 Wallace avenue, Hunter's Park.

Death was due to complications brought on by advanced years. Mr. Munger had been ailing for some time. The last four days he was confined to his bed, failing steadily until the end came last night.

Mr. Munger is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Mary Munger Woodbridge and Mrs. Alice Munger Silvey, both of this city. Mrs. Silvey is the widow of the late W. B. Silvey who lost his life in the Titanic disaster. She was visiting Mr. Silvey's parents in the East until two days ago when she was summoned because of the serious illness of her father.

Mr. Munger might truly be called "the grand old man of Duluth." Loved, revered and respected by all who knew him, though ever so slightly, he gave the best years of his life to the upbuilding of the Zenith City and the moral and social uplift of its people. His works live after him and his memory will be cherished and held dear as he will be mourned by the hundreds with whom he came in contact since he settled in Duluth, the city which was then a mere infant in swaddling clothes, forty-four years ago. Faithfully and well he guarded her interests and watched over her welfare as the baby village grew to be a town, developed into a thriving city and blossomed out on its career as a leading port and industrial and railroad center and the coming metropolis of the great Northwest.

The death of Mr. Munger takes from Duluth one of the pioneers who has been intimately identified with the growth and development of the city.

With Big Enterprises.

Coming to the Head of the Lakes in 1869 when the present site of Duluth was a village of a dozen families, he has been associated with the great enterprises which have made the Zenith City one of the leading municipalities of the United States.

Buoyed and strengthened by an unshaken faith in the future of Duluth, he threw himself into the forefront with the indomitable energy and business sagacity which characterized his entire life. With far-seeing vision he knew that Duluth must come into her own and the results which have now become history have amply justified his sound judgment and unbounded confidence.

Filled with an enthusiasm which knew no limits, he instilled in others the spirit which builds great enterprises and lays with unerring hand the foundation stones of a great city. Imparting to them the certainty of his convictions, he opened the reluctant coffers of the East with the magic key of his faith in Duluth, the gateway of the West.

The imprint of Mr. Munger's guiding finger is to be found from one end of Duluth to the other upon the industries and manufacturing projects which have spelled progress and prosperity. The great grain elevators through which pass annually the millions of bushels which are garnered from the vast Western prairies, were first established by Mr. Munger. The first company which was organized to build and operate more elevators was organized by him in the face of the derision and jeers of Minneapolis. The elevator industry in Duluth stands as a majestic tribute to the pioneer who braved the waves of opposition and doubt because his keen mind could penetrate the possibilities of coming years.

First Sawmill.

The first sawmill in Duluth was erected by Mr. Munger, the machinery being packed from St. Paul to the mill site on Minnesota Point over the now-abondoned military road, then the great highway between the Twins and the Head of the Lakes. His saws cut the lumber for the first houses which were put up in the growing village. With the rapidly increasing demand he put up another mill on the St. Louis river which was the forerunner of the big mills which for years were the leading industry of the city. Daily he rafted the lumber down the river to supply the urgent appeals for material with which to erect homes and store buildings, many of which are still landmarks in Duluth.

The Spalding hotel which stands at Fifth avenue west and Superior street as the leading hostelry in the Zenith City was erected by a company in which Mr. Munger was the leading spirit. He was one of the group of public-spirited men who formed the $200,000 company which erected the structure, then one of the most magnificent in the country.

Several men were brought from the East to furnish, equip and run it. One after another they shook their heads and turned back. At a meeting the last prospective tenant said that he would like to tackle it, but that the expense was more than he could stand.

"What would it cost?" asked Mr. Munger.

"At least $60,000," was the answer.

"I'll lend you the money and you can pay me back as you get along," was the declaration with which Mr. Munger came to the rescue. "Here's my check for $30,000 and I'll instruct my bank to honor your drafts for the balance."

The incident was one of many which might be cited to show that the faith of Mr. Munger in Duluth was of the kind which forces a city on the road to success and greatness.

The Ship Canal.

The capacity of Mr. Munger for quick and decisive action can be no better illustrated than his part in the construction of the first ship canal which was cut through Minnesota Point. For years the only entrance to the harbor was through the channel which had been worn through by the current from the river. It was miles too far down and caused much delay and inconvenience to shipping generally. A new canal was suggested to be dug close to the city. The residents of Superior entered a strenuous protest.

The Duluthians knew what they wanted and decided to go ahead on their own initiative when the government would not respond. The contract for the work was awarded to Mr. Munger as he had the finances, crew and material and tools best fitted for the undertaking. With characteristic dispatch he lost no time in getting several hundred men to work. That was on a Saturday. By night all Superior knew what was happening. The next day was Sunday. The contractor knew that no Federal injunction could be secured or served on that day. So with augmented crews he rushed the digging through the night, the next day and the next night. When Monday dawned the Superiorites woke to find the waters flowing through the new ship canal. They could do nothing with an injunction. They subsequently completed the construction of a breakwater to protect the original channel but their fears that it was necessary were unfounded and it was later destroyed.

Ties for N. P.

When the Northern Pacific railroad was being run westwards Mr. Munger increased the capacity of his mills and supplied the road with its timber and ties. He built the first 100 houses at Bismarck, N. D., and erected the government buildings on the Standing Rock reservation.

Mr. Munger not only erected the first opera house in St. Paul but built the first theater in Duluth, the Grand Opera house, the ruins of which were to be seen until they were removed two years ago for the Orpheum theater on Second avenue east above Superior street.

In 1888 he and his associates built and operated the first flour mill, the Imperial, with a capacity of 3,000 barrels daily. This was later increased to 6,000 barrels daily. The mill continued in active operation until a few years ago when it was absorbed by a trust. The construction of the Imperial mill marked the beginning of the flour making industry at the Head of the Lakes.

First Coal Dock.

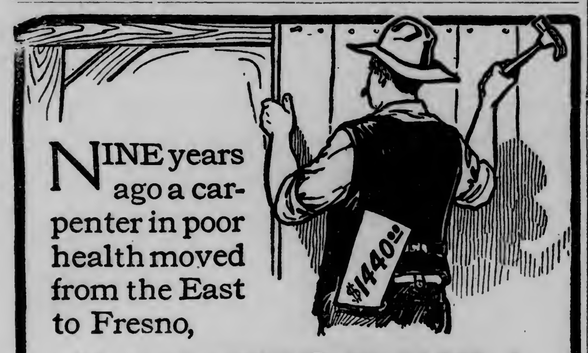
Mr. Munger built the first of the great modern coal docks which now line the harbor front, initiating the coal industry which is now another of the substantial factors in the prosperity of Duluth. At that time the Northwestern Fuel company was alone in the field, remaining in sole possession until the advent of the Ohio Coal company, now part of the Pittsburg Coal company.

He was largely instrumental in procuring the capital which brought the Duluth Iron & Steel company to Duluth. The firm built the blast furnace which is now owned by the Zenith Furnace company at West Duluth.

Mr. Munger was one of the oldest pioneers of Minnesota, coming to this state in his early manhood. He was born at North Madison, Conn., Feb. 25, 1830, the son of Sherman and Lucretia Benton Munger, both natives of Connecticut and old New England families. His boyhood was passed in New Haven, to which city his family moved. He was educated in the public schools and completed a course at the Hopkins Grammer school, preparatory to entering Yale. He did not take up the college course, however, but engaged in business in New Haven at the age of 21 years. For six years he had charge of a large music store at New Haven. At the end of that time he came West, spending one year in Iowa and coming to St. Paul in 1857, engaging in business with his brother. In January, 1869, he removed to Duluth and seeing here the city of opportunity, he made it his home and the center of his business operations continuously from that date.

The only political office ever held by Mr. Munger was that of register of deeds of St. Louis county. He was elected in 1898 by a large majority and held the position two years.

He was married at Vasselboro, Me., in 1858 to Miss Olive Gray. Mrs. Munger died in 1894.



NINE years ago a carpenter in poor health moved from the East to Fresno,

CALIFORNIA

He had $1,440 cash, a wife and a child. He bought five acres close to the city, contracting to pay $1,500. He set out 240 peach trees and planted vegetables; the next year he added 120 trees. The first year the garden truck returned $300, the next year $600, and the third year his land gave him $973. In three years he had built a good house and barn and added fowls, cow, pig, etc. He has refused cash offers of $5,500 for his place.

Why not break away, if you are discontented? You can do just as well as the carpenter. Go now!

ETERNAL HELL IS ETERNAL REMORSE

Evangelist Gives His Views of Place of Future Punishment.

Evangelist Whiston, who is conducting services at the First Christian church, Twelfth avenue east and Fourth street, declares that hell is eternal remorse. He told his views of the place of eternal torment during his sermon last night and his discourse was filled with striking phrases. There will be no meeting this evening, but tomorrow the evangelist will speak at 11 o'clock in the morning and at 8 o'clock in the evening. Last night he spoke, in part, as follows:

"Christ is the social, industrial and religious bridge that covers the gulfs that divide man from man and man from God. The gulfs that separate humanity were largely dug by man and each day the gulfs are getting wider and deeper. Man, however, is doing little to bridge these gulfs, and the gulf between him and God, the gulf of sin, God alone can bridge. The bridge between man and God, between earth and heaven, is the dead crucified body of Jesus. In life this bridge is down, but in eternity the bridge is pulled up. We must cross to God while we live or never.

"'In hell he lifted up his eyes.' I wish there were no hell, and if all men lived right there would be no necessity for one. But so long as men sin there must be a time and place where violated laws shall be satisfied. Hell is the penitentiary of eternity. I don't know what hell is. Separation from God? Yes. Literal fire? Perhaps. My text tells positively that it is an eternal remorse. 'Son remember.'

"I know of a man in Boston, during my ministry there, who abused his wife and family. He was a miserable drunken blasphemous sot. His wife threatened to leave him again and again, but for the children's sake, she stood at her post. One night this man came home uglier than usual, and after striking his wife, left the house. Something snapped in her brain. Going into his room, she took his razor and slashed her throat from ear to ear. Oh the remorse of that man! It was stronger than his appetite for drink. He couldn't sleep, he couldn't work. The face of her he had abused was ever before him.

"One night he left my study to go to his home. In less than a half hour I was called to the 'phone, with the cry, 'Go to Brown's at once!' I was too late. He had gone to the same room, taken the same razor, and there he lay dead, with his life blood ebbing away. Remorse is hell. Eternal remorse is eternal hell."

For Freckled, Rough or Spotty Complexions

(From The Dermatologist.)

The freckling, discoloring or roughening to which delicate skins are subject after exposure to wind or sun, often appearing in early spring, may readily be gotten rid of. Mercolized wax, spread lightly over the face before retiring and removed in the morning with soap and water, completely peels off the disfigured skin. Get an ounce of the wax at any druggist's. There's no more effective way of banishing freckles or other cutaneous defects. Little skin particles come off each day, so the process doesn't even temporarily mar the complexion, and one soon acquires a brand new, spotless, girlishly beautiful face.

Wrinkles caused by weather, worry or illness, are best treated by a simple solution of powdered saxolite, one ounce, dissolved in a half pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in this produces a truly marvelous transformation.

MOTHER GETS RELEASE.

Woman's Plea Effective in Case of Son in Restraint.

Jamestown, N. D., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—A mother's pleas won freedom from the state asylum for the insane yesterday for Lee E. Millen, convicted seven months ago and sentenced to five years for killing his father. The young man was turned over to his mother by the asylum authorities yesterday and she will care for him. She appeared before the emergency pardoning board Thursday and secured an order for his dismissal by showing that her son was feebleminded, and also suffering from tuberculosis. He was recently transferred from the penintentiary.

His Bedmate a Corpse.

St. Paul, Minn., March 15.—James Hoover awoke Friday morning to find that he had been sleeping with a corpse. It is believed his room-mate, George O'Neil, 26, drank acid soon after the two retired Thursday night.

St. Paul Man Sentenced.

St. Paul, Minn., March 15.—M. H. McNabb, 42, was sentenced to an indeterminate period in prison not to exceed seven years, by Judge Orr last night, after having been found guilty of improper relations with a young girl.

LA FOLLETTE CALLS ON THE PRESIDENT

Wisconsin Senator Visits White House First Time in Three Years.

Washington, March 15.—Senator La Follette last night made his first call at the White House in more than three years. He was the invited guest of President Wilson and spent almost an hour with him in his study in the executive mansion. He would make no statement as to the purpose of his visit, but it has been an open secret for days that he was expected to discuss matters of legislation with the president.

President Wilson is known to hold the Progressive Republican senator in high regard. He watched his career for many years as governor of Wisconsin and as United States senator. He referred to Mr. La Follette in terms of praise in many of the speeches he made during his campaign for the presidency. It was generally understood that he wished especially to get the views of Senator La Follette, as a true Progressive, upon tariff revision, currency legislation, Alaska, and the effect of physical valuation of railroads as provided for by congress in the closing days of the last session.

The conference last night was merely preliminary, others to be held later as the situation in congress develops. Other Progressive senators will be asked to the White House from time to time, and the president hopes that many of them will find it consistent to line up with the Democrats in passing what he believes is progressive legislation.

Senator La Follette was closeted with the president from 6 o'clock until 7 o'clock.

If I Were a School Teacher

in Duluth I would go on a strike for more pay. I would insist on being paid not only a good living salary, but I would insist on being paid enough so I could save a little every month to invest in something that would take care of me in my old age. I would make every member of the school board think the equator ran up and down Lake avenue, until my demands were met. Then I would take my savings and invest in Isle of Pines land.

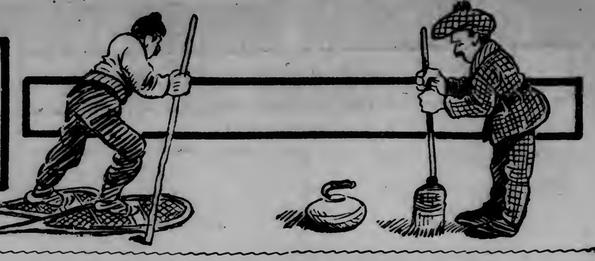
SPORTS



HERDING THE SPORTING SHEEP AND GOATS INTO THE DOPE CORRAL, AS SEEN BY BRUCE

PASSING in review over the present week one is struck by the absence of really interesting sport events. The stage was comparatively empty during the week that adds yet another chapter to the long roll. Apparently this is a quiet time of the year and as such has lent its baleful influences to the gladsome world of sports.

We witnessed the settlement of the long discussed question of the ability of Packey McFarland and Jack Britton. The curley headed youth from the ambient-odored stockyards district won, and he triumphed in a manner so decisive as to leave not the least doubt in the world as to his right to be called the greatest living boxer in the world, and this is not without taking into consideration the boxing claims of Mickey Gibbons, the lean and smoothly-working phantom of the Apostle city.

This column, not so long before the bout in the Garden called attention to the fact that McFarland possessed the habit of returning strong in the second contest. Therefore while Britton made all the publicity and capital possible out of the unsatisfactory or indefinite result of the Memphis meeting, his confidence ebullated and fed on the glorious contemplation of the various things he was going to do to the speed marvel of Chicago. McFarland came, saw and conquered, and J. Caeser remains at the present time the greatest and by far the most impressive figure on the Appian way of the fighting world.

While not precisely in the purview of things of the present week, perhaps it is not amiss to speak here of the report of the back to city movement of Frank Augustus Gotch, in many respects, speaking of profile and chest contour, the noblest Roman of them all.

We had a long and highly interesting chat with the greatest of all champions upon the festive occasion of the last visit to these parts of Frank Augustus. That was the agonized evening that the broken wheel on the engine kept the champion out of our fair city until near the ten bell time.

This conversation took place while the large form of Gotch was rolling around in a bath tub in one of the dressing rooms of the Lyceum theater.

"I am getting stout, just a little," said the champion. "But I am taking better care of myself than ever before in my life, and while maybe I don't like to go in and tear around the way I used to before I stood 'em all on their heads, still it might be that I am there strong as horse radish."

Maybe the big bear of Humboldt will be back as good as the illustrious afternoon he fondled Herr Hackenschmidt in those rock-ribbed arms of his and coolly called to Eddie Smith to make the yellow foreigner put his shoulders to the canvas if he wanted the world's champion to release the toe hold.

The coming back of the champion wrestler of the world—the undisputed champion—will be one of the big events of the sporting world, and will, moreover, be an event that will interest the fans far and wide throughout the country.

BASEBALL added to the gayety of nations during the present week. For one thing Rube Marquard signed his contract. You might query as to which one is meant. That's so; it's a fact, come to think of it, that the Rube signed up two during the past few days.

Also, during the progress of the passing days another strange occurrence has been legally inscribed on the walls of current interest. Connie Mack has claimed a pennant. Now this would be void—yea, as void as the brain pan of the original man with the hoe—were it not for the fact that Cornelius has seldom been heard to declare his belief in the ability of the White Elephants to haul down the bunting.

But the victory of the Boston Red Sox was something that hurt the long and lean baseball philosopher of Philadelphia. Connie Mack has ever believed that it was the lack of condition of his team, not that it was outclassed or beaten by a superior aggregation, that lost the pennant, and some of the closer followers of the sport of nations are inclined to bear him out in this contention.

It might be stated that practically all of the other managers have claimed the flag during the week, but this fact is passed over as merely an incident. The claiming of the flag by the sphinx-like leader of the Philadelphia Athletics is, however, an event worthy of chronicling.

DURING this quiet week Mike Yokel came out in the open and made definite reply to the persistent challenges of one of his most worthy rivals. The demon of the Jackson Hole country has come out from the sweet oblivion of that section of the universe long enough to state that he is willing to allow Walter Willoughby to come in at the weight of 162 pounds, and that in the event of being able to make this ringside poundage, a match between the pair can be considered as good as closed.

Down in the rustic environs of Mellen, Wis., the home of Willoughby, the lumbermen of that little village, all of the professional men; in fact every one in the town are pasted positively to the belief that Willoughby is the man to pin the unyielding shoulders of Mike to the mat.

Lithe and lean, cat-like in his movements, Willoughby is a direct antithesis to the bear-like Yokel, who is truly named the Rocky Mountain bear.

It would be a lethal struggle between a panther and a wild and rock-ribbed bear, and it should be a struggle worth traveling much territory to witness.

OTHER passing events of the closing chapter may be listed thusly: Kid Paul came out of the shell of retirement yesterday and stated that he would meet Johnny Coulon when the little blonde came here with the all-star show; the Lakeside Athletic club leaped to the front with loud and triumphant clamor: Walter Miller declared his willingness to defend the title he now holds, that of welterweight champion of the world, against all contenders at 148 pounds; Peter Maher, whom some of the less informed followers of the sporting game believed was dead, announced his attempt at the comeback; while Ray Bronson laid claim to the disputed title of welterweight champion of the world.

AMERICAN RHODES SCHOLARS ARE STARS

Help Respective Colleges in Oxford-Cambridge Historic Athletic Meet.

London, March 15.—Oxford and Cambridge tied with five events each in their fiftieth annual athletic meeting at Queen's club, London yesterday.

Oxford won the weight-putting, hammer-throwing, high jump, one mile and three miles, while Cambridge carried off the 100 yards, quarter mile, half mile, 120 yards hurdles and broad jump.

Cambridge, however, made the best showing. H. S. O. Ashington made a new inter-varsity record of 23 feet 5¾ inches for the broad jump, and but for a bad start D. Gordon Davis, would have lowered the quarter mile record. He was actually left five yards at the start, but a splendid spurt on the home stretch landed him the winner by six yards, only three-fifths of a second above the record.

It was only owing to the assistance of the American star, Will A. Zeigler, who won the hammer-throwing and the weight-putting, improving his previous record, that Oxford was able to tie.

Another American Rhodes scholar, H. R. Stolz of Leland Stanford, took second for Oxford in the broad jump, while E. P. Hubble of Chicago, was third in the weight-putting.

Cambridge also had an American student, F. Sproule of Stone school, on its team. He tied for second place in the high jump.

King George and the prince of Wales the latter an Oxford student, were present, in spite of the dull weather. The track was in good condition.

Chicago Athletes Successful Only in One Section.

Chicago, March 15.—University of Chicago athletes undertook to meet Wisconsin at gymnastics, fencing and wrestling here yesterday, Northwestern at swimming and Illinois at basket ball. The last contest only was successful.

The University of Wisconsin took all the firsts in gymnastics and wrestling, Capt. Merrill of Chicago scoring a win for his team by defeating Wolcott in their fencing bout. The total scores were:

Gymnastics—Wisconsin, 810.5; Chicago, 769.5. Wrestling—Wisconsin, 2; Chicago, 0. Fencing—Chicago, 1; Wisconsin, 0.

Player Jones Reinstated.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 15.—The National baseball commission has reinstated Player L. D. Jones of the Boston National league club upon condition that he pay a fine of $25. Jones was released to the Lowell club of the Northeastern league, but failed to report and stayed out of the game. The release was set aside and the player remained as the property of the Boston club.

Bout Is Postponed.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 15.—Promoters of the McGoorty-Moha boxing bout announced a postponement to March 24 on account of an injury to McGoorty's hands.

Peters Wins Again.

St. Paul, Minn., March 15.—Theodore Peters, St. Paul, light heavyweight wrestling champion, last night won from George Rogers, Syracuse, N. Y., in straight falls.

YOKEL AND WILLOUGHBY TO WRESTLE FOR TITLE

Salt Lake City Title-Holder to Defend His Honor Against the Great Grappler of Mellen, Wis., in Finish Contest.

Mike Yokel, undisputed middleweight champion wrestler of the world, and the famous Walter Willoughby of Mellen, Wis., were signed today for a finish catch-as-catch-can contest in this city, the mat battle for the title to be decided on the evening of March 28.

For over a year Willoughby, acknowledged by wrestling critics to be one of the greatest grapplers in the world, has been after the title, Gehring refused persistenly to meet the Mellen man, while Walter Miller demanded that Willoughby make 158 pounds ringside. This stipulation Willoughby claimed he was unable to fulfill.

But old Mike Yokel, the rugged representative from the Jackson Hole country, looks at the claims of Willoughby in a different light. His wire today, closing the match, contains a clause that will permit the great grappler of Mellen to step on the mat at his very best and assures the fans of this city a world's title contest. Yokel is going to permit Willoughby to come on the mat weighing 162 pounds, and at this weight Willoughby should be fit to wrestle for a king's ransom.

Up from Mellen will come scores of followers of Willoughby, who have every confidence in the world in the ability of the cat-like wrestler to bring about the defeat of the marvel of Salt Lake City.

Willoughby is sincere in the belief that he is the master of both Yokel and Gehring. During the past year the Mellen wrestler has made overtures to the Duluth promoters, pleading with them to give him a chance at the title. Gehring refused persistently to listen to the challenges of Willoughby. Then came the defeat of the great Gehring by Yokel and the further defeat of that great little wrestler, Miller, and Yokel reigned supreme among the 158-pounders.

So at last the long-sought for chance of Willoughby is at hand. The Mellen man will come here several days before the date of the contest and put the final touches on his training. Yokel will also arrive several days before the big contest and will round out his condition here.

Duluth this season has witnessed some of the great matches of the country, but this tops the list. It will bring together a panther in Willoughby against the bear in the person of Yokel. Lean, lithe, possessed of marvelous science and as quick as the stalking panther in his movements, Willoughby will oppose and attempt to defeat the marvelous strength of Yokel.

JULIUS H. BLOCK GIVES ADVICE TO TRAP SHOOTERS

The following article, written by Julius H. Block of this city, one of the most famous of the old time trap shooters, should prove of particular interest to the many lovers of the clay pigeon penchant of this city, for the writer has touched upon some pertinent and timely details of the popular pastime:

"At the outset, I will say that I did follow the trap shooting game from 1883 to about the year 1900 very closely. In fact, I have the pleasure of going as far back in relating my trap shooting experience to take in the glass ball, and the coming of the saucer shaped disc, which more closely resembled the real flight of a live bird than the glass ball did. I recall when Mr. Fred Kimbal of Peoria, Ill., in the year 1882 or 3, introduced to the shooters of this state, the Peoria black bird at a tournament held at Winona, Minn. This without doubt was the most satisfactory target, on account of its scoring qualities and perfect flight ever put on the market, but owing to the fact that the breakage in shipping and throwing them was very heavy, other targets took their place and they were taken from the market.

Other Targets.

"Many targets were invented in an effort to fill the long felt want, namely a good substitute for the live bird. I will name a few of them as I recollect them: The glass ball, puff ball, Peoria black bird, Ligowsky clay pigeon, Keystone, blue rock, white flyer, bat, sparrow and tin pigeon. On account of the blue rock being a fair breaker, and standing shipping fairly well, it has held the center of the stage for a long time. The hardest bird to score or break was the Ligowsky clay pigeon. My old friend, Al Bandle, late of Cincinnati, Ohio, once made a wager that he could break ten straight of them, but did not say under what conditions he would make the attempt. However, he put ten of these birds in one pile, he then jumped on them with both feet, and succeeded in breaking only seven of them, and lost the wager.

All the targets manufactured in those days required a special trap to throw them; no two traps were alike, and would only handle the target for which they were built. In speaking of our shooting tournament, the question is frequently asked, 'Why don't we have the same kind of shoots we had in former years?' Why don't we hear any more of the championship events, such as we used to have?

"The fact that gun clubs which hold these tournaments have permitted the representatives of the target and shell manufacturer to frame up their program, either directly or by a growing custom, in such shape as to make it a target and shell selling scheme, are directly responsible. If a tournament program is made up with a reduced number of targets, and a small increase in the entrance fee, it will leave more money in the pot, and will reduce the amount paid for targets and shells, and you will then find some money coming back to you in case you shoot well enough to win.

"You can imagine the effect it has on the shooter when his day's work at the trap is ended, and he figures up the amount of money he paid for the day's sport, under the present system if he is paying this money out of his own pocket, and is not in the target or shell advertising business. It is only human nature that he withdrawss from the game, and does not show up the next morning.

"It will be up to the management of tournaments in the future to furnish a new definition for professionalism. The old rule was if a person took part in individual matches for money, he was a professional. This, under the new order of things, is a thing of the past. The only fellow we have to contend with, is the man who pays nothing for his ammunition and travels as an advertising agent for the factory. My advice to all who contemplate holding a tournament in the future, is to turn over a new leaf, get out of the rut, and play the game from the standpoint of your own members, and the true lover of such sport.

Some Suggestions.

I feel that in order to make myself more clearly understood, I should offer a few suggestions as to the arrangements of a program, and the rules and the conditions to govern the shoot. I will attempt to do so on the theory that you will accept the suggestions merely as the opinion of one. In addition to making up the events in your program as previously suggested, you place the manufacturers' representative, and the fellow who travels from one tournament to the other the year round making it his pastime or business, on the prohibitive list. The large number of shooters will justify the rigid enforcement of such a rule. A man who is not in the habit of doing much shooting becomes quite weary and stale when he participates in so many long-drawn-out events; he becomes indifferent about entering the succeeding shoot. But if he shoots in a ten or fifteen-bird event, or possibly in a twenty-bird race for a change, you will find him as a rule "on edge" and quite alert, and ready to respond to the call for the next shoot, and stimulated with the thought that under the newly arranged program his chances will be a little better than ever for a winning.

A word to the new beginner. Many of our so-called new men at the trap often say, in answer to an invitation to join the local gun club, "What good will it do me, and will it help my field work?" In answer to this I will say, a man who is a good field shot at the time he takes up trap shooting receives much pleasure and benefit out of it during the closed game season, and a new beginner or an inexperienced person in handling a gun always learns a certain amount of discipline in handling a gun when shooting at the trap that is bound to be a great benefit to him when he goes into the fields, and it may be the means of averting accidents with the gun at his home or when out hunting. Much more can be said on this subject that might be of benefit or interest to the new beginner, but as my time is limited, and I feel that in addition to the reference made to trap and field shooting, it might not be out of place to direct your attention to a few ideas I may have on game protection.

I believe that all advocates of the preservation of game and fish in our state will agree that much practical good has been accomplished by the wardens. The limited amount of money at the disposal of the game and fish commission has always been a serious handicap, but we believe more has been accomplished in practical game protection the past three years than ever before. Public opinion has changed on the question of properly protecting our fish and game, and the great majority of our people want the laws enforced.

SPORTING EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK AS SEEN BY THE HERALD CARTOONIST

The former policy of watching only the railway terminals for game illegally shipped was good so far as it went, but it did not stop the slaughter in the field.

And further, the fact that violaters of the game laws have been prosecuted fearlessly has had a most wholesome effect and has driven the market hunter to abandon this pursuit. Many have left the country entirely, never to return. Game and fish in the past have had many enemies, but some new elements have come into existence and should be very closely watched, such as the "summer hotel," also some non-residents who make their summer home in the Northern regions of the state. These elements are the most destructive, next to the market hunter. They will kill a deer in the red; some of them employ men to provide all the young partridges that they can use on their tables and sometimes more. Many people constitute their kind. They come and go as best they can divide their time among a number of families; all bring their friends and in some instances, openly boast, "They are out for their annual outing and get what they want." And we, who hear and see so much of this, feel that they should get exactly what is coming to them, a good round fine or term of imprisonment.

Railroads Can Help.

We sincerely wish that our transportation companies would join us in our purpose of suppressing all advertising with reference to what we have in the way of hunting and fishing, for the reason that the class of people brought by such advertising does not constitute the element that develops our state. The state has established and maintains a number of fish hatcheries, including a game and fish commision at a large expense, and primarily the object of restocking our lakes and streams with fish, and protecting our game, is for the benefit of our own citizens and tax-payers. They are paying the freight and for that reason no special invitation should be extended to non-residents.

We might go further in citing elements of game and fish destruction and include the automobile. It carries a lot of persons to and from the game and fish localities, and among these people there are some awful bad actors.

The machines carry fellows out; they pick up a deer or lot of birds before the season opens, and make their "getaway." I sometimes think it would be a good plan if some of these roads were patroled by a game warden either with an automobile or motorcycle, for the purpose of putting a stop to this class of law violaters. A secret service organization might be very useful in the protection of game and fish. The forest rangers might be utilized for that purpose without materially interfering with their regular duties. They, no doubt, are often in a position to see and hear of game violations that should be reported and investigated by the warden.

Unless the state does something of this nature, and the enormous amount of attractive advertising is discontinued, the small area of our state where our big game abounds and will thus have an opportunity to do well for many years to come, will continue to be overrun with a lot of game hogs, and the result will be complete extermination as in the case of the buffalo.

BOWLING TOURNEY WILL OPEN IN MINNEAPOLIS.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 15.—The International Bowling Association's tournament will open tonight to continue eleven days, closing March 25. About 1,500 bowlers from several Northwestern states and the Western provinces of Canada have entered for the tournament.

Fourteen five-men teams and two two-men teams, representing Minneapolis clubs, are scheduled for the opening night.

MINNEAPOLIS AND THE MUD HENS LOOK STRONG

The Line-up of American Association Teams Shows a Large Roster of Veteran Players in the Ranks.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 15.—All of the American association teams now are engaged in active training for the 1913 pennant race, and indications are that the opening of the season will witness the appearance of many players who are strangers to the league. There are a goodly number of veterans still left on the lists and there are many youngsters being tried out.

When the major league clubs start cutting down their squads, there will be an outflow of material and likely the association clubs will gather a goodly share of the "wanderers."

However, if the season should start at once, the eight clubs in Chivington's circuit would be represented by a formidable array of talent.

The present make-up of the American association squads follows:

St. Paul.

Catchers—Pettit and O'Donnell.
Pitchers—Leroy, Gardner, Rieger, Karger, Urban, Van Dyke, Walker, Steele and Le Claire.
Infielders—Hinchman, O'Rourke, Autrey, Vaughan and Lewis.

ALL-STAR TROUPE IS DISBANDED

Jealousy Among Champions Wrecked Big Barn Storming Aggregation.

Fighters, it would appear, are temperamental, the same as artists.

The members of the all-star pugilistic cast could not stand to bear in meek humility the genial and equal sharing of stardom. Billy McCarney's troupe is disbanded because the five great ring stars wanted to hog the limelight. McCarty, as heavyweight champion, demanded to be the headliner. In the line of the things he has accomplished, Packey McFarland couldn't see it this way, and then Johnny Kilbane came in for an argument on this score. Torn thusly by dissensions, the show closed in Cincinnati and Duluth and other cities where engagements were booked thus will miss the opportunity of seeing McCarty, McGoorty, McFarland, Kilbane and Coulon in action.

Extra Stake Is Furnished.

Detroit, Mich., March 15.—The Detroit Driving club announced that at its twenty-ninth annual Blue Ribbon meeting to be held here from Aug. 11 to 16 there will be a stake race for free-legged pacers. It was stated that a number of horse owners asked for a class where their steeds would not be obliged to meet the hobblers.

BOAT CLUB TO PLAY NORMALS

Fast Basket Ball Teams to Fight Out Right to Claim Championship.

The meeting this evening of the Duluth Boat club basket ball team and the quint of the Superior normal should furnish the best basket shooting contest that has been witnessed on this side of the bay during the present season. The soiree is scheduled to begin at 8:15 and will be fought out in the large gynasium of the Y. M. C. A.

Included in the lineup of the visitors are some of the best players at the Head of the Lakes. Right now the boat club boys are at their best and the contest promises to be a corker from the opening whistle, as the winner of this game will have the right to play off with the Shamrocks for the undisputed independent championship of the Head of the Lakes, or, even more, play one of the best of the Minneapolis teams for the Northwestern championship.

Following is the lineup:

LEAGUE BALL FOR WINONA

Southern City Raises Large Sum to Back a See-Eye Team.

Business Men Assure the League That Winona Will Hold Up Its End.

Winona, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prominent business men of this city met last evening and without much ado raised $3,000 to back the local club in the See-Eye league. Checks, bank notes and drafts poured into the hands of the appointed treasurer. The enthusiasm displayed and the promptness with which the supporting funds were secured, augurs a most successful season for the Little Giants.

Since the visit of Secretary Dickson of the Minneapolis club prominent citizens of Winona have been quietly at work. Not until these men knew pretty much where they were at was the meeting set. Then things went off like clockwork and the See-Eye officials secured the club they were after without further fuss or beating about the bush.

The entire situation was gone over at the meeting. Here the opinion strongly prevails that this will be by far the most successful year in the history of Winona baseball. The rejuvenated See-Eye is the largest and best league that this city has had the fortune to become identified with, and with the brand of ball the new league promises to give, it is practically a foregone conclusion that the fans here will loyally and royally support the team.

A manager of the team will be appointed at once. O. H. Clark, a prominent business man, was appointed president of the club, and he will immediately consult with the directors of the club as to the best man for the leadership of the Winona team.

With the selection of the manager the work of securing the players will be entered into. With a large fund behind the club the men interested in the game here positively declare that they want the best baseball team that has ever represented this city. In this respect there is unanimity of opinion.

Business men, fans and all those who are the least interested in the game are of the firm belief that the officials of the See-Eye have not made the least mistake in choosing Winona as the eighth city in the new circuit. The new See-Eye is the work of years of persistent toil and followers of the game here appreciate the honor that has been conferred upon Winona. Every effort will be made to give the fans the best baseball possible and every effort will be made to keep up Winona's end of the league.

Harry Blume, representing the Duluth club, left this afternoon for Minneapolis to attend the meeting of tomorrow.

GUNBOAT SMITH GIVES WELLS K. O.

British Champion Heavyweight Falls Before American Second Rater.

New York, March 15.—Gunboat Smith, the California heavyweight, knocked out Bombardier Wells, heavyweight champion of England, in the second round of a scheduled ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden here last night.

SIR THOMAS HAS FULL TEXT OF REPLY.

London, March 15.—Sir Thomas Lipton will reply through the Royal Ulster Yacht club next week to the rejection of his challenge for the America's cup. The full text of the New York Yacht club's answer has just reached him by cable.

Sir Thomas today expressed some surprise at the New York yachtsmen's act in comparing his challenge in 1907 with the present one. The former challenge, he said, was made under the universal rule which would produce a boat capable of racing everywhere after the America's cup race, while the boat which would have been built had the latest challenge been accepted would have been a freak to be thrown on the scrap heap after the race.

No decision has yet been reached by Sir Thomas as to whether his challenge will be modified.

JIM THORPE MAY PROVE A BASEBALL FAILURE

McGraw Gambling in Case of Indian, as Many Collegians Have Miserably Fallen Down in Professional Company.

Philadelphia, March 15.—After reading the bids of several major league baseball clubs, who were anxious to get his services, Jim Thorpe, the Sac and Fox Indian, accepted the terms of Manager McGraw of the Giants.

This sturdy child of the forest, declared ineligible to compete in amateur athletics by the A. A. U., because it was discovered that he played ball during the summer vacation for money, will draw an unusually high salary for a player's trial season in the fastest baseball company.

That he was able to command a contract containing figures so uncommonly high was due to the fact that he was a free agent and that so many major league teams sought his services.

McGraw's willingness to pay big for Thorpe does not necessarily imply that he is assured of a star player, worth every cent, or maybe more, of the salary paid him. As a matter of fact, McGraw is gambling, gambling as much as any man who wagers on a horserace or bet his hand in poker, writes James Isaminger in the North American.

Collegians Who Failed.

Baseball history is full of instances where prized collegians proved to be bitter disappointments. Thorpe may be an exception. He certainly is the most versatile athlete in the world. He is a topnotcher in football, basketball and track athletics. An athlete who finds it so easy to adapt himself to any branch of sport that strikes his fancy might, if he concentrates all of his energies on baseball, become a star in it. That's all in Thorpe's favor.

Thorpe's little professional baseball sprees down in the Carolinas never attracted much attention. The scouts evidently never saw him play, or never were impressed by his playing. A rejection by a big league scout is not always a gauge of a player's ability, for scouts make mistakes, and often pick the wrong player for their club owners.

Yet it is singular that Thorpe, whose Indian origin alone should have made him stand out conspicuous on his team, never received any publicity for his ball playing. His professional career is clouded in mystery.

He may not have played good enough ball to attract attention, or he may have covered up his movements, but it is difficult to understand how anybody playing star ball could conceal it, even in a small Carolina league. His performances would be sure to be passed along by word of mouth, if not in cold type.

The Carlisle Indian evidently isn't sure of the position in which he is best qualified to fill. When he signed his contract with New York he expressed the hope that he would be put on the pitching staff, but McGraw quickly cut in and said that he would be tried in the outfield. This can be said with a great deal of ease, but making good in either department is another question.

Doesn't Think Thorpe Will Last.

One major league infielder who has been in the fast set for years, frankly declares that Thorpe will not make good. He says:

"I don't think Thorpe will last with the Giants, because he hasn't had enough baseball training. Everybody who knows anything at all about baseball, knows that a player develops into a star solely by incessant practice and constant application. In his developing years, he cannot have his attention distracted by other sports. He has to live, think and sleep baseball, and nothing but baseball.

"In Thorpe's case, he devoted less time to baseball than any other sport. In the fall he played football, and in the winter, basket ball. In the spring months, when he should be practicing baseball, he was devoting all of his time to drill in different branches of track athletics.

"Spring baseball does a developing player more good than anything else, and Thorpe has never had it. He didn't play baseball until Carlisle classes closed, and then joined some small team and stalled along in any position that happened to be vacant."

It is a fact that baseball was dropped as a sport at Carlisle three years ago, which removed any chance in that time for Thorpe to play ball in the spring. In all of the spring months he has played lacrosse or competed with the track team.

But Thorpe is not an ordinary athlete. He is the greatest in the world, and proved it at Stockholm. He may be the exceptional wonder to become as good in baseball as he was in track athletes. He has become a star in many lines, and may add America's biggest sport to the list.

THE MODERN MAGNATE IS A THOROUGH PRESS AGENT

New York, March. 15.—Organized baseball is the fairest and squarest of all America's sports. But it is a show business, nevertheless. In its evolution it has gradually worked away from the true sporting sentiments which framed its destinies until now predominates a desire to please, with the mighty dollar prompting this interest, says a New York sport writer.

Yes, baseball is a show business, with all the frills of the show business, save the hippodroming feature. So far the powers have been able to guard against hippodroming by keeping the organization's ranks free from the contamination of ruthless promoters. Many of these have tried to break in. Some have succeeded. But it is to the credit of baseball that none was permitted to last very long.

If there had existed any doubt whatever as to the great stress modern magnates lay upon advertising this present season should have very definitely settled the point. There are any number of instances to point the way the wind is blowing. One does not have to stir out of the great metropolis to find any number of convincing examples.

The Chance Deal.

First and foremost there was the Frank Chance deal, through which Frank Farrell gained for his tail-end club not only one of the greatest leaders of all baseball time, but an ad that would have been cheap at double the price. I doubt if baseball moguls ever fully appreciated the value of a press agency before the Peerless Leader's name was first mentioned in connection with the New York Americans. The space devoted to the developments of this case by the metropolitan journals simply turned green with envy the club owners of rival cities.

Here was a club that had finished a woebegone last behind a lot of teams that had very little class. It was a team that had loads of hard luck with which to contend in 1912, it is true, but fans looked to results, not alibis. The New York Americans had degenerated into something of a sad joke to everyone but Frank Farrell. It was no joke to him, who had put up the money without hope of immediate return. To add to Farrell's woes the rival Giants won a pennant and put up such a game fight against odds that they came out of the world's series with as much glory as, if less money than the Boston Red Sox.

Mr. Farrell opened the winter season under a serious handicap. The Giants drew the spread heads, the Highlanders the agate notes. And then one morning the news leaked out that American league powers were angling for Frank Chance. Probably unknowingly Frank Farrell had pulled the greatest advertising coup of baseball history. Everyone, all over the country, went to the story. The more it was discussed the better its advertising possibilities grew. Speculation was rife. Could the American league secure the waiver consent of National league club presidents? Would Murphy stand in the way? Would Chance really come to New York if he had the opportunity? Was he wrong in the head, as Murphy insinuated? And a thousand other inquiries. These were thrashed out at length to the exclusion of all else. Why, the champion Giants in no time were playing second fiddle.

Played Into His Hands.

Conditions played right into Farrell's hands all the way. Charles W. Murphy had framed a dramatic situation by the manner in which he disposed of Frank Chance. The country was with the peerless leader and opposed to the autocratic Cub president. Murphy had jumped on Chance in a very unsportsmanlike manner. He had struck, while the man who brought him four pennants and two world's championships in seven years and never finished lower than third, was down—while he was confined to a hospital cot as the result of a serious operation. And finally when Chance did agree to meet Farrell there was a wheeze of publicity that never once ended until the peerless leader arrived from the coast to take the local helm. In fact, the buzz hasn't subsided yet; nor is it likely to until Chance has had every opportunity to vindicate his managerial abilities in Ban Johnson's circuit.

In connection with this same Chance deal it may be mentioned in passing that what appeared the first real break in luck seemed to have started the way of Frank Farrell. Before Frank Chance was secured the hilltop president effected an agreement with President Hempstead of the Giants to utilize the Polo grounds for all local American league games this season. It was, therefore, a rather disappointing draught for the Giant management to see the rival getting so much boosting when the two clubs would share the same ground. So McGraw bided his time in anticipation of some counter.

The opportunity came with the professionalizing of Jim Thorpe, the wonderful Carlisle Indian school star and hero of the Olympic games. McGraw sneaked in while several big league scouts were napping at the tepee of Glen Warner and secured this wonderful athlete for the Giants. Now, while he will not admit it, there is little doubt that McGraw at first figured seriously on the Indian's baseball ability. He may have, of course. But it is more than likely that Mac realized the advertising value of Thorpe. Here was a man in whom the whole world was interested. Whether or not he might be able to play or develop in the game, he was a great drawing card to begin with, as great, if not greater, than any star of the diamond. McGraw realized that in the first swing around the circuit he would have attracted through Thorpe more than enough money to pay all the expenses of securing him. And, in addition, he was getting a perfect type of physical manhood, in which there lay latent possibilities that might pan. If Thorpe had not been professionalized McGraw would never have gone after him. Professionalized, he was advertised into one of the greatest possible drawing cards.

Chance for Thorpe.

Thorpe may become a great player, and if so McGraw will have as a result such an attraction as cannot be computed in dollars and cents. He may fail, and if so will be good for no more than one season. Chance, of course, is going to be a big card for years to come, if he has left none of his managerial abilities with C. W. Murphy. Wherefore McGraw did not feel like resting on his oars after he corralled the aborigine. He had other tricks up his sleeve.

One of these was the engagement of a club dentist, Dr. Pirs, a tooth carpenter of Pittsburg, has gone to Marlin with the athletes, and while there will put the teeth of every member in perfect condition. Already Dr. Pirs has created a sensation. It is likely that all the other major league clubs will have to fall into line sooner or later. Dentistry in spring training is a new wrinkle, but a commendable one, no doubt. Still McGraw could have had the work done at home just as well. That wouldn't have been much of an ad, though.

Charlie Ebbets has his new ball park because he realized that it would be a great ad. Ebbets surmounted all manner of obstacles to have his new park ready for an opening this spring. And his enterprise was rewarded at the recent schedule meeting of the major leagues in this city. For the first time in history major leagues agreed to modify their schedules and grant a special opening day to a club—allow one town to open the season a day ahead of the rest. Ebbets was granted this privilege because it was realized that he would have a tough time attracting a capacity house were he forced to bid for patronage against Frank Chance, a debut at the Polo grounds.

It pays to advertise. The major leagues are waking up to the fact.

R. BRADLEY AND WALSH IN FINALS

Crack Rinks Will Meet for First Place in the Universal Event.

Ralph Bradley went into the finals of the Universal last evening through the defeat of Fregeau by the score of 13 to 12, while Jim Walsh also went into the finals of the same event through the defeat of Schiller by the score of 15 to 12.

It is probable that the final game in this event will be played off this evening. The final in The Herald, bringing Jones and Dinham together, may also be contested this evening.

If the finals of the four remaining events are not completed tonight the regular trophy play of the season will be completed on Monday evening.

Sentenced as White Slaver.

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 15.—Danny Claire, infielder of the Sioux City team of the Western league, convicted in Federal court on a charge under the Mann white slave act, was sentenced yesterday to three years in the Federal prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

wardens. The limited amount of money at the disposal of the game and fish commission has always been a serious handicap, but we believe more has been accomplished in practical game protection the past three years than ever before. Public opinion has changed on the question of properly protecting our fish and game, and the great majority of our people want the laws enforced.

The former policy of watching only the railway terminals for game illegally shipped was good so far as it went, but it did not stop the slaughter in the woods.

And further, the fact that violaters of the game laws have been prosecuted fearlessly has had a most wholesome effect and has driven the market hunter to abandon this pursuit. Many have left the country entirely, never to return. Game and fish in the past have had many enemies, but some new elements have come into existence and should be very closely watched, such as the "summer hotel," also some nonresidents who make their summer home in the Northern regions of the state. These elements are the most destructive next to the market hunter. They will kill a deer in the red; some of them employ men to provide all the young partridges that they can use on their tables and sometimes more. Many people constitute their kind. They come and go as best they can divide their time among a number of families, all living their calendar out in some fashion, ever ready to "They are out for their annual outing and get what the g want." And we, who hear and see so much of this, feel that they are getting exactly what is coming to them, a good round dose or term of imprisonment.

Railroads Can Help.

We sincerely wish that our transportation companies would join us in a purpose of suppressing all advertising with reference to what we have in the way of hunting and fishing, for we feel that the class of people brought by such advertising does not constitute the element that develops our state. The state has established and maintains a number of fish hatcheries, causing a game and fish commission a large expense, and primarily the object of restocking our lakes and streams with fish, and protecting our game for the benefit of our own citizens and tax-payers. They are paying the freight and for that reason no special invitation should be extended to nonresidents.

We might go further in citing elements of game and fish destruction and include the automobile. It carries a lot of persons to and from the game and fish localities, and among these people there are some awful bad actors. The machine-carry fellows out; they pick up a deer or lot of birds before the season opens, and make their "getaway." I sometimes think it would be a good plan if some of these roads were patrolled by a game warden either with an automobile or motorcycle, for the purpose of putting a stop to this class of law violaters. A secret service organization might be very useful in the protection of game and fish. The forest rangers might be utilized for that purpose without materially interfering with their regular duties. They, no doubt, are often in a position to see and hear of game violations that should be reported and investigated by the warden.

Unless the state does something of this nature, and the enormous amount of attractive advertising is discontinued, the small area of our state where our big game abounds and will thus have an opportunity to do well for many years to come, will continue to be overrun with a lot of game hogs, and the result will be complete extermination as in the case of the buffalo.

ALL-STAR TROUPE IS DISBANDED

Jealousy Among Champions Wrecked Big Barn Storming Aggregation.

Fighters, it would appear, are temperamental, the same as artists.

The members of the all-star pugilistic cast could not stand to bear in meek humility the genial and equal sharing of stardom. Billy McCarney's troupe is disbanded because the five great ring stars wanted to hog the limelight. McCarty, as heavyweight champion, demanded to be the headliner. In the line of the things he has accomplished, Packey McFarland couldn't see it this way, and then Johnny Kilbane came in for an argument on this score. Torn thusly by dissensions, the show closed in Cincinnati and Duluth and other cities where engagements were booked thus will miss the opportunity of seeing McCarty, McGoorty, McFarland, Kilbane and Coulon in action.

Extra Stake Is Furnished.

Detroit, Mich., March 15.—The Detroit Driving club announced that at its twenty-ninth annual Blue Ribbon meeting to be held here from Aug. 11 to 16 there will be a stake race for free-legged pacers. It was stated that a number of horse owners asked for a class where their steeds would not be obliged to meet the hobblers.

BOAT CLUB TO PLAY NORMALS

Fast Basket Ball Teams to Fight Out Right to Claim Championship.

The meeting this evening of the Duluth Boat club basket ball team and the quint of the Superior normal should furnish the best basket shooting contest that has been witnessed on this side of the bay during the present season. The soiree is scheduled to begin at 8:15 and will be fought out in the large gynasium of the Y. M. C. A.

Included in the lineup of the visitors are some of the best players at the Head of the Lakes. Right now the boat club boys are at their best and the contest promises to be a corker from the opening whistle, as the winner of this game will have the right to play off with the Shamrocks for the undisputed independent championship of the Head of the Lakes, or, even more, play one of the best of the Minneapolis teams for the Northwestern championship.

Following is the lineup:

Boat Club—		Normal Alumni—

LEAGUE BALL FOR WINONA

Southern City Raises Large Sum to Back a See-Eye Team.

Business Men Assure the League That Winona Will Hold Up Its End.

Winona, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prominent business men of this city met last evening and without much ado raised $3,000 to back the local club in the See-Eye league. Checks, bank notes and drafts poured into the hands of the appointed treasurer. The enthusiasm displayed and the promptness with which the supporting funds were secured, augurs a most successful season for the Little Giants.

Since the visit of Secretary Dickson of the Minneapolis club prominent citizens of Winona have been quietly at work. Not until these men knew pretty much where they were at was the meeting set. Then things went off like clockwork and the See-Eye officials secured the club they were after without further fuss or beating about the bush.

The entire situation was gone over at the meeting. Here the opinion strongly prevails that this will be by far the most successful year in the history of Winona baseball. The rejuvenated See-Eye is the largest and best league that this city has had the fortune to become identified with, and with the brand of ball the new league promises to give, it is practically a foregone conclusion that the fans here will loyally and royally support the team.

A manager of the team will be appointed at once. O. H. Clark, a prominent business man, was appointed president of the club, and he will immediately consult with the directors of the club as to the best man for the leadership of the Winona team.

With the selection of the manager the work of securing the players will be entered into. With a large fund behind the club the men interested in the game here postively declare that they want the best baseball team that has ever represented this city. In this respect there is a unanimity of opinion.

Business men, fans and all those who are the least interested in the game are of the firm belief that the officials of the See-Eye have not made the least mistake in choosing Winona as the eighth city in the new circuit. The new See-Eye is the work of years of persistent toil and followers of the game here appreciate the honor that has been conferred upon Winona. Every effort will be made to give the fans the best baseball possible and every effort will be made to keep up Winona's end of the league.

Harry Blume, representing the Duluth club, left this afternoon for Minneapolis to attend the meeting of tonight.

GUNBOAT SMITH GIVES WELLS K. O.

British Champion Heavyweight Falls Before American Second Rater.

New York, March 15.—Gunboat Smith, the California heavyweight, knocked out Bombardier Wells, heavyweight champion of England, in the second round of a scheduled ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden here last night.

SIR THOMAS HAS FULL TEXT OF REPLY.

London, March 15.—Sir Thomas Lipton will reply through the Royal Ulster Yacht club next week to the rejection of his challenge for the America's cup. The full text of the New York Yacht club's answer has just reached him by cable.

Sir Thomas today expressed some surprise at the New York yachtsmen's act in comparing his challenge in 1907 with the present one. The former challenge, he said, was made under the universal rule which would produce a boat capable of racing everywhere after the America's cup race, while the boat which would have been built had the latest challenge been accepted would have been a freak to be thrown on the scrap heap after the race.

No decision has yet been reached by Sir Thomas as to whether his challenge will be modified.

JIM THORPE MAY PROVE A BASEBALL FAILURE

McGraw Gambling in Case of Indian, as Many Collegians Have Miserably Fallen Down in Professional Company.

Philadelphia, March 15.—After reading the bids of several major league baseball clubs, who were anxious to get his services, Jim Thorpe, the Sac and Fox Indian, accepted the terms of Manager McGraw of the Giants.

This sturdy child of the forest, declared ineligible to compete in amateur athletics by the A. A. U., because it was discovered that he played ball during the summer vacation for money, will draw an unusually high salary for a player's trial season in the fastest baseball company.

That he was able to command a contract containing figures so uncommonly high was due to the fact that he was a free agent and that so many major league teams sought his services.

McGraw's willingness to pay big for Thorpe does not necessarily imply that he is assured of a star player, worth every cent, or maybe more, of the salary paid him. As a matter of fact, McGraw is gambling, gambling as much as any man who wagers on a horse race or bet his hand in poker, writes James Isaminger in the North American.

Collegians Who Failed.

Baseball history is full of instances where prized collegians proved to be bitter disappointments. Thorpe may be an exception. He certainly is the most versatile athlete in the world. He is a topnotcher in football, basketball and track athletics. An athlete who finds it so easy to adapt himself to any branch of sport that strikes his fancy might, if he concentrates all of his energies on baseball, become a star in it. That's all in Thorpe's favor.

Thorpe's little professional baseball sprees down in the Carolinas never attracted much attention. The scouts evidently never saw him play, or never were impressed by his playing. A rejection by a big league scout is not always a gauge of a player's ability, for scouts make mistakes, and often pick the wrong player for their club owners.

Yet it is singular that Thorpe, whose Indian origin alone should have made him stand out conspicuous on his team, never received any publicity for his ball playing. His professional career is clouded in mystery.

He may not have played good enough ball to attract attention, or he may have covered up his movements, but it is difficult to understand how anybody playing star ball could conceal it, even in a small Carolina league. His performances would be sure to be passed along by word of mouth, if not in cold type.

The Carlisle Indian evidently isn't sure of the position in which he is best qualified to fill. When he signed his contract with New York he expressed the hope that he would be put on the pitching staff, but McGraw quickly cut in and said that he would be tried in the outfield. This can be said with a great deal of ease, but making good in either department is another question.

Doesn't Think Thorpe Will Last.

One major league infielder who has been in the fast set for years, frankly declares that Thorpe will not make good. He says:

"I don't think Thorpe will last with the Giants, because he hasn't had enough baseball training. Everybody who knows anything at all about baseball, knows that a player develops into a star solely by incessant practice and constant application. In his developing years, he cannot have his attention distracted by other sports. He has to live, think and sleep baseball, and nothing but baseball.

"In Thorpe's case, he devoted less time to baseball than any other sport. In the fall he played football, and in the winter, basket ball. In the spring months, when he should be practicing baseball, he was devoting all of his time to drill in different branches of track athletics.

"Spring baseball does a developing player more good than anything else, and Thorpe has never had it. He didn't play baseball until Carlisle classes closed, and then joined some small team and stalled along in any position that happened to be vacant."

It is a fact that baseball was dropped as a sport at Carlisle three years ago, which removed any chance in that time for Thorpe to play ball in the spring. In all of the spring months he has played lacrosse or competed with the track team.

But Thorpe is not an ordinary athlete. He is the greatest in the world, and proved it at Stockholm. He may be the exceptional wonder to become as good in baseball as he was in track athletics. He has become a star in many lines, and may add America's biggest sport to the list.

THE MODERN MAGNATE IS A THOROUGH PRESS AGENT

New York, March. 15.—Organized baseball is the fairest and squarest of all America's sports. But it is a show business, nevertheless. In its evolution it has gradually worked away from the true sporting sentiments which framed its destinies until now predominates a desire to please, with the mighty dollar prompting this interest, says a New York sport writer.

Yes, baseball is a show business, with all the frills of the show business, save the hippodroming feature. So far the powers have been able to guard against hippodroming by keeping the organization's ranks free from the contamination of ruthless promoters. Many of these have tried to break in. Some have succeeded. But it is to the credit of baseball that none was permitted to last very long.

If there had existed any doubt whatever as to the great stress modern magnates lay upon advertising this present season should have very definitely settled the point. There are any number of instances to point the way the wind is blowing. One does not have to stir out of the great metropolis to find any number of convincing examples.

The Chance Deal.

First and foremost there was the Frank Chance deal, through which Frank Farrell gained for his tail-end club not only one of the greatest leaders of all baseball time, but an ad that would have been cheap at double the price. I doubt if baseball moguls ever fully appreciated the value of a press agency before the Peerless Leader's name was first mentioned in connection with the New York Americans. The space devoted to the developments of this case by the metropolitan journals simply turned green with envy the club owners of rival cities.

Here was a club thot had finished a woebegone last behind a lot of teams that had very little class. It was a team that had loads of hard luck with which to contend in 1912, it is true, but fans looked to results, not alibis. The New York Americans had degenerated into something of a sad joke to everyone but Frank Farrell. It was no joke to him, who had put up the money without hope of immediate return. To add to Farrell's woes the rival Giants won a pennant and put up such a game fight against odds that they came out of the world's series with as much glory as, if less money than the Boston Red Sox.

Mr. Farrell opened the winter season under a serious handicap. The Giants drew the spread heads, the Highlanders the agate notes. And then one morning the news leaked out that American league powers were angling for Frank Chance. Probably unknowingly Frank Farrell had pulled the greatest advertising coup of baseball history. Everyone, all over the country, went to the story. The more it was discussed the better its advertising possibilities grew. Speculation was rife. Could the American league secure the waiver consent of National league club presidents? Would Murphy stand in the way? Would Chance really come to New York if he had the opportunity? Was he wrong in the head, as Murphy insinuated? And a thousand other inquiries. These were thrashed out at length to the exclusion of all else. Why, the champion Giants in no time were playing second fiddle.

Played Into His Hands.

Conditions played right into Farrell's hands all the way. Charles W. Murphy had framed a dramatic situation by the manner in which he disposed of Frank Chance. The country was with the peerless leader and opposed to the autocratic Cub president. Murphy had jumped on Chance in a very unsportsmanlike manner. He had struck, while the man who brought him four pennants and two world's championships in seven years and never finished lower than third, was down—while he was confined to a hospital cot as the result of a serious operation. And finally when Chance did agree to meet Farrell there was a wheeze of publicity that never once ended until the peerless leader arrived from the coast to take the local helm. In fact, the buzz hasn't subsided yet; nor is it likely to until Chance has had every opportunity to vindicate his managerial abilities in Ban Johnson's circuit.

In connection with this same Chance deal it may be mentioned in passing that what appeared the first real break in luck seemed to have started the way of Frank Farrell. Before Frank Chance was secured the hilltop president effected an agreement with President Hempstead of the Giants to utilize the Polo grounds for all local American league games this season. It was, therefore, a rather disappointing draught for the Giant management to see the rival getting so much boosting when the two clubs would share the same ground. So McGraw bided his time in anticipation of some counter.

The opportunity came with the professionalizing of Jim Thorpe, the wonderful Carlisle Indian school star and hero of the Olympic games. McGraw sneaked in while several big league scouts were napping at the tepee of Glen Warner and secured this wonderful athlete for the Giants. Now, while he will not admit it, there is little doubt that McGraw at first figured seriously on the Indian's baseball ability. He may have, of course. But it is more than likely that Mac realized the advertising value of Thorpe. Here was a man in whom the whole world was interested. Whether or not he might be able to play or develop in the game, he was a great drawing card to begin with, as great, if not greater, than any star of the diamond. McGraw realized that in the first swing around the circuit he would have attracted through Thorpe more than enough money to pay all the expenses of securing him. And, in addition, he was getting a perfect type of physical manhood, in which there lay latent possibilities that might pan. If Thorpe had not been professionalized McGraw would never have gone after him. Professionalized, he was advertised into one of the greatest possible drawing cards.

Chance for Thorpe.

Thorpe may become a great player, and if so McGraw will have as a result such an attraction as cannot be computed in dollars and cents. He may fail, and if so will be good for no more than one season. Chance, of course, is going to be a big card for years to come, if he has left none of his managerial abilities with C. W. Murphy. Wherefore McGraw did not feel like resting on his oars after he corralled the aborigine. He had other tricks up his sleeve.

One of these was the engagement of a club dentist. Dr. Pirs, a tooth carpenter of Pittsburg, has gone to Marlin with the athletes, and while there will put the teeth of every member in perfect condition. Already Dr. Pirs has created a sensation. It is likely that all the other major league clubs will have to fall into line sooner or later. Dentistry in spring training is a new wrinkle, but a commendable one, no doubt. Still McGraw could have had the work done at home just as well. That wouldn't have been much of an ad, though.

Charlie Ebbets has his new ball park because he realized that it would be a great ad. Ebbets surmounted all manner of obstacles to have his new park ready for an opening this spring. And his enterprise was rewarded at the recent schedule meeting of the major leagues in this city. For the first time in history major leagues agreed to modify their schedules and grant a special opening day to a club—allow one town to open the season a day ahead of the rest. Ebbets was granted this privilege because it was realized that he would have a tough time attracting a capacity house were he forced to bid for patronage against Frank Chance, a debut at the Polo grounds.

It pays to advertise. The major leagues are waking up to the fact.

R. BRADLEY AND WALSH IN FINALS

Crack Rinks Will Meet for First Place in the Universal Event.

Ralph Bradley went into the finals of the Universal last evening through the defeat of Fregeau by the score of 13 to 12, while Jim Walsh also went into the finals of the same event through the defeat of Schiller by the score of 15 to 12.

It is probable that the final game in this event will be played off this evening. The final in The Herald, bringing Jones and Dinham together, may also be contested this evening.

If the finals of the four remaining events are not completed tonight the regular trophy play of the season will be completed on Monday evening.

At the Lyceum

"Broadway Jones," the new comedy from the pen of George M. Cohan, which is now the distinct success of the present season in New York city, will come to the Lyceum next Friday and Saturday, matinee and night. The play tells the story of a young man, "Broadway" Jones, who, in his endeavor to "burn up Broadway," finds himself penniless and heavily in debt. He is popularly supposed to be immensely wealthy, and in his desperation he engages himself to a rich widow, old enough to be his mother. Just as things look blackest for him and he is preparing to submit to his fate, a wealthy uncle dies, leaving "Broadway" Jones heir to a chewing gum factory in Jonesville, Conn. His first thought is to dispose of his property for anything it will bring, and to make his good fortune even better, he receives a splendid offer from the chewing gum trust, which wants the factory out of the way. He goes to Jonesville to have a look at his property, and there meets his fate in the pretty bookkeeper of the chewing gum factory, who was also his uncle's private secretary. She persuades him to retain the factory and conduct it himself, as the trust proposes to wreck the factory if it obtains possession of it, which would throw a large number of men out of work, as it is the principal industry in the little Connecticut town. Jones listens to the girl's pleadings and does not dispose of the factory. He runs it himself, and aided by the girl's advice, makes a fortune from his inheritance. The girl proves to be "the only one," and "Broadway" Jones wins her for his wife. The play is full of good, clean comedy and sparkling fun. It is free from slang, and is told in the breezy Cohan style found only in a play from the pen of this brilliant young author.

The cast that will present "Broadway Jones" in this city includes John Webster, Ralph Morgan, George Schaefer, Caroline Lill, George C. Staley, Daniel Burns, Jack Pierce, Marie Taylor, Edith Lucket, Grace Morrissey, Charles H. Henderson and others.

Real interest is being evidenced by music lovers in the forthcoming engagement of the Berlin musical comedy, "A Modern Eve," which Mort H. Singer will present at the Lyceum Easter Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The delightful music of Victor Hollaender and Jean Gilbert, composers of the music of "A Modern Eve," already enjoys a widespread vogue. Mr. Singer is credited with the greatest success in his producing career in this musical offering, which was produced last April in St. Louis, taken into Chicago immediately after, where it sprang into unprecedented favor. Its twenty-six weeks' run of sustained capacity business speaks volumes for its merits. The producer has been liberally complimented for his elaborate staging of the Berlin musical comedy, and it is pronounced the last thing in costuming and scenic environment. The scenes of the play are laid in France, and the story centers about the Cascadier family, consisting of father, mother and two charming daughters. While advocating sex equality, the mother assumes sex superiority, and dominates the household. The husband and father is in reality the housekeeper, while Mme. Cascadier practices law and attends her clubs. The two daughters are also engaged in professional pursuits, one as a physician, the other as an artist. They are to be independent of men and above silly love affairs. But two ardent and desirable suitors complicate matters, finally routing the forceful mother and compelling the daughters to capitulate to love. Among the most attractive numbers to be heard are "Goodbye Everybody," now famous all over the country; "You're Such a Lonesome Moon Tonight," "Is the Girl You Married Still the Girl You Love?," "Rita, My Margarita," "Hello, Sweetheart," and "Every Day Is Christmas When You're Married." Heading the large cast of principals is the clever comedian, Alexander Clark, who has scored a great hit as the henpecked husband. Others in the cast are Marion Roddy, Arline Bolling, Henrietta Tedro, Florence Bain, Louis Kelso, Ray Raymond, Harry Dickeson, and John Patton. The famous "Modern Eve" beauty chorus figures in the many song numbers and novel features.

A beautiful stage story of primitive love that is most appealing, enhanced by a wealth of scenic embellishment, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" enables one to realize the truth of things as they are among a people born and bred within the fastness of the Virginia hills. When most men are in love they invariably wear their hearts on their sleeves and feel eager to have the woman they love see how it throbs for them. Not so with Jack Hale, in Eugene Walter's dramatization of John Fox, Jr.'s, story of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." Hale represses his love for June, the primitive moonshiner's daughter, and permits her to reveal slowly the wealth of her own great affection simply, but with great sweetness and frankness.

It is said to be a play of the heart, far-reaching and outstanding beyond all other known stage love stries.

Adelaide Thurston's annual tour is an event which theater-goers await with keen interest. Perhaps no other woman, with the exception of Maude Adams, has such a devoted following of women and girls, many of whom stand reverently at the stage door to see their idol emerge. It is with pleasure that Manager Marshall of the Lyceum theater announces the booking for March 31 and April 1 and 2 of Duluth's distinguished actress in her latest vehicle "The Love Affair," written especially for Miss Thurston by Frederick Paulding and in the role of Mary Lane, alias Mary Bishop, "Our Adelaide" is said to have a congenial part fitted for her versatility as an actress. Manager Francis X. Hope has engaged a notable cast of players including W. A. Whitecar, Edwin Walter, Sara Enright, Mary Davis, Edward Delaney, Grahame Earl, Olive Artelle and Edwin Burke. The production is an elaborate one. Miss Thurston returns to Duluth direct from a triumphant trans-continental tour, scoring the hit of her career in this her latest play.

At the Orpheum

Everybody who has ever known a dog has known one who "understands every word you say," but Don who will be the headline attraction at the Orpheum this week is probably the only dog in the world who speak a modern language.

And Don has chosen the most difficult of modern langauges to let his wishes be known. When Don wishes cake instead of expressing himself in that reasonably simple way he chooses to say "Kuchen" but it is not surprising for Don was born and spent his uneventful puppyhood in the kaiser's realm. Don is the property, and a very valuable property too, of Mr. and Mrs C. Haberland of Hamburg, Germany. He was born in a village near the Black Forest where Mrs. Haberland's father was game warden. When Don was 6 months old his master noticed that when hungry he went to the kitchen and barked a noise that sounded like "Kuchen." He proved his ability beyond peradventure of a doubt and from that time Don's training began. In a short time he would bark many of the words in ordinary conversation.

The dog is the first quadruped to speak what approximates a modern language and he is of course the center of great interest. His life is insured for $50,000, but aside from this one marvelous development he is much like the ordinary dog, affectionate, lovable, devoted and in addition has proved a bread and cake winner of no mean ability. Miss Martha Haberland travels with Don and displays his tricks during the act. She never lets the precious animal out of her sight. Besides providing most interesting entertainment for thousands of theater goers Don has been the center of much scientific interest and inspection.

Caesar Rivoli changes his clothes more quickly than the average woman can change her mind and that is some action if tradition anywhere near approaches correctness in regard to the rapidity with which woman can alter her opinion. But at that it is none too rapid for Rivoli. In his playlet "A Scandal in a Restaurant," he plays seven different roles, each widely contrasted to the others and requires not only a complete change of makeup and costuming but also a wide versatility in their presentation. Following his protean sketch Rivoli assumes the orchestra leader's post and conducts in the manner and appearance of many celebrated conductors and composers.

The act next in importance on the bill will be "The Letter From Home," the most recent playlet of John Stokes'. Mr. Stokes has been the author of many successful vaudeville playlets, and in this instance he is said to have succeeded in writing a clever mixture of pathos and comedy, with a sharp contrast between the two characters involved. There are but two men in the sketch and the parts are taken by Thomas P. Jackson and Bernard Cavanaugh. The two characters are a pessimist and an optimist, and the contrast of their two viewpoints is said to be decidedly amusing. The story of the playlet has to do with the domestic difficulties which threaten to ruin the pessimist's life. The optimist applies the soothing treatment of his belief with gratifying results. The little playlet has been described by critics as "A page from life's note book."

Charles and Adelaide Wilson, experienced and well-known vaudeville performers, will be at the Duluth Orpheum next week with a sketch called "The Messenger, the Maid and the Violin." The act is a most happily combined hodge-podge of melody and merriment. The violin numbers are a great delight and a capable comedian adds to the entertainment and amusement of the act.

"The Girl at the Piano" next week is Elizabeth Otto, an American girl who in her training and experience has combined the popular in music with the work of mater composers in a manner to satisfy vaudeville audiences most completely. Her playing has proved immensely popular on the Orpheum circuit and her playing of the Mendelssohn's Melody in F has given especial delight. Miss Otto has studied at the best known conservatories of the country.

Work and Play as the names of the two members of an acrobatic team seem almost too good to be true, but Frank Work and Jewell Play insist that they were born with these surnames. However that may be the name is at least in part very apropos but the skill that they display has taken much work to acquire and their pleasure in doing it is as good as play. Work and Play are good all-around athletes and truly representative tumblers.

Delmar and Delmar European novelty acrobats will complete the bill for the week. This team introduces in its act some truly marvelous acts of acrobatics.

The motion pictures, with the always interesting current world events and the orchestra numbers by the Orpheum concert orchestra, will complete the bill for the week, which will be presented at this matinee tomorrow afternoon and will be repeated every afternoon and evening during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Denver are on the program presenting what they call the "craziest act in vaudeville." It is a real farce, and one of accelerated dash and spirit, together with eddying complications until the audience almost feels itself plunging headlong into hysterics," says a St. Paul critic. "Laugh, that's all you do. Mrs. Denver is a clever woman and it is wonderful how she can jump and twist and go through very difficult contortions without falling apart. She could easily be termed 'The Human Corkscrew.' The name of the funny skit is 'The Elocution Bug' and it is very appropriate."

The Twin City Trio will give a few surprises in the way of entertaining. They make a first rate singing organization. They all have good voices, both for solos and ensemble numbers. Also they work with a snap and vigor that is too seldom observed in straight singing acts. The latest and most

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

The Shuberts and William A. Brady will give an all-star production of Carl Millocker's famous comic opera, "The Beggar Student," this spring. The production will be given by the Gilbert & Sullivan Opera company.

The leading players for "The Beggar Student" will be Kate Congdon, as Countess Palmatica; Blanche Duffield, as Laura; Anna Wheaton, as Bronislawa; De Wolf Hopper, as Gen. Ollendorf; Viola Gillette, as Lieut. Poppenburg; Arthur Cunningham, as Maj. Holzhoff; Louise Bartel, as Eva; Arthur Aldridge, as Janitsky, and George MacFarlane, in the title role.

"The Beggar Student" was first produced about twenty-five years ago in Berlin and immediately scored an overwhelming success. After the initial success in Berlin the piece had successive productions in all the leading cities of Germany, Austria, France and England. The first American production was at the Thalia theater, under the management of Gustav Amberg, with Marie Geistinger in the title role. The first production in English was given by the McCaul Opera company at the Casino theater on Oct. 6, 1885.

Francis Wilson's new comedy, "The Spiritualist," was tried out in Atlantic City last week, under the management of John Cort. Wilson appears in the role of Stephen Atwell, a man who suddenly discovers he possesses mediumistic powers. Try as he will Atwell cannot shake off his unsought ability to create disturbing contests with the spirits. The more he rebels against the spirits the more they punish him until he is finally frightened into submission. The play is in three acts, the scenes all being laid in New York. Cort will give the play its New York premiere Easter Monday.

"Children of Today," which was produced by Cohan and Harris at Baltimore, is to be kept out of New York until autumn and will present the comedy there on Easter Monday. The piece will close for a week for slight revision and more rehearsal. "Children of Today" was written by Clara Lipman and Samuel Shipman. It deals with the lax way in which American boys and girls are raised and the resulting serious consequences.

Victor Herbert's new operatta, in which Christie MacDonald is to star, is to be called "Sweethearts." The initial performance will take place in Baltimore during Easter week.

SERVICE CLUBS ARE EXCLUSIVE

Royal Flying Corps of British Army May Lose Services of Ablest Aviators---Auxiliary Motor Boat Reserve Is Proposed.

London, March 15.—The efficiency of the royal flying corps of the British army is seriously threatened because of the exclusiveness of certain English service clubs, and unless the clubs recede from their position, the corps bids fair to be deprived of the services of some of the most able aviators in England. The corps needs flyers, and to get them has had to take in civilians and give them the rank of officers. This new rank permits the civilian to join clubs previously open to army officers only, and it is to this condition the clubs object. The newly created officers insist on their rights, and the clubs declare they will resist the invasion.

The royal flying corps will possess a total of one hundred aeroplanes by the end of next month. This total will include the machines purchased by the war office and the admiralty at the aero show; the twenty-four machines of the army type now being delivered by outside constructors, and the machines actually in use at the central flying school on Salisbury plain, and the royal aircraft factory at Farnborough.

With this number of machines soon in hand the question of personnel has again become a problem. There are not enough men in the army and navy with sufficient knowledge and experience of aeronautics to man these craft, and so the corps had to go outside for civilian flyers and give them army rank. The friction with the clubs is particularly acute on account of some men who had previously been denied admission, but who now, with their rank, come knocking at the door with a demand for admission that they say the clubs cannot possibly refuse.

Motor Boat Auxiliary.

The admiralty is inquiring of motor boat owners round the coast whether they would be prepared to form an auxiliary motor boat reserve for service during war. It is pointed out that there are many ways in which motor boats could serve as auxiliaries to the fleet. They would be extremely valuable for scouting and for carrying messages. The authorities are now in communication with the leading motor boat clubs, and it is expected that some scheme for carrying out the idea will soon be arranged.

Feminine Criticism.

Harvey Stapleton's pride in the possession of a gold medal presented to him by the ten grateful bridegrooms whom he has served as best man, has received a rude jar since the presentation was made public, on account of an avalanche of feminine criticism.

One woman avers that while Mr. Stapleton may have established a record, he has not made himself an ideal. She declares with scorn that the medal winner should have been given a leather instead of a gold medal, and continuing she says: "Fancy a man going about for years like that, taking part in other people's weddings and never having one of his own. Fancy a man going about for years singing, 'The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden,' and then being content to go on living in lodgings, untouched by the romance and poetry of it all. I should think the presence of such a person would cast a gloom over any wedding. I am sure I do not see how any girl could expect her best friends to be bridesmaids, when there was to be an undertaker like that for best man."

Dinner By Queen Alexandra.

Queen Alexandra gave a dinner March 7 at Marlborough house to all the members of the royal family in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of her arrival in England to become the wife of the then Prince of Wales.

As a bride Princess Alexandra left her native land, the first Danish princess to do so for such a purpose for a century, on the last day of February, 1863, and at daylight on March 7 reaohed British waters. After paying visits to Margate, Sheerness and Southend she landed at Gravesend and took the train for London where a tremendous welcome awaited her.

The wedding to the prince was celebrated in St. George's chapel, Windsor castle, and was followed by general celebrations in every city and town of the country.

Big Salary for Milliner.

Since a recent court action revealed the fact that a certain London woman milliner has been receiving a salary of $4,000 a year, considered a very large income for a woman worker in this country, the heads of various millinery firms in the West end have been busy explaining that such salaries are very exceptional in the trade. Numberless women, attracted by the high pay, brought forward their qualifications to draw $80 a week for designing hats, but the milliners said categorically they had room for them.

This $4,000 a year creator of becoming headgear is adept in the designing of new shapes and in the blending of soft materials of exquisite coloring. She and her colleagues never take a needle into their hands, leaving the actual work to lower paid assistants. They are born artists in their line, and if their work is crowned with success they may eventually attain an income of from $8,000 to $10,000 a year. This is the pay of the London top-notchers in the millinery line, but in Paris the profession is more remunerative. The head designer of a Paris firm of hat makers, a young and accomplished widow, draws a salary of $20,000 a year.

ROGER SHERMAN MUNGER.

To none of her citizens could Duluth have better applied the title of "Grand Old Man" than to Roger Sherman Munger. No other man will live longer than he in the memories of all who hold in high regard such qualities as high integrity, stainless honor and enthusiastic optimism.

It is no small thing to be remembered as one who did for others and for the community in which he lived. And it is such tribute as this that the people of Duluth today pay to the memory of the man who was a large personal factor in establishing this city as a center of commerce, a manufacturing city, and a shipping place second to none on the whole chain of the Great Lakes.

Mr. Munger's work in and for Duluth needs no embellishment of words. As much as it can be said of any one man, it must be said of him that he laid the foundations for Duluth's growth and present prosperity. He clearly foresaw possibilities that to others appeared but as indefinite hopes. He wrought where others dreamed. And he was a leader when others feared to assume the responsibility of leadership.

No project that had for its object the betterment of Duluth was compelled to go begging for his support. His personality and character gave force and effectiveness to plans that must otherwise have died in their conception. His personal resources were always at the command of the needs of the community and those about him. And for all that he did he sought and accepted no other thanks or recognition than that which came to him spontaneously as a fellow-citizen. His public life was but a projection of the life he led within his own home. Only once did he take public office at the hands of the people, and that was when, in the late 90's, he held for one term the position of register of deeds. With the end of that term he laid down the responsibilities that had so long marked his work, and retired to watch from one side the wonderful fruits of his earlier endeavors.

Of the personality of Mr. Munger little need be said, for he was a man such as needs no eulogy beyond that naturally inspired in the minds and hearts of others by their knowledge of him. His thought for others was perhaps his most distinctive characteristic. None who appealed to him for help that it was in his power to give ever went away without receiving that help to the last limit of his power. Friendship, to him, was a sacred word, but no more so than humanity, and his sympathy was as broad as the circle of those who could make personal appeals to him.

Mr. Munger has gone to that other life of which we know so little. But he has left a rich heritage in the memory of a life well spent and an example that is an inspiration to others. He was in truth a builder of the city, but he was also a builder of character, and his personal influence goes side by side with the material evidence of his foresight and effort.

Oh—you—groundhog!

GIVE MERICA A FAIR CHANCE.

There seems to be some kind of misunderstanding growing up about the management of the school for boys at Red Wing. Dr. Merica, the new head of the institution, was quoted recently as saying something to the effect that he objected to staying in a place where he was not allowed to use his own discretion in his work. His words were taken to mean that he was being hindered in the conduct of the Red Wing school, and that he might even go so far as to seek some other place for his efforts.

Whatever the difficulties over the Rel Wing school may be, and their nature has not become general knowledge, Dr. Merica should be given a fair chance to work out his plan there. He took the superintendency at a time when conditions in the school were declared bad; when insubordination among the boys was alleged, and when a strong hand seemed to be needed to bring order where disorder had been bred by outside attacks on the authority of the head.

In the few months that Dr. Merica has been in charge of the Red Wing school all reports of insubordination and ill treatment have ceased. Some striking examples of the nature and results of his administration were furnished the state at Thanksgiving and Christmas times, when several groups of the boys were paroled over the holidays and all returned to the school after those few days with their families. That is a record that never could have been made under a bad administration.

Now comes a dispatch from Red Wing that reports nearly 100 boys placed on parole since Dr. Merica took charge there; the present number of occupants of the school as 190, compared with 280 when Dr. Merica took charge; and a larger number of boys paroled, fewer returned to the institution and fewer runaways or attempted runaways under his regime than in any other year in the history of the school.

This can mean but one thing, apparently, and that is that the school, under his direction is accomplishing what it was established to accomplish. It was not meant as a place of extended incarceration, but one in which the boys should be taught manliness and good citizenship. That these things are being taught is evidenced by the success of the parole system under him, and the diminishing tendency to run away from the school argues that there is no ill treatment of the inmates.

Dr. Merica seems to be making good as head of the school. He ought to be given as free a hand as possible to develop his plans, not only as a matter of justice to himself, but for the good of the state and the lads who chance to be sent to Red Wing for correction.

It's about time to open books on the price of coal for next season.

BATTLESHIPS—AND OTHERS.

Many and bitter attacks are being made on the Democrats in congress for their curtailment of the naval construction program outlined by the Republican members. Most of these attacks, naturally, have come from the Republican members and the Republican press. Among the people themselves, who have to pay a few cents more a pound on every article of daily necessity in order to carry out such programs, it is hard to stir up any enthusiasm in favor of spending twenty or thirty million dollars extra in naval construction that we do not need.

Those who are crying out against a curtailment of our naval construction have but one argument—that we are falling behind other nations in the matter of naval increase. England and Germany are the powers to which they point with greatest fear. They shriek out that in 1912 the United Kingdom built warships of a total tonnage of 191,737 tons, and Germany was second with a total of 102,425 tons, while the United States made a poor third with a total of but 65,273 tons.

But there is another side to the shipbuilding business that these alarmists never mention. There are other things that float, besides warships, and there are other means of measuring national power and importance than by numbering their fighting craft. A nation is marked as much by its commerce as by its fighting power; as much by its strength in peace as by its ability to annihilate other peoples. So let us see how the United States compares in merchant ship construction with these nations which we are being told are menacing our national existence by their naval growth.

In 1912 the United Kingdom constructed merchant vessels of a total tonnage of 1,738,512 tons; Germany built merchant vessels of a total of 375,317 tons, and the United States construction of this character amounted to only 284,223 tons. We are third again, and being beaten to a fare-ye-well in the realm of peace as well as in the realm of war. Moreover, a goodly proportion of the American tonnage was for interior commerce, or that of the Great Lakes, and ought not to be reckoned with that which will go to build up our commercial interests abroad.

But do these calamity howlers think of that? Never for a moment. If they did they would have to admit the absurdity of preparing for a war that may not come and failing to fit ourselves for better accomplishments in a peace that is already here.

What we need in this country is a bigger merchant fleet, that will support itself, not a bigger war fleet that the poorest, most helpless laborer must help to support every time he buys food for himself or his children. And the way to get a bigger merchant fleet is to take the tariff off the materials that go into shipbuilding, and revise our present idiotic maritime rules and laws.

Turn the attention of the calamity howlers to these things a moment and watch them slink out of sight. For this is a form of progress that is in the interests of all the people, not those alone who are the beneficiaries of special privilege. And what is more, this is a form of progress that hits at the sacred graft popularly known as the tariff. That is why it is not in favor with the calamity-howlers.

But it is a matter that deserves attention, for all that. And it must receive attention before the United States can attain to its proper place in the commerce of the world. Give us an ample peace fleet and we will then be in better position to think of and take care of our needs in the way of battleships and other life-and-property-destroying engines of war.

A dictionary of mediaeval Latin is the latest threat of the publishers. It does seem as if the baseball writers are capable of puzzling us enough without giving them this kind of help.

REAPPORTIONMENT WINS.

Unless all the signs fail Minnesota will have what she has been trying to get for so many years—reapportionment.

In the form in which the bill passed the senate yesterday there is an increase in both branches of the legislature. It gives the senate 67 members as against 63 in the present body, and it gives the house 130 members as against 120 in the present house. The house bill made some increases in the memberships, but they were not so extensive as this. The terms now included in the bill were made to insure support on the part of some of the Southern Minnesota members, and it appears that there would have been little or no chance of passing the bill had the additional members not been conceded.

The measure must now either be accepted by the house as it stands or go to conference, where an effort will be made to harmonize the opinions of the house and senate into a bill on which both will agree. This, it is expected, will not be difficult, for the house seems determined to grant reapportionment and the senate is willing to grant it on the conditions laid down in the bill passed yesterday.

It is undeniable that the senate bill is not entirely satisfactory. It is a compromise between the demand for just reapportionment and the fear of some of the members that they will lose their jobs. But it seems to be the best plan that can be put through the legislature, and it is better than to have the present 16-year-old injustice continue. So let us hope the house will accept the amended bill, or the conferees will agree, both houses approve that agreement, and that we will get the representation back on something like a fair basis once more.

There's many a slip twixt the seed catalogue and the table.

NEW HAMPSHIRE HELPS.

New Hampshire has done the nation a good turn by sending a Democrat to the United States senate. The election of Henry F. Hollis from the Granite State gives the Democrats a membership of 50 in that house, against the Republicans' 42 and the Bull Moosers' 2. It also makes more certain the Democratic majority in the senate, for even if all the senators yet to be chosen were to turn out Republicans, there would still be a clear majority of Democrats, and this will operate to insure the safety of distinctly Democratic policies at the hands of the government.

President Wilson is being treated kindly by the states, for they have given him a congress of the same political tenets as himself, and this election in New Hampshire adds another Wilson Democrat to the senate. The fight in the legislature there was long and hard, the deadlock over the senatorship lasting through thirty-eight ballots. Mr. Hollis was the choice of the Wilson forces for the place, and his election was approved by the president himself.

New Hampshire has helped along the work President Wilson is planning in behalf of the country. It will be gratifying if Illinois will follow suit.

Register today. It's your last chance before the city election.

THE OPPOSITION TO NEILL.

Little patience will be felt throughout the country with the opposition to the reappointment of Charles P. Neill as commissioner of labor satistics.

Some of the Southern members of congress are making strenuous efforts to prevent the ratification of his nomination, and are basing their opposition on the nature of his report on the Southern cotton mills. They charge that that report was mischievous in its nature, because it showed up the employment of child labor and the conditions under which women and children were obliged to work.

The Southern men are raising the most potent possible argument in favor of Mr. Neill's retention as commissioner. If half the things he reported about those southern mills were true—and there has been nothing to show that they were not all true—his report was one of the best pieces of work ever done by a government bureau in connection with labor in this country. He pointed out violations of every principle of humanity, violations that nobody with a spark of manhood could defend, and that in fact found few defenders.

Why, then, is his having rendered this service to the country made the basis of opposition to his reappointment? Merely because he trod hard on the toes of some of the Southern financial interests. That is the great crime, in the eyes of too many of our public men. They do not care how far reforms go if only they do not touch the money interests. Therefore when a man has done good work they protest against his being allowed to continue it, if by any chance he has pointed out something to the everlasting disgrace of those interests and the men who control them.

That is the only charge against Commissioner Neill—that he has done his work too well to suit the men he hit in his report, the men who needed hitting. That is no sound basis for refusing to confirm his reappointment, and the senate should refuse to accept it as a reason.

Mexico seems to have a monopoly on revolutions on this continent just at present. At least, the more southern republics have been unusually quiet since the trouble broke out there.

MURDER AND "ACCIDENTS".

If a man goes into a public place with a six-shooter in his hand and fires about him indiscriminately and kills somebody, he is declared a murderer and there is hardly a jury to be found that would not consign him to the extreme penalty as such.

Even if the man precedes his shooting escapade by filling his stomach and brain with stuff that robs him of sense, and so makes the later action possible or even probable, he is hardly likely to get off scot free.

But if a man, when he is drunk, lunges recklessly about the streets with a piece of machinery that he is incapable of controlling, and kills somebody in the process, he is not blameworthy, and should be allowed to go and do the same thing again if he wants to.

At least, that last is the lesson taught by a New York jury that acquitted of all guilt one Leon Gerard, who had been arrested just because he got drunk and ran down and killed a woman with his automobile.

Apparently the jury considered that Gerard was in fact the unfortunate survivor of an accident, instead of being a murderer. And that raises the question, what is an accident? The dictionary says it is an unforeseen and uncontemplated act. Perhaps according to this definition the jury was right. But how about the drunkenness? That was not an accident. It never is. It is to be expected that if a man drinks he will get drunk. And when he does that he ought to be held accountable for the acts he commits while in that state.

As long as voluntary irresponsibility is accepted as an excuse for accidents of this kind, there will be repetitions of the act. Not until we come to recognize and enforce that principle will men of such a character as Gerard come to respect themselves and others enough to be decently cautious. And the only way to make them decently cautious is to hold them responsible for their deeds when they are drunk just the same as if they were sober.

It is a law of the universe, natural as well as man-made, that he who takes chances must abide by the result. The man who drinks takes a chance of becoming drunk. Whatever irresponsibility he may develop in that condition is no accident; it is the natural result of a deliberate taking of chances.

Maybe that New York jury can square its decision with common sense and justice. That doesn't seem possible, but maybe it can. The judge told the jurors pretty plainly what he thought of them, and there can be no question that his expressed opinion of contempt coincides with the unexpressed opinions of a majority of the people. Next time a jury gets a case of that kind, it should know better than to bring in any such verdict as was returned in the Gerard case.

President Wilson transacts his official business in a gray suit. Put this in juxtaposition with the feeling of bad big business and we get that familiar old combination—the blue and the gray.

Duluth the Outlet

Fargo Forum: Duluth has started a publicity campaign for the purpose of getting the Northwest fully awake to the importance of that city as the natural outlet for the crops of this section of the great breadbasket of the world and as the inlet for those commodities that must be received from the world at large. Fargo and North Dakota should be interested in this campaign if for no other reason than that it helps to build up a strong competing market for the crops of the Flickertail State.

Were it not for Duluth the Twin Cities would dominate this section of the world absolutely. There is much complaint now from farmers and other shippers that they have to bow to the will of the Twin City markets, but were it not for Duluth, with its ever-growing competition the yoke would be even heavier.

Fargo is almost directly west of Duluth, and from a glance at the map any person not familiar with the market conditions of the Northwest would suppose that the natural way for the grain crop to get to the world would be through the port at the Head of the Lakes. Some day there will be a direct railroad line from Fargo to the Zenith City and the bulk of the crops of the state will take this natural outlet. The sooner that day comes the better for Fargo and North Dakota and for that reason the people of this city should be keenly interested in the building up of Duluth.

Appropriate.

Northwestern Chronicle: The annals of unconscious pulpit humor will be enriched by an instance furnished some little time ago at an English Protestant church. A lady's watch had been found in the churchyard, and the vicar, in making his usual weekly announcement from the pulpit, referring to the find, stated that the watch could be claimed in the vestry. The next announcement was: "We will sing hymn No. 362: 'Lord, Her Watch Thy Church Is Keeping.'"

To a Water Fowl.

Whither, midst falling dew,
While glow the heavens with the last steps of day,
Far, through their rosy depths, dost thou pursue
Thy solitary way?

Vainly the fowler's eye
Might mark thy distant flight to do thee wrong,
As, darkly painted on the crimson sky,
Thy figure floats along.

Seek'st thou the plashy brink
Of weedy lake, or marge of river wide,
Or where the rocking billows rise and sink
On the chafed ocean side?

There is a Power whose care
Teaches thy way along that pathless coast—
That desert and illimitable air—
Lone wandering, but not lost.

All day thy wings have fanned,
At that far height, the cold, thin atmosphere,
Yet stoop not, weary, to the welcome land,
Though the dark night is near.

And soon that toil shall end;
Soon shalt thou find a summer home, and rest,
And scream among thy fellows; reeds shall bend
Soon o'er thy sheltered nest.

Thou'rt gone: the abyss of heaven
Hath swallowed up thy form; yet on my heart
Deeply hath sunk the lesson thou hast given,
And shall not soon depart.

He, who, from zone to zone,
Guides through the boundless sky thy certain flight,
In the long way that I must tread alone
Will lead my steps aright.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

OVERLOOKED A BET.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It's many months since I have written any letters to The Herald to help settle the affairs of the nation, but since these March blizzards have begun we have plenty of time to sit with our feet on the kitchen range and ruminate.

Mr. Editor, have you been reading these platforms of candidates? Do you know that it seems to me that what the candidates need instead of votes and salaries are some halos and harps. Most of the candidates believe in a bigger and better Duluth, the uplifting of the city, the enforcing of the laws and ordinances, more industries for the city, better train service to the coast, the suppression of the Balkan war, the enforcement of peace in Mexico, the abolition of the Congo Free State atrocities, votes for women, the Apostles' Creed, the resurrection of the saints, everlasting life, the laws of Moses, the Ten Commandments, and public ownership of everything from the street railway to the Alworth building.

I ask you, Mr. Editor, with tears in my eyes, "why, oh why, have they neglected to commit themselves definitely on whether or not Mrs. Woodrow Wilson should spent more than $1,000 a year on clothes?" Here is a great and burning question that is vital to the future welfare of Duluth, but it has been entirely overlooked as a campaign issue. Mr. Editor, if a Lakeside woman spent $1,000 a year on clothes, this smiling, prosperous suburb would be rent asunder. Neighbor would be arrayed against neighbor; husband against wife. It is too great a subject to be ignored; too vital to pass over unmentioned. Hence I emerge from oblivion to ask, "Why?" Again, Mr. Editor, I ask, "Why?" and echo answers, "Why?" Your old friend and admirer.

A LAKESIDER.

Strange Uses for Gold.

Tit Bits: Curious and interesting facts regarding India's passion for gold, and the strange uses to which the natives put the precious metal, are contained in a report issued by the great bullion merchants, Messrs. Samuel Montagu & Co. After mentioning the fact that last year India imported gold bars worth £47,135,000, as well as £18,342,000 in sovereigns, Messrs. Montagu state that, as a contrast to the savings of France, which are utilized to promote trade, those of India are buried or hoarded. "At present nearly all the gold dug from the earth in South Africa is by a fresh digging operation deposited again beneath the soil in South Asia.

In India gold is put to uses unusual among nations of the West. Consumption of gold does not imply in England the actual swallowing of extremely thin gold leaves for medicinal purposes, though it is so taken in parts of India. A frequent form of piety is to regild the domes of religious buildings; such operations can easily absorb £10,000 or more. Sovereigns with a shield on the obverse are in constant request. A rajah of rococo tastes imported some thousands to form a center to each minute pane in the windows of his palace."

India occupies the position of a creditor nation on an immense scale, a fact which renders the size of its gold imports a matter of primary importance to the rest of the world. It seems assured that these imports last year were not only a fresh record, but will attain a total not less than 28 per cent of the world's output. This total, it is stated, is owing to the uninterrupted prosperity of the country, following a succession of good monsoons.

Get Ready for the Birds.

In the Open: This is the time to paint and erect bird boxes to attract the songsters in the coming spring. The houses should get thoroughly weather-aired and have the smell of the fresh paint blown away before the birds begin their northern migration.

The number of song and insectivorous birds that have remained with us this winter breaks all records. That peculiar sense which seems to foretell a mild winter evidently kept the birds informed as to prospects, and the woodpeckers, cardinals, nut-hatches, wrens, song-sparrows, meadow-larks and robins can be seen in numbers in all of their favorite haunts, in addition to the titmouse, the chickadee, winter wren and other species that are usually to be found here in normal winters.

There is no more fascinating way to pass a sunny winter afternoon than to take one's opera glass or binoculars and go to the nearest bird-haunt, there to sit down and observe the winter bird-life. This year the interest of the pursuit is magnified by the number of species to be found.

Life's Little Tragedies.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: He liked her. She was bright, well read, animated. He called at her home many times, and then a friend made a remark that set him thinking. Had he been absorbing this girl's attention in an unwarranted way?

He was not a marrying man, as the saying goes. He had no desire to give up the full measure of manly independence. Yet there was but one way in which to make amends.

He asked her to marry him.

She had been expecting this for a long time, but, womanlike, affected a sudden coy reluctance.

"My father depends upon me so much," she murmured. "I don't see how I can leave him."

"Oh, well," said the man briskly, "I'm not exactly a brute, and if you put it in that way, why, let's say no more about it."

And he never did.

Hatpin Protectors in Sweden.

New York Tribune: A woman in an electric car at Malmo, Sweden, was bending down to take up her baby, when her hatpin ran into the infant's eye, destroying the sight. Since the accident the Swedish authorities have issued an order that street car conductors are to be provided with hatpin protectors, made of rubber, which will be sold for a cent. Every woman whose hatpin is unprotected will have to buy a hatpin protector or leave the car.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Quest for Popularity.

Few of us, if honest confession were made, are superior to a craving for the regard of our fellows. As Charles Lamb once remarked, "How we all like to be liked!" Let him deny it as lustily as he may, the average man is sensitive to applause or to the lack of it. In proclaiming his indifference to it he may be but advertising his real heart hunger.

As a matter of fact a proportion of the people about us are coveting popularity about as eagerly as others covet houses or lands or bank notes. Some desire it for purely selfish reasons. To be liked is a source of complacent satisfaction. Others desire it because only in its sunshine can they do their best work, or indeed any work at all that is worth while. They are like flowers that will thrive only in gardens with a southern exposure.

It is probable that those who think about popularity at all think about it too much. As a direct object of quest it is apt to be an elusive and disappointing quantity. Like so many of the best gifts of life we gain it as a by-product of right living rather than as the main prize sought.

We make unreasonable demands on our fellowmen when we insist that they hail us with acclaim. A well-known critic has reminded us that the most anyone has a right to ask in this world is that he be tolerated. It would save many a heartache if so modest an expectation were generally cherished.

Strong souls learn to hold their course through life whichever way the wind is blowing. They travel toward the goal whether men give praise or withhold it. When it became known a few years ago that two brothers out in Dayton, Ohio, were trying to learn to fly the world scoffed and tapped its forehead significantly.

Later the brothers won and the world applauded. One of them went abroad to demonstrate the machine to the French government. The papers lauded him; high officials hobnobbed with him; enthusiastic women tried to kiss him; he was the hero of the hour.

But Wilbur Wright was as indifferent to the plaudits of the world as he had been earlier to its scoffing. Bouquets moved him no more than brickbats had done. The poise of his mind was as perfect as that of his flying machines.

Palm Sunday commemorates a day of triumph in the earthly life of our Lord. On that day he rode into Jerusalem in semblance of a king, while jubilant attendants cried, "Hosanna to the Son of David." It was the climax of Jesus' popularity.

But only a few days later the crowd—perhaps including some of the very enthusiasts of Palm Sunday—was saying, "Crucify him, crucify him." So veering and fickle are the winds of popular favor.

In the hours of praising and of reviling alike the Saviour's spirit was unruffled. He was not unduly exalted on the one hand nor unduly depressed on the other. The calm strength of his purpose carried him to the goal as the engine drives the ship through fair weather and through foul. He was lifted above dependence on human praise or blame.

After all it is more important to be popular with one's self than with the world. He who is true to the highest instincts of his own soul may safely dispense with much of what the world calls approval, finding life fed the while from hidden sources of joy and power that will carry him undaunted to his journey's end.

BRODIE MUST HAVE DESIGNS ON A SLOT MACHINE —By C. L. SHERMAN

ANDREW JOHNSON'S HABITS

By SAVOYARD

Washington, March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—When stupidity and ignorance herd together in the same mind, we may despise it, or pity it; but when intelligence is weighted down by error, and degraded by prejudice, it excites mingled contempt and anger. I was reading not long ago an article by a rather sprightly American writer in which he spoke of it as truthful and accepted history that President Andrew Johnson was a habitual drunkard, and rarely sober enough to transact even routine business during his entire tenure of the office of chief magistrate of the great American republic. That is cruel slander; but it is accepted as established fact by thousands of our citizens, most of whom give it credence because they wish it true, and not for the reason they know it true.

But man, proud man,
Most ignorant of what he's most assured,
His glassy essence, like an angry ape,
Plays such fantastic tricks before high heaven
As make the angels weep.

Of the entire membership of the house of representatives of the Fortieth congress that accused him, and of the entire membership of the senate of that congress that tried him, in the impeachment proceedings, there was not one single person who would have resumed loyal to the flag in 1861 if he had been placed in the environment that surrounded Andrew Johnson at that time. So much for patriotism—if you please to call it that—and so much for manhood, as all must call it.

History will do this man justice. His crime, if crime it be, was a lack of the patience with which Lincoln was so bountifully endowed, that stood him in such great stead, and without which even he would have failed in the mighty task fate set him to do. And Andrew Johnson was a tremendous personality, second to Lincoln, and to Lincoln only, of all those who upheld the Union cause of 1861-65.

It is difficult to muster tolerance of Fate that made the Regent Murray, brother, with bar-sinister, of the beautiful Mary, the greatest soldier and the greatest statesman Scotland ever produced, illegitimate. At the bier of John Knox he pronounced this eulogy: "Here lies a man who never feared to look on the face of man." And Andrew Johnson was cast in the same mold. On one occasion, after he left the presidency, he addressed a large and hostile concourse in Tennessee. There were threatenings and turbulence, when a firearm was discharged as he was speaking. With the mien of John Kemble in the role of Coriolanus, haughty and defiant, and with appropriate gestures, he calmly said: "These eyes have yet to look on the face of that man this heart fears." Every enemy paused. He extorted respect from all, and he, the ex-president, in some respects the greatest popular orator the country ever produced, took that crowd captive and swayed it to his will. I once heard Preston H. Leslie, governor of Kentucky, who practiced law for many years in Tennessee, say that no man who worked with his hands and ate bread in the sweat of his face, could hear Andrew Johnson on the stump and depart with any other thought than that that man was his friend. That is eloquence—there is your orator.

Andrew Johnson was not a habitual drinker, and when he did drink he was moderate in the use of alcoholic stimulants. I know he made a reputation for drunkenness on the occasion of his inaugural as vice president. But it is a fact as well established as a fact can be fixed, that then and there he had taken but two small drinks of whisky, and no more. He was harrassed, under a tremendous strain. His position of military governor of Tennessee was of a responsibility equal to that of the commander of an army. His labors were herculean, and March 4, 1865, he was ill and ate no breakfast. I need go no further in explanation so far as men who drink are concerned. All of us know the ugly tricks whisky will play us when taken on an empty stomach, even when we are well in health and robust of body. As for those who are perennially on the water wagon, let them fall off and try it once, and they, too, will believe.

Gideon Welles was a man of pronounced prejudices, but incapable of falsehood, or the slightest deceit. As a member of the cabinet he had daily intimate association with Johnson for four years, and he declares that the president was a very temperate man. Another thing, he was the best dressed man who ever held the office of chief magistrate of our country and the neatest in his person.

George Washington drank a great deal more than did Andrew Johnson, but Washington was no drunkard. Jackson drank more. The Whigs imputed it to Jackson for crime that he drank new corn whisky, out of a gourd, poured from a jug with a corncob stopper, and loyal Democrats planted gourd vines and drank the health of "Old Hickory" out of that impossible receptacle. Try it. Villainous! Execrable! Worse than tin, which is the worst in the world. Andrew Johnson, with his temperament, had drank one-tenth the quantity of whisky Silas Wright, one of the greatest and wisest of American statesmen, consumed, he would have been a raving lunatic. Some men will make more reputation for drunkenness on a gallon of spirits than others who consume a barrel. It is a matter of stomach, of liver, of nerves, of temperament.

There is eminently respectable authority for it that James Buchanan, fifteenth president of the United States, consumed enormous quantities of whisky, and nobody ever saw him even in slight degree intoxicated. It is said he would drink a gallon of overproof whisky within twenty-four hours and it had no other effect on his physical or mental composition than a cup of tea drank by a delicate woman—a slight and gentle exhilaration. John Tyler hoped to be the Democratic candidate for president in 1844, and was desirous to know what Buchanan thought about it. The story goes that Henry A. Wise sent a fat turkey and two notorious tipplers and they went to New York where they met Buchanan at the Astor, and the three sat down to meet and drink about the close of day. Early the next morning the two Virginia topers were obliviously under the table. "Old Buck" had all their secrets and trotted off to bed as bright as a dollar and as lively as a cricket.

I once read that when he died there were stored in Buchanan's cellar at Wheatland 300 barrels of whisky and he was no dealer in the article, either. Of course, many of them were nearly empty and only a few of them had never been broached. I hope the president of the Anti-Saloon league, whoever he may be, will never read the invoice of the contents of the cellar of old Simon Cameron at Lochiel, near Harrisburg, Pa. Nobody can read the description of the virtues of a certain barrel of cherry bounce the old fellow had on hand at his death without a wish to drink a "hog-driver" of it—not even an Anti-Saloon leaguer.

But to get back—ages to come, the vulgar will revel in the lie that Andrew Johnson was a habitual drunkard. We little fellows love the conceit that the great have their failings. The scarlet woman would have every female join her class and be as she

NEW TYPE OF RURAL SCHOOL

Teaching Negro Children How to Live.

By BOOKER T. WASHINGTON, Tuskegee, Ala.

(Exclusive Service the Survey Press Bureau.)

In large sections of the South, the parents of most of our rural negro children are ignorant ex-slave folk whose lives have been spent wholly on the farm. They know nothing of cooking or proper housekeeping, nothing about rules of health. They have no idea as to how a home should be kept. Broken chairs, floors with holes in them, broken windows, leaky roofs, ragged and unwashed bed quilts, soiled dishes and table linen—all these are about the child from infancy. Seeing this, it early became clear to us at Tuskegee that if we really wished to dovetail school work into the real life and for the uplift of the people, something more than the abstract teaching of cube root and the conjugation of verbs must be imparted in the classroom.

To solve the problem we hit upon this plan in Macon county, Alabama. We determined that to be of the greatest service to the child, to combat his environment, we must not simply provide a special class room, but must make everything surrounding the child serve as a school. As an experiment we constructed a building on the order of our Southern cottages, containing rooms for a family and in addition a large assembly room. We then secured a family, in which both parents were teachers to live in the building. Following this we made the understanding that every room in that house and everything about the house should be a schoolroom; that the front yard, the back yard, the stable, the horse, the cow, the garden and the little farm adjoining should have their place in the day's schedule of teaching. The dining room, the kitchen, the bedroom are all open daily to these children, who are shown how to clean and keep them, actually doing the work. The girls of a certain grade take turns in doing the cooking. They leave home in time to prepare the morning meal for the teachers and family. This is served properly in the dining room which has been set in order by another group of little girls—the aim being that all shall learn the best methods of service. The pupils set the bedrooms in order and look after the small children of the teachers.

All this is done under the vigilant eye of the mother-teacher, who is thoroughly competent—having been trained at Tuskegee institute, mastering trades as well as academic work. The girls in the higher classes are taught cooking, but all the girls do gardening, housecleaning and sewing. The boys come more directly under the eye of the man of the house and care for the small farm, the stock, yards and garden and do in addition a certain amount of farm carpentry. These are all made real lessons just as much as the blackboard exercises in the classroom. We call it "the model school," not meaning that it is a model to any other school, but that everything in it and about it is a model to the girls and boys who are in attendance.

All this serves a double purpose. It fits the child for life in the community where he lives and it affords material to give life to the exercises in his text books. The boy not only constructs a fence, but he figures out the cost—cost of nails, hammer, time—which makes a live exercise in arithmetic. For his grammar lesson he uses nouns and verbs from his fence and writes short compositions on his work.

The same is true of the girl in her cooking, bed-making and table-setting. The work is done and then used as a basis for the lessons in books. This gives life to the classroom work. Both teacher and children feel that they are writing, talking and figuring on actual things, which always lends enthusiasm to the work.

To make the school more real we frequently invite the parents to be present. They are made to feel that the school is the center for their activities. Moreover they become interested in themselves, because the children in learning useful things are doing work that their parents can understand. They go home with information about cotton, corn, winter greens; about the care of livestock and of soils. They gain some idea about washing dishes, setting the table and putting a room in order.

The effect has been highly gratifying. A new light has come into the community, which shows in the face of many of those old hard-headed black folk, who used to be none too enthusiastic about education. The change is a process of course, but there are fewer rags in the windows in that community, fewer toppling-down fences. This training has taken nothing from the "book side" of these children's education. Their teaching is thorough and they complete the sixth grade, being admitted by certificate to the corresponding class in Tuskegee institute—and some, preferring to take the written test, have made the next higher class. With this double training the children of this community are brighter and happier and are doing much to add sweetness and contentment to rural life.

Catarrh.

There is a great deal of misunderstanding abroad about the condition known as catarrh.

We hear of all sorts of catarrh, and some people have an idea that it is a disease, the poisons of which circulate in the blood. This idea may be explained from the fact that catarrh may affect any mucous membrane, and occasionally is found present in widely separated parts of the body at the same time.

The word when used alone, without qualification, simply means an inflammation of a mucous surface, and a great many parts of the body are covered with this membrane. It also lines many of the internal organs and most of the tubes or passages between them, or connecting them with the outside.

Such a thing as a catarrh affecting all or nearly all of these mucous surfaces at one time does not exist, except as a temporary condition produced by drugs or poisons circulating in the blood stream, which the body is attempting to get rid of.

Catarrh of the nasal passages is what is most frequently meant when the word is used without qualification; and this is the most common location of the condition. This nasal catarrh is generally a chronic infection of the mucous sacks lining the nose, the inflection, most frequently, having been made possible and being perpetuated by some abnormality in the air passages, such as a bent middle bone, the presence of adenoids or polypi, or two notorious tipplers and they went to New York where they met Buchanan at the Astor, and the three sat down to meet and drink about the close of day. Early the next morning the two Virginia topers were obliviously under the table. "Old Buck" had all their secrets and trotted off to bed as bright as a dollar and as lively as a cricket.

I once read that when he died there were stored in Buchanan's cellar at Wheatland 300 barrels of whisky and he was no dealer in the article, either. Of course, many of them were nearly empty and only a few of them had never been broached. I hope the president of the Anti-Saloon league, whoever he may be, will never read the invoice of the contents of the cellar of old Simon Cameron at Lochiel, near Harrisburg, Pa. Nobody can read the description of the virtues of a certain barrel of cherry bounce the old fellow had on hand at his death without a wish to drink a "hog-driver" of it—not even an Anti-Saloon leaguer.

But to get back—ages to come, the vulgar will revel in the lie that Andrew Johnson was a habitual drunkard. We little fellows love the conceit that the great have their failings. The scarlet woman would have every female join her class and be as she

The taking of internal medicines to cure catarrh, which the patent medicine men and some advertising doctors would have you do, is to a very large extent of little or no avail, and frequently results in decided injury to the internal organs. The local treatment is, however, of some advantage, provided the abnormalities which were the primary cause of the trouble are first corrected. Such treatment consists mainly of cleansing with mildly antiseptic lotions, followed by soothing and slightly astringent applications. These remedies are, however, of little account unless the causative condition is remedied; so it may be said that the treatment of all catarrhs is the discovery and treatment of their causes.

Catarrh of the stomach is also brought about by the abnormalities, but in this case these are not of body structure, but of diet. Its principal cause is overeating, or the overindulgence in alcoholic beverages. Its treatment is best carried out by the use of douches and stomach washings, followed by mild soothing applications, but any attempt to bring about a cure, without correction of the faulty habits of eating or drinking which were responsible for the condition, is bound to result in failure. The point of all this is, that any one who thinks he is suffering from catarrh must first find the cause which produced it, before attempting its cure or alleviation. It is not a disease of itself, it is only a condition resulting from some other disorder.

The hygienic and preventive treatment of nasal catarrh always includes the breathing of air which is non-irritating to the mucous membrane; and as air which is too dry, whether it be hot or cold, is always irritating, attention should be paid to the relative humidity of the air in both sleeping and living rooms. This should never be continuously below 50 per cent and for curative purposes is better if kept above 60 per cent.

Questions and Answers.

To Increase Weight.

H. V. G. writes: I am 5 feet 8 inches tall, 19 years old and only weigh 120 pounds. I have been engaged in office work all summer until now and I know I did not get enough outdoor exercise, although I ate heartily and slept well. How can I best put on an extra ten pounds of lesh?

REPLY.

Get outdoors as much as possible and eat more meat, bread and vegetables. Drink milk with your meals, instead of tea or coffee. Add a quart of good, rich milk to your daily diet, by drinking a glass between meals and at bedtime; a slice of bread and butter with the evening glass of milk will promote restful sleep and also help. Bathe regularly and take outdoor exercise while feeding up and you will not likely have much trouble in increasing the quantity of all your meals. It is not so much what you eat, as how much and how well you can digest it, that counts in any attempt to increase weight. Of course, you know that fretting will reduce weight quicker than any diet can put it on, so if you fret, stop it!

Worry and Indigestion.

J. L. M. writes: Chronic indigestion torments me; could worry cause the trouble, do you think?

REPLY.

Worry is a most potent cause of chronic indigestion than errors in diet, or almost anything else. To enable you to quit worrying practice mental hygiene; get an outdoor hobby; some sport that you can become interested in, and get control of your mind.

Catarrh of the Stomach, Etc.

Mrs. L. W. writes: 1. Is there a cure for catarrh of the stomach, bowels and liver? 2. Does it ever run into consumption? 3. Can you give a simple remedy for sick headache? I am troubled with it two and three days of every week.

REPLY.

Catarrh means nothing but inflammation of a mucous surface. Catarrh of the stomach or bowels is generally due to improper eating or drinking and constipation. There is no such condition as catarrh of the liver. Catarrhal conditions of either stomach or bowels are readily cured when not of too long standing, through attention to diet and general hygiene.

2. None.

3. Sick headache is a symptom of many disorders, the most frequent being disorder of the stomach, liver and bowels. Correct any tendency to constipation, not by using drugs, but by eating proper food, drinking plenty of water, and exercising. This will give the liver and stomach their chance to recover, and the headaches will disappear if they have resulted from this cause alone.

The next most frequent cause of sick headache is the lack of sufficient fresh air and outdoor exercise. To remedy this, sleep with your window open and see that you get outdoors for a time every day, no matter what the weather may be like. Avoid taking the ordinary headache powders, for they are likely to do much more permanent harm than any temporary relief they may afford.

Should these simple hygienic suggestions not prove efficacious, you should consult a good physician and have him find out what condition lies at the bottom of your trouble, causing the headache.

THE TRUTH ABOUT DULUTH'S CHURCHES

Are They Growing, Standing Still or Falling Back? Pastors Say City Is Experiencing Real Revival in Religious Work.

Are Duluth churches keeping pace with the growth of the city? Are they gaining in membership and activity, just holding their own, or falling back?

The Herald put these questions to about twenty prominent Duluth ministers this week. For years it has been claimed that the church was not holding its own. During the last few weeks Duluth has been having a series of revival services, and many prominent church workers have claimed that there was a decided renewal of interest in church work as the result.

The following replies to these inquiries will be of interest:

Rev. George E. Silloway, Grace M. E.: "Last year in the Grace church there was an average increase in the Sunday school attendance of 10 per cent. There was a net increase of seventy-nine in the church membership—about 25 per cent. A series of evangelistic meetings for two week preceding Easter resulted in forty-seven accessions to the church. The congregations have steadily increased. The financial condition of the church is reported as the best in its history. Every department of church work is increasing in effectiveness."

First Presbyterian: The First Presbyterian church is flourishing in all its departments.

During the last three months it has received 71 new members. During the year 1912, 93 new members were received into the church; in 1911, 77 new members, and in 1910, 94. The attendance during this last year has carried been the best of any equal period of time in the three years the present pastor, Rev. Robert Yost, has been in charge.

The Young Men's Bible class is well attended. Some of the prominent men of the city make it a point to be present every meeting.

The social service committee is working in conjunction with the interchurch council, which is doing very effective work.

The Sunday school has now a membership of 370, showing an increase of 6 per cent over last year. The membership of this time last year.

The evening services of the church are designed especially for outsiders, and have proven popular.

Rev. A. W. Ryan, St. Paul's church: Rather to my surprise this has been a good year for us. There have been more confirmations than in several years and quite as many baptisms. The force in the working guilds has increased and has been most efficient. The missionary societies are larger now than in a long time. At the same time we have had to wrestle and wrestle with the large undertaking of building an expensive church and the planning for a rectory to correspond.

"A good many people have left the city and they will be valuable to us and we will miss them for years to come. But, on the other hand, I expect that we have received quite as many into the church from other places and these will in time become active and helpful.

"We have a communicant list of over 500, and there were confirmed in the last year, 43; baptized, 33."

Rev. I. H. Steenberg, First Norwegian Lutheran: "In reply to yours of 6th inst., I must say that the statement often made, that the church in recent years has been losing ground, contains some truth. The church attendance, in our city, has not increased in proportion to the increase in our population. There are at least two reasons for this, viz: Spiritual lithargy and the open theater and movies on Sunday as the Lord's day. If these were closed on Sunday, more people would attend the services, and our city would receive the spiritual and moral uplift which is so greatly needed. In the work of the church I serve, however, I can say that there has been a little growth in church membership and in the various departments of the work. The Sunday school and the Young People's society are progressing and more young men attend the Bible class than ever before since I became acquainted with this church."

Rev. H. A. Stoughton, West Duluth Baptist: "Yours at hand relating to the growth of churches in the past year. I am unable to give statistics that would show a normal condition, for in the year previous the conditions were not up to standard by a good deal, owing to the search of the church for a pastor. Since my coming there has been a healthy growth. The last year's Sunday school has been up to the standard, and during the summer was the best of any summer for years. There have been additions to the church equal to a 14 per cent increase and a net increase of 5 per cent. No special events of increased social service have taken place, but there has been an advance in study classes for church efficiency. Greater evangelistic effort has been made by far than in the proceeding year."

Rev. Paul T. Bratzel, St. Paul's Evangelical: "In response to your inquiry, I wish to make the following statement in regard to my church—

"St. Paul's Evangelical church, the oldest German church in the city, having celebrated its fortieth anniversary in the fall of 1912, has by no means reached a standstill, but has kept pace with the rapid and healthy growth of the city. Although the German as well as German-American population of this city is not large, and the fact that there are five other German churches besides St. Paul's in this city, this church does at the present date cover a field of 105 homes. Since New Year's English services have been installed every other Sunday evening, which are to continue the year round, by the means of which a goodly number of members may be won, who are at present not affiliated with any other church in the city.

"In spite of the fact that almost every child in the congregation attends Sunday school, the number of enrolled members is only fifty. This is an increase of twelve over last year. English classes have been provided for.

"The ladies' aid society has forty-two members, two of whom have joined at the last meeting. The Mission society has thirty-eight members.

"A Young People's society was organized in January for the purpose of Bible study and social service. The society won twenty members in the last two months.

"The financial condition of the church is excellent, all debts having been paid last fall and a surplus being on hand at the New Year's meeting."

Lakeside Presbyterian: Accessions to the communicant membership of the Lake side Presbyterian church during the year 1912 numbered 37. The Lakeside church has more than the average percentage of men.

The Lakeside brotherhood includes in its organization the great majority of the men in the community, the attendance at their monthly meetings ranging from sixty to seventy. These men have been foremost in the work of the churches of the city along social service and community extension lines.

The Lakeside church last year contributed to work outside of, and in addition to, local interests, about $1,500 to missions, social service and evangelism.

The Sunday school is thoroughly organized and graded, from the Cradle roll to the Adult Bible class. There are two organized classes, the McCollum Bible class, and the Philathea class of young ladies. The average attendance is from ten to fifteen above the year before.

The Christian Endeavor society is organized for effective work in the city as well as in the community, and has been active along missionary and social service lines. This band of young people conducts services Sunday afternoons at the Poor farm in the town, during this last year has carried two scholarships in the city schools.

The Women's aid society, as now organized, is a most important factor in the charity work of the city. All money is raised by subscription, or monthly pledge, and all work at the monthly meetings is devoted to charity. During the last year about 1,500 garments have been distributed—in fact the Associated Charities has delegated considerable of its work this last year to the Woman's Aid Society of the Lakeside church. The membership is about eighty, and the average attendance is about sixty. At one meeting during the year there was an attendance of over 100. Most of the women in the community are interested, and in some way enlisted or identified with this society and its work.

Rev. Charles N. Thorp, Pilgrim Congregational: "Having been in Duluth less than five months I am unable to give you actual statistics covering the recent growth of Pilgrim church in the lines mentioned. But I am confident that our church has made substantial gains, some of which are doubtless traceable to the effect of the men and religion campaign.

"The church had been without a pastor for nearly a year. Congregations since October have been steadily growing. The attendance at the evening service rarely reached 100. The new vesper service, which took its place Jan. 1, has more than doubled the attendance and promises to win many who rarely attend church. The proportion of men at our services is noticeably large. This feature is occasionally remarked upon by people from other cities.

"The Sunday school has been augmented by two new classes, for young women and for boys. The home department of the school, for Bible study in the home, is being organized and will be in operation April 1.

"The Young People's society took a fresh start Dec. 1, with a recent college graduate at the head and an enthusiastic membership double that of a year ago. A large chorus choir, which sings at vesper service, has been recently formed from the young men and women of the church.

"The last three communion services have seen a total accession to membership of twenty-seven persons, of whom fourteen are men. Classes in church history for the young people are now being conducted by the pastor, the aim being to prepare for intelligent church membership.

"The brotherhood is having a successful season, and has heard some stirring addresses on civic and social responsibility. The ladies' union has reorganized the circles on a new plan and is engaging in some lines of charitable work. The missionary work of the women is well sustained. The church met its missionary apportionment for 1912 in full and plans a larger outlay for worldwide work for 1913, supporting its own missionary pastor in Caesarea, Turkey.

"I am impressed with the harmonious, aggressive spirit which prevails in Pilgrim church and with the large number of busy men and women, devoted to social service, who are giving themselves without stint to the work of the church and of the uplift organizations in our city."

Rev. J. C. Reinertsen: "In response to your letter of inquiry as to church work and general condition of same, I shall only say that Our Savior's Lutheran church of West Duluth has not noticed the so-called 'Losing of Ground' though, we can perhaps, not pride ourselves in any extraordinary growth. The work is steadily advanced along every line of church activity, most especially among the young people of our church who have properly awakened to the sense of church loyalty and have in the past year amply manifested the same. The membership of our Young People's society is at present 230, an increase of about 200 in one year.

"Likewise has our Sunday school been greatly increased numerically, an increase of about fifty of sixty, and the teachers are very enthusiastic in their work. The Ladies' Aid of our church has similarly had a goodly increase and every one is doing good work. Church membership has not increased so rapidly for the reason that some of our older members have moved 'on the farm' and some to other cities. Yet we even hold our own. Our Bible class is about double as large as last year and the work among its members is truly inspiring. The Young Ladies' society is just organized and everything looks promisng."

Rev. George R. Gebauer, First Unitarian: "Being a newspaper man I take it for granted that you know the classic classification of lies, and that the greatest of these is statistics. Of course church statistics—this is something different; yet even such are somewhat deceptive. Remember ministers and deacons are still somewhat human, and not a few are afflicted with clerical astigmatism, which makes them see things double, especially on Sunday morning. I found that if a truthful minister tells you he had 500 people at church on a certain Sunday, it will be safe for you to take a discount of 50 per cent. Now you will understand why I do not care to go into any statistics to prove to you that I have a live church. I am not clerical enough to be afflicted with double sight, and I am unfortunately so truthful that my report might make a rather poor showing. And then those religious Philistines who rate a minister's success by the number of noses in the congregation, might say: 'Behold the cause of the heretic is doomed.'

"Of course, I too, believe somewhat in numbers, but I do not consider them the most important thing. Indeed I forget all about numbers when I look, on Sunday morning, into a congregation of eager faces, with never a one asleep. But what of a crowded church in which at least 10 per cent are happily dozing and others show by their looks that they are in spirit elsewhere. Some, while the preacher is exerting himself, are in their astral body at the stock exchange and are driving good bargains, others are out in the woods or fishing. Will you count such as being part of the congregation? Of course I well know that a little nap in church is very strengthening and very natural under conditions, but after all only the wide awake man or woman counts.

"Now dropping statistics as a snare and a delusion, I may say that my own observation inclines me to believe that the cause of religion in Duluth is steadily gaining ground. We have here an exceptionally fine set of men in our pulpits, and the success of Rev. Rice in the Lyceum, shows that religion is brave enough to fight the devil in what some good people consider the devil's own stronghold. I too was told that the sporting editor of one of our publications had become too spiritual for his job and had been promoted to manage the religious department of the paper. As the gentleman has never been in my church I must give the honor to my orthodox friends. I dare say there are many more sure signs of new religious life in the community.

"As to my own work I may truthfully state that it shows progress in various lines. My congregations have grown considerably in the last five years. When I am in very optimistic mood I rate the gain about 100 per cent and when I am in sober objective mood I make it about 50 per cent. My Sunday school is not large, as we do not believe in proselyting, but it is well attended and the children seem to appreciate their instruction. The social service side of the church is variously stimulated, especially at the monthly meeting of our men's club, at which the vital problems of the day are discussed. In so-called evangelism and revivalism we take no stock as our church is fully alive and wide awake, but we sympathize with those of our churches who need a spiritual boosting now and then. I believe even that a fair dose of hell fire may be very timely for a few; it will wake them up.

"All in all then our little church is doing its share in the community in its own way. It has not the numbers, especially for the reason that so many good Unitarians are in the other churches, but it has a steadily growing influence not little due to the hospitality of your wide-awake paper."

WEDNESDAY—Daughters of Liberty chapter, D. A. R., will meet with Mrs. T. J. Davis, 2104 East First street at 3 p. m.

THURSDAY—The Women's Christian Temperance Union of West Duluth will meet with Mrs. L. H. Merritt, 2105 East Second street at 2:30 o'clock.

FRIDAY—Good Friday services in many of the churches; the first of Rev. George R. Gebauer's series of lectures on the drama, on "Parsifal" at the Unitarian church at 8 p. m.

SATURDAY—The Saturday club will hold its regular meeting at the library clubroom at 2:30 o'clock.

Holy week with its attendance of church services and rest will be marked by few events in the social world. Easter sales are being held by the churches as a culmination of the work which has been done by the circles and guilds during Lent and the shops are busy getting out Easter suits and gowns and the purchasing of the Easter bonnets will be ono of the chief events for many women during the week.

Two lectures of intercst will be given during the week, ono on Monday by Mrs. Irene C. Buell who will speak at an open free meeting of the Twentieth Century club to be held Monday evening at the library club room on "Minnesota Laws Relating to Women" and a social hour will follow at which Mrs. Jane Everington Scully will sing, accompanied by Miss Winnifred Hicks. Miss Hicks will also play several piano solos. All men and women interested are cordially invited.

The other lecture will be given by Rev. George R. Gebauer on "Parsifal" on Good Friday evening at the Unitarian church at 8 o'clock with music from Wagner's opera by Miss Isabel Pearson.

Meetings of the Greysolon du Lhut and Daughters of Liberty chapters of the D. A. R. will be held during the week and a St. Patrick's day party for the members of the Women's Auxiliary of the St. Louis County Medical association will be held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. L. Cheney, 1222½ East Second street. Cards and other games will be arranged for the afternoon.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

On the Woman Who Has but Little Use for Children.

Of all the types of women whom it has been my experience to meet, deliver me, above all, from that woman who has little, or no use for children. There are not, thankfully be it said, many women of this type. If there were, the world would stand still and womanhood would be a mark of contempt instead of an insignia of honor. The woman who is good all through loves children. It is her nature to do so, and she can't help it, and wouldn't if she could. The motherly instinct is the divine spark that moves all womankind.

Not long ago, some friends of mine who live in a large eastern city, in an apartment, were entering the hallway with their little boy, who was about two years old. A score or more of women were just passing out, on the way home from a bridge party at one of the apartments in the building. My friends stepped aside at the foot of the stairway to let them pass, and nearly every woman who passed noticed the baby—a bright, attractive little fellow—some smiling and nodding to him, and remarking upon his prettiness and "cuteness."

Near the end, however, came two women, each one of a different type. One of them, a sweet, motherly-looking woman, stopped and patted the baby, and made a big fuss over him. The other, however, turned up her nose and remarked: "Humph! If you saw as much of children as I did, you wouldn't pay any attention to them." The motherly woman did not reply, but passed on, waving her hand back at the baby, and throwing a kiss to him. Here were the two types—the womanly, motherly woman—and the other.

These same friends live in an apartment above a childless, grouchy couple, who apparently have the idea that a child has no divine right to live, and forget that they were children once. My friends had scarcely moved into the apartment, when the woman below was at the door complaining that the baby's noise, as he drew his playthings over the floor, annoyed here and her husband. Yet these same persons would have their beer parties and invite their friends, and make more noise in one evening of carousal than the baby would make in a month.

My friends, after they had complained two or three times, curtly told them to attend to their own business and make such noise as they wished, and they would do the same. They told them that it was little short of impudence in them to complain about a baby's noise when they made so much themselves.

The woman who loved children would have had patience. The one in the next apartment heard the noise, and said she loved to hear it. She, unlike the other, was a womanly woman.

MATINEE MUSICALE.

"Request Program" Will Be Arranged at Directors' Meeting Monday.

A SPECIAL and important meeting of the board of directors of the Matinee Musicale will be held Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. hall for the purpose of deciding upon all details of the concert at which the "request program" will be given on the evening of April 7. As this is the closing meeting of the club year it is to be featured on a bigger scale than the usual meetings and an evening musicale is planned which will be held in one of the churches of the city. The program will be made up of numbers which have been given during the year and these numbers will be chosen from among the requests sent in to Mrs. Stephen H. Jones, Mrs. D. H. Day or other members of the board of directors by any member of the club who particularly desires to hear again anything already given. Requests should be signed and sent in before Monday noon.

The next regular program will be given on Easter Monday at the Endion M. E. church, March 24, and is being arranged by Mrs. Elizabeth Morton Dworshak and Miss Florence Hyland.

Associate Circle.

The Associate circle will hold its final meeting of the year at Mrs. F. W. Paine's on Saturday afternoon, April 5. The date was changed from March 31, on account of the annual election of officers of the Twentieth Century club, which is held on that day.

Study Class.

The study class will hold its regular meeting at Miss Carlotta Simonds' studio Monday at 3 p. m. for the study and discussion of Wagner, his life and works. Only one more meeting of the class will be held, when Brahms will be studied.

Students' Frolic.

The students' frolic will be held on Saturday afternoon, March 29, at 3 p. m. at the Endion Methodist church parlors. Mrs. Ernest Lachmund and Mrs. Stephen Jones are in charge of this program, which promises to contain many original "stunts." All student members of the club will be admitted on presentation of their membership tickets and all other club members as well as parents on payment of a small admission fee. Refreshments will be served following the program.

Easter Sale.

The Woman's Guild of the Endion M. E. church will hold an Easter sale at the parlors of the church on Tuesday afternoon. Tea will be served during the afternoon.

DULUTH YOUNG PEOPLE IN PICTURESQUE COSTUMES PRESENT CHARMING DAMES AT MASQUERADE BALL

THE GROUP OF DANCERS.

Fancy costumes and fancy dances were features of the masquerade which the members of Prof. Leo's Friday evening dancing class enjoyed last evening at the ballroom of the old Masonic temple with Mrs. A. C. Weiss and Mrs. J. H. Dight as chaperones.

From a dainty little flower girl to two big toreadors the costumes worn were effective and interesting. Grecian dancers, a stalwart Quaker, a small military lad, colonial maids and men, a college man with cap and gown, a Spanish maid, two big Chinamen, a Scotch lassie, the queen of hearts, Cinderella, a sunbonnet baby, milk maid, and peasant girls were all there and the unmasking proved an interesting time.

Opening with the grand march the young folks danced a program of social dances including the pretty "Twin Ports Wave" which is popular with them and Miss Charlene Bagley and Miss Agnes Alexander gave a classical Grecian dance which was delightfully charming and graceful. The dancers in gracefully draped robes of pink and blue represented two maidens on an island gazing off for passing ships, playing ball and tennis, chasing butterflies and picking flowers which they threw to the guests who were watching the party.

The girls of the class also danced a Highland fling with spirit and charm.

The members of the class are:

Misses—
Vera Lindahl, Eleanor Currie, Allace Cowen, Sue Alexander, Anna Paull, Josephine McCarthy, Marion Dight, Charlese Bagley, Dorothy Crosby, Gertrude Barnes, Elinor Mitchell, Margaret Greene, Elizabeth Horr, Agnes Alexander, Cordelia Collins, Elizabeth MacFarlane, Mary Winton, Genevieve Blanche, Elizabeth Stephenson.

Masters—

"VOTES FOR WOMEN" NOTES

What the Workers for Suffrage Are Doing in Many Parts of the World.

MRS. FRANCES MUNDS of Prescott was president of the State Equal Suffrage Association last November when Arizona enfranchised its women; therefore, she was suggested as presidential elector. But there were protests. Arizona was quite a new state and must be very careful of its dignity. A Mr. Webb, who protested most, said it was a man's job. In due time ho himself started forth with the electoral vote in his pocket while Mrs. Munds stayed at home. When the moment came to deliver the vote of Arizona Mr. Webb was peacefully enjoying himself in New York. He did not know that he ought to be in Washington on that particular day until he read in the newspapers next morning that everybody was wondering where he was. Suffragists are not saying very much about it, except to emphasize the fact that Colorado, Washington and Utah all sent women as presidential electors and that they all arrived on time; also they are wondering whether, if Mrs. Munds had been the elector from Arizona and if she had been in New York shopping when she ought to have been in Washington, any woman anywhere would never have heard the last of it.

Miss Lavania Dock, known as "Little Dock" on the recent Albany "hike," is now making a pilgrimage through New York's East side. Three times a week she starts forth from the Henry street settlement, where she lives, wearing a huge sign, one side of which announces to all voters who read Yiddish, "Every man will have to vote yes or no on woman suffrage in 1915." The other side is for the women, and reads, "New York state will give women the right to vote in 1915 if women demand it." And the East side is strong for suffrage. Miss Dock made this discovery on her first trip. The only objection is that two years is too long to wait. A push-cart man voiced the sentiment of the crowd when he protested, "1915; ah, mine Gott. Datt iss too long. We will all be dead by then. One month is enough."

The Portland Oregonian says of the new state legislature: "Neither senators nor representatives are opposing any measure which will tend to be of assistance to the women. There is a noticeable tendency at this session to vote 'aye' for all such bills. They all now have a new class of constituents at home, from whom they are beginning to hear, and they are heeding the new noice nobly."

• • •

The anti-suffragists of Maryland protest against the proposal to impose the obligation of the suffrage upon the women of the state for the following, among other reasons, "Because suffrage is to be regarded not as a privilege to be enjoyed, but a duty to be performed."

DEPARTMENTAL PLAN OF WORK IS BEING TRIED IN THE GRADES

WE think the departmental work in the grades is of special benefit and that it is going to work out most satisfactorily," said Harold E. House, principal of the Ely school where this form of work has been tried out for the past month in the seventh and eighth grades. The three teachers, Miss Johanna Straite, Miss Pedi and Miss Mahrman have taken the mathematics, English and grammar and the history and civics, respectively and a careful program has been prepared for the lesson periods.

"We have given a good deal of attention to the arrangement of the program," said Mr. House, "It has been worked out and tried and seems to be working very smoothly and both teachers and pupils seem satisfied with the work as it is now running."

When asked in regard to the discipline under this method he stated that it seemed to be better if anything than when one teacher had complete supervision of one room full of pupils.

"Each teacher opens the session in her own room and then goes to some other room for a lesson during the first hour. She goes back to her own room for the second hour this giving an opportunity for her to conduct the calisthenic exercises with her own pupils and the last period in the morning and the first in the afternoon complete the work for the day, the afternoon sessions after 2 o'clock being given to domestic science and manual training.

"Under our arrangement each teacher has one period of one hour and a half to herself once a week and a half hour every day, when she can plan her work and get her outlines completed. I have always believed that the teachers in the upper grades should have some vacant periods in which to arrange their work and I am glad of having an opportunity to give my teachers this extra time.

"Another advantage in this plan is the preparation it gives the pupil for high school work, getting him used to studying under different teachers and when he reaches the high school he will be ready to settle down into the routine of work there without losing a few weeks getting accustomed to the ways. The only difference is that the children here remain in their own rooms and the teachers go to them to avoid the confusion and loss of time caused by the pupils going from one room to another.

"The pupils themselves all like the plan and have evinced a more earnest desire to work under the plan."

The teachers expressed themselves as much in favor of the plan and that it is proving of interest and help to the children. "One way is about as easy as the other," said Miss Straite, "but I think I feel a stronger interest in the work having just one subject to teach than when I taught all of the subjects, and it certainly seems easier to discipline. The children have a change in teachers which helps keep them on their guard and they do not get restless and tired."

"THE CRUCIFIXION" WILL BE SUNG BY TRINITY PRO-CATHEDRAL CHOIR

THE CRUCIFIXION," a sacred cantata, for which the music was written by Sir John Stainer, will be sung tomorrow afternoon at Trinity pro-cathedral by the cathedral choir of forty voices with Dr. F. A. Amundson, tenor, and George Madison, basso singing the solo parts. The gems of the cantata are the unaccompanied chorus numbers, "God So Loved the World," the big "Fling Wide the Gates," the "Appeal of the Crucified" and the bass and tenor duet, "So Thou Liftest Thy Divine Petition."

The cantata will commence at 5 p. m. with Miss Isabel Pearson, organist, and choir director at the organ. A general invitation is extended to everyone, whether members of the church or not, and as the number is a tremendous one and has been carefully worked up, it promises to be a big musical treat. The usual vesper service held this time will be omitted.

The full program of the cantata follows:

"And They Came to a Place Named Gethsemane" ..... Recitative Tenor.
"The Agony" ..... Bass and Chorus and Tenor Solo.
Processional to "Calvary" .....
"Fling Wide the Gates" ..... Organ Solo and Chorus.
"Then On to the End" ..... Tenor Solo and Chorus.
"And When They Were Come" ..... Recitative Bass.
"The Mystery of the Divine Humiliation" ..... Chorus.
"He Made Himself of No Reputation" Recitative Bass.
"The Majestey of the Divine Humiliation" ..... Tenor Solo.
"And As Moses Lifted Up the Serpent" ..... Recitative Bass.
"God So Loved the World" ..... Chorus (unaccompanied).
"Litany of the Passion" ..... Chorus.
"Jesus Said: 'Father, Forgive Them'" Recitative Tenor and Male Chorus.
"So Thou Liftest Thy Divine Petition" ..... Duet, Bass and Tenor.
"The Mystery of Intercession" ..... Chorus.
"And One of the Malefactors" ..... Recitative Bass and Male Chorus.
"The Adoration of the Crucified" .... Chorus.
"When Jesus Therefore Saw His Mother" ..... Recitative Tenor, Bass and Male Chorus.
"It It Nothing to You" ..... Recitative Bass.
"The Appeal of the Crucified" ..... Chorus.
"After This, Jesus Knowing That All Things Were Now Accomplished" Recitative Tenor and Male Chorus.
"For the Love of Jesus" ..... Chorus.

West Duluth Union Will Meet at Home of Mrs. Merritt.

The regular meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance union of West Duluth will be held next Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. H. Merritt, 2105 East Second street at 2:30 o'clock. Miss Mauck of the Bethel home will be the leader for the afternoon and the subject will be "Amusements, With Special Relation to Purity." This meeting was to have been held at the home of Mrs. I. P. Swangle but was changed to Mrs. Merritt's residence.

CONCERT POSTPONED.

Students of Jackson School Will Repeat Program March 28.

THE concert which was to have been given by children of the Jackson school last evening at the school was postponed on account of the storm and will be held on Friday evening, March 28, instead. This concert was given on Wednesday evening of this week with great success, Miss Loretta O'Gorman assisting with a group of songs which were well received. Mrs. Jane Everington Scully was to have been the soloist last evening.

"PARSIFAL."

Rev. Gebauer Will Commence Lecture Course Good Friday.

FRIDAY of next week which is Good Friday has purposely been chosen by Rev. George R. Gebauer for the opening of his course of lectures on the drama, the sacred music drama, of Wagner's "Parsifal" being a fitting subject for the day. The lecturer says: "Never was there a truer disciple of the Master than Parsifal, 'the guileless fool,' and never has there been written a drama so replete with longing for the noble aims of Christianity. The devillishness of Klingson, the wickedness of Kundry, the physical suffering of King Amfortas, according to Wagner, are all the result of treason to the Savior, and on Good Friday, Parsifal, 'by pity enlightened' brings salvation to all."

Miss Isabel Pearson will add to the pleasure of the lecture by musical selections from the opera, playing the prelude, the flower theme and the "Good Friday Spell."

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS WILL PRESENT "ENGAGED" AS THEIR CLASS PLAY; OTHER HAPPENINGS OF PAST WEEK

VIRGINIA HARRISON.

LAWRENCE DOW.

ELFVA SMITH.

STANLEY GROGAN.

That two peformances of the senior class play "Engaged," will be given the first part of April has been decided by Prof. A. F. M. Custance, under whose direction the production will be staged. The play is a comedy farce in three acts and deals with the varied fortunes of Cheviot Hill, a young man who possesses a happy faculty of proposing marriage as a matter of course to every girl he meets. The young man's father, fearing that an undesirable marriage may be the result of his son's affectionate disposition, allows Belvawney, a friend of Cheviot, £1,000 so long as the latter remains single, the money to revert at Chevyot's marriage to the boy's uncle, Mr. Symperson. The powers of two men, of course, exert themselves upon young Hill in opposite directions with accompanying funny situations.

A Scottish house, situated on the border line of Scotland and England, furnishes the principal scene of action.

The fact that the house itself is in Scotland and while the garden and surroundings are in England is the cause of the ensuing troubles.

Rehearsals of the play are being held daily and the student thespians are rapidly becoming accustomed to their parts under the able direction of Mr. Custance.

The personnel of the cast is as follows:

Cheviot Hill ..... Lawence Dow
Belvawney ..... Stanley Grogan
Mr. Symperson ..... Harold Pond
Angus McCallister ..... Ralph Bogan
Maj. McGillicuddy ..... Walter Sleeper
Belinda Treherne ..... Elfva Smith
Minnie Symperson ... Virginia Harrison
Maggie ..... Dorothy Wachtel
Parker, Minnie's maid .... Violet Huber
Mrs. Symperson .. Marguerite McDonald
Mrs. McGillicuddy ..... Mabel Harker

The girls of the Zenith board entertained the boy members of the various committees of the board at a fudge party in the chemistry laboratory Thursday afternoon. This was one of a series of similar affairs arranged by the social committee, several parties of like nature having been held at intervals during the term.

Miss Rita Kendall, Principal Leonard Young and Prof. Walter H. Benson of the faculty chaperoned the following young people: Misses Marjorie Peck, Mildred Miller, Grace Vroman, Eunice Whipple, Helen Zuger, Virginia Harrison, Marjorie Baillie, Alma Gross, Gladys Dow and Harold Miles, Deane Davis, Ellis Butchart, Richard Cullum, Kenneth Harris, Walter Sleeper, Weston Prudden, Lawrence Dow, Stanley Grogan, Harold Calkins, Thornton McLean, Ray Giddings, Harold Bradley and William Craig.

That a banquet will be held in connection with the annual sophomore dance was announced following a meeting of the hop committee Monday afternoon. Although a definite date for the function has not been set, it will probably be held March 28.

Several preliminary arrangements were completed at the session Monday, and some new designs in decorating were suggested and discussed. The concensus of opinion last year was that the present sophomore class entertained at one of the finest dances of the term and in view of this fact, the students are looking with much interest toward the coming function.

The dance committee includes Ralph McCarthy, Gertrude Final, Hazel Burnside, Mary Sayer, Margaret Johnson, Sibyl Jensen, Winnifred Morterud, Warren Moore, Ralph Osman, Reginald Reed, Mark Troyer and Franklin Neff.

The banquet committee is composed of: Louis Webster, Bertha Blain, Marion Aske, Muriel Smith, Esther Hoar, Rae Abrahams, Fred Bates, Morris Litman, Douglas Moore, Arthur Kelley, Robert Kerr, Harry Parsons and Victor Eva.

Arrangements have been made by the Central High School Alumni association for a concert to be given by the Glee club of the University of Minnesota in the high school assembly hall Monday evening, March 24.

The aim of the alumni association for the past three or four years has been the development and establishment of a permanent scholarship fund as a memorial to Charles Alden Smith, former principal of the Central high school, and it is in connection with this movement that the glee club will be brought here. Principal Leonard Young in announcing the concert yesterday morning during the chapel period, encouraged the attendance of the students at the concert, in that the success of a worthy movement depends in part on the support given the association and also that an opportunity to get an insight into one of the phases of college life will be offered.

Student tickets have been provided for and these have been placed in the hands of the class presidents for distribution.

No little enthusiasm was occasioned yesterday during the chapel period, when President Ray Giddings, on behalf of the senior class, challenged the faculty of the school to a game of indoor baseball to be played some time after the Easter vacation. Prof. Wilbur H. Schilling accepted the defi and instructed that the four-year students "should worry."

As no provision was made in regard to barring the women instructors from participation in the game, there is a strong possibility that several of the gentler sex will enter the mix, unless the men of the instruction corps show to advantage in the practices. Nevertheless, the game promises to bring out some good playing, as there is a wealth of material on both sides.

In the last game between the seniors and the faculty, the teachers won handily from the class of 1911. Of course, the seniors never refereed to the game after that and the faculty members havo lived on their reputation ever since.

The members of the Central high school basket ball team returned Monday from Evanston, Ill., where they won third place in the Central States tournament which was held in that city, Maroh 6, 7 and 8. The meet was won by Evanston, while second place went to Loyola academy, a Chicago institution. Duluth made the best showing of all the outside teams entered, which fact gave no little publicity to the city. While at Evanston the boys were entertained by the Sigma Chi and Phi Psi fraternities of Northwestern university. The members of the team were awarded bronze medals by virtue of their having won third place. The following boys made the trip accompanied by Coach Wilbur H. Schilling: Arthur Osman, Charles Jeronimus, Kenneth Harris, William Elder, Matthew Brown, and James Werntz.

Miss Agnes E. Wells, who has charge of the classes in higher mathematics, is at her home in Saginaw, Mich., where she went to attend the funeral of her father, Edgar Wells. She will not return until after the Easter vacation. Prof. James F. Taylor has had charge of the classes in solid geometry, advanced algebra and trigonometry during the absence of Miss Wells.

The regular weekly meeting of the Stump was held Thursday afternoon and the routine business disposed of. In the absence of President Jesse Cohen, the session was presided over by Irving Grover. A committee to arrange the programs for the weekly meetings was appointed, consisting of Irving Grover, chairman, Walter Zimmerman and Max Donnauer.

A publicity committee for the purpose of advertising the Grand Rapids-Central and the freshman-Sophomore debates was chosen. Ray Giddings is the chairman and Albert Olson and Martin Carlson are members.

The observation trip of the chemistry classes to the Zenith Furnace company's plant at West Duluth has been postponed until after the Easter vacation, owing to the vagaries of the weather man. Prof. Walter H. Benson, head of the chemistry department, plans to take his classes on several other trips before the closo of school.

Prof. A. G. Alexander of the English department addressed the students interested in the drama movement in the assembly hall yesterday afternoon. "The Development of the Drama" was the subject discussed by Mr. Alexander. A large number of students, most of them members of the recently formed high school branch of the drama league, were in attendance at the interesting and instructive lecture.

The style of cover for the Zenith, the annual publication of the senior class, was decided upon at a special meeting of the Zenith board held yesterday afternoon. A black suede cover with the word Zenith in gold letters was the choice. A reproduction of the 1913 class pin will also appear on the face of the cover.

Grand Forks Home Products.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—To promote factories, the Commercial club next week will start a "buy home products" campaign. This campaign will be directed particularly to the women of the city in an effort to secure from them a demand for "home products" whenever they shop.

CLAIM HIBBING IS RESPONSIBLE

Rice Lake, Wis., Council Will Not Support Former Hibbing Family.

Hibbing, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Oscar G. Jensen, city clerk at Rice Lake, Wis., has notified the council that Rice Lake will hold Hibbing responsible for the support of Mrs. Edward Jacobson and her family of five small children, who recently went there from Hibbing and became public charges. The family lived here until several months ago and were public charges for some time. Friends sent them to Rice Lake. The council took no action on the communication.

The council, upon the request of Village Accountant J. L. Stewart, authorized an audit of the books of the city, and Mellis & Pirie, chartered accountants of St. Paul, were retained at a fee of $295.

John C. Eastman of Wilpin made application for a position on the police department. It was referred to the incoming council.

100 TRAIN CREWS TO BE EMPLOYED

Great Northern Expects to Move Huge Amount of Ore to Docks.

Hibbing, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. S. Ennis and Master Mechanic W. H. Smith of the Mesaba division of the Great Northern, have been making a tour of the range. Mr. Ennis stated that the double track improvements will be completed on the Swan River line in time for the beginning of the ore movement about April 10. It is anticipated that the Great Northern will haul about 17,000,000 tons from the range to the docks at the Head of the Lakes during 1913. It is also expected that there will be over 100 train crews in service on the ore business alone, a considerable increase in crews over last year.

CHISHOLM WILL GIVE BANQUET

Old Council Which Accomplished Much and New One as Guests.

Chisholm, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—A banquet to the old and the new members of the council and others of the city government is being considered along the lines of the recent boosters banquet. The outgoing council has given general satisfaction while the members elect promise to do equally well. The outgoing council has accomplished a great deal for Chisholm among the achievements being:

The purchase of a site for a municipal owned library and creating a fund of $25,000 besides for a building; paving of Lake street, the first paving the village has ever had; purchasing ground for cemetery, clearing of and placing the lots on sale; settling all the outstanding legal claims against the village; filling of Central, First and Second avenues preparatory for paving next year; opening up of several streets including Central avenue to Walnut street, foiling the attempt of the street car company in attempting to change their route through the village; installing air tight garbage cans; making a liberal appropriation for carrying on next year's work; reducing the outstanding debt to below $25,000; purchasing several thousand trees for boulevarding and parking next spring; preparing the village lots at the foot of Lake street for park purposes; assisting the humane department in governing local matters; publishing a complete financial statement; forcing the central energy of telephone system by refusing privileges requested by the telephone company; passing an ordinance to compel sewer connections on streets where sanitary sewers run thus reducing the liability of contamination; establishing a milk testing bureau; enforcing the building ordinance within the fire limits; building many miles of sidewalks and sewers as well as extending the water mains; calling two special elections during their term to permit the public to decide whether they wished to purchase the electric light plant and to decide their choice as to where the library should be located; increased wages of laborers from $2.25 to $2.50.

Much paving is to be done the coming season, the library is to be built, parking and boulevarding is an important question, and besides some matters of vast importance which they are not ready to launch at this time, Chisholm has good reason to be proud of the council outgoing and incoming and the government is in safe hands at least for another year.

NEW MEN SWORN.

Council to Take Hold of Hibbing Affairs April 1.

Hibbing, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Thomas F. Brady yesterday administered the oath of office to Mayor-elect Victor L. Power, Trustees-elect John Curran, B. L. Burrows and Robert Geiselman, Recorder-elect Haley and D. D. McEachin, who succeeds Dennis Haley as village treasurer.

Mayor-elect Power and the new councilmen have decided that they will not take office until April 1. The old council will have its last meeting Tuesday next.

$3.50 Recipe Free For Weak Kidneys

Relieves Urinary and Kidney Troubles, Backache, Straining, Swelling, Etc.

Stops Pain in the Bladder, Kidneys and Back.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, K-94 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-conquering power.

It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.

POWER IS AGAINST BREWERY SALOONS

Hibbing's Mayor-Elect Defines His Attitude on That Score.

Hibbing, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor-elect V. L. Power is unqualifiedly opposed to the brewery control of saloons.

"I am unqualifiedly opposed to the brewery control of saloons," said Mr. Power. "One of the things I hope to accomplish is to work out some plan that will take the control of the saloon business out of the hands of the brewing companies. I am not yet prepared to state what that plan will be, but I am confident there is a way to overcome it. Personally I shall oppose the granting of liquor licenses when it is manifestly apparent that such licenses are being taken out by the agents of brewing companies. The whole system is wrong and I commit myself to do what it is possible for me to do to correct it in Hibbing."

The mayor-elect and the council will have much support if they adopt the policy on the brewery control of saloons outlined by Mr. Power.

SUES CONTRACTOR FOR SON'S HURT

Ely Man Wants $15,000 for Injury Son Sustained Last July.

Virginia, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—For injuries to his 8-year-old son, Felix, by a dynamite explosion in Ely, Andrew Westman sues Alfred Kolstad, an Ely contractor, for $10,650. The accident is stated to have happened last July. It is asserted that Kolstad is liable for leaving explosives uncovered and unguarded in a shed at his home. The boy found the dynamite and the caps. An explosion followed and the child lost three fingers and was otherwise injured and disfigured.

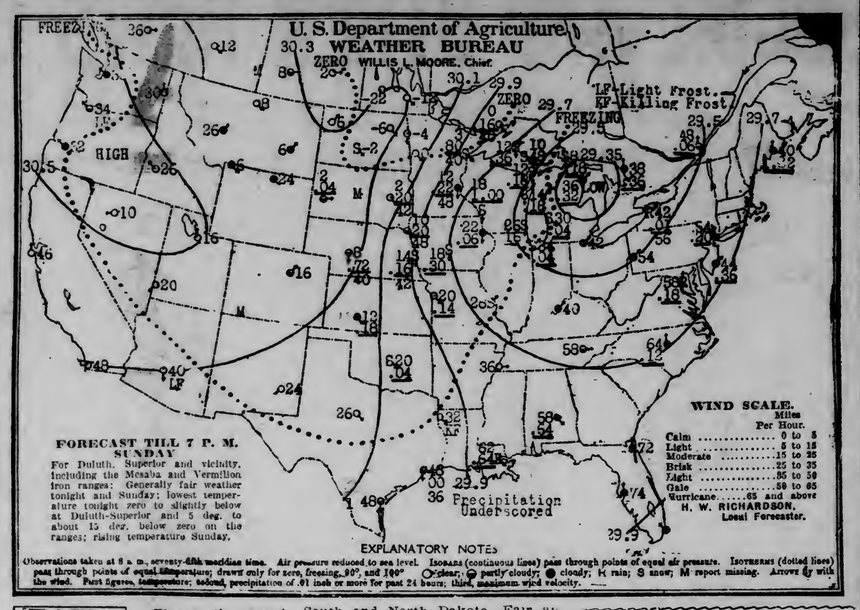
OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER



FAIR

The weather man delivered the promised storm with all the frills and sidecourses. Those who did not have to venture forth in the storm last night were extremely fortunate. The wind had blown itself out today and the day is fair, though somewhat crisp. Fair and cold weather is promised for tonight and tomorrow.

There was a raw wind a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:21 and it will set at 6:13 this evening, giving eleven hours and fifty-two minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The storm is now centered over Lake Huron, its easterly movement from Iowa resulting in light to heavy snow or rain over South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, the Upper Mississippi valley, Lake region, Eastern Canada and Atlantic states during the last twenty-four hours. High northerly winds prevailed last night over the Lake region and Middle West. The weather has turned decidedly colder over the Lake region, Ohio, Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys and Southwestern states. Zero temperatures may be expected in St. Louis and Douglas counties tonight."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, March 15.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours, ending at 7 p. m. Sunday:

Wisconsin—Fair in west; local snows in east portion tonight; colder; Sunday fair, brisk to high northwest to north winds.

Upper Michigan—Snow and colder tonight; Sunday generally fair and continued cold.

Iowa—Cloudy tonight; colder in east portion; Sunday fair; slightly warmer in central portion and west portion.

Minnesota—Fair tonight, except snow near Lake Superior; Sunday fair; slightly warmer.

South and North Dakota—Fair and slightly warmer tonight and Sunday.

Montana—Fair in east, local snow in west portion tonight or Sunday; warmer tonight in north and east portions.

Shippers' forecast—Protect 36-hour shipments of perishables against minimum temperatures zero to 15 deg. below in Northern Minnesota and zero to about 5 deg. below in Northwest Wisconsin.

WAR SCENES DESCRIBED

Duluth Man Receives Letter Telling of Conflict in Mexico.

Americans Cooped in Houses, With Firing All Around.

J. E. Hauter, religious secretary of the Duluth Y. M. C. A., is in receipt of a letter from his brother-in-law, J. P. Hauser of the City of Mexico, in which a graphic pen picture is given of the scenes in the city where the armies of the two aspirants to the throne of Mexico have been waging warfare.

Mr. Hauser tells of seeing a man killed by a mauser bullet on the corner of the block where he and his family and the families of many other American and English residents of the city are living, and this is supposed to be a neutral portion of the city.

Also a cannon ball crashed into the house across the street, while occasionally the scene was enlivened by shot screeching over the houses and raising clouds of dust in the fields beyond.

People Penned Up.

In a part of his letter Mr. Hauser tells of going out in the early hours of the morning and playing tennis and handball with a friend. This was before the firing was resumed. The people, penned up in the houses like animals, take advantage of a cessation in the firing to get some air.

Even the mailing of a letter was hedged about with difficulties. It proved extremely difficult to get to the postoffice. Mr. Hauser finally giving the epistle to a man on a motorcycle, trusting that he would get it through some of the lines of soldiers that were thrown out over the city.

The American consul provided automobiles and took many of the American residents to parts of the city where it was expected that there would be the least liability of danger. Many of these refugees—for they were practically that, according to the statement of Mr. Hauser—came to the Colonia Ronia, which was in the neutral zone. And yet, as the letter tells, even the people sequestered here were in constant terror of their lives and remained closeted like cloistered monks, only venturing forth occasionally to get the air.

Neutral Zone.

"The screech of the cannon balls was not so terrible as the awful silences that followed—silences filled with the gruesome portent of impending disaster," wrote Mr. Hauser. "A great many of the houses of the Colonia Ronia are filled with refugees from other parts of the city. The four foreign ministers called on Madero and later on Diaz and secured their consent to consider this part of the city as a neutral zone. Since then the firing has ceased coming this way, only occasional shots going over our heads and one striking the house across the street."

The letter gives an intimate picture of the serious conditions that abounded during the fiercest of the fighting in the City of Mexico, carrying the picture of the uncertainty of the fate of even those noncombatants that fled to what they considered the least dangerous parts of the metropolis of Mexico.

Dead soldiers on the streets bore mute evidence of the terrific combat that political ambition brought about. Added to this, Mr. Hauser writes, was the destruction on every hand that had been accomplished by the cannonading.

SUES RAILROAD AGAIN.

Great Northern Believes It Is Victim of Damage Suit Faker.

Wahpeton, N. D., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Great Northern officials believe they have discovered a damage suit faker in a man with whom the road settled here recently. He gave the name of Schmitt and claimed to have been paralyzed as a result of injuries received when his clothing caught on a projecting rod of a car. He was given $4,000. Afterwards, under an assumed name he sued the street railway at Portland, Or., but left suddenly when he thought his methods were suspected. More recently he started suit at Great Falls, Mont., against the Great Northern. His identity was suspected and the road had witnesses subpoenaed from here.

LODGING FOR DELEGATES

Duluth People Open Their Homes to Sunday School Convention Visitors.

Headquarters During Meeting Will Be at the McKay Hotel.

Every official delegate to the fifty-fifth annual convention of the Minnesota Sunday School association to be held at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, from Wednesday evening, March 26, to following Sunday evening, will receive lodging and breakfasts at the home of a Duluthian during his stay in the city. Extensive preparations for the entertainment of the delegates are now being made by the local committee, of which Rev. Edward Erickson of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church is chairman. Rev. Mr. Erickson stated yesterday afternoon that provision will be made for about 1,000 delegates. Local members of the association are allowing the use of their homes for the delegates during the convention. Every delegate is requested to send his or her name to Rev. Mr. Erickson so that rooming accommodations may be made as early as possible. Rev. Mr. Erickson also announced yesterday that the official headquarters of the convention would be at the McKay hotel, where the visiting speakers will room during their stay in the city. Reservations at the hotel were made yesterday afternoon. The luncheons and dinners will be served by the women of the Swedish Mission church at the Woodmen hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street, just one block from the convention gathering.

ANOTHER MEMBER OF ARSON TRUST GUILTY.

New York, March 15.—Henry C. Freeman, accused as a member of the "arson trust" that was revealed through the confession of a convict, was found guilty of arson in the second degree by a jury late yesterday.

Freeman fainted when the verdict was read. Judge Swann remanded him for sentence on Friday.

Freeman, an insurance adjuster, built up a business of $400,000 a year, from which he had an income of $25,000, according to his own confession on the stand. The state's leading witness was the convict, Isidor Stein, known as "Izzy the Painter." "Izzy" set fires for the trust, he has testified. His disclosures involved more than a score of adjusters. Freeman is the third to be found guilty. Others await trial. The "trust" is reputed to be a branch of a nation-wide band of incendiaries.

Bessemer

Bessemer, Mich., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a recent meeting of the Ontonagon board of supervisors a committee was appointed to investigate concerning engaging the services of a farm expert. It was found that in order to procure the government's aid, which is one-half of the farm expert's salary, a branch of the National Crop Improvement association, which is $500 per year for two years, it will be necessary to form county and township organizations.

The Michigan Bankers' association has appointed W. F. Truettner, cashier of the First National Bank of Bessemer, chairman of a committee consisting of W. F. Truettner, M. A. Hagerman, cashier of the People's State Bank of Bessemer, and C. E. O'Connor, cashier of the Gogebic National Bank of Ironwood, to act for Gogebic county and whose duty it will be to invite all other bankers of the county, the county supervisors, school superintendents, county commissioner of schools and any others who may be interested, to co-operate with them. The object of the organization is to ascertain whether the necessary funds can be obtained to secure a county farm adviser; to devise means to offer special prizes or premiums for best exhibits at county fair; to organize a pure bred stock association; to work up enough interest to secure pedigreed seed for spring planting. A similar committee has been appointed by the Michigan Bankers' association in every county.

A TEN CENT BOX OF "CASCARETS"

Keep Your Liver and Bowels Active and You Feel Bully for Months.

Put aside—just once—the Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oils or purgative waters which merely force a passageway through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage or alimentary organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.

Keep your inside organs pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, coated tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

FARMERS AT THIEF RIVER

Pennington County Soil Tillers to Have Week at County Seat.

County Fair Association Probably Will Have to Be Reorganized.

Thief River Falls, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city next week will be host to the farmers of Pennington county at a farmers' week, during which the soil tillers of this county will be entertained. A very comprehensive program has been arranged which covers almost all departments of agriculture and domestic science. All the different departments will be handled by the best authorities in the state on the various subjects.

The senior class play of the local high school, "A Modern Ananias," will be given. Miss Theoline Goodwin is rehearsing the class.

The Soo line, as soon as the frost is out of the ground, will spend about $10,000 in the extension of their tracks near the round house. The present amount of track is proving insufficient and it is estimated that three new lines each about 600 feet will be laid in order to meet the demand.

May Reorganize Fair.

The Pennington County Fair association has held two meetings of late to consider the proposition of reorganizing and purchasing a fair site. The grounds that have been used for the fair in the past will be platted next summer by its owner for residence lots. Hansen & Bargen have a 20-acre tract that would be suitable for a fair ground for which they ask $4,000. The tract is close to the city and is considered a favorable location.

CALGARY MAN WILL WALK AROUND WORLD.

Karlstad, Minn., March 15.—((Special to The Herald.)—Norman Granthum of Calgary, Alta., called at the local postoffice Thursday afternoon. Mr. Granthum left Calgary Jan 1, to walk around the world, which he had pledged himself to cover in four years. He carried with him no money but has some pictures of himself, which he gives to the postmasters at the towns through which he passes and they may give him what they please, but this is the only way he has of obtaining food and shelter as he is not allowed to beg or steal. At each town the postmaster is asked to fill out a card for him by which he will prove that he he has been there. When he arrived at Karlstad he had covered 1,050 miles of the distance and as this was slightly behind his schedule, he remained here only a few minutes. He intended to make Thief River Falls, a distance of thirty-five miles, by morning. Mr. Granthum is to receive $60,000 if he succeeds in walking the entire distance.

REMOVING LANDMARK.

Tearing Down Hudson Bay Factor's Home at Fort Frances.

Fort Frances, Ont., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—An early day landmark, the Hudson Bay Factor's home, is being torn down.

The old Hudson's Bay house has seen many changes and many ups and downs. A hundred years ago it was the mecca of all travelers which in those days were chiefly Hudson Bay company officials and fur traders passing from Fort William to Fort Garry (now Winnipeg). Its removal marks another era in the growth and development of Fort Frances and ere long it is not improbable but possible that what was the Hudson Bay trading post for a century and a quarter will be the site of a large factory employing hundreds of hands, using electrical power generated at the falls.

REAL ESTATE

MARCH BLIZZARD PUTS DAMPER ON REALTY MARKET

Weather Makes It Difficult for Agents to Close Deals.

Demand for Acreage Indicates Good Business in Farm Lands.

Inclement weather of the past week is responsible for a dull season of trading in the Duluth realty market. March snow storms, blizzards and sleet are anything but conducive to activity among the offices through which the trades are made. But in spite of the proverbial uncertainties of the March weather, there has been a fair volume of transfers put on record and some interesting deals have been closed up in the various offices.

With the advent of spring, it is expected that the "back-to-the-soil" movement will be bearing results again. There is no reason to believe but what this spring there will be a heavy trend in local real estate circles looking towards the breaking up of large unwieldly tracts of land, which have been held by the owners for years, but which under the impetus of the new slogan, will yield to the demands for small acreage tracts for truck garden and small farming purposes.

In acreage, inquiry still continues strong and a number of tracts of St. Louis county lands have changed hands during the past week. As far as the realty transfers indicate, the most important deal of the week in acreage as far as consideration is concerned, is the sale from Edward O'Connor to Mattie M. Coughlin of a section of land a few miles southeast of Floodwood. The property is described as section 7, 50-19. The consideration involved in the transfer is $9,100.

Chauncey Smith has sold to Oscar Peterson for $2,500 a house and lot fronting sixty feet on Fourth street, at the northeast corner of Fourth and Twentieth avenue east.

A frontage of forty-five feet on the east side of Ninth avenue east at its southeast corner with Ninth street was sold this week from Marcus Grande to Goodman Nordal for $2,300.

Myrtle C. Jones this week sold to Louis P. Hogstead for $2,300 a frontage of fifty feet on the upper side of Fifth street, between Tenth and Eleventh avenues east.

Eliza H. Janeway has disposed of a frontage of seventy-five feet on the lower side of Grand avenue between Sixty-fifth and Sixty-sixth avenues west to Martin R. Timlin for $1,100.

• • •

A. W. Puck has purchased a 50-foot frontage on the lower side of First street, between Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth avenues east, from John Caskie for $1,090.

Annie Halden and John P. Larson have each purchased lots fronting thirty-five feet on the west side of Seventeenth avenue east, between Third and Fourth streets, from Samuel Croll. The consideration for the lots was $900 each.

For $700 Michael Walzak has sold to Felix Krammie a frontage of forty-five feet on the east side of Twenty-fourth avenue east, between Fourth and Fifth street.

• • •

Through the Duluth Realty company, Carl Bergstrom has sold to Carroll G. Copp a lot fronting fifty feet on the lower side of London road, between Twenty-second and Twenty-third avenues east. The consideration was $570.

ANNOYED AT DELAY

Failure to Complete Road to Steel Plant Holds Back Improvements---Good Demand for Lots.

That there is absolutely no excuse which can justify the long delay in the improvement of the thoroughfare between West Duluth and the steel plant, a necessary preliminary to the building of the street car line to Gary and the new mills, is the opinion of many who are interested in seeing the street car extension.

A. W. Kuehnow, real estate operator at Gary, says: "It is a shame that the work undertaken last year was allowed to drag along for a period of months when it should have been completed in a few weeks. The Eighty-third avenue fill is in worse shape now than it was before an attempt was made to fix the thoroughfare at that point.

"At any event, the city should waste no more time in delays. The work should be pushed ahead for every delay means a postponement of the street car company's extension."

Building operations will hit a merry clip at Gary this spring. Mr. Kuehnow advises that one Michigan man has completed arrangements to erect a store building, 24 by 60, at Ninety-eighth avenue west and Gary street and that another buyer from the Wolverine State is planning on erecting two residences and one store on Ninety-ninth avenue west. Mr. Kuehnow disposed of four lots in Norton's division and two at Gary during the week.

T. H. Jones, sales manager for the Gary Land company, reports that inquiry was never better than it is at the present, but that owing to the inclement weather and the indisposition of buyers to get out and look at property there has been a check upon the sales.

The Home Realty company sold four Gary lots, two of them business sites which were disposed of at $1,100 apiece. The sales were put through by T. J. Boyanka, who advises that inquiry for the past week has been quite brisk, especially from outside places.

The Steel Plant Investment company, agents for Watson S. Moore, sold seven lots at Gary during the past week and has a number of deals pending which are expected to be closed up during the next few days. The lots sold were lots 20, 21 and 22 in block 41; lots 10 and 11 in block 37; and lots 1 and 2 in block 47.

Talks to Architects.

John M. Carson, who is connected with the office of J. J. Wangenstein, architect, gave a lecture on "Gothic Architecture" before the Duluth Architectural club at its meeting Thursday evening. There was a good turnout for the occasion.

Mr. Carson treated on the general principles and characteristics of the medieval designer, and during his talk brought out a number of interesting facts.

At the next meeting of the club, March 20, E. C. Gilluson will deliver an address on "The History of Reinforced Concrete" and W. H. Scheli will talk on "Building Hardware."

New Contracting Firm.

Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday with the register of deeds by E. A. Dahl & Co. of Duluth which has organized to engage in the general contracting and building business. The capital stock of the company is $50,000, divided into 500 shares at $100 each. The incorporators are E. A. Dahl, J. A. Robertson and R. M. Hughes.

Says Minot Man Robbed Him.

Minot, N. D., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—T. M. Christianson is charged with being a thief, and at a preliminary hearing held before Justice Lynch was bound over to the district court. His neighbor, Jacob Feldman, charges that he was drugged and robbed by Christianson of $50. Feldman also claims that after he regained consciousness Christianson offered to pay him $25 if he would say nothing about the affair.

NORTH BUTTE MINE NEVER IN BETTER SHAPE THAN NOW

Producing in Vicinity of 2,250,000 Pounds of Copper a Month.

Leaching Plants Turning Out Pure Copper at Very Low Cost.

Butte, Mont., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was never a time in the history of the North Butte company when it was in better condition than it is today, and there never was a time when more extensive development and improvements were in progress than at the present time. Within the past few months air connections have been made down to the 2,600-foot level, and in the course of a few days the air connections will be completed to the 2,800-foot level. There were levels in the North Butte where it was next to impossible for the miners to complete an eight-hour shift owing to the extreme heat and bad air, now all this has been remedied and the mine is generally conceded to be one of the best in the district to work in.

The North Butte company was one of the very first companies in the West to recognize the economy and advantage of installing an electric underground haulage and the doing away with the horses or mules. Today there are but a few horses employed hauling cars on upper levels where the mining is carried on in but a limited way. Motors are now in use on all levels from the 1,800 to the 2,800-foot level.

The company is continuing to produce in the vicinity of 2,250,000 pounds of copper a month and this rate will be maintained during the entire year, unless something unforeseen occurs. The Speculator shaft is examined regularly and is found to be good for at least six months without repairs.

The Granite Mountain shaft is now down to a depth of 2,200 feet and the work of lowering it at least another 600 feet is to be pushed along with all possible speed. At each level connection is being made with the Speculator and, when it is found necessary to close down the latter for retimbering, the North Butte will continue to produce the copper as the ore will be hoisted through the Granite Mountain. The greater part of the ore of the North Butte going to the smelter at the present time is coming from the 2,400-foot level.

Bullwhacker Leaching Plant.

M. C. Webster, who installed the Bullwhacker leaching plant, has gone to New York to arrange for additional tanks in connection with the enlargement of the plant from 50 tons to 250 tons of ore a day. The Bullwhacker people will not give out any figures as to the cost of producing the copper, simply making the statement that the management is well satisfied with the results and confident that the ore being mined can be treated at a handsome profit. Asked what he thought of the statement of J. D. Fields of the Butte & Duluth company that copper could be produced at 5 cents a pound direct from the ore, a Bullwhacker official said: "Well, maybe those people can turn out pure copper at 5 cents a pound, but they have got to show me. We have practically the same process and I know we can't do it. However, while I will not give out any figures at the present time, I will say that we can run our plant as cheap as the Butte & Duluth people and we can make all kinds of money." The Bullwhacker official, when closely questioned, said that the cost of turning out the copper ready for the market would not exceed 6 cents a pound. Both companies are making preparations for the enlargement of their plants and there seems no doubt that the officials have satisfied themselves that there is good money in the investments.

Barnes-King.

The Barnes-King company annual meeting resulted in the election of the old set of directors. The report was read and deemed highly satisfactory. General Manager McGee supplemented the statement with some interesting facts concerning development work in the North Moccasin mine up to date, showing that the ore body was a rich one, and that in the course of a few weeks there would not be the least trouble in operating the mill up to its full capacity of 200 tons a day. The returns for the February cleanup were not available to be presented to the meeting, but it was stated that there was not any question but that they would exceed the January cleanup by several thousand dollars. It was stated that the work at the Pelgan-Gloster property, which was secured by the company about the same time as the North Moccasin was purchased, was progressing very satisfactorily, and that the ore body would in all probability be encountered in the course of the next month.

Chemistry Department Burned.

The chemistry department of the Anaconda Copper Mining company smelter plant at Great Falls was totally destroyed by fire the other morning, entailing a loss of $25,000. The building contained a large supply of chemicals, together with some very expensive testing apparatus, all of which was totally destroyed. Adjoining buildings were saved after a hard fight by the company fire department. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Butte Central.

The Butte Central Copper company concentrates from the new mill are showing seventy-two ounces in silver and $16 in gold to the ton. On the coarse tables Supt. McConnell says that the recovery is about 70 per cent of the mineral contents of the ore, nearly 20 per cent better than expected. The first shipment of concentrates has been made.

Butte & Zenith City.

The Butte & Zenith City company, controlled by Duluth capitalists, which is operating claims five miles south of the city, has got a shaft down 300 feet and the manager reports having passed through some fine mineral ground. Manager Newton says that unless something occurs to alter present plans, when a depth of 500 feet is gone there will be some development work done and he expects to open up good commercial ore.

Davis-Daly.

Some development work is going on in the Colorado mine of the Davis-Daly company on the 1,700 and 1,900-foot levels, but not any ore bodies of importance have been discovered. Some miners have been given a lease on the upper levels and they claim to be shipping a good quality of ore. The crosscut from the Gagnon at the 2,000-foot level to encounter a supposed ore body in the Silver King is proceeding, and latest reports state the objective point has not been reached.

Rainbow Development.

The Rainbow Development company, which is controlled by Duluth capitalists with Thomas F. Cole and others as the heavy stockholders, is making good progress in shaft sinking. A depth of 250 feet has been attained and about 100 feet a month is being sunk. The shaft is a square one, 10 by 10½ feet. The sinking plant has a capacity of 800 feet, but just what depth is to be reached before some exploration work is to be done has not yet been determined. The property is surrounded by good producing mines and those in charge are very confident that at 800 feet some fine copper ore bodies will be encountered.

STATEMENT FAVORABLE

Annual Report of Calumet & Arizona Company Is Issued.

Net Income for Last Year Shown to Be $4,540,883.

The annual report of the Calumet & Arizona company for the year ended Dec. 31, 1912, was made public today. Following is a consolidated statement of the income and expenditures of the Calumet & Arizona and Superior & Pittsburg companies for the year:

Income.

Total earnings on copper, silver and gold	$9,083,888.16
Interest	45,520.39
Miscellaneous	2,459.30	$9,131,967.76
Expenditures.
Expenses at mines and smelter	$3,725,448.94
Salaries, office and general expenses	69,768.23
Freight, refining and marketing	752,755.91	4,547,973.08
		$4,583,991.68
Less items charged to profit and loss:
Expenses at outside properties	$ 41,692.14
Miscellaneous	1,419.40	43,111.54
Net income		$4,540,883.14

The net cost per pound of refined copper, after deducting values of precious metals, was 7.02 cents.

Directors' Report.

The directors present the following report of operations for the year ending Dec. 31, 1912:

"During the year ending Dec. 31, 1912, the production of refined copper amounted to 16,490,220 pounds; silver, 233,092 ounces, and gold, 9,066 ounces.

"The value of gold and silver amounted to $323,252.05, or $39.20 per ton of refined copper.

"The net cost per pound of refined copper produced, after deducting values of precious metals was .0856 cents.

"The average number of men employed for the year was 1,347. Of this number 692 were employed at the mine and 655 at the smelter.

"Dividends were paid during the year aggregating $2,542,781.25.

"New Cornelia—The option which we hold on the stock of New Cornelia Copper company of Ajo, Ariz., has been extended so that final payment on stock which has been placed in escrow need not be made until Oct. 1, 1913, by which time the value of the property should be proved. The full amount required at that time, if these options are exercised, will be about $800,000. For all money expended on the property under our option, we receive treasury stock of that company, so that our interest in the property, when the deal is finally consummated, will be approximately two-thirds of all issued stock.

Claims Under Option.

"Daggs-Newman—We have recently taken a very favorable option upon several groups of claims near Superior, Ariz., which have a promising surface showing. No payments are required under these options for two years, which should give ample time to thoroughly explore the ground for mineral values.

"American-Saginaw—We have under consideration the acquisition of the mineral lands at present owned by the American-Saginaw Development company, which are immediately adjacent to our Superior and Pittsburg Copper company and which are cut by the Dividend Fault for several thousand feet and are in line with the ore bodies we have opened up tributory to our Junction and Briggs shafts. This is the largest tract of promising mineral land available within reasonable distance of developed ore bodies in the Warren district and should be a valuable addition to our territory. The consideration is to be 16,000 shares of the stock of this company. The issuance of this additional stock will not interfere with the amount of dividends paid upon present stock issued as it will be carried at a cost of only about ⅛ cent a pound upon our production.

"The net income of the Calumet & Arizona for the year was $2,932,717.93. The balance sheet shows a surplus on Dec. 31 of $9,162,847.97.

General Manager Greenway makes a lengthy report on the mining operations and development of properties and of the progress of work on the new smelter. Concerning the latter he says it is believed that the plant will be put in operation within the time originally estimated, Aug. 1, 1913.

The year's income of the Superior & Pittsburg company was $9,206,665.76, and the expenditures were $2,813,046.76, leaving a net income of $3,393,618.94. The balance sheet of this company shows a surplus of $2,785,308.65.

Large Body of Sulphide.

General Manager Greenway says: "The work done on the 1,300-foot level of the Briggs shaft leads us to think that we have partially developed one of the largest bodies of sulphide ore yet found in Bisbee.

"The ore found late last year in No. 97 cross-cut on the Rathmoon claim has been extended southerly into the Nellie claim for a total distance of 520 feet. The average height of this ore above the 1,300-foot level has been found, by raising at various points, to be just over 35 feet. It is irregular in width, but must average 45 feet. The grade of copper varies from 2 per cent to 30 per cent, averaging approximately 7 per cent.

"South of this ore body, with the same general strike, a second body of sulphide ore 420 feet long, but of narrow width, has been developed; the maximum cross-cut in this ore being 25 feet, and the average width being about 10 feet. Raises in this ore indicate height of ore above the 1,300-foot level not to exceed 20 feet. There is only 170 feet of ground between these ore bodies, and the chances are they will ultimately connect at some point. The probability of ore on the 1,400-foot level under these ore bodies is excellent."

DECREASE IN PRODUCTION

Smaller Output of Lake Superior Copper Mines in February.

Heavy Snows Interfered With Haul of Rock to Mills.

Houghton, Mich., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The output of the Lake Superior mines for February is estimated at 15,781,976 pounds. This production compares with an estimated output of 17,858,710 pounds in January and with an estimated output of 18,185,141 pounds in February, 1912. The unusually small production in this month was due to unfavorable climatic conditions in which heavy snows seriously interfered with the transportation of rock from the mine to the mills, the rock haul in many instances being more than twenty miles. Production in detail was as follows:

	Pounds.
Ahmeek	1,061,995
Allouez	475,535
Baltic	1,089,900
Calumet & Hecla	4,794,233
Centennial	153,010
Champion	1,284,500
Franklin	186,500
Isle Royale	534,693
Lake	112,500
Mass	300,000
Mohawk	990,000
Osceola	1,162,810
Quincy	1,331,800
Superior	180,573
Tamarack	563,885
Trimountain	597,240
Victoria	100,000
Winona	180,000
Wolverine	612,800
Total	16,781,976

Adventure.

The Adventure Consolidated Mining company has suspended operations in the several so-called Adventure lodes, which are opened by a crosscut on the 1,500-foot level of No. 5, or exploratory shaft. All activity is now centered in diamond drilling in the horizon of the South Lake lodes, where a drill outfit is seeking the westerly extension of the several copper bearing amygdaloids recently discovered in the South Lake acreage. This drill hole has attained a depth of about 400 feet. The exploratory work in the Adventure lodes, just abandoned, opened four copper bearing lodes of some promise, and it was hoped that commercial ground would develop, but results are altogether discouraging after more than a year's work. The area in the immediate vicinity of this shaft was further investigated by means of a diamond drill operating from the bottom of the shaft. This work yielded some copper showings but was not sufficiently encouraging to warrant a continuation of work at this time, and all activity here is now stopped as noted.

Laurium.

The Laurium is pushing development work on the several levels from the eleventh to fourteenth inclusive. The shaft has reached a depth of about 1,500 feet. The company is opening new ground at the rate of 3,500 feet annually. Monthly expenses are around $4,500. The net results of the company's operations to date are not altogether encouraging, though an excellent grade of copper rock is in evidence in several of the south drifts. The formation is rather narrow and the copper content low.

Keweenaw.

The Keweenaw has practically completed Drill Hole No. 39 at a depth of 660 feet, and is preparing to begin Drill Hole No. 41 east and north of Drill Hole No. 40. The No. 40 hole, which is about 500 feet east of Hole No. 39 and somewhat nearer the presumed outcrop of the Ashbed lode, has reached the ledge and is sinking steadily. The first hole of the present series, designated as Hole No. 38, entered the Ashbed lode at about 500 feet and disclosed average ground in a formation approximately twenty feet thick. This formation will be cut in turn by Holes Nos. 40 and 41 at points further east.

Superior.

The Superior continues to open copper ground of exceptional richness in the so-called West lode. A better grade of rock is also showing in the newer depths in the Main vein. The shaft, which is sinking directly in the latter formation, has reached the twentieth level. The bulk of attention continues centered in the West lode. Work in the No. 2 shaft is confined to sinking. This shaft, which will be sunk to the seventeenth level for the purpose of connecting up with a drift south from the No. 1 shaft, has reached the sixteenth level. The company's output is now being treated in the Centennial-Allouez mill, where a unit especially designed for the treatment of Superior rock, is effecting a saving somewhat greater than was obtained in the old Atlantic mill. About 500 tons of rock is being treated daily. The copper yield has recently been as high as thirty-five pounds mineral.

Indiana.

The Indiana is centering all activity in shaft work. A depth of approximately 1,350 feet has been attained. The ground through which the shaft is sinking has recently changed from hard rock to softer ground, and working conditions are now somewhat better than they have been. The feisteite bed, which has all along been the object of search in this territory, should be encountered at a depth of about 1,400 feet, and is expected to show native copper at about 1,450 feet. The shaft is sinking at the rate of 60 to 65 feet per month, and at this rate should carry the shaft into the deposit about the middle of April.

North Lake.

The North Lake is sinking in a sandstone formation at a depth of 180 feet. Shaft work is progressing at the rate of 60 to 70 feet monthly. The shaft will likely not encounter anything of importance short of a depth of 1,000 feet, but unless present plans are changed a crosscut will be run on the 500-foot level to a copper bearing formation previously disclosed in diamond drilling.

NEGOTIATING FOR SNOWSHOE MINE

Option at $125,000 Asked on Coeur d'Alene Property.

Spokane, Wash., March 15.—An option at the rate of $125,000 for control of the Snowshoe property, in the Mullan section of the Coeur d'Alene region, is being negotiated for, according to a circular letter addressed to stockbrokers by Fred Stroh of Wallace, secretary of the Snowshoe Mining company. R. E. M. Strickland of Spokane is mentioned in mining circles as the man negotiating the property in behalf of clients. "The prospective buyers ask for a short-time option on your stock at 12½ cents per share," states Mr. Stroh. "They agree to pay either the full amount in cash within ninety days from March 1, or return your stock at the expiration of that period. Should the company levy an assessment between that date and June 1, the parties seeking the option have agreed to pay such assessment on any stock that has been optioned to them." The Snowshoe is favorably situated with reference to the copper-bearing belt penetrated in the Snowstorm and the National and has been opened to great depth by tunnels and other workings.

OPERATIONS TO BE INCREASED

Elenita Mine of Greene-Cananea to Become Active Again.

Cananea, Mex., March 15.—The shaft of the Duluth mine of the Greene-Cananea company is soon to be deepened, work to commence this week. It is now 670 feet and is to go to the 870-foot level. The belt conveyor recently installed at this mine is proving entirely satisfactory. It does away with 500 feet of tramming.

The Elenita mine, idle for the past eight years, is to go in operation. Although considered a good one, this property has been idle on account of location, being difficult to reach. With completion of the motor tunnel to the property in the spring, isolation will be removed. In the meantime the tunnel from Puertecitos, run to the Elenita recently, will furnish temporary means of transporting ores to the railroad. This tunnel is connected with an old tunnel in the Elenita by means of a raise.

The new Capote shaft is down to the 600-foot level and will soon be to the 700-foot level, as the raising from the latter level is almost through, probably being completed this week. Drifts are being run on the 800, 900 and 1,000-foot levels to the shaft and connecting raises will be made. The shaft will bottom at 1,000-foot level when completed.

HICKEY AGAIN HEADS TUOLUMNE

Nearly Five Million Pounds of Copper Produced Last Year.

Butte, Mont., March 15.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Tuolumne Copper Mining company held Monday the following directors were elected: Edward Hickey, Ray J. McDonald, J. W. Pratt, Daniel Shields, and Charles R. Leonard of Butte, N. J. Bielenberg of Deer Lodge and T. E. Murray of St. Paul. Mr. Hickey was re-elected president of the directors, Mr. McDonald second vice president and J. W. Pratt third vice president.

President Hickey made the following report:

"The production of the company during the year 1912 was 46,683 tons of ore, the same containing 4,716,047 pounds of copper, 131,867 ounces of silver and 260 ounces of gold.

"The average copper contents of the first class ore mined during the year was 7.35 per cent. The average value of the silver was 3.38 ounces. The average value of the second class ore was 4.05 per cent, and of the silver 2.58 ounces per ton. The gross value of these metals was $739,196.08. The net value after deducting smelter and freight charges was $415,528.55."

The financial statement shares told receipts of $484,012.34 and net cash on hand Dec. 31, 1912, $202,762.50.

PILOT-BUTTE IN GOOD POSITION

Report Shows There Is $100,000 on Hand for Development.

Butte, Mont., March 15. — That the Pilot-Butte Mining company has $100,000 on hand and is in a splendid position to push development was shown by a statement given out at the meeting of directors held Monday in the company's head office in the State Savings bank building.

The report was made up to the close of the year, when there was $55,000 on hand. Since then 10,000 shares of treasury stock have been sold. Now that the company is in strong financial shape to go forward with its work it is expected that some rich ore bodies will be uncovered.

Following is the board of directors: Edward Hickey, J. W. Pratt, Charles R. Leonard, Patrick Shechan, John J. McHatton, N. J. Bielenberg, W. P. Jahn, L. I. Crossley and T. E. Murray.

Edward Hickey was again elected president at the meeting of directors. L. I. Crossley is first vice president, J. W. Pratt, second vice president and treasurer, and J. J. Harrington, secretary.

WORKING AGAIN AT INSPIRATION

Outcome of the Flotation Tests Not Yet Made Public.

Globe, Ariz., March 15.—At the Inspiration Consolidated Copper company's plant operations are assuming normal conditions since the severe weather that obtained during the latter part of February has abated. With the resumption of transportation and concomitant supply of fuel, work at the shafts has reached its average gait and the surface construction crews have been able to return to their labor.

The outcome of the flotation tests at the Inspiration test mill have not yet been given to the public although that manner of extraction of low grade ores has proven successful elsewhere, but in formations differing from that of the Miami district.

Construction of the foundations that will support the electric power line towers between Roosevelt dam and Inspiration are nearing this end of the line, the advance camp already being at Wheatfields.

NEW MANHOOD

The Dr. Lorenz Electro Body Battery is the greatest self-cure for weakness and debility the world has ever known. No drugs, no medicine, no dieting, no unusual demands of any sort, just cease all dissipation and this invention will do the work. It sends a stream of vital life into your nerves, organs and blood during the time you are asleep. It also cures rheumatism, weak back, nervousness, stomach, liver and kidney disorders, varicocele, and stops losses. Dr. Lorenz Dry Cell Storage Battery is a high grade battery, requires no charging with vinegar or acids, is 300 per cent easier applied, gives 400 per cent greater service, and is sold at a low price without added cost for fancy books.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Annual Cap and Gown Parade Is Scheduled for April 3.

Senior Advisory System for Freshmen Is Being Considered.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—April 3 will be Senior day as well as Cap and Gown day. At noon on that day the Cap and Gown parade will be held. This is the first appearance of the academic robes on the campus of the year. The seniors march through the campus gate to chapel, where the president receives them and gives them a heart-to-heart talk. The announcement of the Phi Beta Kappa elections will be made at that time. As a fitting close to the festivities of the day the seniors will make merry at an informal banquet in the evening at the Leamington. After a brief program of stunts and speeches there will be dancing. The arrangements are in the hands of the general social committee of the class.

The following week another senior informal will be given, but this time on the campus instead of in a downtown hall. This party will be given in the university armory. As soon after this as the weather will permit the senior agricultural students will entertain the senior class at a picnic on the "Aggie" campus.

A senior advisory system for freshmen is being considered by the students and it is receiving some support from the faculty. The Academic Student council has expressed itself in favor of the plan.

It is proposed to have the council choose each spring, on the advice of various other organizations, about forty or fifty junior men to act as advisers for the next academic year. Each one will be assigned a number of freshmen and will aid those of his group who need help to register and adjust themselves to their new environment. It is generally admitted that the present faculty advisership system is not wholly successful. Once begun it is believed this system would become an established and a distinctively Minnesota tradition, and the appointment of men to the advisorships would be considered a distinct honor. It is also pointed out that this would do a great deal for the seniors and as what one gets out of college is measured, in a degree, by what he puts into it, the upper classmen will welcome the opportunity for service.

England's popular lecturer-concert singer, A. Foxton Ferguson, a graduate of Magdalen college, Oxford, discussed "The Folk Songs and Folk Lore of England," before the students in chapel Thursday. Mr. Ferguson illustrated his lecture by singing a great many folk songs and ballads.

Perhaps the most entertaining talk heard in chapel this year was the one given on Wednesday by William Faversham, designated by Prof. Richard Burton as the greatest actor-manager in America at the present time.

Last night the annual girls' basket ball tournament was held in the Armory. The Armory was gaily decorated for the occasion. Each class had a corner, profusely decorated in the class colors. Each team wore uniforms in the class colors. The fair players were ably supported by rooters fair and unfair, who sang class songs and gave class cheers enthusiastically. One of the features of the evening was the entrance of the different teams. Each class had a mascot and planned a unique pageant with which to introduce their players. This feature was very novel. Besides the basket ball contests between the girls' teams the cadet crack squad gave an exhibition drill and the "gym" class gave some fancy dances.

This tournament was the culmination of a series of athletic contests for girls. The skating contest proved a great success and helped make skating one of the most popular diversions for the students this winter.

The swimming contest brought out a great number of contenders for the prize and stimulated the interest of the girls in swimming.

St. Patrick's day is coming and so is the Irish banquet. A race war was narrowly averted over this banquet because the Scandinavian society had engaged Shevlin hall for the evening of March 16. The Irish declaration of hostilities had its effect and after the question was arbitrated before the powers, the Scandinavians agreed to withdraw and let the Irish have Shevlin hall on that night. "Dinny" Sullivan will tell stories on that evening and Johnny McGovern will tell tales of Ireland and "the big wind" and jigs and songs by other prominent campus Hibernians. The toastmaster has not been selected yet, but he will be some prominent man from over town.

The annual freshman-sophomore oratorical contest was held in chapel last week. Seven contestants, survivors of several elimination contests, strove in the finals for the Maurice L. Rothschild prize of $100 which was divided proportionately among the three highest men. One of the unusual features was the oration of George Okuda, a native Japanese, in eulogy of the late mikado of Japan. Rupert D. O'Brien, D. C. H. S., 1910, spoke on "Abraham Lincoln," very effectively.

WHEAT TREND IS BEARISH

News Received Today Was Almost Entirely of That Character.

Demand for Flaxseed Continues Dull and Price Keeps Sagging.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 15.—Wheat worked considerably lower on the North American markets today, in spite of the recent declines. The news that was received from all sides today was almost uniformly of a bearish character. There was very little demand either foreign or domestic for American wheat. The flour movement was reported sluggish. Crop reports from the winter wheat regions continued favorable. The primary receipts of the United States were large compared with those of a year ago. Reports received enlarging not a little on previous estimates of the country's reserve of wheat.

Duluth May wheat today closed ⅝c lower and July ½c off. Cash wheat closed 1½-2c under May. Durum closed ¼c to ½c off, oats ¼c off and rye and barley unchanged.

Liverpool wheat today closed ⅛@¼d lower. Predictions of large world shipments to the United Kingdom, less continental inquiry for the Platte grades and the bearish Modern Miller's report of yesterday all beared the market, but the decline was checked by the reported steadiness at Buenos Ayres and news of damage to the Argentine wheat crop.

Flax Works Lower.

The flaxseed market of Duluth today was very narrow, little being offered, while the demand was still less than the supply. The cash price of flaxseed at Minneapolis closed at $1.24¾, being 1@1¼c under the cash price at Duluth. Winnipeg May closed at $1.11¾, being 15½c under the closing May price at Duluth. Duluth May flaxseed closed at a decline of ½c and July ¼c off.

Rycroft wired from Chicago: "The decline in wheat has only brought prices down to the same level at which it sold three months ago. In December, May wheat sold at 88½c, just where it now is. Since that time conditions that govern prices have become much more bearish. An Argentine crop that is probably a record has been secured and is now being shipped upon a scale never before equalled. The peril of winter danger for our own crop is passed and we enter spring with a prospect as nearly perfect as has been seen in many years. The danger of general trouble growing out of the Balkan war is past. We now know that we hold on the farm, in spite of the big movement, a volume of wheat far greater than was exported. Every condition has become more bearish than it was, and I believe that the decline in prices has only begun."

Bartlett-Frazier wired from Chicago: "Available supplies of wheat for export and carry over July 1st are 107,000,000 bu, as estimated by the Daily Trade Bulletin, compared with 74,000,000 bu last year. The returns to July, 1912, showed that the crop was undoubtedly underestimated and that supplies on July 1, last year should have been 96,000,000 bu. Exports from March 1 to July 1 last year were 18,000,000 bu. On the basis of 25,000,000 bu exported in the four months this year, there would remain 32,000,000 bu."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Stop-Loss Selling Causes Wheat Prices to Decline.

Chicago, March 15.—Stop-loss selling of wheat today caused prices to decline from the start. Lower cables and the bearish crop outlook were the chief influences against the bulls. Additional moisture in the Central West and the Southwest tended also to depress the market. The opening was a shade to ⅛@⅜c lower. May started at 89@89¼c, the same change from last night as the market taken altogether and fell to 88½c.

From this price which was a new low mark for the season on May the market reacted but slightly. The close was unsettled with May ⅜@¾c net lower at 88¾c.

Free offerings of corn by longs weakened that cereal, May opened a shade lower to ⅛c higher at 51½@51¾@¾o and dropped to 51¼c.

Afterward the market went still lower in sympathy with wheat. The close, however, was firm with May at 51¼c, a net loss of a shade.

Oats suffered because buying was only of the scattered sort. May, which started a shade lower to ⅛c under May at $20.67½@20.70 for pork; $10.65@10.67½ to $10.67½ for lard, and $10.80 for ribs.

STOCKS MAKE LOW RECORDS

Market Rises After Early Heaviness But Sells Off Again.

Speculation Reflects Uncertainty on Problems Overhanging Market.

New York, March 15.—Trading was unusually dull when the stock market opened today. Changes for the most part were confined to small fractions, a majority of them losses. Southern Pacific opened fractionally lower at 98⅛, touched yesterday's bottom, but quickly reacted to 98¾. New Haven receded 1¼ to 118½, a new low figure. Goodrich declined a point.

Better prices were made in the later dealings. Southern Pacific rose to 99 and losses in other active issues were retrieved. Traction stocks averaged a point higher and were more active than usual.

The market closed heavy. Speculation today reflected the uncertainty as to the working out of various problems overhanging the market. Nothing definite was disclosed regarding the solution of the Harriman tangle, although advices received by some Wall street houses favored the view that the revised dissolution plan would be accepted by the California railroad commission.

Foreign markets reflected the dullness of the approaching Easter holidays and although London prices for American issues were easier, nothing of importance was done here for foreign account.

Early heaviness in which some new low records were made, was not of long duration, the market soon rising to above yesterday's close. In the last few minutes selling of Reading and Union Pacific forced the general list off again. Bonds were irregular.

London Stocks.

London, March 15.—American securities were quiet and irregular. Business was checked by uncertainty regarding the Harriman dissolution and fears of a poor New York bank statement. The closing was quiet with values ranging from ¼ above to ½ below Friday's New York closing.

Cotton Market.

New York, March 15.—Cotton market opened steady at an advance of 4 to 7 points. Realizing checked the advance around the opening figures and fluctuations during the early session were somewhat irregular. Offerings were not aggressive, and there appeared to be a considerable demand from foreign and Southern sources. The weather map showed considerable rain in the belt again this morning.

Futures closed steady; bids: March, 12.21; April, 12.06; May, 11.96; June, 11.90; July, 11.89; August, 11.80; September, 11.49; October, 11.44; December, 11.45; January, 11.41. Spot quiet. Middling uplands, 12.60; middling gulf, 12.85; sales, none.

GIRLS FEED WELL ON $2.50 PER WEEK

Four Students at University of Wisconsin Demonstrate It.

Madison, Wis., March 15.—Four adults leading fairly active lives can be supplied well balanced meals at a cost of $2.50 a week each. This is the conclusion of those in charge of "practice cottage" of the University of Wisconsin home economics department, where young women are taught practical home-making.

Four young women take entire charge of the preparation of meals at the cottage each week. The girls not only do all the cooking and serving but also all the marketing and planning of the various meals.

A sample menu for one day shows that at a cost of $2.50 a week per person the girls were able to serve bacon, oranges, poached eggs, toast and coffee for breakfast; cream tomato soup, spaghetti with onion sauce, hot rolls, baked apples and chocolate for luncheon, and bouillon, beef pot roast, browned potatoes, fruit salad, fresh cake and whipped cream and coffee for dinner.

BLIZZARD GRIPS UPPER PENINSULA.

Calumet, Mich., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The entire Lake Superior district of Northern Michigan is overwhelmed with snow in a blizzard that has been raging the past twenty-four hours. There has been a 16-inch snowfall. Last night a 50-mile gale raged. The temperature was above zero. All trains and electric lines schedules are set back.

If you are "easily satisfied" with your boarding place, it will not be long before nothing else will matter much, either.

CHILD'S MIND IS A PUZZLE

Rhode Island Girl Can Tell the Names of Strangers.

Strange Second Sight Stunts Done By the Child.

Marie Coolidge Rusk in the St. Louis Post Dispatch: Little Beulah Miller, a simple child, living in a little, unpretentious cottage some distance from Warren, a suburb of Providence, R. I., can tell you your name, no matter where you are from. She will spell it for you, slowly, thoughtfully, as she looks at the ceiling and blinks her large blue eyes, even though no one for hundreds of miles around knows what your name really is except yourself.

She will tell you if you are a newspaper investigator and, if you ask her kindly, and unexpectedly at a time when she is not disturbed by many people and events, the names of your various relatives living in distant states, the name of the paper you represent and the name of the editor of the paper.

She will tell you how much money you have in your pocket, giving the denomination of the coins and the various dates of coinage. No matter what part of the house you stand in, no matter how you turn the hands of your watch, she will tell you the time they indicate. If you put cards down on the floor and turn them in various ways she will tell you correctly the character of each one you call for.

There are many other things that Beulah Miller can do that have not been overestimated by those who know her.

Gives Her the Headache.

The fact that the little girl complains of severe headaches which continue for a considerable length of time after a demonstration of her remarkable ability makes the townspeople of Warren as well as the many visitors from a distance extremely considerate in their requests.

Several months ago Rev. Herman W. Watjen, pastor of the Baptist church, where Beulah goes to Sunday school, called public attention to the little girl, with the result that unless care is immediately taken her unusual powers will be overtaxed by unscientific investigators.

Mr. Watjen, Mrs. Watjen, Miss Reynolds, a school teacher, and Mr. Williams, the ticket agent, and I went to see a demonstration of Beulah's work.

Miss Reynolds took the little girl a gift. Mr. Williams purposed giving her all the coins she succeeded in describing. He also carried a deck of cards with which he purposed to make the usual tests. By way of variety I carried a package of "cracker-jacks."

Entering, we met Mrs. Miller and three young girls who stood shyly near the doorway.

"The little girl in the center is Beulah," whispered Mr. Watjen as the writer entered.

"Is that the little girl," was my reply, though the child had gone into the next room. "I would like to shake hands with her, but I cannot put down my muff, even to get warm. It hides the gift I bought her, and I didn't want to give it to her until she first told me what it was."

The children laughed. Beulah's eyes danced.

The Hidden Gift.

"I'll tell you now," she cried, blinking rapidly and glancing toward the ceiling. Her lips commenced to move as though speaking, but no sound came.

"Let Gladys, her sister, pass behind you," whispered Mr. Watjen. "If she has a glimpse of it Beulah can tell more quickly."

"Come in, Gladys," he called.

Gladys, a girl of 13, entered, gave the most casual glance at the contents of the muff and stood looking out the window of the front door, while almost instantly Beulah, from her perch on the edge of a chair in the next room wriggled with childish excitement.

"I know," she exclaimed, half laughingly. "It's B—O—X—"

"But what is in it?" chorused several voices.

"C—O—R—N—"

The reply came without a moment's hesitation. The next two minutes Beulah was sampling the reward of her efforts.

Mr. Williams, fishing about in his pocket for something that jingled, said, "Now then, Gladys, take a look at this."

Gladys, the elder sister, looked. Then she immediately joined in conversation with Miss Reynolds, and seemed to give no further thought to the matter. Mr. Williams walked over to the next room and interrupted the popcorn party.

"Now, Beulah," he remarked, "I've got a piece of money in my hand. Tell me how much it is and what figures are on it and I will give it to you."

The next moment Beulah was rejoicing over the possession of half a dollar.

"I wonder if you can tell the people here where my home is?" I inquired, taking hold of her hand.

"B—r—o—"

Beulah spelled the first three letters rapidly. Then she hesitated an instant as she pronounced the second o. There was a long pause before the next letter. Miss Reynolds whispered to Gladys. (They were too far away for any sound to carry and Gladys was completely out of sight of Beulah.) Instantly, however, the latter was enabled to overcome the stumbling block, and pronounced "k" with confidence. The other three letters of "Brooklyn" followed in quick succession, but there was no falling inflection of the voice when the last letter was reached. The little girl always pauses abruptly, as though reading disconnected letters, and waits to be told whether she has really "spelled anything," as she expresses it.

Another Strange Feat.

"But you don't know my name," I remarked, thinking that at all events no one would know that but myself.

"Yes I do." The little hand of the youthful mind reader flashed back and forth before her eyes as though she were brushing away cobwebs that obstructed her mental vision. "I know," she persisted, sighing heavily again. "It's——"

Then she spelled the name. Not a letter was missing, except that she used a "y" in the first name instead of an "ie." Not one other person in the room knew either name.

"There is something a long way from here that I am interested in," remarked to Beulah, who had gone over to the window and seated herself rather wearily beside her mother. "It is not a person. It is not a book. Can you tell me the name of that which I have in mind?"

The childish effort was manifest. The little girl breathed more and more heavily. Her eyes closed. She made several mistakes and corrected herself. "S-u——" she exclaimmed quickly, and then upon our amazed and almost unbelieving ears there fell the loud and distinct utterance of every letter contained in the name of a popular magazine.

The little speaker was decidedly exhausted when she had finished the remarkable demonstration.

"Yes," she sighed, "my head aches. I think it will ache a long time now. It will stop after awhile," she added, cheerfully, to reassure us. "I'll go out now and play with the lamb awhile."

She grasped her cap and jacket as she spoke and followed us out of the door and into the yard, where the lamb was bleating for attention.

The visit had included many other tests besides those enumerated. Mr. Williams had paid special attention to the playing cards, and once, when Beulah was in animated conversation with Miss Reynolds he had suddenly inquired what card he had turned over. Instantly, Beulah ceased speaking, glanced toward the ceiling, then laughed heartily.

"Oh," she exclaimed, "you didn't turn any over."

It was true.

Beulah possesses rather large features, a mouth that denotes character and that she opens well when she laughs. Her lashes are long and dark and her eyes a deep blue, like her mother's. She is an interesting little girl quite aside from her peculiar mentality, and a favorite with all who know her.

DR. SIMON FLEXNER DISCOVERS GERM

Said to Be That Which Has Caused Infantile Paralysis.

Baltimore, Md., March 15.—The announcement made to an audience of medical men here last night by Dr. Simon Flexner, director of Rockefeller Institute of Research, New York city, that he has found the germ which causes infantile paralysis, has aroused the keenest interest among scientists and local physicians, eminent in their profession, who regard it as one of the most important discoveries of recent years.

Dr. Flexner, who stated that the organism was one of the smallest which has ever been identified, said that in the cultivation of it, the use of a medium freed from oxygen had been found necessary and that because it could grow only in the absence of oxygen it never would be found in blood or in any cavity containing oxygen. In the cultivation of it tissue infected with the virus was placed in a receptacle from which the air was drawn by means of a vacuum pump and under the resultant condition the virus was propagated.

In the course of his experiments, he said he had employed for observation insects which were allowed to bite monkeys infected with the disease and had found that the insects thus became infected with the germ and retained it for a period of eight days but he had not succeeded in infecting monkeys with the disease by having them bitten by insects so infected.

The discovery of a serum for the cure of the disease is looked upon by medical men here as practicable and possible early to be accomplished.

THE PETITION OF Antonia Amatuzio having been filed in this Court, representing, among other things, that Donato Amatuzio, then being a resident of the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, died intestate, in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, on the 21st day of January, 1913, leaving estate in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, and that said petitioner is the surviving spouse of said decedent and praying that Letters of Administration of the estate of said decedent be granted to her, the said Antonia Amatuzio.

IT IS ORDERED, That said petition be heard before this Court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House in Duluth, in said County, on Monday, the 24th day of March, 1913, at ten o'clock A. M., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required at said time and place to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted.

ORDERED FURTHER, That this order be served by publication in The Duluth Herald, according to law, and that a copy of this Order be served on the County Treasurer of St. Louis County not less than ten days prior to said day of hearing.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., March 1st, 1913.

By the Court,
S. W. GILPIN,
Judge of Probate.

Attest:
ARTHUR E. TEMPLETON,
Clerk of Probate.
(Seal, Probate Court, St. Louis Co., Minn.)

GIRLS FEED WELL ON $2.50 PER WEEK

Four Students at University of Wisconsin Demonstrate It.

Madison, Wis., March 15.—Four adults leading fairly active lives can be supplied well balanced meals at a cost of $2.50 a week each. This is the conclusion of those in charge of "practice cottage" of the University of Wisconsin home economics department, where young women are taught practical home-making.

Four young women take entire charge of the preparation of meals at the cottage each week. The girls not only do all the cooking and serving but also all the marketing and planning of the various meals.

A sample menu for one day shows that at a cost of $2.50 a week per person the girls were able to serve bacon, oranges, poached eggs, toast and coffee for breakfast; cream tomato soup, spaghetti with onion sauce, hot rolls, baked apples and chocolate for luncheon, and bouillon, beef pot roast, browned potatoes, fruit salad, fresh cake and whipped cream and coffee for dinner.

BLIZZARD GRIPS UPPER PENINSULA.

Calumet, Mich., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The entire Lake Superior district of Northern Michigan is overwhelmed with snow in a blizzard that has been raging the past twenty-four hours. There has been a 16-inch snowfall. Last night a 50-mile gale raged. The temperature was above zero. All trains and electric lines schedules are set back.

If you are "easily satisfied" with your boarding place, it will not be long before nothing else will matter much, either.

CHILD'S MIND IS A PUZZLE

Rhode Island Girl Can Tell the Names of Strangers.

Strange Second Sight Stunts Done By the Child.

Marie Coolidge Rusk in the St. Louis Post Dispatch: Little Beulah Miller, a simple child, living in a little, unpretentious cottage some distance from Warren, a suburb of Providence, R. I., can tell you your name, no matter where you are from. She will spell it for you, slowly, thoughtfully, as she looks at the ceiling and blinks her large blue eyes, even though no one for hundreds of miles around knows what your name really is except yourself.

She will tell you if you are a newspaper investigator and, if you ask her kindly, and unexpectedly at a time when she is not disturbed by many people and events, the names of your various relatives living in distant states, the name of the paper you represent and the name of the editor of the paper.

She will tell you how much money you have in your pocket, giving the denomination of the coins and the various dates of coinage. No matter what part of the house you stand in, no matter how you turn the hands of your watch, she will tell you the time they indicate. If you put cards down on the floor and turn them in various ways she will tell you correctly the character of each one you call for.

There are many other things that Beulah Miller can do that have not been overestimated by those who know her.

Gives Her the Headache.

The fact that the little girl complains of severe headaches which continue for a considerable length of time after a demonstration of her remarkable ability makes the townspeople of Warren as well as the many visitors from a distance extremely considerate in their requests.

Several months ago Rev. Herman W. Watjen, pastor of the Baptist church, where Beulah goes to Sunday school, called public attention to the little girl, with the result that unless care is immediately taken her unusual powers will be overtaxed by unscientific investigators.

Mr. Watjen, Mrs. Watjen, Miss Reynolds, a school teacher, and Mr. Williams, the ticket agent, and I went to see a demonstration of Beulah's work.

Miss Reynolds took the little girl a gift. Mr. Williams purposed giving her all the coins she succeeded in describing. He also carried a deck of cards with which he purposed to make the usual tests. By way of variety I carried a package of "cracker-jacks."

Entering, we met Mrs. Miller and three young girls who stood shyly near the doorway.

"The little girl in the center is Beulah," whispered Mr. Watjen as the writer entered.

"Is that the little girl?" was my reply, though the child had gone into the next room. "I would like to shake hands with her, but I cannot put down my muff, even to get warm. It hides the gift I bought her, and I didn't want to give it to her until she first told me what it was."

The children laughed. Beulah's eyes danced.

The Hidden Gift.

"I'll tell you now," she cried, blinking rapidly and glancing toward the ceiling. Her lips commenced to move as though speaking, but no sound came.

"Let Gladys, her sister, pass behind you," whispered Mr Watjen "if she has a glimpse of it Beulah can tell more quickly."

"Come in, Gladys," he called.

Gladys, a girl of 13, entered, gave the most casual glance at the contents of the muff and stood looking out the window of the front door, while almost instantly Beulah, from her perch on the edge of a chair in the next room wriggled with childish excitement.

"I know," she exclaimed, half laughingly "It's B—O—X—"

"But what is in it?" chorused several voices.

"C—O—R—N—"

The reply came without a moment's hesitation. The next two minutes Beulah was sampling the reward of her efforts.

Mr. Williams, fishing about in his pocket for something that jingled, said. "Now then, Gladys, take a look at this."

Gladys, the elder sister, looked. Then she immediately joined in conversation with Miss Reynolds, and seemed to give no further thought to the matter. Mr. Williams walked over to the next room and interrupted the pecan party.

"Now, Beulah," he remarked, "I've got a piece of money in my hand. Tell me how much it is and what figures are on it and I will give it to you."

The next moment Beulah was rejoicing over the possession of half a dollar.

"I wonder if you can tell the people here where my home is?" I inquired, taking hold of her hand.

"B—r—o—"

Beulah spelled the first three letters rapidly. Then she hesitated an instant as she pronounced the second o. There was a long pause before the next letter. Miss Reynolds whispered to Gladys. (They were too far away for any sound to carry and Gladys was completely out of sight of Beulah.) Instantly, however, the latter was enabled to overcome the stumbling block, and pronounced "k" with confidence. The other three letters of "Brooklyn" followed in quick succession, but there was no failing inflection of the voice when the last letter was reached. The little girl always pauses abruptly, as though reading disconnected letters, and waits to be told whether she has really "spelled anything," as she expresses it.

Another Strange Feat.

"But you don't know my name," I remarked, thinking that at all events no one would know that but myself.

"Yes I do." The little hand of the youthful mind reader flashed back and forth before her eyes as though she were brushing away cobwebs that obstructed her mental vision. "I know," she persisted, sighing heavily again. "It's——"

Then she spelled the name. Not a letter was missing, except that she used a "y" in the first name instead of an "ie." Not one other person in the room knew either name.

"There is something a long way from here that I am interested in." I remarked to Beulah, who had gone over to the window and seated herself

OBJECT IS TO DEVELOP THE STATE

Bill to Create Department of Public Domain Is Important.

Would Put Efficiency in Management of Natural Resources.

Will Be Bitterly Fought in House and Issue Is Doubtful.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The so-called "public domain" bill, which is a special order in the house for Tuesday afternoon, will be bitterly fought by R. C. Dunn and others and the issue is in doubt. The bill, in brief, is an attempt to put order and system and business-like efficiency in the place of disorder, waste of money and effort, and inefficiency in the management of the state's natural resources.

There hardly could be a bill of greater importance in the work of developing the state.

It provides for the creation of a department of public domain, under a commissioner, and for the abolition of a large number of boards, bureaus, departments and offices in which kindred functions are now badly distributed.

The commissioner is to be appointed

POLICEMAN KILLS RAZOR WIELDER

Negro Who Attempts to Insult Young Woman Meets Death.

New York, March 17.—Daniel T. Davis, a negro, accosted a young white woman who stepped from an uptown subway station today, grabbed her by the arm until she screamed. A policeman who interfered was slashed across the face with a razor wielded by the negro, who then fled.

Although weak from loss of blood, the policeman gave chase. He fired five shots at the fleeing negro, four of which pierced his body. He fell dead five blocks from the scene of the encounter.

YOUNG MEN ARE TO BOOST FOR MINOT.

Minot, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Young men of Minot promise to become a big force in the development of the city through the organization of the Minot Young Men's Booster club, which will become associated with the Minot Commercial club in general development work. About fifty have already joined. Barney Theurer is president, Arthur Selberg is vice president, Taylor Thompson is secretary, and Hart Swalstad is treasurer.

POLICE TELL THEIR STORY

Captains in Charge During Suffrage Parade Are Witnesses.

Not Given Control of Line of March Before Parade Began.

Washington, March 17.—Police captains in charge of the men along the line of march of the suffrage parade on March 3 had their innings today before the senate sub-committee investigating the disorder that interfered with the procession.

Capt. Daniel Sullivan said he had little trouble preserving order. Capt. Sullivan outlined his orders from Supt. Sylvester to keep the roadway clear and prevent all interference with the parade. He said he carried out the letters to the best of his ability. Capt. Sullivan said that Sylvester had shown solicitude for the safety of the women and showed an evident purpose to have everything go off pleasantly.

Streets Filled.

Capt. J. P. Hollenberger, in command of the force on the section of the avenue where great disorder occurred, said that when he and his men reached their posts at 1:30 on the day of the parade the street was filled with people from building to building line.

"At no time did I have the crowd under control," said Capt. Hollenberger. "As fast as we would force one man back two would fill his place."

His men, he said, made eight arrests for disorderly conduct during the parade.

Conditions Deplorable.

"Almost everything that has been said about conditions on the section of the avenue where I was in command was true," testified Capt. Robert E. Doyle, in charge of one of the most disorderly parts of the line of march. "Conditions were deplorable. The men under me did everything in their power, working until they were exhausted. But the crowd was overwhelming. It simply could not be controlled."

Capt. Doyle, Capt. Sullivan and Capt. Hollenberger agreed that the principal reason for the failure of the police to gain control of the crowd was that they were not given control of the line of march long enough before the parade began.

When the captains concluded, the committee adjourned, subject to the call. The hearings will be continued later.

Personal Injury Lawyers Are Working Against the Measure.

Bill Likely to Come to Vote Within a Few Days.

Despite Opposition Prospects for Its Passage Are Good.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Friends of workingmen's compensation legislation—which has come pretty specifically to mean friends of the workingmen's compensation act now before both branches of the legislature with favorable committee reports behind it—are watching with great curiosity the manifestations of the opponents of the pending measure.

There are reports that personal injury lawyers of the state have chipped into a pot the contents of which are being spilled in the attempt to defeat the enactment of any law that would divert to the injured workmen and their dependents the large amounts now absorbed by this branch of the legal profession.

There are some evidences that these

FOR DIRECT LEGISLATION

Initiative and Referendum Special Order in Senate for Tuesday.

Principle of the "Split Initiative" Used in the Bill.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—This week will see action in the legislature on several more measures of first importance.

Initiative and referendum, as passed by the house and amended in the senate committee on elections, is a special order in the senate for Tuesday morning, and it will pass.

Distance tariff, as passed by the senate, will be a special order in the house for Tuesday morning, and while the issue is close and the result in doubt, the chances favor the passage of the bill.

The public domain bill of the house committee on public domain, in many respects one of the most important measures before the session, is a special order in the house for Tuesday afternoon.

The senate committee on elections made a number of important changes

WEAR SHAMROCKS AT WHITE HOUSE

Secretary Tumulty Distributes Sprigs From Old Sod Sent By Redmond.

Washington, March 17.—President Wilson wore a shamrock sprig in the lapel of his coat today. His secretary, Joseph Patrick Tumulty, also saw that everybody around the executive offices recognized St. Patrick's day in similar fashion. Mr. Tumulty distributed the shamrocks sent to the president by John E. Redmond, Irish leader in parliament.

Intimations were received at the White House today that National Chairman William F. McCombs finally might accede to the president's request that he become ambassador to France. It was said that Mr. McCombs was making such rapid progress with the organization of the Democratic national committee that he probably would be in a position to go abroad within a month. It is not improbable that Mr. McCombs will retain the chairmanship of the Democratic national committee and might return before the next presidential campaign to take up active political work.

Little Miss Josephine Cothran, better known as "the White House baby" left today with her mother, Mrs. Perrin Cothran of Raleigh, N. C. She has been here since inauguration, a favorite with the president and his household. Mrs. Cothran and her little daughter will visit Mrs. Annie W. Howe of Philadelphia, a sister of the president.

Secretary Tumulty decorated Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, with a shamrock.

"I heard that you had the real thing over here," said Secretary Daniels when he came to the White House and Mr. Tumulty produced a sprig from the old sod.

Spears Big Buffalo Fish.

Fergus Falls, Minn., March 17.—Mike Schwamm, who lives southeast of Battle Lake, speared a twenty-six pound buffalo fish in that lake last week. The fish is a yard long and the scales an inch in diameter. He threw the spear fifteen feet to get it and had quite a fight. So far as known this is the first fish of this species ever caught in Battle Creek.

Senator Lende Would Wind Up Senate Grain Investigation.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator O. A. Lende of the senate grain investigating committee is expected this afternoon to offer a resolution in the senate discharging the committee from further service and calling for a report based on the evidence already received. He will be supported by Senator Hanson of the committee, at least, and possibly by Senator V. L. Johnson. It is understood that the $500 allowed the committee for its expenses is about exhausted and if the committee continues its work it will have to ask for further appropriations.

In the house investigating committee this morning, Ed. Holt, secretary of the Farmers' Elevator company at Voltaire, N. D., testified that he did not agree with Manager Fred Schmidt and Treasurer H. G. Bundy in their attacks on the Equity Co-operative exchange, and that, in his opinion, the company's dealings with the Equity were entirely satisfactory, including prices and grades. He showed marked kindliness to the Equity, in which he has admitted himself to be a stockholder, as is Manager Schmidt.

The senate met at 1:30 this afternoon and the house at 2.

RICH HAUL BY ABLE CROOKS

Cracksmen Tunnel Under Pawnshop and Rob the Safe.

Secure Rich Jewelry and Securities Worth Over $300,000.

New York, March 17:—An East side burglary perpetrated by clever cracksmen yesterday, netted the thieves the largest haul obtained in the city in many years. Martin Simons & Sons, pawn brokers in Brewster street, were the victims and the property stolen includes $250,000 worth of jewelry, diamonds and other gems, and $100,000 in securities.

The thieves entered the pawn brokers' richly stored vaults by means of a tunnel from an abutting building on a neighboring street.

The police are of the opinion that six cracksmen were employed on the job and that the tunneling required all of Saturday night and the greater part of Sunday morning.

Later $40,000 of the securities were found scattered on the floor of the vault, but about $50,000 were missing, the robbers evidently having been afraid to take certain of them owing to the risk of detection in their disposal.

Another thing that seemed to point to the up-to-date business acumen of the looters, was that they left behind them three pairs of gloves. The police are of the opinion that the cracksmen wore gloves in robbing the vault realizing the extent to which the finger print bureau of the police department is capable of going in detect-

LIVELY BATTLE IN TOWN OPPOSITE LAREDO, T..., STARTLES AMER...ANS

Brisk Rifle Fire Awakes Inhabitants at an Early Hour.

Followers of Carranza Sweep Down From Hills on Nuevo Laredo.

Battle Lasts Hour and Half; Fifteen Killed and Fifty Wounded.

Laredo, Tex., March 17.—Streets of Nuevo Laredo, the Mexican town opposite this city, were the scene of a battle today in which Carranzistas and fifteen Federals were killed. Nearly fifty soldiers were wounded.

The Carranzistas retreated to the hills of Nuevo Laredo, where they appeared to be preparing for a fresh assault.

The street battle continued for an hour and a half.

At dawn a salvo of rifle firing awoke Americans in Laredo. The first sight that greeted them was a rush of refugees across the bridge to American soil.

Men and women carrying their children jammed the bridge, heedless of hurried wagon traffic. Numerous officials of Nuevo Laredo were among the refugees. The officials carried books and records by the armful.

Open Fire Early.

The Carranzistas, at 3 o'clock this morning, arrived within four miles of Nuevo Laredo and opened a light fire with rifles. The distance was too great, however, for this preliminary firing to arouse the sleeping American town or to disturb Nuevo Laredo seriously. The Carranzistas, under the cover of darkness, advanced cautiously until they were within the city limits. They rushed into a lard factory, barricated windows, then constructed effective looking entrenchments for skirmish lines, with the aid of outlying fences and sheds.

Fusillade Begins.

At 6:30 their rifles awoke the twin cities with a sudden fusillade. This was followed by an hour's silence. Then the firing was renewed for a few minutes, only to be succeeded by another silence.

It was said a woman and child were hit by stray bullets.

About 8 o'clock the rebels fell back from the lard factory under a hot rifle fire and retreated slowly, pushed hard by government troops.

Col. Brewer, commanding officer of the Fourteenth United States cavalry, on patrol duty here, sent word early in the day that there must be no firing in a direction which would endanger border points on the American side.

Early reports placed the number of Carranzistas at 600, but when the retreat began their number was estimated at 200.

It was reported that many persons had been wounded in the fighting in Nuevo Laredo.

Backs Railroad Scheme.

Dickinson, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—It has just developed that C. F. Merry, a pioneer railroad promoter, is back of the recently published plan of constructing a railroad from Portal, N. D., to the Gulf of Mexico, his plans being laid before a special committee of the Dickinson Commercial club which has so far refused to take a hand in it.

ALBERT PHILLIPS,
Who, With W. W. Atterbury and W. L. Chambers, Is Trying to Settle Wage Controversy.

HYDE JURY DISAGREES

Finally Discharged By Judge After Having Been Out 83 Hours.

Stood Nine for Acquittal and Three for Conviction of Prisoner.

Kansas City, Mo., March 17.—After having deliberated since 10 o'clock Thursday night the jury in the case of Dr. B. Clark Hyde on trial for the murder of Col. Thomas H. Swope, millionaire philanthropist, reported today a disagreement and was discharged.

The jury stood nine for acquittal, three for conviction.

Indications pointed to a hopeless deadlock when the jury in the third trial of Dr. B. Clark Hyde for the murder of Col. Thomas Swope resumed deliberations today. The jurors had been out eighty-three hours.

The report of Deputy Holloway, in charge of the jury, that lines between those jurors favoring acquittal and those holding out for conviction were so sharply drawn that the men of the opposing factions were not on sociable terms with each other, led attorneys to expect the discharge of the jury today without a verdict.

It was a glum twelve men that came from the hotel to report to the judge today. Yesterday when the deputies prepared to take the jury to lunch the men flatly refused to pass through the courtroom to be "stared at by those rubbernecks," so Deputy Holloway led them out a side door.

OVERCOME BY NOXIOUS GASES

Workman Falls Into Sewer and Is Washed Out to Sea.

Newark, N. J., March 17.—Overcome by noxious gases as he was descending a ladder in a sewer manhole here, Frederick Martin, 67 years old, fell into the water rushing in a torrent through the six-foot main and was swept away. Manhole after manhole for a distance of blocks was opened as the alarm was given and rescue parties tried to head off the victim's body. The effort was unsuccessful, however, and it is believed Martin was swept into the open creek which the sewer becomes as it passes through the meadows and on into the waters of Newark bay.

WOMAN ABANDONS PAIR.

Leaves Helpless Husband and Insane Son to Die Alone.

Grafton, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Abandoned by his wife, Martin Brustad, aged 67, was found helpless from old age in his home near here, while Anton Lee, aged 28, the son of Mrs. Brustad by a former marriage, was found insane and paralyzed.

The condition of the two men was discovered by a nurse employed by the county. The men had been left without fuel or food, and were in a pitiable condition.

Brustad was sent to the county poor farm and Lee was committed to the asylum for the insane, having become demented as a result of long confinement to his bed by paralysis, sustained four years ago.

Wreckage of Peruvia.

Stettin, Germany, March 17.—Fragments of wreckage picked up today on the coast of Norway gave conclusive evidence that the German steamer Peruvia, with its crew of twenty-eight officers and men, was lost in a storm there some time ago. Dispatches with details of the wreckage recovered were received by the owners this afternoon.

CONGRESS IS SUMMONED TO MEET APRIL 7

Formal Proclamation for Extra Session Issued By President.

Date Put Forward Week at Request of Democratic Leaders.

President Will Point Out His Wishes in First Message.

Washington, March 17.—President Wilson today issued the formal proclamation convening congress in extra session at noon on April 7.

The president's pronouncement today was brief and followed form closely. It stated merely that "whereas, public interest requires," congress would be convened in extra session by order of the executive.

Originally Mr. Wilson had fixed upon April 1 as the date. Representative Underwood, the Democratic majority leader, having informed him that the tariff bills to which it was agreed congress should give immediate attention would be ready on that date. Mr. Underwood found, however, that the ways and means committee would need another week to draft the tariff schedules and today's proclamation is in deference to the wishes of Leader Underwood and house leaders.

The absence of any specific reason for the calling of the extra session is explained by the fact that Mr. Wilson's statement immediately after his election declared that he would call an extra session to revise the tariff.

To Point Out Wishes.

President Wilson plans to point out specifically his wishes for the extra

AGAIN ASSAILS THE ARMOR PLATE TRUST

Senator Ashurst Says Three Companies Combine and Divide Contracts.

Washington, March 17.—Senator Ashurst renewed his attack today on what he termed the "Armor Plate trust." In a resolution he asserted that on March 3, Former Secretary of the Navy Meyer divided contracts for 8,000 tons of armor for the new battleship Pennsylvania among three companies whose bids were practically identical.

The resolution charged that the three companies, names of which were not given, had submitted their bids after a conference; that their action "reveals the fact that they comprise an armor plate trust, and that the price at which the contracts were let March 3 was $25 per ton higher than previous contracts."

Visit No More Cities.

Chicago, March 17.—The senate vice commission, according to a program mapped out here today, will not visit more Illinois cities until after its Eastern trip in the interests of a minimum wage law for women.

Operation Unsuccessful.

Kalamazoo, Mich., March 17.—The funeral of William A. Smith who recently underwent an operation at Ann Arbor, by which the tissue of a dog's brain was substituted for a portion of his own brain, was held at Smith's home in Augusta, Mich., today. It is said Smith never recovered from the operation which was necessitated by the removal of a cancerous growth from his head.

Company Will Suspend.

Savannah, Ga., March 17.—Announcement was made here today that the American Naval Stores company will suspend operations. The company is being prosecuted by the government for alleged violations of the Sherman anti-trust law.

JUDGE LANDIS NOT SATISFIED

Instructs Special Grand Jury to Investigate Butterine Settlement.

To Also See If Any Member of Government Is a Conspirator.

Chicago, March 17.—Judge Landis in the United States district court today instructed a special grand jury to investigate alleged butterine frauds compromised by the internal revenue department on March 4. The grand jury is to learn if the manufacturers were not guilty of conspiracy to defraud the government under section 37 of the national penal code.

The jurors also were instructed to ascertain if any member of the national government was guilty of conspiracy.

On this point the court said:

Judge's Instructions.

"If, therefore, the officers or agents or attorneys of a corporation tax debtor have conspired among themselves or with officers of the United States or with other persons, to defraud the government out of the revenue tax, any one of such persons has done any act to carry such conspiracy into Special Services Are Being Held in Many Churches.

Will Culminate With the Observance of Easter Sunday.

Revival meetings are being held in nearly every West end church this week. The meetings will culminate with the Easter services next Sunday.

Beginning this evening evangelistic meetings will be held every evening at the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. Rev. J. M. Nervig, pastor of the church, will be assisted during the week by Rev. J. A. Stenberg of the First Lutheran church, Rev. J. C. Reinertson of Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church and Rev. B. L. Opdahl of the Bethel Norwegian Lutheran church. A communion service will be held Thursday evening and a forenoon service on Good Friday.

Last evening Rev. W. Grant Fritz of the Garfield Avenue chapel, 830 Garfield avenue, began his first revival at the local church. The pastor took charge of the local parish last fall and this is his first evangelistic campaign. The meetings will be held every evening until Easter Sunday.

This evening Rev. J. A. McGaughey of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, will begin a series of sermons on "The Words and Deeds of Jesus." There will be no meeting Saturday. The subjects for the week are: Monday, "The Day of Triumph;" Tuesday, "The Day of Controversy;" Wednesday, "The Day of Silence;" Thursday, "The Day of Fellowship;" Friday, "The Day of Suffering," and Sunday, "The Resurrection Day."

At St. Peter's.

Rev. W. E. Harmann of the St. Peter's Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street, will conduct holy communion services Thursday morning and evening. A three-hour service will be held on Good Friday from 12 o'clock noon to 3 o'clock. A Swedish service will be held in the evening. At 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon Rev. Mr. Harmann will conduct a special baptismal service.

The three-weeks' revival at the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street, will come to a close with the Easter services next Sunday. Rev. J. M. Beckstrom of Deer Park, Wis., who has been assisting Rev. Edward Erickson, the local pastor, will preach his last sermon Thursday evening, when a union service will be held with the congregation of the First Swedish M. E. church. Rev. C. W. Wermine, pastor of the latter church, will sing. Rev. Mr. Beckstrom will leave for his home Friday morning.

At Grace Church.

The annual pre-Easter revival of the Grace M. E. church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, which began last week, will continue every evening this week. Special afternoon services will also be held this afternoon, Wednesday and Friday afternoons. The meetings start at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The subjects for today are "Crossing the Ferry" and "The Devil and the Man." On Wednesday afternoon the meeting will be held for the Sunday school children and will be in charge of R. R. Forward, superintendent of the school. Special music will be furnished at each service by the choir and Mrs. David Adams.

The revival, which began last week at the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, will also continue throughout this week. The meetings will be held each evening, with a special communion service Thursday evening. Rev. E. F. Olson of Port Arthur, Ont., who has been assisting the local pastor, Rev. C. G. Olson, will preach his last sermon tomorrow evening and leave for his home Wednesday morning.

Rev. E. Wulfsburg of the St. Paul's Lutheran church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, will conduct a Norwegian communion service Thursday evening and an English service Friday evening.

IRISH ATMOSPHERE FOR CARD PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Day of 17 North Twenty-ninth avenue west entertained the Clover Leaf Five Hundred club at a unique St. Patrick's day celebration on Saturday evening.

Green was effectively used in the decorations and table appointments, with centerpieces of shamrocks and candles with shamrock shades. Five hundred was played at four tables, the honors being won by the Mesdames Harry Blake, William Laughton, L. Britts and the Messrs. F. Slocum, N. B. Barsness and L. Britts. A number of Irish airs were played during the supper hour.

The shamrock place cards read as follows: Shamus O'Templeton, Molly Templeton, county Mayo, Ireland (Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Templeton); Patrick O'Herschler, Bridget O'Herschler, county Cork (Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Herschler); Dennis O'Laughton and Maggie O'Laughton, Tipperary county (Mr. and Mrs. W. Laughton); Michael O'Slocum and Mary Ann O'Slocum, Kilkenny (Mr. and Mrs. F. Slocum); Eileen Blake and Timothy Blake, Kerry (Mr. and Mrs. Harry Blake); Larry O'Britts, and Nora O'Britts, county of Kildare (Mr. and Mrs. Britts); Terence O'Bailey and Kathleen O'Bailey, Dublin (Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bailey), and Jerry O'Barsness and Johanna O'Barsness of Killarney (Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Barsness, while the host and hostess were Kathleen and William O'Day from Tipperary.

MADE ILL BY THE FUMES OF GAS.

Gas fumes escaping from a broken pipe between the main and curbing filled the home of George M. Jensen, 218 West First street, with gas late Saturday night and the members of the family were all ill from the effects yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Jensen and their eldest daughter, Miss Alice, suffered the most. The younger children slept near a window and hardly felt the effects of the gas.

UNION SERVICE ON GOOD FRIDAY.

Four of the Scandinavian churches in the West end will hold their annual Good Friday union service at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning.

The churches that will unite in this service are the First Swedish Baptist, First Norwegian-Danish M. E., Swedish Mission and the First Swedish M. E., Rev. Swaney Nelson of the First Swedish Baptist church will deliver the sermon.

In addition to the regular services a union chorus will render several selections during the morning. Rev. J. J. Daniels of the Swedish Mission church is in charge of the program.

LIVER ILLS Are Cured by HOOD'S PILLS 25c.

WILSON SMASHES SIXTEEN RECORDS

Run From Barred Inaugural Ball to Ban on Drinking.

Washington, March 17.—Inaugurated thirteen days ago, President Wilson has broken sixteen precedents.

1.—Came the downfall of the inaugural ball, with its money changers and turkey trots.

2. The favorite barber. President Wilson shaves himself.

3. (The "blow that killed father") The antiquated custom of parading office seekers at the White House. No pie-hunters are admitted until sent for.

4. The president is going to run the government. Politicians may make suggestions, but need not expect to see them carried out unless, perhaps, they coincide with the White House views.

5. The president goes to church to worship, not to be seen. Crowds may gather about the president's church door, but if he sees them first they will not see him.

Eliminates Gold Braid.

6. The gold braid and lace business has been eliminated; Maj. Rhoades, military aid, inherited from President Taft, dresses like an ordinary citizen when he goes out with the president.

7. The khaki-clothed motorcycle policeman who used to follow the White House automobile have been given other employment; the president rides without bicycle escorts.

8. The ancient custom of draping the president's box at the theater and playing the national anthem when the president arrives has been put into the discard.

President For Publicity.

9. Old "it is said" has disappeared from the White House news and instead it appears "the president said."

10. "That was said in a cabinet meeting and cannot be made public" is of the past; what transpires at a cabinet meeting is public property.

11. The bi-weekly cabinet meetings are under the ban. The cabinet will meet when there is something to be done.

12. Promiscuous use of the "executive order" has been stopped. Miss Salome Tarr, barred by the civil service regulations from the White House stenographer's corps, could have gone in by special appointment of the president, but the president refused to exercise the power in her behalf.

Has Cold Supper Sunday.

13. President Wilson rests the seventh day. He puts the bars of the White House up Saturday night at 12 o'clock and lets them stay up until Monday.

14. Cold suppers are to be the rule at the White House Sunday evenings; the old Presbyterian rule will prevail.

15. The president declined an invitation to the Chevy Chase club.

16. John Barleycorn and all other sorts of intoxicating drinks have been tabooed at the White House.

TALK ABOUT OFFICES.

North Dakota Democratic Leaders Have Conference at Fargo.

Fargo, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—National Democratic Committeeman Breugger and a number of the leading Democrats of the state met here last night presumably to settle on some applications for offices in the state but those interested refused to discuss their conclusions, if any were reached. The Fargo postoffice was one of the matters taken up.

George W. Wilkinson, a Democratic editor, seeks it. State Chairman McArthur opposes him and suggests at least two other candidates, one of whom is State Senator Porterfield.

Editor Goes South.

International Falls, Minn., March 17.—C. B. Montgomery, editor of the Journal, left Friday night for a few weeks' sojourn in the sunny South, joining Mrs. Montgomery at the home of her sister, Mrs. F. R. Lapham in Southern Arkansas.

Place for John Bassett Moore.

Washington, March 17.—John Bassett Moore, professor of international law at Columbia university, and a recognized authority on that subject, is to be appointed counsellor to the department of state. Prof. Moore was appointed recently by Mr. Taft as a representative at The Hague tribunal.

Have Color in Your Cheeks —Be Better Looking— Try Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

These Olive Tablets oil the bowels—yet have no oily taste. They are a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil.

If you want a clear pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause. Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own." Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

ROSSI DIES OF HIS WOUNDS

Passes Away After Lingering in Paralyzed Condition Two Weeks.

Man Who Shot Him Still Being Sought By Police.

Frank Rossi, shot three times by Joe Strafaccia Sunday night, March 2, following a quarrel over a card game at the Strafaccia home, 227 Eleventh avenue west, died early yesterday morning at St. Mary's hospital.

For two weeks, within a few hours, Rossi hovered at the hospital between life and death. For days he lay in a state of semi-consciousness, neither gaining nor losing. After the first examination the physicians stated that he could not live and the wonder is that he clung to life so long. He had a bullet through the spinal column, between the shoulder blades, which paralyzed the whole lower part of his body. Another shot took effect in the head and another in the body.

After shooting him from behind Strafaccia attacked the prostrate man as he lay on the floor of his home. He pounded him brutally over the head with the butt of the smoking revolver, kicked him, cursed him and then picking up the bleeding form of the unconscious man threw him outdoors into a snow bank. When the police arrived they picked him from the ground and hurried him to the hospital.

After the shooting Strafaccia made his way to a small store in the neighborhood. There he found half a dozen men assembled. "I have just shot a man," he told them. "Look after my three children. I am going." Turning nonchalantly about he made his way out of the store and dropped from sight.

Strafaccia is still at large. No trace of him has been obtained since he left the little store near the scene of the tragedy. Several men answering his description have been seen in various towns but none of them proved to be the fugitive who will now face a charge of first degree murder if he is apprehended.

The body was removed to the undertaking rooms of James L. Crawford, where it is being held pending funeral arrangements. As far as known he had no immediate relatives in the city.

BLAME HURLEY BOY FOR LOSING LIFE

Said to Have Had Habit of Hopping on and Off Cars.

Hurley, Wis., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Earl Bresadala, aged 13, who was killed at the end of the street car line, at the Carey mine location, was held Saturday from St. Mary's church of this village and interment was made in the Hurley cemetery.

It is said the boy had made a practice of jumping on and off the cars. His father, Aurelio Bresadala, is employed at the Cary mine and has a family of nine children. The motorman, Andrew Anderson, was not held responsible, the street car company having warned children many times.

Mrs. A. Perdi has been taken to one of the Ashland hospitals and operated on by Dr. Dodd. Her condition is reported to be somewhat improved.

Walter Bugjoe, an employe of the Carey mine, was injured by a fall into the shaft. He fell about sixteen feet, landing on his head and shoulders, and fractured his skull. He was taken to Ironwood for treatment.

Harry La Fave, son of Joseph La Fave, has accepted the position as operator for the Northwestern road at Saxon and is succeeded in his former position here by Charles Rantio.

Mrs. John Brill and daughter, who have been spending several months here at the John Dressely home, left Tuesday morning for their home in Wenatchee, Wash.

Mrs. J. S. Bartlett and daughter, Evelyn, are visiting friends in Duluth.

L. M. Hardenburg has moved his family and household goods to his new residence in Ironwood.

Wanted Man Visits Duluth.

Sheriff Duffy received word from the sheriff of St. Louis county that Louis Nida, who absconded with a sum of money three weeks ago, was in Duluth the latter part of February and left Duluth for Winnipeg and no doubt from there went on to the coast.

Frank Marta returned Wednesday from a business trip to Cumberland and Duluth.

The members of Lake Lavine hive, Ladies of the Maccabees, will give a "shower" in honor of Miss Anna Nelson next Wednesday evening at Bonino's hall.

Owing to the C. S. Raesser company not being able to secure a satisfactory lease on the building they occupy they have decided to go out of business and offer their stock to the public.

TODAY WE OPENED THE GATES OF THE NEW FASHION WORLD
FROM PARIS AND LONDON TO DULUTH.

Nobody can be found who will deny that the inspiration for the best architecture of today springs from the classic models of the Greeks and Romans, and nobody who follows the evolution of fashions will refuse credit to Paris for the creations and inspirations of new modes.

The art of costuming a woman may rightly be classed as one of the fine arts, and the most skilled artists of today are the French people, who live among their museums, their galleries and their traditions of beauty, with constant promptings to create new loveliness out of the old.

It will be interesting to study the most recent fashions shown today from the artists' point of view.

THE TALKING DOG AT THE ORPHEUM

"Don" and His German Dog Talk Headline New Vaudeville Bill.

Don, the talking dog, at the Orpheum this week, cannot be called a brilliant conversationalist.

Don doesn't indulge in any long sentences or discourse on the higher philosophy. In fact his vocabulary is very limited, and the audience has to stretch its imagination to catch the words. Don's talking is more of a gargle in his throat, but some of the words can be quite plainly understood. He talks in German like his owners, for Don it is explained, is a German dog, and until a few weeks ago was never outside of the Black Forest district of Germany. Loney Haskell, an old time vaudeville monologist, is the sponsor for Don, or "barker" as he calls himself, and Loney is a whole act in himself. He works at the job of making the audience appreciate Don's few guttural words as hard as any blacksmith, and his monologue is really funny enough in itself not to need the assistance of Don. If Don wheezes out his life with asthma when he gets a little fatter, Loney can get another mongrel pup and still have a good act. But Don does talk. He says seven or eight words as no other dog has done, so he headlines the bill.

If curiosity to hear Don draws the crowds to the Orpheum this week, the other acts will entertain them.

Charles and Adelaide Wilson carry off the applause honors of the bill with a mixture of nonsense and music and tricks on the violin. Wilson is one of the few natural comedians, and his cute and diminutive partner holds up her end of the team in a very adequate manner. The audience wouldn't let the Wilsons go last evening.

Caesar Rivoli also has a most entertaining act this week. He is a lightning change artist of the first grade. He plays a little sketch in which he has seven parts, and his changes are so quick that it is hard to believe the characters are all played by the same man, but by an ingenious stage contrivance the audience is enabled to see him make the changes. He also gives some excellent impersonations of famous composers and orchestra leaders. The act is the best of its type ever seen at the Orpheum.

Thomas P. Jackson and company offer a pretty sketch in which pathos and humor are very closely and cleverly interwoven. It is capably presented by the two men and proves to be a most meritorious and entertaining little act.

Elizabeth Otto has a neat and pleasing singing and piano playing turn, and there are two exceptionally good acrobatic acts of totally different types. Delmar and Delmar have an act that is really out of the ordinary rut, and Work and Play close the bill with a very strenuous rough and tumble acrobatic turn, which provides a lively finish to the program.

The pictures are interesting as usual and the overture by the orchestra completes a most entertaining bill, which has not a weak or objectionable act on it. It will continue all week with a daily matinee. Two capacity audiences greeted the opening performances and they were not backward about expressing their approval.

VAUDEVILLE AT THE EMPRESS

Four Good Acts and Picture Films Offer Good Entertainment.

Vaudeville returned to the Empress theater this week.

A bill which will hold the boards for four days played to three packed houses yesterday, the entertainment scoring a decided hit. Four all-around good acts and two feature moving picture films comprise the bill.

Mrs. Denver is billed as being in the "craziest" act in vaudeville. Judging from the gyrations she goes through during the twenty minutes of hysterics which is dished up, she does not fail to live up to her reputation. Mrs. Denver is assisted by her husband. The two of them put on a skit entitled "The Election Bug," a very laughable offering, which delighted the audiences yesterday.

The Twin City Trio are singers and dancers of merit. In their appearance on the bill yesterday, they proved to be favorites. All three are good entertainers and have a repertoire that is well selected. The trio consists of F. A. Ploussard, H. Weber and G. Youngman.

Nederveld's monkey, which is on this week's bill, rides a bicycle with as much grace and ease as a human. The simian performer has several clever antics. One of them is to turn a double somersault and alight on a pony's back while the pony is in full gallop.

Fred Harris is little short of being a marvel on roller skates in a buck dance. He performs his "buck and wing" on skates on a table top of twelve inches in diameter. He also has a clever exhibition of clog dancing and an all around neat act.

"The Cold Storage Egg" is a comedy film which is a true laugh provoker. "The Eldorado Lode" another film, which is shown this week, has a western atmosphere, a human interest plot and a true dramatic touch. "Odd Engagements," a film showing curious occupations in New York city provides a change from the usual variety of photoplay and is interesting and entertaining.

CHRISTIANITY AND CIVILIZATION

The First Christian church was crowded last night to hear Evangelist Whiston's sermon on "The Greatest Sermon Ever Preached."

The new baptistry installed for the meetings was used for the first time. The chorus work and special music were unusually good, the singing of Mrs. Compton being greatly appreciated. She will sing each night this week. Five minutes will be given each night to the passion of Christ.

The evangelist said, "The history of Christianity is the history of civilization. History is his-story, the story of Christ in human progress. Civilization is the challenge of Christianity to the whole world.

"Christianity is also the greatest commercial force in the world. One missionary in China is worth to our commerce $500,000 a year. One missionary in Japan is worth to our commerce, $300,000 a year. In other words our missionaries are worth more to our commerce than all our statesmen combined. The United States is doing business in Africa, in India and in the islands of the seas, because of the civilizing power of our blessed religion.

"Even the boasted morality of men is the result of Christianity. Men are moral, not because of infidelity, but because of the restraint placed upon them by Christianity. Kill Christianity in any community and you kill the morality of that community.

"When the Titanic went down with 1,500 souls on board, the world was stunned and appalled. Yet that tragedy has given to our religion one of her grandest heritages. 'Women and children first' was the cry of these brave men, and the band played 'Nearer, My God to Thee.' No other civilization in the world's history could produce that type of manhood. 'Women and children first' is distinctively typical of a Christian civilization."

Tonight the evangelist will speak on "The Silence of God." The church is at Twelfth avenue east and Fourth street.

CODEIN AND DIABETES

Jambul, Codein and Fulton's Diabetic Compound are known to reduce sugar in diabetes.

Why Jambul should reduce sugar in diabetes is not clear, but it is not curative and is little used.

Why Codein, which is largely used, reduces sugar in diabetes is known. The opium in it locks up the secretions, including the sugar. But it too is not a specific and the patients do not recover.

Fulton's Diabetic Compound, the only one of the three agents whose results we have known to be permanent, gets its results by reducing Hepatic degeneration, thus enabling the liver to oxidize more sugar and starch and the system to assimilate it.

The patients reporting recoveries are, without a single exception so far as we know, on Fulton's Diabetic Compound. We never heard of a case recovering under Jambul or Codein.

In view of these plain facts how can there be a question in the mind of anyone who has diabetes, as to what his treatment should be?

If you have diabetes and are of middle age or over you owe it to yourself and family to try Fulton's Diabetic Compound before giving up.

CAN NOW READ ON THE CARS

Traction Company Opens New "Booster" Station in East End.

Expected to End Conditions Which Caused Dim Lights on Cars.

Passengers on Duluth street cars will be able to read The Herald on their way home in the evenings hereafter.

For several months past there has been complaint about the poor lighting of the cars, especially on the East Fourth street, Woodland and Lakeside lines. This was due to the gradual increase in traffic, and the fact that the wires would not carry sufficient power to the eastern end of the city to take care of the increase. The slight weakness in the power showed itself first in the lights, and sometimes during the 6 o'clock rush the cars were almost in darkness.

Saturday, however, the traction company opened its new "booster" station at Thirty-fourth avenue east and Fourth street. At this point a rotary converter of 500 k. w. capacity has been installed. It takes the current from the Great Northern Power company's wires, at 13,200 volts and sends it out as a direct current of 600 volts.

This current will act as an auxiliary current on all of the East end lines, and will greatly increase the available power. It is expected to end all the complaints regarding weak lights, and to give the cars plenty of power on the steepest grades even during the rush hours. The company's new station also has foundations for another converter of the same capacity as the one just installed, and when the demands of the service warrant it, a second converter can be installed in a very short time.

Goes Over Falls.

MOHAWK MINE RESUMES.

Strike of 300 Trammers in Michigan Property Is Off.

Calumet, Mich., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The strike of 300 trammers in the Mohawk mine who went out last week because two trammers belonging to the union were discharged has been settled and the mine resumed today. The trouble was adjusted through mediation between a committee from the miners an the officers of the Calumet & Hecla company. The discharged men did not want their jobs back, but asked they be not "blaklisted." It is said the miners were not in sympathy with the strike.

The Patrick children, six in number, aged from 6 to 14 years.

Extra Douglas County Institute.

Madison, Wis., March 17.—The college of agriculture has decided to hold four extra institutes in Douglas and Sawyer counties from March 25 to 28 inclusive. This will make a total of 136 two-day institutes and forty-two cooking schools, in addition to the three-day "round-up" institute to be held at Clintonville March 18, 19 and 20.

Dogs Win in Battle With Rats.

Plymouth, Wis., March 17. — When Mullet river overflowed, a large number of rats from the lowlands sought refuge on a nearby hill. The hill was soon surrounded by water, and boys from the village brought their dogs by boats and rafts, and a lively battle ensued, the dogs winning.

LOOK YOUNGER! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR WITH SAGE TEA

Says Sage and Sulphur Will Stop Falling Hair and Cure Dandruff

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, then left to age and carefully filtered will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggy and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss. Some druggists make their own, but it isn't nearly so nice as "Wyeth's."

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur no one can tell, because it does it so naturally; so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Do this tonight and by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, after another application or two it will be restored to its natural color and be even more glossy, soft and luxuriant than ever.

Local druggists say they are selling lots of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and it surely helps folks appear years younger. Max Wirth.

ANNUAL BONSPIEL AT WESTERN CLUB

Play was started at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Western Curling club in the annual club championship bonspiel.

The opening game was between Wieland and Keyes. The draw for the bonspiel follows:

First Round.	Semi-Finals.
Wieland Keyes
Iltis Mallory
Wade Judson
Zauft Olson

The second draw will be played at 4 o'clock between Wade and Judson and Iltis and Mallory. At 8 o'clock this evening Zauft will meet Olson. The winners of the afternoon draws will schedule the remaining games for this evening. The finals in the event will be played off tomorrow evening.

Charles Iltis won the Henricksen Jewelry company trophy Saturday evening by defeating Melvin Olson, 15 to 11. Iltis also entered the finals of the Bagley event by defeating Simpson, 9 to 8, in a thirteen end game. Holland entered the finals of the Bagley event by defeating Wieland, 13 to 10, and he will play Iltis in the finals tomorrow evening.

SOCIAL CENTER CLUBS FORMED.

Social center clubs are being organized at the Fairmont school, Sixty-seventh avenue west and Fourth street, last week under the direction of Miss Thompson, deaconess of the Scandinavian Lutheran churches of the city, who also conducts a sewing class every Friday afternoon. The girls in the class are from all the grades in the school and range in age from 6 to 16 years. There are now fifty members in the club.

A feature of the sewing club is the practical work taught the members by Miss Thompson. The girls are now sewing small articles for their own use and as soon as the work is well under way, they will be taught how to make waists and dresses.

The boys of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades have organized a gymnasium club, which meets in a large room, recently remodeled for this work. A small membership fee and monthly dues are charged the boys for the upkeep of the gymnasium and the purchase of apparatus from time to time.

Several more clubs are now being planned and will be organized within a short time. Miss Frances Malthaner, principal of the school, is at the head of the work.

DEATH WAS DUE TO HEART FAILURE.

Mrs. Mary E. O'Brien, 39 years old, wife of Michael O'Brien, 332 South Fifty-eighth avenue west, died of heart disease at her home Saturday morning, according to the autopsy performed Saturday afternoon by Drs. McAuliffe and Graham.

Mrs. O'Brien had finished breakfast with her family shortly after 8 o'clock, when she complained of a slight pain in her breast. She laid down on the couch and a little later died.

The funeral was held at 9 o'clock this morning from the St. James' Catholic church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Kinnear place. Rev. D. W. Lynch officiated and interment was at Calvary.

URGES VOTERS TO EXERCISE CARE.

"Fools can not handle the city's affairs, nor can those with the natural lack of ability," declared Rev. Allen Clark of the Plymouth Congregational church, Fifty-fourth avenue west and Bristol street, in his sermon yesterday morning on "The Moral Issues of the Spring Election."

The pastor urged all voters to carefully weigh the issues in the campaign and to study all candidates before voting April 1.

Y. M. C. A. WORKERS IN CHARGE OF SERVICES.

The services at the Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street, last evening were in charge of A. B. Wegener, J. H. Lee and C. Ebellinger of the central Y. M. C. A. Mr. Wegner spoke on "A Young Man's Recreation." At the morning services yesterday, Rev. W. L. Staub preached on "The Triumphal Entry Into Jerusalem. The choir rendered "Hosanna" and Charles I. Towner sang "The Palms" during the morning.

Little Boy Dies.

Peter, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Grounic, 5512 Redruth street, died yesterday morning after a short illness. The funeral was held at 4 o'clock this afternoon from the Fillatrault undertaking rooms, with interment at the Oneota cemetery.

Plan Tournament.

Bowlers at the Proctor Y. M. C. A. will meet this evening and arrange a two-men team tournament. It is planned to have about nine teams and to play twenty-seven games. Prizes will be awarded the team making the biggest score and the men making the highest score and the highest average score. Play will start this week.

Birthday Surprise.

SENATE ADJOURNS UNTIL APRIL 7

President Having No Further Business to Communicate, Session Ends.

Washington, March 17.—The senate notified President Wilson this afternoon that it was prepared to end the present special session at once if he had no further business to lay before it. A committee consisting of Senators Kern and Gallinger was sent to the White House to learn the president's wishes and the senate took a recess.

In a short executive session the senate confirmed all civil appointments made to date by President Wilson with the exception of Dr. Charles P. Neill, commissioner of labor statistics, which still is pending before a committee.

The committee brought back word that the president had nothing further to communicate and the senate adjourned at 2:09 p. m. and will reassemble in extraordinary session on April 7.

ON TRIAL FOR BOLD ROBBERY

Lawrence Lafferty Said to Have Cleaned Out Cash Register.

Lawrence Lafferty, a young ex-convict, who is accused of pulling off a bold robbery in the saloon of Frank Eskrow at 204 Lake avenue south on Feb. 9 last, was brought to trial on a charge of grand larceny, second degree, in district court today. Mason H. Forbes, assistant county attorney, is directing the prosecution and E. L. Kimball is defending the prisoner.

Lafferty, the state claims, walked into the thirst parlor just before the closing hour and after making a bluff that he was a special officer and asking the names of two men present as witnesses, opened the cash register, scooped up about $20 in bills and turning to Eskro, proprietor, with a threat that if he made a move he would be shot, walked back unmolested to the front door of the saloon and slipped out into the street.

As soon as Eskro recovered from the reverie into which he had seemingly sunk during the alleged escapade, he followed the stranger, catching up with him at First avenue west and Superior street. He pas pointed out to Patrolman Fred Harling, who placed him under arrest.

Lafferty was but recently set at liberty on parole from the St. Cloud reformatory. He was sentenced there in June, 1909, after having been convicted of robbery in the third degree. In this instance he was caught after holding up a man at Mountain Iron.

Lafferty is 25 years old and of a pleasing appearance. He has a trade, that of electrician, but has not been working at it lately. Since he was paroled from St. Cloud he has fallen into the toils of the police on other occasions than this. At one time he was brought in on a suspicion of having stolen some jewelry from the Ormond hotel. This charge was never pressed against him.

PREPARING TO ENTERTAIN GRAND LODGE OF I. O. O. F.

Duluth Odd Fellows are making preparations for the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of the I. O. O. F. of Minnesota, which will be held in Duluth June 8, 9 and 10.

At a meeting of Duluth members of the order, the following committees were appointed to prepare for the grand lodge meeting:

Superior

Reception for Pastor.

The members of the Pilgrim Congregational church will give a farewell reception Wednesday evening to Rev. and Mrs. Harry Foster Burns, who leave this week for Oshkosh, where Rev. Mr. Burns will accept a pastorate. Rev. Mr. Burns resigned from the local pastorate several weeks ago.

Lifer Wants Pardon.

William Hughes, who was sent to the state penitentiary from Superior in 1899 for the murder of an inmate of one of the resorts, has applied to Governor McGovern for a pardon. The application and testimony were placed with the governor Saturday and are now being considered by the state executive. Hughes is now at Waupun.

Gambling Raid.

Seven men were arrested early yesterday morning when Detectives Galvin and McDonald raided the rear of the store at 1014 Tower avenue. The men were released on each putting up $10 bail.

Seeds for Farmers.

Local farmers have been notified of the new plan of the University of Wisconsin agricultural college to furnish seed potatoes free of charge. The seed has been grown by the horticultural department and given a very careful test. Not over two bushels will be given to one farmer.

Local Bills Favored.

Mayor Konkel returned Saturday from Madison, where he attended several sessions of the state legislature in behalf of several bills of interest to Superior. Two bills, which are expected to pass this week, will compel local railroads to keep up their crossings and erect an approach to the interstate transfer bridge.

GROWTH OF WEALTH.

Chicago Journal: Damages are claimed to the amount of more than $8,000,000 for loss of life and property on the Titanic. The ship itself was worth $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 more. The total revenue of the United States government in the year 1800 was $10,848,749. The yearly income of a sturdy young republic in that day was 40 per cent less than damage caused by the loss of a single vessel in this.

The Millinery Show

Wonderfully Radical Are the Changes in Millinery

HERE is gathered a most strikingly beautiful and artistic collection of the smaller French models which in itself will distinguish this display from others.

The French lines are faithfully followed, shape, brim and trimmings, each by itself, and all in their ensemble, show the careful study and the spirited dash that have given our Millinery a distinction well known to those who understand the artistic value of a true line or curve and masterly conception of embellishment.

THIS IS TRULY A SEASON OF HIGH COLORS

New color schemes and harmonious contrasts are much in evidence with pronounced emphasis on Oriental and Bulgarian shadings.

Our Spacious Second Floor Presents a Remarkable Collection of Apparel That Are Marvels of Novelty and Beauty.

Suits, Coats, Gowns, Wraps

This season's garments differentiate in the matter of a complete reversal of style, Draped Skirts enter into the composition of many tailored suits, while the bloused coats and smart cutaway coats still fill the requirements of tailored garments. This will, indeed, be a season of bright hues and colorings. Many vivid and striking combinations are produced for the first time and still appeal to the artistic eye on account of positive newness.

No matter what your wants may be, we are amply and splendidly prepared to please you, every individual taste can be suited here.

The Latest Mandate of Fashion Appears in Every Garment. Many novel innovations and radical changes over past seasons are conspicuously prominent.

Among this gathering of Raiment may be seen the unique lines and colorings of the Orient—some are exact reproductions of the latest foreign models, while others being modified will appeal to the more conservative taste.

The Presentation of Beautiful Millinery

As usual a feature of the spring opening, the spring curtain will be drawn, disclosing the secrets that fashion has disclosed. The exhibit is replete with the most effective new fashions in a range of styles so comprehensive as to satisfy every woman, all conservatively priced. Included in this display are many of the 'chic' Turkish turbans with Numidia aigrettes much in NX Bulgarian trimmings now so fashionable.

Colors—The Spring Season will be essentially a season of bright colors—whole families of colors. For instance, in Blue there are Saxe Blue, Royal Blue, Old Blue, French Blue and Pastel Blue used in shaded and contrasting effects. What is said of Blues may also be said of Greens, Browns, Purples, Grays and American Beauty. Then there are Nell Rose, Cerise, Mahogany and other individual colors.

NOTE—The Millinery Salons are now located on the 3rd floor, with fully double the floor space for showrooms. New fixtures, showcases, etc. Everything conveniently arranged. Beautiful French room and prettily arranged apartments where a woman may try on hats with privacy

HOLY WEEK IN DULUTH

Palm Sunday Observed With Special Services in Churches.

Bishop McGolrick Will Celebrate Pontifical High Mass Thursday.

Holy Week is being observed in the churches of Duluth this week. The most elaborate observance is by the Catholic and Episcopal churches, while the other churches will observe the week with less ceremony.

Yesterday was Palm Sunday, which was attended by the blessing and distribution of the palms in the Catholic churches of the city. The ceremony is in commemoration of the triumphal entry of Christ into Jerusalem on the Sunday preceding his death. In all Catholic churches yesterday the story of the passion of Christ from St. Matthew's gospel was read.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, the tenebrae ceremony will be conducted at the Sacred Heart cathedral. The chanting of the lamentations of Jeremias will be attended by the extinguishing of thirteen candles, a ceremony of ancient origin in the Catholic church. Thursday evening, Rev. Father Cunningham of Superior will preach the sermon, and Friday evening Rev. Father Hogan of Hibbing will preach.

Holy Thursday morning, Rt. Rev. James McGolrick will celebrate pontifical high mass in celebration of the institution of the sacrament of Holy Eucharist. On Holy Thursday also the oils used in the church ceremonies during the year are blessed by the bishop.

Good Friday will be observed by the mass of the Presanctified in all Catholic churches of the city.

Next Sunday, Easter Sunday, Catholic and other churches will hold special services. The musical program at the Sacred Heart cathedral has not yet been announced, but it will be in keeping with the character of the day.

in the house initiative and referendum bill, and it may be that the house will refuse to concur in the amendments and will demand a conference. However, there is no doubt whatever that an agreement will be reached bewcen the two houses and that the bill will become a law, which means that the people will have an opportunity to vote in November, 1914, on the question whether they wish to adopt the principle of direct legislation as a check upon representative government.

As the bill will come before the senate tomorrow, it differs quite materially from the Oregon plan, and, indeed, from any other existing direct legislation law.

The "Split Initiative."

The principle of the "split initiative," adopted by Ohio, has been used in this bill. Under this plan the people, by a relatively small petition, can bring any proposed statute or constitutional amendment before the legislature, and if the legislature fails to act the people can by an additional and larger petition submit the question to popular vote.

The ordinary initiative in each case calls for a petition signed by 2 per cent of the voters. When such a petition is filed, whether for a law or a constitutional amendment, it is the duty of the secretary of state to present the petition and the proposed measure to the legislature at its next session.

If the legislature adopts the measure as proposed, that's the end of it.

If the legislature refuses to adopt the measure, or adopts it in an amended form, the people by further petitions can, if they wish, have the issue submitted to popular vote.

These additional petitions must be signed by 8 per cent of the voters in the case of a constitutional amendment, and by 6 per cent of the voters in the case of a proposed statute.

But in each case the legislature is given the first chance at it, and if it heeds the request of the primary petition, or if its amendments to the proposed measure are satisfactory, the people need take no further steps.

There is a difference, also, in the popular vote required to raitfy a constitutional amendment and a statuto submitted under the initiative.

A statute may be adopted by a majority of the voters voting on the proposition.

A constitutional amendment must have the approval of 60 per cent of those voting upon it. This is considerably easier than the present method of adopting constitutional amendments, under which a majority of those voting at the election must approve the amendment to make it a part of the Constitution.

Laws to Be Referred.

Laws passed by the legislature may be referred to popular vote if, within ninety days after the final adjournment of the session at which they are passed, a petition signed by 6 per cent of the voters, asking that they be referred, are filed. If the referendum petition is signed by 15 per cent of the voters instead of 6 per cent, the law in question cannot go into effect until it is ratified by the voters; otherwise it goes into effect ninety days after the adjournment of the legislature, with certain exceptions.

Laws providing for tax levies, appropriations for the current expenses of the state government, acts of the legislature submitting constitutional amendments or other questions to the electors of the state, and emergency laws necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety, are to go into effect immediately and are to be subject to the referendum. It is required that bills proposing emergency laws shall each contain a preamble briefly setting forth the facts constituting the emergency, and that a separate vote shall be taken upon the preamble of such bill. If the preamble is adopted by a two-thirds vote of all the members of each house, it is to be an emergency law, but not otherwise.

All petitions to invoke the initiative or the referendum must be signed and verified before persons authorized to administer an oath, and must be in such form that a person signing them certifies under oath the date of his signature, his residence, that he is a qualified elector, that he has not previously signed any part of such petition, and that he has signed the petition with knowledge of its contents.

It is provided that if the legislature hereafter passes a law prohibiting the circulation of initiative or referendum petitions, and requires that such petitions be left at public places to be signed by those interested in them, the required percentage of signers shall be cut in two.

In each case the percentage required is to be based on the total number of votes cast for governor at the last preceding election.

No law or constitutional amendment initiated and approved by the voters is to be held unconstitutional on account of the insufficiency of any initiative petition; nor shall the repeal of any law submitted by referendum petition be held invalid for such insufficiency.

All initiative laws and constitutional amendments must be submitted to the electors so as to permit an affirmative or negative vote upon each measure submitted, and if conflicting proposed laws or conflicting proposed constitutional amendments are approved at the same election, the one receiving the most votes is to prevail as to conflicting provisions.

This measure, which is of course a constitutional amendment, is to be submitted to the voters at the next general election, and the bill requires that it be placed first upon the ballot containing the constitutional amendments. It must be approved by a majority of those voting at the election.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

MONEY IS RAISED TO DEFEAT COMPENSATION BILL IN LEGISLATURE

reports are true; and there is also evidence that some manufacturers and employers are actively working against the bill.

The measure will come to a vote in both branches of the legislature within a short time—in the senate probably within a few days and in the house very shortly thereafter.

And in spite of the opposition that has arisen, the prospects are good that the bill prepared by the Rockne special committee, as amended by the senate committee on labor and the house committee on workmen's compensation, will pass both houses without very material amendment and will become a law.

If it does, this act will be one of the greatest triumphs of the 1913 session.

If it does not, the failure will be one of the most conspicuous crimes to be marked up against the record of the session.

Opposition to any conceivable bill was to be expected, and it was inevitable.

Three Sources of Opposition.

At least three sources of inevitable opposition are to be reckoned with:

The unfair employer, who asks more than he should get;

The unfair employe, who asks more than he should get; and

The personal injury lawyer.

All three profess to favor a "fair" workingmen's compensation act.

Any bill thoroughly satisfactory to any one of the three should be a monstrosity which it would be a crime to enact into law.

Those considering the opposition to the pending bill should cerefully analyze it, therefore, to determine what proportion of it arises from these three sources.

Some of the opposition is unquestionably in good faith. If that were all the opposition there was, however, it would not be conspicuous.

The friends of the pending bill are full of confidence that the measure will meet the approval of the senato and house and become a law.

They are also confident that little will be heard of any opposition after a short time.

And they are fully aware that though the bill may not be ideally perfect, any defects which develop in practice can be cured at the next session.

The main thing is to make a beginning; and if a beginning is not made with the bill on which the committees have agreed, it is very clear that no start whatever will be made at this session.

And when the attempt is renewed at the next session, if it fails at this, precisely the same difficulties and the same kind of opposition will develop then.

If the bill becomes a law, as now seems highly probable, the state will have at least put an end to the long history of investigation and delay during which the attempt has been made to work out a cure for the monstrous injustice of the present position of the workingman before the law.

Based on New Jersey Law.

The bill now before the legislature is based upon that enacted in New Jersey in 1911, with such changes, among others, as have been proposed by the New Jersey employers' liability commission after a careful study of the New Jersey act for about a year and a half.

The enactment of the New Jersey act was one of the first and most important steps in Woodrow Wilson's program of progressive legislation. He bent every energy to securing the passage of the act, and employers and employes alike gave him their support. The New Jersey commission has stated in its two reports to Governor Wilson that the law is operating admirably and to the satisfaction of everyone concerned.

The following states now have laws providing compensation for injured workmen irrespective of the negligence of the employer: California, Illinois, Kansas, Maryland, Montana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Ohio, Rhode Island, Washington, Wisconsin and West Virginia.

A number of other states are considering the passage of similar laws. New York, since the compulsory act of 1910 was declared unconstitutional, has been considering the adoption of an elective act similar to the New Jersey act, and such a law will probably bo passed by the New York legislature this year.

Minnesota has lagged behind many of the states in this respect, and at the present time the old outgrown system of employers' liability law exists here with all its attendant evils.

The workman who is injured has first to consult a lawyer before he knows whether there is even a chance of his recovering any damages from his employer. The lawyer is not sure—he can only tell the injured man he has a chance. He knows that even if he can at the trial of the case establish the fact that the employer was guilty of negligence, yet the employe may be met by the defense that he, the employe, was also negligent, or that although he was not negligent he assumed the risk of injury, or that he was injured by the negligence of a fellow employe.

The workman does not know what the outcome of his suit may be. He may recover a high verdict, he may recover a low one, or he may get nothing. If a verdict is given he is forced to divide with his lawyer, and the large fees which are often taken by that class of lawyers, who are well termed "ambulance chasers," have become a matter of scandal.

A typical example of the workings of the present system was the recent notorious case of Golik, an Austrian miner, who recovered a verdict of $1,250 in a suit against his employer in St. Louis county after more than two years of delay. The employer paid the amount of the verdict, of which the injured man received not a dollar. After deducting costs and disbursements, Golik's attorney took half of what remained. Golik found himself remaining in debt to the hospital where he was taken care of and to the Bethel lodging house in Duluth. The court finally forced Golik's attorney to refund $200.

The only unusual part of this story, which is absolutely one of fact, is that the injured man did finally recover anything back from his attorney.

The proposed workmen's compensation act would remedy these vicious conditions. The lawyer, if not entirely eliminated, would perform only a proper and legitimate service for his client and could demand only a reasonable fee, to be determined by the court in proportion to his services. There would be no incentive to the employer to deny the claim of the injured workman, as the amount to be paid is in all cases fixed by the act, and very few questions of fact would be left to dispute.

Personal Injury Lawyers.

The personal injury lawyers are doing their best to create opposition to the present act, as might be expected. They are, of course, opposed to any act, but pretend to oppose the present bill only because of certain alleged objectionable features. Under the guise of friendship for the laboring man they have attempted to stir up certain elements of labor into an active campaign. This attempt has been in a large measure a failure. It is common report in St. Paul that certain labor organizations of the Twin Cities who have until recently been very bitter toward the bill are discovering that they have been hoodwinked by the "ambulance chaser," and are now doing their best to get together with the rest of the workers of Minnesota and demanding from the legislature the passage of the bill.

There has also been and still is some opposition from a small group of employers, some of whom probably would not object if they fully understood the bill.

These employers are members of the Minnesota Employers' association, an organization that has done excellent work in educating its members on the subject of workmen's compensation and in assisting in the initial stages in framing the pending bill. The association was in accord with the provisions of the bill as it was first introduced in the legislature, but after its reference to the state committee on labor and the house committee on workmen's compensation respectively, certain liberalizing amendments were adopted by the committees at the suggestion of the state bureau of labor and representatives of the State Federation of Labor, which brought about the opposition of some of the employers.

Chief among these, and the only one which now causes continued attack by them, was the elimination of the clause in the bill by which the employer was exempted from liability where the injury was caused by the "willful negligence" of the employe.

W. E. McEwen, formerly state labor commissioner, particularly objected to this exemption and considered quite properly that it defeated the very purpose of a compensation act, which is to do away with the question of negligence both as to employer and employe, and to substitute a sure payment to the employe for his injury, making it a charge upon the industry. The legislative committees agreed with this position and substituted in place of the exemption referred to a provision which protects the employer only where the injury is intentionally self-inflicted or is caused by the intoxication of the employe.

No just or right-minded employer should object to the bill as it stands, and such objections as have been made appear to have been largely based on misapprehension of this amendment.

Workingmen Well Represented.

The laboring men of Minnesota have been very fortunate in having as their chief representative at work upon this matter of workmen's compensation W. E. McEwen of Duluth, secretary of the state federation of labor. Mr. McEwen is as well equipped upon the subject by his experience and study as anyone in the state, and he has taken a very active part in securing amendments to the present bill which are favorable to the workingmen. Mr. McEwen was not in favor of the adoption of the New Jersey form of compensation act. His first choice is a state insurance act similar to that in effect in the state of Washington. His second choice is a compulsory act such as the one drafted by the committee of the state bar association two years ago and at that time submitted to the legislature, sometimes known as the Mercer-McEwen bill.

Both of these bills, the insurance act and the compulsory act, were rejected by the legislative committees because of constitutional objections, and the New Jersey elective plan was adopted as being the most feasible and best suited to local conditions. Mr. McEwen now takes the position that since neither of the other acts can be had he is for the one now in the legislature.

There can be no mistake about the general sentiment throughout the state in regard to workmen's compensation. The people of Minnesota are for such an act almost unanimously, and have been for years. Nothing could so utterly condemn the present legislature as would a failure to pass the bill.

It has been years since the question was first taken up in Minnesota. Governor Johnson made it one of the planks of his platform, and in 1909, authorized by the legislature at his request, he appointed a committee consisting of Mr. McEwen, then state commissioner of labor, H. V. Mercer of Minneapolis, representing the bar, and George Gillette, also from Minneapolis, representing the employes of the state. This committee, after an investigation covering a period of two years, reported to the legislature in session in 1911, but on account of lack of agreement among the members of the commission and the impossibility of reconciling conflicting opinions in the legislature and partially because of a shameful neglect, no law was enacted at the 1911 session.

Two years more have gone by, during which the state bar association, the state bureau of labor and the Minnesota Employers' association have done a great deal more work on the subject, and the bill in the legislature represents as nearly as it is possible to obtain it, a concensus of opinion as to what a fair and workable compensation law should be.

Has Strong Backing.

A great deal of work has been done on it. It has strong backing in both houses and the failure on the part of the legislature to pass it as it now stands, or with but slight amendments, would shame Minnesota.

There has been some talk on the part of a few labor leaders of securing the passage of the Wisconsin form of law instead of that which has been recommended for passage by the committee in the house and senate, and the Wisconsin act has in fact been introduced in the house.

It is hardly necessary to say to anyone experienced in legislative matters that the latter act has not at this late stage of proceedings the slightest chance of passing both branches of the legislature. It can only serve to distract attention from the bill already introduced and by creating division among the friends of compensation, bring about a failure to enact any law.

The fact is, that at this late date in the session, the pending committee bill must be passed—though it may, of course, be amended—or no bill whatever will become law.

In all probability this bill is the best the legislature can get, and despite the opposition to it, much of which comes from very questionable sources, the legislature probably will make it into law before many days have passed.

Parcel Post Business Increases.

Washington, March 17.—Parcel post business last month was almost 40 per cent greater than in January, as shown by reports to Postmaster General Burleson, made public yesterday. In February 50,000,000 packages were handled, an increase of 10,000,000 over the previous month, but as February contained three days less than January, the actual gain was almost 40 per cent. As in January, the three cities doing the largest parcel post business in February were Chicago, New York and Boston in the order named.

WANT IT REPEALED.

Trustees of Carnegie Society Working Against Free Canal Provision.

Washington, March 17.—Declaring the United States ought to be the most scrupulous of all nations in the keeping of its treaty obligations, "even to its own hurt," the trustees of the Carnegie endowment for international peace last night issued an appeal to the American people to bring about, as an act of national honor, the repeal of the act of congress which exempts American coastwise vessels from payment of Panama canal tolls.

The appeal was issued over the signature of the society's president, Senator Elihu Root; Joseph H. Choate, former ambassador to England; Luke E. Wright, former secretary of war; Charlemagne Tower, former ambassador to Germany; Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, and other members of the board of trustees.

In conclusion the statement says:

"By securing the repeal of that part of the act of congress on the Panama canal which provided for the exemption of American coastwise vessels from the payment of tolls, the American people would embrace a precious opportunity to prove that they understand the highest interest and recognize their duty to prompt it for the benefit of mankind."

HARRIMAN ESTATE VALUED AT $80,000,000.

New York, March 17.—An inventory of the estate of the late E. H. Harriman furnished the state comptroller by Mrs. Harriman and published here today, shows that when he died in 1909 it was valued in the aggregate at $70,000,000. The chief holdings of the financier were railroads, steamship and industrial securities and real estate.

Mr. Harriman held no bonds of the Union Pacific or Southern Pacific railroads, but of the former he had 51,900 shares of preferred, appraised at $5,317,650, and 55,000 of the common, valued at $10,725,000. Of Southern Pacific stock the financier held only 1,000 shares of the common. This at the time of his death was appraised at $124,000. His Erie holdings were $8,849,000.

The estate at present is valued at about $80,000,000. The reports that Mr. Harriman prior to his death distributed $60,000,000 of railroad stocks to members of his family are shown by the appraisal to be untrue.

Crushed Under House.

Mandan, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Accidentally loosening a heavy timber that was used as a support under a house which was being moved, Chris A. Shelhart, aged 25, single, was caught under timber and killed. He had crawled under the house to adjust some of the timbers, and while doing so he released the wrong piece.

"UNCLE JOE" CANNON STARTS FOR HOME

Former Speaker of House Departs From Capital as Plain Citizen.

Washington, March 17.—Joseph Guerney Cannon, private citizen, "went home" yesterday after nearly forty years of public service. Unattended, the erstwhile czar of the house, picked up his grip sack and started for Danville, Vermillion county, Ill.

"Uncle Joe" and two big cedar boxes left together. The boxes contained the private letters and documents of a long series of years in the midst of Washington's political turmoil. It took weeks to sort them out from the accumulation of the former speaker's letter files.

"Well, I'm through," sighed "Uncle Joe," as he straightened up after closing the last box, shook the dust from his hands, and rumpled his scanty gray hair. "I've had a devil of a job getting rid of stuff. I must have had thousands of newspaper clippings and cartoons, besides my letters and papers. They were all worth keeping when I gathered them, and I had a hard time weeding them out. Most of them were clever but scarcely of a complimentary nature," and Uncle Joe's gray eyes twinkled reminiscently.

"What are you going to do back home?" he was asked.

He rubbed his head reflectively, halsted himself to the edge of the table, wrapping his long legs about the back of a chair, and began:

"Well, my business is in pretty good shape. I've got a little bank stock and that is pretty well organized. My farm land is well handled, I guess I'll just look around a little bit. When I was young I wanted to travel, but I was too busy earning a living. Now I don't care much about it. The folks are planning a grand trip around the world, China, India, the Philippines and all the rest of it—"

Uncle Joe stroked his beard a moment and then, leaning forward, confidentially remarked:

"But I'm not going.

"I may take a little run through Mississippi and Arkansas where I want to look over some land for investment, but that will be about all of the traveling I'll do.

"I am not tired, I feel just as well as I ever did, but I suppose that is because I'm the old devil they say I am."

"Will you continue in politics?"

He pondered a moment, then replied:

"When I lose interest in politics you can bet I'll be dead. I will still be in politics, as a private citizen"—then as an afterthought, "without personal ambitions."

HOUSE MAY PASS ON IT

Committee May Report Proposal for Non-Partisan County Officers.

Widespread Demand for the Change Makes Impression on Committee.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The proposal to put all county officers on a non-partisan basis may yet have a show for its life in the house.

The house committee on elections Tuesday afternoon cut this provision out of the bill, which had passed the senate, and referred the bill to a subcommittee to be amended in accordance with the decision of the committee.

However, there has been so much criticism of this action that the committee may retrace its steps to the extent at least of restoring the non-partisan feature to the bill and reporting it out to the house without recommendation, so that the house may have a chance to decide the matter for itself.

There was not a full attendance at the committee meeting, where this action was taken—barely a quorum, in fact, being present; and it is felt by members of the committee, including Chairman Holmberg, that the principle of non-partisanship in county elections was not given the full consideration it merited.

The Clague amendment, adopted in the senate, including senators and representatives in the non-partisan class, will not be seriously considered either by the committee or by the house. While it is true that since the election of United States senators is the only issue which legislatures have to decide on national party lines, and since this function is already all but removed from the hands of the legislature by the Keefe law and soon will be removed from its control entirely by the amendment of the Federal constitution, the house is plainly not yet ready to put its membership on a non-partisan basis.

Measure Is Progressive.

There has been, however, a widespread demand for a law putting county officers on a non-partisan basis, and sentiment, as reflected by the state press, has been almost unanimously for it. The measure is looked upon as a progressive one, and it is felt by members of the Rines organization that the house, claiming to be more progressive than the senate, can scarcely afford to let the senate outdo it in progressiveness in this respect.

So at the next meeting of the committee it is very likely that there will be a reconsideration of the vote whereby the non-partisan feature was stricken from the bill, and that it will be restored and the bill put before the house for its action.

The last day of the present session under the constitution will be April 24.

The last day for passing bills will be April 23, when the legislature can work till midnight, and by the customary polite fiction of turning back the clock can, if it pleases, keep pretending that midnight is not at hand until dawn or until the members grow weary.

The last day for introducing bills under the Constitution is April 1, and after that bills can come in only by request of the governor. In the house a rule has been adopted by which no bills can be received after Wednesday unless they are committee bills, are requested by the governor, or are received by a two-thirds vote of the house.

Advanced to Calendar.

The house, working on general orders in committee of the whole Saturday afternoon, advanced to the calendar about seventy bills, mostly of minor importance. Among them were the following: By Representative Borgen—Authorizing St. Louis county to spend $8,000 on improving waters entering Lake Vermilion; by Representative Healy—providing a clerk of the range juvenile court at $1,500 a year; by Representative Hillman—prohibiting misrepresentation by employers of working conditions or as to the existence or non-existence of strikes or lockouts; by Representative Larson—allowing town of public domain. The employes of these boards and officers are to continue in office unless removed by the commissioner.

It is made the duty of the dean of the college of agriculture, the dean of the college of mines and the director of the school of forestry, all of the state university, to give the commissioner from time to time such suggestions and information as they may have pertaining to the public domain or natural resources of the state, and to co-operate with the commissioner in the performance of his work.

To Shut Out Speculators.

Representative Frank Hopkins of Renville Saturday afternoon introduced in the house a bill imposing restrictions on the sale of state land with a view to shutting out speculators and confining purchases of state land to actual settlers. The provisions are the same as those in the law which was repealed two years ago. Buyers of state land must within seven years perform at least one of these requirements:

1. Fence at least 25 per cent for pasture and convert such portion into pasture land;
2. Cultivate at least 5 per cent; or
3. Build a house and live on the land one year.

No deeds are to be issued unless proof is furnished of compliance with these terms, and failure to comply with them means the forfeiture of the land and of the money paid in. No buyer can take more than 320 acres.

The Resinol medication is so gentle, yet so effective, that it can be used freely on the tenderest skin. Doctors throughout the country have prescribed Resinol for eighteen years. You can test it free by writing to Dept. 8-S, Resinol, Baltimore, Md., for a generous trial.

drainage; 4. Game and fish; 5. Forestry, including timber, timber and log surveys, state parks, forests and forest reserves, "the head of which shall be designated 'state forester.'" Each of the chiefs of these divisions is to get $4,000 a year except the chief of the game and fish commission, who is to get $3,000. The commissioner is allowed a deputy at $2,500 and a secretary at $1,800 and such other necessary help as the work may require.

Subject to the commission, the chief of each division is to have direct charge of the matters within its scope, and is to be an expert. Experts now in the employ of the state are to be given preference in making appointments. Employes are to be selected without regard to politics and for merit only; and they are to be under civil services rules.

As soon as practicable the commissioner is to make a survey of state lands showing their character as regards timber, soil contents, minerals, water, waterways and water powers, together with the adaptability of the soil as to different kinds of agriculture "and all other matters deemed necessary for informing the people, and especially intending purchasers, as to the kind and quality of land owned by the state." In making this survey preference is to be given to agricultural lands near settlements, and so far as practicable the survey is to include tracts contiguous to each other so as to include considerable areas.

"If in such survey it is found that certain tracts would be rendered more beneficial to the public health or more secure from destructive fires, more desirable for settlement and more readily or advantageously sold by clearing or draining parts thereof, or by making ways through or along the same, the commissioner is authorized and empowered to make such ways, drains and clearings as he may deem necessary, and the cost thereof shall be included in the selling price of such lands."

As soon as he can the commissioner is to make and file in his office a classification of state lands as shown by the survey.

Who Can Buy Lands.

When the commissioner has lands that are ready for sale and settlement, he is to report the description and character of such lands to the state auditor, together with the cost of improving them to the state auditor, who, under the Constitution, has charge of the sale of state lands. Unimproved lands are to be sold only to persons who will actually live upon them for a continuous period of a year beginning within three years from the date of sale, or who make permanent improvements to the extent of 3 per cent of the purchase price.

No mineral leases or sales of land or timber are to be made by the state auditor without the recommendation of the commissioner.

When advised by the commissioner to sell lands the state auditor is to appraise, advertise and sell them in the manner prescribed by law.

The following boards, commissions, etc., are repealed: The state drainage commission, board of timber commissioners, state forestry board, reclamation board, game and fish commission, geological and natural history survey, board of immigration, surveyors general of logs and lumber, commissioners and superintendents of state parks, forests and forest reserves; and the duties of these boards, commissions and officers devolve upon the commissioner of public domain. The employes of these boards and officers are to continue in office unless removed by the commissioner.

It is made the duty of the dean of the college of agriculture, the dean of the college of mines and the director of the school of forestry, all of the state university, to give the commissioner from time to time such suggestions and information as they may have pertaining to the public domain or natural resources of the state, and to co-operate with the commissioner in the performance of his work.

BUSY WEEK FOR MASONS

All Degrees From Fourth to Thirty-Second Being Worked.

Annual Banquet Thursday Evening—Many Distinguished Visitors Coming.

Beginning this afternoon and continuing until Friday the Scottish Rite Masons of the northern and northeastern portions of Minnesota will gather in Duluth to participate in the ceremonies of Holy Week, the great festival event of the rite.

All the degrees from the fourth to the Thirty-second both inclusive, will be worked on a large class of Master Masons from the Valley of Duluth which includes the territory already mentioned. Many distinguished Masons will be present, some from out of the state.

On Thursday evening, March 20, after the conferring of the thirty-second degree, 600 Knights Rose Croix will be seated in the banquet room at 6:30 o'clock and participate in the Feast Obligatory, the recent extension of the banquet room making such a large number possible with comfort.

The celebration of the feast of Maundy-Thursday is the one great event of the Scottish Rite Masonry during the year and its origin is as old as the order itself. The finest musical talent which can be provided is always on hand, the addresses are few and of a high order, the whole finished by the impressive "Extinguishing of the Lights," which remain out until Easter Sunday afternoon when at 3 o'clock the ceremony of the "Relighting of the Lights" will take place at the Masonic Temple, Lake avenue and Second street, in the Auditorium, the officers of A. T. C. Pierson Chapter Knights Rose Croix officiating. Those interested are invited to attend, but no children will be allowed. Also it will be well to bear in mind that the ceremony begins promptly at 3 o'clock, a half hour earlier than the usual time for the opening of the Sunday concerts.

Duluth Commandery, No. 18, Knights Templar, will attend the Easter services at the same hour and will occupy seats in the body of the auditorium. The Sir Knights will appear in full uniform. The music for the exercises will be furnished by the Scottish Rite Quartet under the direction of A. F. M. Custance.

IF CHRIST SHOULD RETURN TO EARTH

Rev. C. N. Thorp Says God's Rule Would Revolutionize Business.

"What If Christ Should Return?"

The supposition of the Messiah's return, which has been a popular text among the preachers of the country recently, offered a theme for Rev. Charles N. Thorp in his yesterday morning's sermon at Pilgrim Congregational church.

"Men are saying a great deal about the application of Christian principles to business affairs," said the pastor, "but let us put up in every factory, office, bank, railroad station, stock exchange, retail or wholesale house, wherever men trade, that simple mandate, that on or after this date the authority of Jesus Christ shall be final in the affairs of this concern; neglect of these orders bringing severe penalty.

"You would see changes, in some quarters, quite revolutionary. Boards of directors would meet and reorganize, labor unions would be busy in the revision of their working plans. Business would soon settle down as a delightful progressive section of the kingdom. Even the church would be quite amazed at her new found power.

"The nation that defies the Lord inevitably sooner or later must die. The home that is built without Jesus Christ as its ideal is in peril. The business that is built on greed or inhumanity must go to the wall in the long run.

"In this day of ours, when the rulership of Christ in human affairs is so manifest, and when men the world around are making, many of them, splendid and earnest effort to do the will of the King, will you not enthrone Him king of your own life and make good as far as in you lies, that prayer which all Christians, however feebly, pray, 'Thy Kingdom come?'"

Y. M. C. A. WORKERS VISIT DULUTH

A. Bruce Minier and D. S. Jillson Are Prominent in Association.

A. Bruce Minier of Chicago and D. S. Jillson of New York, both men of national prominence in Y. M. C. A. activities, are guests at the Duluth Y. M. C. A. for a few days.

Mr. Minier is one of the international Y. M. C. A. secretaries in charge of the railroad department work. He was appointed by President Taft at the head of the commission which organized Y. M. C. A. activities in the canal zone. He is now making an inspection tour of the department of railroad work. Mr. Minier is an old friend of the present secretary of the Duluth Y. M. C. A., B. C. Wade. About twenty years ago the two started association work together at Ottumwa, Iowa.

Mr. Jillson is business manager of the Association Press, publicity organ of the Y. M. C. A., with headquarters at New York. He is making a tour of the country, getting acquainted with the association needs, especially in the matter of educational activities.

GOVERNOR GRANTS MURDERER RESPITE.

New York, March 17.—With his electrocution set for an early hour today, for the murder of Patrick McBren, known as "Paddy the Priest," a saloon keeper of this city, John Mulraney received the welcome news at what Governor Sulzer had granted him a reprieve of sixty days. Mulraney had already donned the clothing provided for the execution when the word reached the prison.

Although he had repeatedly declared he would not interfere in the case, Governor Sulzer was moved to act by a personal appeal from the condemned man. Mulraney sent him a special delivery letter saying that he was the "victim of the underworld's code of honor," which condemns a "squealer." The convict asked for an opportunity to produce new evidence which he declared would prove his innocence. The governor explained that Mulraney's letter had convinced him there was an element of doubt as to guilt and he has instructed District Attorney Whitman to investigate the condemned man's story.

Almost simultaneously with the issuance of the reprieve Supreme Court Judge Davis granted an order temporarily staying the execution until Mulraney's attorneys have had an opportunity to present further arguments for a new trial. Justice Davis granted the stay on the ground that the prisoner may be able to prove an alibi.

"THE APPEAL TO YOUTH."

Dr. Rice Says Christianity Should Be Young Men's Religion.

"The Appeal to Youth" was the subject of Dr. Rice's address at the Lyceum Saturday evening.

"I have tried very carefully as a young man, to study and face the actual facts I have been able to find, which make up the objection a young people have against being Christians' he said.

"I have tried honestly to face all these things and fight them to a satisfactory finish in my own life, and I have faced them personally with literally hundreds of college young people in the past few years, in an endeavor to get the claims of Christ honored. I think I know somewhat of the objections to Christianity as well as the appeals of Christianity to the young.

"I want to claim youth for Christianity for the reason that it is characterized by the very spirit of youth itself. It is congenial. I believe there are splendid reasons why Christianity is especially interesting to every age of life. But to youth with its face of fire and its pulse of ambition, I am sure there is abundant appeal. Jesus Christ Himself was a young man. The flavor of the fact has not left Him yet. He still treads the earth in the flavor of the young years in which He did His work here as a man. I was startled and deeply impressed with the poverty of my own life recently when a friend of mine said to me, 'Did you ever stop to think that Jesus didn't live to work as a man as long as you have.' If you don't watch yourself you will forget that the supreme contribution ever made to human history was made by one who never reached middle life. Just when men are ready to begin their real work here on earth, they crucified Him. It was a young man that mob dragged away. It was a young man they nailed to the cross on Calvary. And that fire of youth hath burned its way continually in the men and institutions of the religion He established among us."

DON'T SCOLD AN IRRITABLE CHILD

See If Tongue Isn't Coated, Stomach Sour and Bowels Waste Clogged

Mother! Don't scold your cross, peevish child! Look at the tongue! See if it is white, yellow and coated! If your child is listless, drooping, isn't sleeping well, is restless, doesn't eat heartily or is cross, irritable, out of sorts with everybody, stomach sour, feverish, breath bad; has stomachache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or is full of cold, it means the little one's stomach, liver and 30 feet of bowels are filled with poisons and foul, constipated waste matter and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

Give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours all the clogged up waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little waste clogged bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given to-day will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna", prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co.

This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

FIRE IN PAPER COMPANY'S WAREHOUSE CAUSES LOSS ESTIMATED AT $75,000

THE BOX CAR WHERE THE FIRE STARTED.

The Peyton Paper company's building, 222 West Michigan street, was gutted by fire which broke out about 3:30 o'clock yesterday morning, causing a loss estimated at $75,000.

Tramps are believed to have set fire to a box car in the rear of the building, the flames spreading and starting the conflagration which destroyed the paper company's plant and for a time threatened to wipe out an entire block of the wholesale district.

The alarm was turned in by Policemen Hartz and Olson, who were returning to headquarters, after having completed the patroling of their beats, their watch ending at 3:30 in the morning. They stated that they first saw the fire in the box car, corroborating a statement to the same effect made by Lawrence Dillon, a brakeman. He stated that when he and several companions reached the scene the box car was blazing and that the rear of the building was in flames.

The fire spread rapidly, the stock of the paper company feeding the flames.

All the fire engines and companies in the city, except those in the furthest suburbs, were summoned. One after another they pounded to the wholesale district. Engine aftor engine hooked up with the hydrants surrounding the block and in a remarkably short time a dozen streams of water were playing on the burning building. Thousands of gallons were turned into the doomed structure without apparent effect, the water pouring out in streams while the flames leaped and burned fiercely above the flood. The firemen could not save the paper company and realized it as soon as they saw the fire, but by concentrating their efforts they prevented the flames from spreading to the adjoining buildings. Had they once gotten beyond control the entire block would have been swept away, entailing losses of hundreds of thousands of dollars. As it was, the Duluth department did quick and efficient work, calling forth high compliments from B. Murray Peyton, president of the paper company, and the other owners of property who hurried to the scene as soon as they learned that their interests were endangered.

President Peyton stated that the stock of the paper company is covered by $61,000 of insurance, approximately covering the losses of the concern. The damage to the building was $15,000 to $20,000. It is owned by E. W. Peet of St. Paul, for whom T. W. Hoopes is local agent. The paper company was just completing improvements costing $4,000. The building and stock of the Knudsen Fruit company, located on the next lot, were slightly damaged by smoke and water.

Frank Hurley, truckman of No. 1 company, was painfully cut on the hands by falling glass. G. R. Peterson also suffered a painful cut on his heel from an ax.

Yesterday morning's fire was the third which the paper company has had. It was put out of business several years ago when known as the Zenith Paper company, and it had another disastrous fire preceding that. Both of these fires occurred before the present owners were in control.

ing crooks who leave impressions of their fingers at the scene of their crimes.

Simons and his son, after a hasty inventory, declared that the loot taken easily was worth $250,000 and that probably its value would exceed this figure.

Seen By Women.

The cracksmen who tunnelled their way through heavy brick and concrete walls, avoiding a network of burglar alarm wires, were seen in flight with their booty by a woman, the police announced today.

This woman whose name the police withheld, lives in the five-story tenement adjoining the pawnshop. She told the detectives that she was coming downstairs about 10 o'clock yesterday morning when a strange man came up from the cellar of the tenement. He carried an acetylene lamp on his shoulder. She followed him to the street and saw another man drive up in a light wagon. Into the wagon the first man placed the lamp. He then went back to the cellar and returned in a few moments with another lamp and a parcel done up in manila paper. He placed these in the wagon and both men drove away.

The police are certain that these are the men who chiselled through the walls of the tenement foundation to the cellar of the pawnshop. The brown paper parcel, they believe, contained the fortune in gems taken from the safe. From the woman they obtained good descriptions of the two men. Later they took her to the rogues' gallery to identify the men, if possible, from the pictures of criminals on file there.

session in his first message, in preparation. This, it is known from talks the president has had with members of congress, will outline the administration's idea of how the tariff should be revised and just what schedules should be taken up.

The belief is general that the entire message will be taken up with a discussion of the tariff, with the exception of the last paragraph or two, which will draw attention to the need of currency legislation at the earliest possible moment, and will indicate the purpose of the president to send later a special message on that or other subjects which he believes should be taken up by the new congress.

The tariff plan will be submitted first to a caucus and then directly to the house by the ways and means committee.

Committee Will Be Ready.

"The committee will be ready to report by that time," said Democratic Leader Underwood today. "We have made headway and there will be no trouble about reporting the revised plan when the congress convenes."

The majority of the ways and means committee today began taking up the administrative features of the new tariff. These provisions relate to the variety of customs house routine, and the effort of the Democrats in changing the terms and phrascology of the administration's section is to simplify and faolilitate the customs work both in the interest of the government and the importers. A number of changes along that line were suggested by witnesses during the tariff hearing in January.

Can Be Ready Immediately.

The tariff revision plan will be in such condition that whatever form the caucus determines upon can be reported immediately out of the committee and the whole tariff discussion formally opened up in the house without delay.

There will be no attempt to name all or even the bulk of the house committees at the outsct of the extra session, that being reserved under the present plan until toward the close of the extra session, so as to obviate any unnecessary legislation until the regular session of congress convenes in December. The ways and means committee personnel already has been determined upon in Democratic caucus of the Sixty-third congress, and it will be ratified by the house at the opening of the extra session when the committee on rules, mileage and accounts also will be named. Whether any other committees will be created for doing business at the extra session depends on developments between now and April 7.

DULUTH WOMEN SAVE MUCH MONEY

Instead of so much meat a great many Duluth housekeepers are now serving "Minnesota" Macaroni twice a week. They say the men folk are not only glad to see them save the meat money, but like the delicious nut-like flavor of "Minnesota" Macaroni much better than meat.

To those who do not know what a big difference there is in macaroni as sold at the stores, the rich, delicious, flavor of "Minnesota" Macaroni will be a revelation. It is four times as nutritious as beef-steak, is much easier to digest and costs only about one cent a dish.

Try the handy "Minnesota" Cut Macaroni, which is cut into uniform pieces—it cooks more evenly and is quicker to prepare. Adv.

effect, they may all be proceeded against on account of such conspiracy, even though the criminal liability of the tax debtor for the fraud itself has been specifically extinguished by the commissioner of internal revenue, with the concurrence of the secretary of the treasury."

Judge Landis told the jurors that it was discovered two years ago that big oleomargarine manufacturers were using cotton seed oil treated with sulphur which resulted in the imitation looking like real butter. The manufacturers, he said, were warned that they would use tho colored oil at their own peril.

Settled By MacVeagh.

A committee of the house of representatives investigated the whole matter, the court related, and calculated that the government had been deprived of $1,200,000 in taxes. The committee also recommended that the cases be not compromised. Nevertheless as one of the last acts of his late administration, Secretary MacVeagh of the treasury department, compromised the penalties at $101,000.

This compromise, continued Judge Landis, was based on the law giving the internal revenue department authority to compromise cases where tho internal revenue law has been violated. "If the manufacturers have been guilty of conspiring to defraud the government, however, the case comes under Section 37 of the Federal penal code," said the court, "and a charge made under that law cannot be compromised by the treasury department."

CHICAGO PAPER MAKES RETRACTION

Finds "Huge" Wisconsin Land Deal Was Sale of Few Lots.

That the Chicago papers are beginning to "get wise" to Wisconsin steel plant land deals is evidenced by a retraction in the Chicago Tribune of Sunday. The Chicago papers have been permitting themselves to become wildly enthused over Wisconsin lands, and the more of the typo of sand lots these were, or the less there was in the story of starting largely capitalized companies to handle these lands, the harder the Chicago papers seemed to bite.

The following is a clipping from the Chicago Tribune:

"On Feb. 25 the Tribune printed a story which announced that the United States Steel corporation has disposed of 322,500 acres of land, valued at $3,000,000, surrounding and in the proposed steel city of Carnegie, Minn., to the Great Lakes Land company. This story was printed on the word of Miss Frances E. Spooner, an attorney with offices in the City Hall Square building, and A. F. Doyle, manager of the Chicago branch of the Great Lakes Land company, both of whom, at the time, the Tribune regarded as responsible. It has since developed that the story is totally untrue. It was fabricated by Doyle and Miss Spooner, and its only basis in fact was the transfer of lots worth, at the most, not more than $500.

"The 'facts' of the 'big deal' at Carnegie were given to a reporter for the Tribune by Miss Spooner in the presence of Doyle.

"Subsequently Doyle found reason for regretting the luxuriance of his imagination. He has appealed to the Tribune to retract the article. The Tribune prints the facts in the case, not out of any desire to soothe Mr. Doyle, but because it wishes to protect its readers from an imposition that Mr. Doyle and Miss Spooner attempted to foist upon them."

ADJOURNS COURT TO ATTEND MUNGER FUNERAL

A high tribute to the honor and integrity of the late Robert S. Munger, pioneer Duluthian, who died Friday, was paid by Judge Ensign while presiding in a case in district court this morning.

At noon today, Judge Ensign asked the attorneys who are trying a lawsuit between A. A. Mendenhall and Frank J. Nixon to take the regular midday adjournment of court at 1 o'clock instead of at noon, so as to permit him to attend the funeral which was held this afternoon. The arrangement was satisfactory to them.

Judge Ensign, senior member of the district bench, and Mr. Munger were among Duluth's first citizens and were life-long friends.

DAY AND NIGHT EQUALLY DIVIDED

Those folks who believe that on March 21 the sun is in the heavens twelve hours, and below the horizon twelve hours had better look sharp.

The period of sunlight today is the nearest to an exact half of the twenty-four hours of the day that it ever is in Duluth in spring.

The sun rose this morning at 6:17 and it will set at 6:16 this evening, giving eleven hours and fifty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Tomorrow morning the sun will rise at 6:15 and it will set at 6:17 tomorrow evening, giving twelve hours and two minutes of sunlight.

There is no such thing as an exact division of the twenty-four hours in Duluth, and March 21 is not the date of the vernal equinox, so far as Duluth is concerned. On March 21, the sun rises at 6:09 and sets at 6:22, a period of twelve hours and thirteen minutes of sunlight.

Welcome News for Duluth People

CUBANS HAVE TEMPERAMENT

Duluthian Tells of Excitable Nature of the Islanders--Miami the Los Angeles of the South.

Dr. W. A. McClaran, Mrs. McClaran and Mrsr. R. B. Liggett returned yesterday from Havana, Cuba., the trip also including a visit to Miami and Palm Beach, Fla., and Washington, D. C.

"The Cubans are about the most excitable people on the face of the globe," said Dr. McClaran today. "I was with a well-known business man from New York. One day he came hurrying into the hotel and told the clerk they were going to mob him. There was a dispute about the amount of cab fare he owed. We all went out with the clerk and found the cabby tearing his hair and various other Cubans acting strangely like him, for they are like small children when it comes to trouble of even a trivial nature.

"Encouraged by the moral backing of the clerk of the hotel and several other Americans, the New York man told the gesticulating cabman where to get off at and then strolled into the hotel. Presently a penitent, small and dirty driver, thoroughly calmed, came cringing up to where we stood in the lobby and meekly announced that he would accept the proper fare.

"In many ways these Cubans are strangely like children. A few of us Americans went to see a cock fight simply through curiosity, as this is one of the national sports over there. It's a fact, and not the least exaggeration to state that two huge ranches and thousands of dollars were wagered on the result.

"The Cuban spectators went almost crazy. In the excitement attending the combat, though it seemed only stupidly brutal to us Americans, the Cubans would yell at the top of their voices, would scream and would go into paroxysms of excitement. They have lots of temperament in their own peculiar way, but I am inclined to the belief that it will require years of contact with the people of other countries before some of this impulsiveness is curbed.

"It is no uncommon sight to see women smoking in the streets of Havana. Also practically all of the women use some peculiar kind of an enamel which transforms their dark complexions to a color almst pure white. Even some of the children in arms were plastered with this peculiar paint.

The color line is not rigidly observed on the island. Naturally the Cubans feel somewhat above the negroes; but on the other hand it is at times hard to distinguish, and often you will meet with examples of types where it is really difficult to distinguish.

"Miami is becoming one of the real cities of the far South. William Jennings Bryan is building a $50,000 home there; in fact, Mr. Bryan was at Miami until a day or so before the inauguration of Washington. It is said that he has invested quite extensively in Miami real estate. Residents of this thriving little Florida city believe that it is going to be the Los Angeles of the South. They have public auctions of real estate and fortunes have been made in a day."

WILL INSPECT DULUTH MILITIA

Three Local Companies Will Be Reviewed By Maj. Johnson.

This evening and tomorrow and Wednesday evenings there will be held at the Armory the annual state and Federal inspections of the Duluth battalion of the Minnesota National Guard.

Maj. Arthur Johnson of the United States army will be the officer conducting the inspection. This will be the usual inspection held for the purpose of seeing that the various companies are prepared both in the way of efficiency and equipment for emergency calls. Every piece of equipment on hand in the Armory will have to undergo the scrutiny of the inspecting officer.

Company E, which will be under the command of First Lieut. Alfred C. Foster, will be inspected this evening, together with the local field and staff officers. Tomorrow evening the Third Regiment band and Company A, commanded by Robert K. Lee, will be inspected, and on Wednesday evening Company C, under command of Capt. Walter O. Flodin, will undergo a review by the major.

A company drill will follow the inspection and muster. A heavy attendance of each company is expected for the state allowance is based on the attendance at these inspections. This inspection will be open to the public. Maj. Johnson will inspect companies at Hibbing and Eveleth Thursday and Friday evenings.

APPOINTED BY HANNA.

North Dakota Delegates to Fourth American Peace Conference.

Bismarck, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Hanna has appointed the following deelgates to the fourth American peace congress to be held at St. Louis, May 1, 2, and 3, of the present year:

Bishop Cameron Mann, Fargo; Rt. Rev. Vincent Wehrle, Bismarck; Rt. Rev. James O'Reilly, bishop of Fargo; Rev. H. J. Glenn, Grafton; Dr. E. P. Robertson, Grand Forks; Dr. P. H. Kreese, Jamestown; Rev. DECRIES SPREAD OF COMMERCIALISM

Rev. A. W. Ryan Says Commandments Are Ignored in Business.

Commercialism has taken up the greater part of the horizon of human ambitions and the ten commandments no longer have a place in business, according to Rev. A. W. Ryan in his sermon at St. Paul's Episcopal church, yesterday morning. Among other things he said:

"The Ten Commandments have no place in business. Corporations have no souls. Business is not bound to take a charitable view of obligations and business has to preserve itself no matter who suffers or is even deprived of life or honor.

"We are aghast at the revelations in other cities that are coming to us just now. Business, commercializing vice, has resorted to graft and a whole police force has been shown, not to be protecting the community, but helping to deprave a community and live on what threatens its life.

"Commercial corporations have done that which would put any individual in prison, but corporations have escaped the reach of the law.

"The kingdom of God seems to threaten our material prosperity, but as a matter of fact the kingdom is the sole thing in this world that will protect us in material and spiritual things. A good deal of our business in the past has been evidently a predatory thing and men have come perilously near to being thieves and murderers."

TRIBUTE TO ST. PATRICK

Duluth Irishmen Honor Man Who Carried Christianity to Emerald Isle.

Free Concert at Masonic Temple Featured By Irish Music.

Today is St. Patrick's day, dear to the heart of every man and woman of Irish birth or descent.

Nearly 1,500 years ago, St. Patrick planted the seed of Christianity in pagan Ireland, and Ireland never reverted to paganism. For 1,500 years the Irish people, as ardent Christians, have paid homage to the memory of St. Patrick. All over the world today, Irishmen wear a spring of green as a mark of love for the country of their forefathers, as the best tribute to the memory of St. Patrick, who spent his life in bringing Ireland to the true faith.

St. Patrick's personal history is confused in tradition, some ascribing his birthplace to Scotland and others to France. Some authorities say he died in 465, while others say in 493. However, there is no confusion as to his missionary work in Ireland, for the results of it remain as a testimonial to the efficacy with which he planted Christianity on the island.

On account of St. Patrick's day falling this year in Holy Week, the secular observance of the day was held in Duluth last week, the annual entertainment at Cathedral hall being held Friday evening. The observance today was religious. At Sacred Heart Cathedral, Second avenue west and Fourth street, solemn high mass was celebrated this morning at 10 o'clock by Rt. Rev. James McGolrick, bishop of Duluth. Special services were also held at other churches in the city.

The free concert at the Masonic temple yesterday, the last of the series, was devoted principally to Irish music.

A splendid program was presented to an audience which more than filled the auditorium. The lobby and ante-room and even the stage were used to accommodate the crowd, and even then many were obliged to stand, and late comers could not even gain admission. Many causes helped to draw this record attendance—fine weather; an excellent selection of organ numbers; the fact of its being the last concert of the season; two favorite vocalists, and the placing on the program of a number of Irish selections in honor of St. Patrick's day.

Opening with a fine miltary march by Elgar, the organist played four short numbers from the incidental music to Saint Saen's Henry VIII, music redolent with the spirit of old English country dances, and ending with a sprightly jig which might have been danced beneath Herne's Oak in Windsor Forest. Beethoven's overture to the "Ruins of Athens" was interesting, and Von Weber's Jubilee overture was much enjoyed. Owing to a mistake, the audience commenced to leave before the last number was played, thus disappointing many who had been looking forward to enjoying Godfrey's "Reminiscences of Ireland."

The vocalists found ready favor and their selections included examples of all kinds of Irish music. Charles O. Applehagen sang the rollicking old song "Father O'Flynn," in which the typical parish is so well depicted, and gave as his encore Moore's "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms." His second song was the pathetic "Off to Philadelphia," with the sadness of the Irish emigrant offset with gleams of humor and hope. As an encore he sang "The Wearin' of the Green," and as a second encore, "In Dublin's Fair City."

Mrs. Leo Ball, who has not only a special talent for Irish songs, but also a rich soprano voice, gave Balfe's beautiful "Killarney," said to be the last song the composer wrote before his death, and as an encore the "Minstrel Boy," which breathes the very soul of Irish patriotism and love of freedom. "The Low Backed Car," with its humor and rollicking lilt, evoked vigorous applause, in response to which Mrs. Ball gave Molloy's "Kerry Dance."

This ends the series of free concerts. On Sunday next at 3 p. m. will occur the ceremonial "Relighting of the Lights," after which the Knight Templars will hold their annual Easter service. The music will be rendered by the Scottish Rite quartet. These services are open to the public, but owing to lack of space, no children will be admitted.

PRESIDENT AGAIN FOOLS THE CURIOUS.

Washington, March 17.—President Wilson again escaped the eyes of the curious and worshiped inconspicuously yesterday at the First Presbyterian church.

With a dozen Presbyterian churches within easy reach of the White House, the president has kept Washington folk guessing each Sunday as to the one he would select. There is a friendly rivalry among those who would have the president worship at a particular church all the time, but it was apparent that the president will not make a final selection, if at all, until he has attended all Presbyterian churches.

Secretary of State Bryan already was in his pew when the president, Mrs. Wilson and Miss Jessie arrived.

Mille Lacs County Appeals to Duluth Commercial Club.

Support of Measure in Interest of Farmers Is Urged.

The following letter from Mille Lacs county to the secretary of the Duluth Commercial club asks the aid of St. Louis county in securing the passage by the legislature of the Dunn good roads bill

Wahkon, Minn., March 15.—H. V. Eva, secretary Commercial club, Duluth, Minn.: Dear Sir: I notice by the press dispatches that considerable opposition has developed to the Dunn good roads bill now before the legislature. This opposition, it appears, is based on the idea that if the money is divided pro rata between the different counties, as provided in the Dunn bill, it will be unwisely spent and result in building roads that start nowhere and finish nowhere. In short, the opponents of this bill argue that it is better to appoint a highway commissioner vested with arbitrary power to spend this vast sum on grand trunk highways starting somewhere and ending somewhere, than to allow the people of each county to use their portion in the way best suited to their needs. The original idea of this measure was based on development of the unsettled parts of the state by means of state aid for roads. This was the argument used by the press and on the stump for the amending of our state Constitution to make this measure possible, and approved by a majority of the voters. Can anyone conceive of all the people of the state taxing themselves to build trunk highways for the benefit of the relatively few living tributary to them?

Was Fully Discussed.

Where were the opponents of the bill when those who believed in its objects were openly working for it among the people of the state and plainly giving their reasons for their support. No bill ever presented before the legislature was more fully discussed or more generally understood and approved by the people, and it is inconceivable that, after all the people have won their fight for a definite plan of state development, they shall sit tamely by while being robbed of the fruits of their victory. The author of the bill and its supporters generally never intended and never claimed that it would do other than provide roads to permit of the farmer bringing his products to market and improve those already built.

We hear a great human cry for state development, and the halting of at least a part of the thousands of immigrants who are yearly treking across our border to find homes in a foreign land, and now, when the first intelligent measure that has ever been devised to remedy this miserable condition is within sight of success, must we let the substance of roads for state development be lost while grasping at the shadow of sumptuous highways that will mainly benefit the fortunate few who can afford autos and fancy driving horses?

There Will Be a Howl.

Will our opponents kindly indicate where they would build the first highway, starting somewhere and finishing somewhere? The writer's opinion is that it would likely start at the Twin Cities and finish at some string of fishing resorts. They truthfully say that should their contention prevail a howl will go up, but sagely remark it will not last long. A howl will surely go up that will be heard from the Iowa line to the Canadian boundry, and it will last until state aid for trunk highways is wiped off the statutes.

Nothing more harmful to Duluth could be conceived than the defeat of this bill. The territory tributory to your city is largely undeveloped and without sufficient railroad facilities, making the settler and the prospective settler confront the problem of long hauls over rough roads or no roads. The writer admits that Duluth is somewhere, and that you would be among the first places favored with a trunk line, but are you willing to set back for perhaps twenty years the development of the thousands of square miles of territory for the doubtful advantage of splendid highways going somewhere. The writer's business frequently takes him through Northern Mille Lacs, Southern Aitkin and Eastern Crow Wing counties. Speaking for the people of this region, our idea of somewhere is a place where products can be marketed. Their interest in this kind of a somewhere is so great that many of the towns levy a tax for roads and bridges as high as 2 per cent.

Roads for the Farmers Needed.

We have no objection to trunk roads and national pikes; they are the frills of civilization and will come with time; for that matter, the policy that we advocate will bring them as a natural result of traffic seeking the most convenient artery. As each county completes its main highways they will, as a matter of course, connect with each other. The more frequently traveled of these will become the through trunk lines and in the end go somewhere.

But, first of all, we, and we believe you of Duluth, are interested in the settlement of the millions of acres of fertile lands of our state as yet untouched, and this can be accomplished only by providing outlets for trade and commerce.

This was the object of the author of this bill, and on these lines, outspokenly advocated with voice and pen, it was carried before the people of Minnesota.

Would Defeat Will of Voters.

Any scheme to divert the money raised by the Dunn 1-mill tax to a few favored localities is little short of an attempt to defeat the will of the voters as expressed at the polls last November.

A number of the members of your club are also members of the Northern Minnesota Development association. We call on you to use your influence with that body which has already done so much for the general good to exert its power in this great cause that so vitally affects us all.

It is to Duluth that we naturally turn for assistance. It is there we buy our goods and market our products. To that great city and the rich and powerful county of St. Louis we appeal with full confidence that when the line-up comes they will be found on the side of right and justice. Sincerely yours, J. L. TRAVERS.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and A FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." "THE LESSON OF GETHSEMANE"

Pastor Says It Taught How Higher Life Can Be Found.

"The Lessen of Gethsemane," was the subject of the sermon by Rev. George R. Gebauer, at the First Unitarian church, yesterday morning.

"The soul-drama in Gethsemane was written by God with the heart-blood of Jesus that humanity might become divinely heroic like the master, might be saved not through Jesus but as Jesus was, by willing sacrifice," he said.

"It was written that mankind might learn the divine lesson of life and death, that it might learn to realize that the higher life can only be found by him who is ready to lay down his lower life in glad submission to the will of God. Of course I know that there are many other lessons, but this lesson above all others is brought to the fore in that soul battle in the garden of Gethsemane the night before Golgotha. That experience better that drama in Gethsemane gives us the truth of how religion is harmony between God's will and man's willing, and how prayer in its highest sense is not an endeavor to change the will of God, but to bring the will of man into accord with the will of the Almighty love.

"Prayer is first of all an instinctive reaching out of the soul toward God, a yearning to find rest and assurance in the life of God. It is instinctive as the child's reaching forth its arms for its mother, whom its thought can not comprehend. Later prayer becomes conscious utterance, which asks for wise things and things foolish, all depending upon the one who utters it. Finally prayer becomes conscious communion with eternal love. It asks no longer for special favors, for it has learned to desire only what is good and true and open to every son of man. The soul which has developed into its higher self is like the elder son in the parable to whom the father says: 'Son thou art ever with me, and all that is mine is thine.' But is quite obvious that the life of most men rarely reaches such heights and that to most men this truth is but a beautiful theory. The saintliest soul may rise in rebellion against God, when sorrow and trial comes upon it. There are times when the loftiest soul becomes self-seeking. So it was doubtless with Jesus on that dark night on the Mount of Olives. When he felt His fate approaching, He shrank from it, the superman gave for a time away to the sub-man. He dreaded to drink the cup of woe and pain prepared for Him by the hand of Almighty Love. But the super-man conquered in prayer and He arose triumphant: 'If this cup can not pass away except I drink it, thy will be done.' Jesus had found the Christ in Himself, Him whom a large portion of the world calls Savior, had been saved by glad submission to the will of God."

DECRIES SPREAD OF COMMERCIALISM

Rev. A. W. Ryan Says Commandments Are Ignored in Business.

Commercialism has taken up the greater part of the horizon of human ambitions and the ten commandments no longer have a place in business, according to Rev. A. W. Ryan in his sermon at St. Paul's Episcopal church, yesterday morning. Among other things he said:

"The Ten Commandments have no place in business. Corporations have no souls. Business is not bound to take a charitable view of obligations and business has to preserve itself no matter who suffers or is even deprived of life or honor.

"We are aghast at the revelations in other cities that are coming to us just now. Business, commercializing vice, has resorted to graft and a whole police force has been shown, not to be protecting the community, but helping to deprive a community and live on what threatens its life.

"Commercial corporations have done that which would put any individual in prison, but corporations have escaped the reach of the law.

"The kingdom of God seems to threaten our material prosperity, but as a matter of fact the kingdom is the sole thing in this world that will protect us in material and spiritual things. A good deal of our business in the past has been evidently a predatory thing and men have come perilously near to being thieves and murderers."

TRIBUTE TO ST. PATRICK

Duluth Irishmen Honor Man Who Carried Christianity to Emerald Isle.

Free Concert at Masonic Temple Featured By Irish Music.

Today is St. Patrick's day, dear to the heart of every man and woman of Irish birth or descent.

Nearly 1,500 years ago, St. Patrick planted the seed of Christianity in pagan Ireland, and Ireland never reverted to paganism. For 1,500 years the Irish people, as ardent Christians, have paid homage to the memory of St. Patrick. All over the world today, Irishmen wear a spring of green as a mark of love for the country of their forefathers, as the best tribute to the memory of St. Patrick, who spent his life in bringing Ireland to the true faith.

St. Patrick's personal history is confused in tradition, some ascribing his birthplace to Scotland and others to France. Some authorities say he died in 465, while others say in 493. However, there is no confusion as to his missionary work in Ireland, for the results of it remain as a testimonial to the efficacy with which he planted Christianity on the island.

On account of St. Patrick's day falling this year in Holy Week, the secular observance of the day was held in Duluth last week, the annual entertainment at Cathedral hall being held Friday evening. The observance today was religious. At Sacred Heart Cathedral, Second avenue west and Fourth street, solemn high mass was celebrated this morning at 10 o'clock by Rt. Rev. James McGolrick, bishop of Duluth. Special services were also held at other churches in the city.

The free concert at the Masonic temple yesterday, the last of the series, was devoted principally to Irish music.

A splendid program was presented to an audience which more than filled the auditorium. The lobby and ante-room and even the stage were used to accommodate the crowd, and even then many were obliged to stand, and late comers could not even gain admission. Many causes helped to draw this record attendance—fine weather; an excellent selection of organ numbers; the fact of its being the last concert of the season; two favorite vocalists, and the placing on the program of a number of Irish selections in honor of St. Patrick's day.

Opening with a fine military march by Elgar, the organist played four short numbers from the incidental music to Saint Saens' Henry VIII, music produced with the spirit of old English country dances, and ending with a sprightly jig which might have been danced beneath Hermes oak in Windsor forest. Beethoven's overture to the "Ruins of Athens" was interesting, and Von Weber's Jubilee overture was much enjoyed. Owing to a mistake, the audience commenced to leave before the last number was played, thus disappointing many who had been looking forward to enjoying Godfrey's "Reminiscences of Ireland."

The vocalists found ready favor and their selections included examples of all kinds of Irish music. Charles O. Applehagen sang the rollicking old song "Father O'Flynn," in which the typical parish is so well depicted, and gave as his encore Moore's "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms." His second song was the pathetic "Off to Philadelphia," with the sadness of the Irish emigrant offset with gleams of humor and hope. As an encore he sang "The Wearin' of the Green," and as a second encore, "In Dublin's Fair City."

Mrs. Leo Ball, who has not only a special talent for Irish songs, but also a rich soprano voice, gave Balfe's beautiful "Killarney," said to be the last song the composer wrote before his death, and as an encore the "Minstrel Boy," which breathes the very soul of Irish patriotism and love of freedom. "The Low Backed Car," with its humor and rollicking lilt, evoked vigorous applause, in response to which Mrs. Ball gave Molloy's "Kerry Dance."

This ends the series of free concerts. On Sunday next at 3 p. m. will occur the ceremonial "Relighting of the Lights," after which the Knight Templars will hold their annual Easter service. The music will be rendered by the Scottish Rite quartet. These services are open to the public, but owing to lack of space, no children will be admitted.

PRESIDENT AGAIN FOOLS THE CURIOUS.

Washington, March 17.—President Wilson again escaped the eyes of the curious and worshiped inconspicuously yesterday at the First Presbyterian church.

With a dozen Presbyterian churches within easy reach of the White House, the president has kept Washington folk guessing each Sunday as to the one he would select. There is a friendly rivalry among those who would have the president worship at a particular church all the time, but it was apparent that the president will not make a final selection, if at all, until he has attended all Presbyterian churches.

Secretary of State Bryan already was in his pew when the president, Mrs. Wilson and Miss Jessie arrived.

LOOK INTO STATE EXPENSES.

The house committee on public accounts and expenditures at St. Paul has started something that ought to be pushed to completion. It has suggested that a commission be created to investigate the reason for the tremendous increase in recent years in the expense of conducting the Minnesota government and how much of that increase was really necessary, and also to evolve some plan by which the state government can be reorganized so that the cost of its operations can be reduced and its efficiency increased.

Even before the legislature met and began to receive estimates on what appropriations would be needed for the next two years, it was generally realized that Minnesota was spending money like water, as compared with ten years ago. The Herald commented on the matter before the legislature met, and other papers throughout the state joined in a demand to know why there should have been such an enormous addition to the running expenses of the state.

Now that the way is being opened for such an investigation, one other point should be borne in mind, and that is that the investigation should be made by somebody not directly connected with either the legislature or any of the state departments. The departments are the spenders of the money, and the legislature has in every case sanctioned the expenditures. If we are to get any clear idea of the cause or need of the increasing expense, the investigation must be made by some body of men who can look at all questions from the standpoint of disinterestedness, so far as that is possible with citizens of the state. To put such a task into the hands of either legislators or members of the state government would be like calling on a man to investigate and report on the advisability or necessity of his own actions.

It is high time the state took some steps to find out "where it is at" in financial matters. The last report of the state auditor showed that Minnesota in 1902 spent $7,202,950.12, and that in 1912 the expenditures aggregated $16,321,065.41. In only a decade there has been more than 100 per cent increase in what it costs to run the Minnesota government and the state tax rate is now the highest ever known in this state.

Why?

That is what the people want to know and are entitled to know. They should be furnished with the information, not at the hands of the men who are spending the money, but as the result of an investigation by men who have nothing personal at stake in the matter more than every citizen who has to pay the increasing taxes has at stake.

Perhaps it is too much to expect that the state administration will become wildly enthusiastic in favor of such a movement as is proposed by the house committee in response to the demand to know why it costs twice as much to run the state today as it did ten years ago. But that the administration will oppose such an investigation is not at all likely. Neither is it likely that the movement will meet with serious open opposition by the party organization in either house. Such a movement would be too much like an implication that the legislators in the organizations were bent on protecting the administration from having its acts placed in the limelight.

So there seems to be no good reason why the investigation proposed by the house committee will not be made. It assuredly is needed. If Minnesota has become so great that it needs twice as much of the people's money to run the state as it did ten years ago, the people are entitled to know about it and to know wherein that greatness lies. And if the doubling of expense is due to something else than real necessities, it is time the people found that out, too, and put a stop to the practice.

It has been suggested that C. A. Congdon of this city be named for chairman of the commission. No better choice could be made, for Mr. Congdon has the technical knowledge of finances and the ability to conduct such an inquiry, and he has the courage and force necessary to make the investigation amount to something.

Who the men to make the investigation are to be rests with the legislature, but whether Mr. Congdon is given charge of the work or whether somebody else is assigned to that task, it should be done as thoroughly and fairly as possible.

Maybe this movement to postpone the opening of congress is just a ruse to inaugurate competition with the opening games. Bet the games win.

THE RAISE FOR THE TEACHERS.

Though final action is yet to be taken, indications are that the teachers in Duluth are to be given an addition to their salaries. The proposed increase is not as great as they asked, or hoped for. But it is something, and the members of the committee that will make the recommendation for the increase declare that it is as great as can possibly be given under present financial and other conditions.

Nobody will begrudge the teachers the extra $50 if it is paid them. They not only need it, but they earn it, and as soon as it is possible they should be given even better pay than is proposed. The work of the teachers is too important to be allowed to suffer from lack of a remuneration that will attract and hold the best service obtainable.

The teachers at least have obtained a start in the good work, and small though the proposed increase is, they are justified in looking on it as an earnest of better things to come.

And just think! Only a few months more before the world series.

MR. OLNEY DECLINES.

It is a matter for regret that Richard Olney has seen fit to decline the offer of the ambassadorship to the court of St. James. His reasons for declining were not made public at the time his letter was sent to the president, but it was made reasonably plain that Mrs. Olney's health and Mr. Olney's advanced age were potent factors in bringing him to that determination.

Mr. Olney would be of the greatest service to the country in such a position at the British capital. He is well informed in international affairs and customs, and his personality would make him acceptable in the surroundings which he would have to enter. His ability, too, is recognized as above the average, and all told he is exceptionally qualified for such a post as was offered to him, both on account of his experience in diplomatic affairs during the Cleveland administration and through his individual capabilities.

But Mr. Olney has seen fit to decline the honor and duties thus offered him, and the question of who is to be chosen is made all the more interesting. If, as rumor says, Dr. Eliot is to be offered the London post, the country will hope most earnestly that he will see fit to accept it. The president emeritus of Harvard is not only universally known, but is recognized the world over as one of the most capable of America's public men. In view of his having laid down his Harvard duties it would not be occasion for great surprise if he declined to take up the burdens of an ambassadorship. But the selection of Dr. Eliot for that position would be thoroughly in accord with President Wilson's program of determining nominees by efficiency instead of by party preferment, and it would be certain to meet with the approval of both the American and British people.

It develops that Mr. Taft is interested in a Georgia peanut estate. No wonder he didn't succeed at national politics.

TEACHER OR MOTHER?

New York has been much wrought up in the last few weeks over the request of one of the teachers in the public schools of the city that she be given a year's leave of absence to cover the birth of her child and the first few months when she must care for it. The permission has been denied by the board of education, in the face of severe criticism on the part of some of the city newspapers and a portion of the people.

As a side issue in the affair, the old question of allowing married women to teach in the schools has been revived. It seems as if that matter ought to depend entirely upon the ability of the individual in practically every case. When a women of marked ability as a teacher applies for such a position, it appears like the rankest folly to reject her application merely for the reason that she is married. And if she be a woman who has raised children of her own, that should be all the more reason for accepting the application, for surely one who has had the training of motherhood is in far better position to deal with the problems that arise in the schoolroom and in the relations between school and home than one who has had no such experience.

But in this New York case there is one factor that does not seem to have had as much consideration as others, and that is, how about the care of the child after that mother had completed her year of absence from the school? Is it to the interests of either the child or the community that the mother leave the child in the care of others while she goes to her daily tasks?

One of the most serious problems that social students have to face is that of the mothers who are obliged to be away from home a great part of the day. Surely, where the mother is not compelled to work outside of the home, her place is with the child, both for its physical, mental and moral good. The raising of children means more than caring for them for a few months after birth. The task of motherhood is one that demands practically all of a woman's time for years, instead of weeks. It should not be made to take a secondary place in a woman's life. This New York teacher will have her hands full if she brings up her little one well.

We'll try to stand it until the futurists take to designing the custard pies.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

SAYS A GOOD WORD FOR CLEAN SPORT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I believe in encouraging the community athletic olub, such as the Lakeside venture.

We are coming to see that recreation is a powerful factor in the social welfare of any community, and that the way in which the people spend their free time is decidedly a matter of community interest. Shall we divert the idle towards legitimate social pursuits, or shall we leave them to frequent the unwholesome resorts of the modern city?

Jane Addams charges that the severe Cromwell handicapped the British youth, and encouraged vice and crime when he drove legitimate sports and pastimes from the open to the dark and hidden places. The boy on the street will develop hoodlumism, while if he had the opportunities afforded by the social center for athletics and other sports he would develop health and manliness. The same opportunities should be given to the girl for healthful and amusing recreation. I believe most thoroughly in all kinds of legitimate sports, from the sand pile to the gentle taps of the upholstered mitts, and I believe Duluth, because of its situation and climatic conditions, should develop into one of the great sporting centers of the continent.

M. B. C.

Duluth, March 15.

Eskimo Boys and Girls.

Wide World Magazine: The Eskimo child is the idol of the home, and is allowed to do absolutely as he pleases. He is never punished and his whims and wishes are consulted with all the concern given an adult. In spite of this indulgence, the children are remarkably obedient. Perhaps the patriarchal manner of living—father and mother, aunts and uncles, and grandmother and grandfather all in one house—tends to make them so. The word of the old folks is law, and is never questioned. They have lived a long time, the Eskimos reason, and therefore speak with the authority of experience. All this is very nice in the ordinary walks of life, but rather embarrassing sometimes in school work. When a tot of 4 or 5 plays truant from school and the visiting teacher, complaining to the parents, is gravely told to ask the small despot if it is his royal pleasure to come to school or not, the situation becomes ludicrous.

The only resource is to become a hated truant officer, or, better, to make your work so interesting that the ohildren cannot stay away. I remember I usd to lie awake at nights thinking up new ways of presenting old subjects, usually in the form of action plays and instructive games. A native child cannot hold his interest on any one subject for any length of time; his wild, free nature craves a variety of interest. Nevertheless they are very bright for the moment and wonderfully quick in perception, although lacking the white child's ability to reason out a problem and to give concentrated attention, which after all is the gift of civilization.

The South Pole Is Desolate.

Capt. Roald Amundsen in the New York Independent: There is no life at the South Pole, no kind of life, in air or water or on land. There is a great continent covered by ice and snow. Animal life, so far as was observed, does not extend beyond the Barrier, which is 700 miles distant from the pole.

We found bare spaces on the land and collected geological specimens, but nothing to show that the South Pole region holds treasures which would interest our civilization. We found no evidence of gold, silver, copper or iron. I am not responsible for the statement that there are in that region some of the largest coal deposits ever discovered, and I did not express a hope that they would soon be developed. Information on the subject of the coal comes, I believe, from Sir Ernest Shackleton.

But even if there are in the South Polar region very large deposits of coal and of precious metals they will simply be something to sigh over—they are inaccessible. Miners cannot live there and even if they could live and could work there would be no way to get their products out to a point where commerce could reach it. The lowest temperature we found at or around the South Pole was 75 deg. below zero, Fahrenheit. The highest velocity of wind was twenty meters a second. It is a region of storms.

No, I doubt that South Polar exploration will realizo anything that can be directly made of material benefit. But on the other hand, any addition to our present fund of scientifio knowledge is of immense importance, and our magnetic observations taken at or near the pole are, therefore, most valuable. So, also, our geological specimens.

Shoe Heels Originated in Persia.

Harper's Weekly: It is said that the heels now worn on shoes had their origin in Persia, where they took the form of flat wood on sandals to raise the feet and protect them from the hot sands.

It was many years afterward that this fashion was introduced into Venice, but the reason for its adoption in this case is said to have been quite different. Here the originators of the fashion were jealous husbands who reasoned that their women thus equipped would not venture far outside the precincts of their dwelling. These heels were called "clogs," and in order to satisfy the vanity of the wearers and perhaps to sweeten the pill—that is, the discomfort of appearing in them—they were elaborately adorned, sometimes being incrusted with gold and silver. The height of the clogs determined the rank of the wearer.

Women of Cabinet Are Real Workers

From the Washington Times.

The Wilson cabinet women are workers. Like their husbands, they are democratio and progressive. They have accomplished things in their lives, and they will continue this in their more exalted positions as leaders in Washington society. Toil—good, honest, hard toil—has been the portion of some. Social life is not the paramount aim of any of these women, although every one is graced with social tastes and charm.

Mrs. William Jennings Bryan, wife of the secretary of state, is in many ways one of the most remarkable of Washington's new Democratic women. She is a lawyer. In the state of Nebraska she holds a permit to practice her profession, gained by months of hard, ambitious study.

Her life has been marked by work; it still is crowded with real business. Yet withal she is the most diplomatic member of the corps, and her presence is an added attraction to any society function. For some years she has been her husband's secretary, and aid, companion, wife. Even now she is tactfully directing the work of interviewing or sending away office seekers.

Mrs. Burleson, wife of the postmaster general, is, likewise, a woman of active life and wide interests. She is an author, playwright, horsewoman. And with her outside activities she is also a gentle home woman, and a social leader. She has the energy characteristic of Texas women. She has, too, the charm of the Southland.

Mrs. Daniels, wife of the secretary of the navy, is also an active, bright, clever Southerner. She is known as "almost a newspaper woman." From intimate interest in her husband's newspaper, the Raleigh News and Observer, she has gleaned an astonishing insight into newspaper work, and a keen knowledge of political affairs. She is interested in the betterment of womankind, although she is not a suffragist.

Miss Agnes Wilson, who presides over the household of Secretary of Labor Wilson in the absence of Mrs. Wilson with the remainder of the family at Blossburg, Pa., is, perhaps the most businesslike woman of the entire cabinet. She has been her father's secretary, clerk of the congressional committee on labor, secretary of the United Mine Workers of America, and at the same time has found opportunity to indulge in the joys common to the lives of less active young women.

Mrs. Houston, wife of the secretary of agriculture, is a Texas woman of strongly domestic tastes. Mrs. Redfield, wife of the secretary of commerce, is likewise domestic, but has membership in the Kosmos club of Brooklyn, and takes an interest in society.

The leading society woman of the cabinet is Mrs. Lane, wife of the secretary of the interior. Her interests are chiefly social. She is a connoisseur of music and art, and a favorite of the smart set. Mrs. Garrison, wife of the secretary of war, likes society, but is not entirely absorbed therein. She is a Western woman with the fresh, democratio spirit of her native home, although her surroundings for some time have been Eastern. She made her home in Philadelphia for many years.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo is a widower with six children, several of whom will play a leading part in social life of the capital in the coming season. Attorney General J. C. McReynolds is the only bachelor member of the cabinet.

The Skillful Mouse.

Our Animal Friends: One day a naturalist lay motionless on a fallen log in the forest, and silently watched an animal at play in the grass near by. This was a large, brown-backed mouse—a meadow mouse, that had come out from his home under the log, and, when tired of play, had sat up to make his toilet. Using his forepaws as hands, the mouse combed the white fur on his breast, and licked himself smooth and sleek. Satisfied at length with his appearance, he began to search for food.

He did not have far to go, for a few stalks of wheat grew among the thick weeds near at hand. The mouse was so large that he could probably have bent the stalk down and brought the grain within reach. If not, he could certainly have climbed the stalk. He did not try either of these plans, however, for these were not his ways. Sitting up very straight, he bit through the stalk as high as he could reach. The weeds were so thick that the straw could not fall its full length, and the freshly cut end settled down upon the ground, with the straw still erect and the grain out of reach. The mouse again bit the straw in two, and again the upper portion settled before he oould bring the grain within reach of his paws. These forepaws were very skillful little hands, and he deftly husked a grain and ate it, sitting erect and holding it to his mouth as naturally as a boy would hold an apple.

Washington in British Army.

Letter to the London Telegraph: In your recent article on the letters of George Washington, a passage occurs with regard to Washington and a commission in the British army.

That Washington was born on Feb. 22, 1732, is generally accepted. But, in the Public Record office, London, we read:

"Washington, George, Gent., to be cornet en second in the Queen's Royal Regiment of Dragoons commanded by Lieut.-Gen. Sir John Cope, March 14, 1743-4."

He would then have been 12 years old. It is just possible, however, that he was given a commission as an infant—a custom then in vogue. I have searched everywhere to establish the identity of this George Washington, but in vain.

My object was to trace all the officers of this regiment, now the Seventh, Queen's Own Hussars, as I am and have been for some time engaged on its history. Apparently the George Washington in qucation was never on the active list, and I have been quite unable to find the name mentioned elsewhere in the record office military manuscripts.

Naturally, if the fact that Washington was ever appointed to the regiment is true, even if only "en second," it would be worth recording and would be, morever, of interest both in this country and America.

Platinum.

Platinum is being produced in the United States in increasing quantities —94 troy ounces, worth $1,814, in 1902; 257 ounces, worth $10,589, in 1907; and 940 ounces, worth $40,890, in 1911.

Doing His Own Work.

Boston Transcript: On his way home from the kirk the parson met Sandy Macgregor.

"I doubt, Sandy, that ye're growing remiss. I've no seen ye in the kirk these three Sabbaths," said the parson.

"It's no that, I'm growing remiss, parson," replied Sandy; "but I'm just tinkerin' awa' wi' ma soul masel.'"

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Patrick Tumulty, the young man who recently stepped into the most difficult job in the country—that of insulating the president from the public—is not a German or a Frenchman. One would never guess it from his name, but the fellow is mostly Irish. And he has an Irishman's sense of humor. For example:

At the close of his first day as secretary to the president, young Mr. Tumulty stepped out the front door of the executive office and there found a large costly automobile awaiting him. The chauffeur touched his cap, another fellow opened the door, and the six-cylinder engine chuff-chuffed deferentially. You see, the big auto goes with the job. All Tumulty has to do is to rub the magio lamp, so to speak, and the machine comes bounding to him whenever he wants it.

Well, the new secretary looked at the machine, turned from it to a friend standing near by, tried to keep his face straight, but couldn't, and burst into a hearty laugh.

"Oh, it's funny," roared Tumulty; "only a day or so ago, over in New Jersey, I was lucky if I got standing room in a street car. And now look at this outfit."

Tumulty is a compact young person, barely up to the average height, fair-haired, and with rosy cheeks liko Lilian Russell used to have. He looks so boyish and good natured that until one sees him in action, one gets the impression that a book agent could walk right by him into a cabinet meeting. But the man has an authoritative voice that stops all monkey business, regardless of his winning smile. He combines briskness with calmness. At times, he gets so busy that he actually breaks into a run, but while galloping from one room to another he is composedly nodding to callers and calmly deciding which ones must be disposed of first.

As to dress, Tumulty is neat but not offensive. He runs to browns, of conservative pattern, but no matter how much he might pay for his clothes, he could not look "dressy." One would never know for sure whether he was outfitted by an exclusive tailor, or at a great January clearance sale. And he would feel ill at ease in a silk hat.

Besides Tumulty, the White House force still includes Tommy Brahany, chief clerk, and Pat McKenna, doorkeeper. And the carpets about the executive offices are green. All of which is a great help.

The vice president's secretary's name is Mark Thistlethwaite. Do not overlook the "th" lying unostentatiously between the thistle and the waite. A great many persons think the affable young man's namo is Thistlewaite, but they are mistaken. That extra "th" has been put in to make it hard, like a thick item in a conundrum. To roll the name trippingly from the tongue requires some little practice, perseverance, and a running start to say noone of a clear head. A man who attends too many sumptuous banquets in the night season will have no end of difficulty in properly addressing Mr. Thistlethwaite the next morning. One or two senators have proposed that the secretary lend his name each forenoon to determine the fit and the unfit about the senate wing of the capitol, even as Jepthah, of Israel, used the word shibboleth to separate the Ephraimites from the Gileaditos. The idea is, if one may paraphrase Milton, to bar all senators who fall into the wrong classification "for want of well pronouncing Thistlethwaite."

Josephus Daniels, the North Carolina editor, who is now secretary of the navy, used to be a drug clerk. Before that was was working on a farm for 40 cents a day, but when a drug store proprietor came along one hot July afternoon and offered him 10 cents a day more, Daniels immediately responded to the vulgar call of money.

After he had been dispensing drugs for a few months they cleaned up some of their stock bottles one morning and he put the opium in the bottle that had formerly contained powdered borax. The labels were changed all right, but the price marks were not. At noon, when Daniels was holding down the lid alone, a sallow-faced shopper entered and priced the opium.

"Fifteen cents a pound, sir," said Daniels, gayly.

"Oh, gimme a couple of pounds," said the shopper offhandedly.

Daniels discovered that they had only an ounce or so in stock.

But the customer wasn't fussy. He said he'd give 15 cents for that, even. Daniels delightedly sold him the entire stock.

Then the proprietor returned from lunch and asked how business had been.

"Fine," said Daniels, "I closed out the last of our opium. Didn't have a pound, but the fellow gave me 15 cents for it, anyway."

The proprietor didn't wait to hear another word, but muttered a low curse at the astonished Daniels and dashed out the door. In a little while he came back dragging with him the leading dope fiend of the community and made the customer give back most of the opium.

Thus no serious harm was done, but Daniels severed his connection with the drug emporium the next day and got a job on a newspaper. He had acquired a great ear for town gossip from the drug store loafers, and was a success as a newspaper man right from the start.

Explanations Necessary.

Lippincott's Magazine: Supper was in progress and the father was telling about a row which took place in front of his store that morning: "The first thing I saw was one man deal the other a sounding blow, and then a crowd gathered. The man who was struck ran and grabbed a large shovel he had been using on the street and rushed back, his eyes blazing fiercely. I thought he'd surely knock the other man's brains out and I stepped right in between them."

The young son of the family had become so hugely interested in the narrative as it proceeded that he had stopped eating his pudding. So proud was he of his father's valor, his eyes fairly shone, and he cried:

"He couldn't knock any brains out of you, could he, father?"

Father looked at him long and earnestly, but the lad's countenance was frank and open.

Father gasped slightly and resumed his supper.

Apprehension Allayed.

Washington Post: According to official statistics, twenty women to one man in Denver drink liquor. Little by little the fear that the suffragettes would vote to close the saloon is dying out.

Well Stocked Up.

Kansas City Star: J. Byron Cain of Belle Plaine explains that he made no New Year's resolutions this year, because he has several left over from last year that he never used.

Lake Cyrstal Union: "President Wilson"—it doesn't sound badly after all. —Duluth Herald.

President Roosevelt would have sounded better, but since it is Wilson, it is a great improvement over Taft.

Enough Prosperity for All.

Austin Transcript: There are unlimited prospects in connection with the big steel plant at Duluth and the whole state will benefit.

Candidates Numerous.

St. Peter Tribune; There is no dearth of candidates under the commission form of government. Evidently the salary has some attraction. At Mankato fifteen candidates have filed for oommissioners. At Duluth eleven candidates have filed for mayor, ten candidates for long-term commissioners and thirty-seven for short-term commissioners.

Great Increase.

Paynesville Press: The increase in freight tonnage at the port of Duluth, already the greatest of any port in the world, during the past year was over 35 per cent. Coal, oils, wheat, lumber, iron ore and flour all show a marked increase. Vessels registering at the port during the year numbered 8,118, or an average of 22 a day, Sunday included.

It's Catching.

Bemidji Pioneer: Duluth has adopted the commission plan of government and will elect its first commissioners within a few days. Fargo is to vote on the plan this month. The movement appears to be spreading from the smaller cities to the larger. One thing which points to the commission plan as one that is satisfactory is the fact that not a city, large or small, which has adopted the plan has ever gone back to the old ways.

On Setting of Traps.

Breckenridge Gazette: In a communication to The Duluth Herald, a subscriber comes to the defense of the saloon man by declaring that in all the fifty years in which he has been a moderate beer drinker he has never been induced by a single saloon keeper to enter his place of business. Well why should they? No use setting traps for the bird that is already caught.

About St. Patrick

St. Patrick lived in Ireland. He wrote a document called "The Confession," and he preached the gospel to the Irish people. These three facts are virtually the only ones concerning the life of the great patron saint of the Land of the Shamrock upon which historians agree. Deep obscurity surrounds the actual details of the life and deeds of St. Patrick. Not only do historical authorities differ regarding many of the details of his life, but such a mass of legend has sprung up in the course of centuries that it beoomes difficult in the extreme to separate facts from tradition. Jocelin is the authority for the statement that St. Patrick was born in Breton, while other accounts state Scotland was his birthplace.

The date of his birth is given as 372 and it is believed that he went to Ireland as a missionary in 432, dying in 460 at the age of 123 years and leaving a Christian people, whose faith has endured through the centuries of persecution to this day. In his youth the great missionary, according to Jocelin, was a wild lad, and at the age of 16 years was carried off by pirates and sold into slavery. He was then said to possess supernatural powers.

After obtaining his freedom he returned to his home and there he had a vision in which he heard the voice of generations of Irish yet unborn calling him to save them. In obedience to this vision he went to France, where he studied theology, and thence to Rome, whence Pope Celestine sent him to Ireland.

Of the legends about St. Patrick, none is more famous than that concerning the shamrock and that concerning the snakes. The shamrock tradition has him at Tara, teaching the king and his court the truths of religion. The king was unable to understand the mystery of the Trinity. St. Patrick realizing the difficulties in making the doctrine comprehensive, sought to symbolize it in some way. Happily hitting upon the shamrock, he called the monarch's attention to the unity of the flower and the trinity of its leaves. The symbol satisfied the royal mind and brought conviction and conversion. The legend of the snakes is to the effect that St. Patrick entirely rid Ireland of reptiles by making a wondrous drum, the sounds of which caused the serpents throughout the island to wriggle to the seacoast and plunge into the ocean.

Dear Harp of My Country.

Dear harp of my country! in darkness
I found thee,
The cold chain of silence had hung
o'er thee long,
When, proudly, my own island harp, I unbound thee,
And gave all thy chords to light,
freedom and song!
The warm lay of love, and the light
note of gladness,
Have wakened thy fondest, thy liveliest thrill;
But so oft hast thou echoed the deep sigh of sadness,
That e'en in thy mirth it will steal
from thee still.

Dear harp of my country! farewell to thy numbers,
This sweet wreath of song is the last
we shall twine;
Go, sleep, with the sunshine of Fame
on thy slumbers,
Till touched by some hand less unworthy than mine:
If the pulse of the patriot, soldier or lover
Have throbbed at our lay; 'tis thy glory alone;
'Twas but as the wind, passing heedlessly over,
And all the wild sweetness I waked was thy own.

Told by a Photographer.

Chicago Record-Herald: Perhaps he invented the story, but a well-known photographer tells this for a fact. A woman entered his studio.

"Are you the photographer?"

"Yes, madam."

"Do you take children's pictures?"

"Yes, certainly."

"How much do you charge?"

"Three dollars a dozen."

"Well," said the woman, sorrowfully, "I'll have to see you again. I've only got eleven."

Doomsday After 1933.

Philadelphia Record: The Jews will return to Jerusalem in 1915, and the battle of Armageddon will be fought in 1933, according to Rev. S. Samuel Clements, superintendent of the Wesleyan Methodist society, who is delivering a course of lectures in the First Wesleyan church of Philadelphia, Fifty-second and Thompson streets, on "The Second Coming of Christ." Mr. Clements declares that the New Testament has foretold these events, and that by a careful study of the Scriptures and by comparing the prophecies with happenings of the past, specific time can be set for these great events.

"The signs of the times plainly show that the fulfillment of all prophecy is now at hand. St. Paul declared that the falling off from the Christian faith would be the forerunner of the final destruction of the world. People nowadays are not going to church. This is a literal fulfillment of the prophecy.

"The world is getting worse every day. The extreme disobedience of children to their parents is another sign that the world is getting worse instead of better. The time is not far off when the final consummation of all things will be at hand. The Jews will return to Jerusalem in 1915, in preparation for the second and literal return of Christ to the world. The present Balkan war is simply another fulfillment of Biblical prophecy and paving the way for the second coming of Christ.

"The decline of the Papacy will occur in 1923, and the battle of Armageddon will be fought in 1933. The end of the world will soon follow."

Description of a Bride.

Charlotteville, Ky., Chronicle: The bride is a woman of wondrous fascination and remarkable attractiveness, for, with manner as enchanting as the wand of a siren and a disposition as sweet as the odors of flowers and spirits as joyous as the carolings of birds and mind as brilliant as those glittering tresses that adorn the brow of winter, and with heart as pure as dew drops trembling in a coronet of violets, she will mako the home of her husband a paradise of enchantment like the lovely home of her girlhood, where the heaven-toned harp of marriage, with its chords of love and devotion and fond endearments sent forth the sweetest strains of felicity that ever thrilled the senses with the rhythmic pulsings of ecstatio rapture

Ministerial Curiosity.

Missoula, Mont., Sentinel: The Missouri preachers who are going to attend a prize fight to secure evidence for a grand jury should be careful lest they come to pry and then remain to root.

Wet and Dry Bulb Thermometers.

Hang two good thermometers side by side in a room heated by stove or hot air furnace, where no provision has been made for the evaporation of water, and, if the air is comfortably warm, the mercury will stand in the neighborhood of 70 or 75 deg. in both instruments. Now, fit a little cotton wick over the bulb of one instrument, allowing the other end to reach water. Wet the wick thoroughly and capillary attraction will keep the bulb of this thermometer constantly moist, and after half an hour there will be a difference of perhaps as much as 20 deg. in the two instruments; and, whenever the difference is greater than 10 or 15 deg., you may rest assured the air is much too dry or the temperature too high for health. In the case mentioned above, where the wet bulb stands at 50 and the dry at 70 deg., the relative humidity of the air is only about 16 or 18 and, although few houses show quite such a low humidity even when the winter is well advanced, it is common to find it as low as 28 or 30 in those heated with the ordinary hot air furnace having only a small water tank beside the firepot. A hot air furnace, to be adequately supplied with water, should have a four-gallon reservoir placed above the dome, where water will be kept close to the steaming point at all times. The term relative humidity only means the amount of water vapor present in the air in relation to the amount it will carry at the given temperature; and this is a quite important thing to know, when we consider that all air must be saturated with moisture before it can enter the fined bronchi of the lungs without injuring them. Nature has, however, provided a pretty good heating and humidifying plant in every one's nose, which, when in perfect health, will warm and moisten all the air breathed. When the air breathed constantly is much too dry, however, the mucous cells in membranes of both nose and throat become overworked and suffer with an inflammatory reaction. The natural resistance is thereby much reduced, and any chance germs which may be present find their opportunity to attack the tissues. This is one theory which has been advanced to explain "catching cold;" and, as nearly all other theories can be made to fit into it, it would appear to be a pretty good one.

Very cold air and strong drafts will often cause cold in the head to develop but rarely when the mucous membrane of the nose and throat is uninjured and able to perform its full function as a humidifier.

The wet bulb thermometer shows lower temperature than the dry, just in proportion to the rapidity of evaporation of water from the wick around the bulb; and air which contains nearly enough water for saturation will have little effect in lowering the mercury. So, it is the difference between the wet and dry bulb instruments which gives the information from which we calculate relative humidity. Man has been likened to a wet bulb thermometer, because there is constant evaporation taking place from his skin and the mucous membrane of the air passages. It is estimated that over a quart of water is discharged from the body in this manner every twenty-four hours, and it takes with it a large amount of surplus heat. To impose an extra burden on skin and mucous membrane by forcing them to humidify all the air in a room as well as the small quantity breathed, would seem to be the height of folly, but this, however, is exactly what people do who constantly live in rooms with air having a relative humidity less than 50. When air is warmed it expands and cannot be prevented from taking up moisture from anything which contains it; and by the time winter is well advanced, the furniture and woodwork of the average hot air heated house is pretty well dried out. The occupants must then supply the moisture for this expanding air, unless it be provided by the evaporation of water.

The injury done to the mucous membranes results in colds and catarrhs, while the injury done the skin results in a mild dermatitis or eczema, vulgarly known as "winter itch."

Every one knows that colds and catarrh are the forerunners of diseases more serious, such as pneumonia, bronchitis and phthisis; and now the connection between too dry air and serious winter illness is pretty well established.

Remember that next to sufficient oxygen in the air we breathe, an adequate relative humidity is of greatest importance. Conditions of excessive humidity are rarely if ever possible during the winter months, unless the temperature is also much too high, and they are quickly remedied by admitting cold air. Air, satirated with moisture, feels distinctly cold when the thermometer stands at 50 degs., but above this point the moisture adds to the comfort, by causing the air to feel warmer. And so it is that a room is comfortable to sit in when the thermometer only shows 65 degs., provided the relative himidity be above 50 per cent, while it may feel chilly at 75 degs., temperature, if humidity is relatively low.

It is in the latter part of February and early March that the evil effects of a winter spent in too dry air begin to be felt, so now is the time to carefully watch the hygrometer and see that the air in living rooms is always supplied with over 40 per cent moisture, and better at this season if kept about 60 or 65 per cent. And as a curative measure for dry bronchitis or pharyngitis water in breathed air will often do more good than medicine. For these conditions, however, the relative humidity must be always above 70.

Typhoid Vaccination as an Excuse.

Typhoid Vaccination as an Excuse.

A disposition to make the method of vaccination against typhoid an excuse for maintaining insanitary conditions is not one that should be encouraged. This seems, however, to be the tendency of a recent newspaper editorial on typhoid immunization, in which it is declared that the method will "be a boon in towns where water-purification plants cannot be built because of the expense." It can hardly be believed that this point of view will find many supporters. It is too much like blowing out the gas because there is a good chance of recovery if the pulmotor is brought in time. Taking trouble, and especially spending money for a good water supply, may seem to some minds more difficult than having some one inject a dose of dead bacilli, thus permitting the intelligent but impecunious citizen to drink sewage-laden water with impunity. We can hardly believe, however, says the Journal of the American Medical Association, that this method of reasoning will become general.

Questions and Answers.

Psoriasis.

E. S. C. writes: Would you inform me if the skin disease known as psoriasis is curable and what is its cause? 2. Has the injection method for the cure of rupture proved successful and safe, or is surgical operation preferable?

1. The cause of psoriasis is not known, but it appears to run in families, although no baby was ever born with psoriasis, and it can therefore not be termed strictly hereditary. It is thought by some to be due to a peculiar diathesis, either the gouty or neurotic, and in this way the tendency toward it is transmitted by parents to children. There can be little done toward a cure, but moderate living and care of the skin as regards cleanliness, seem to be factors in bettering conditions. 2. "No" to the first part of this question, "yes" to the second half.

PEACE TERMS INADMISSIBLE

European Powers Will So Inform the Balkan Allies.

Berlin, March 17.—The European powers this week will inform the Balkan allies that their suggested terms for peace negotiations with Turkey are inadmissible. The powers will decline to submit them to Turkey.

A carefully worded note to this effect was drawn up by the ambassadors in London at their latest conference and is now being considered in the various European capitals. It is to be handed to the allies after it has been approved by a further conference in London on Wednesday.

The note will suggest that a modification of the allies' demands is "indispensable." It will urge strongly the necessity for the conclusion of peace.

TWO ESTATES IN PROBATE COURT

J. B. Dunphy Left $8,500 and Alfred Scarlett More Than $15,000.

The will of the late John B. Dunphy of the West end whose death occurred Feb. 2 last was admitted in probate court by Judge Gilpin this morning and the widow and Patrick O'Connor named by the court as executors according to its provisions. The inventory of John Brown, special administrator, shows an estate valued at $8,500. Under the terms of the will, one third will go to Mrs. Dunphy, widow, and the remaining two thirds will be divided equally between the three surviving children, Rose, Katheleen and Michael.

Judge Gilpin this morning named Alfred Scarlett as administrator of the estate of his late brother, J. George Scarlett, who died in this city, aged 55, on Jan. 14 last leaving an estate of $15,000 and upwards. Besides his brother he will act as administrator. Scarlett leaves two sisters, one brother and other heirs in Canada.

KANSAS GUARANTY DEPOSIT ACT UPHELD.

Washington, March 17.—The supreme court today formally upheld as constitutional the Kansas bank guaranty deposit act of 1909. The act was held constitutional about two years ago after objection by state banks, but the national banks of Kansas still persisted in their fight against the law.

McCOMBS WILL ACCEPT THE AMBASSADORSHIP.

Washington, March 17.—The nomination of Chairman William F. McCombs of the Democratic national committee, to be ambassador to France, was prepared at the White House today but as it was about to be transmitted to the senate it was withheld at Mr. McCombs' request. Mr. McCombs has decided to accept the post and it is said the delay does not mean a change in his intentions.

U. S. SUPREME COURT RESTRAINS BURLESON.

Washington, March 17.—The supreme court granted today a restraining order to prevent Postmaster General Burleson from enforcing the newspaper publicity law while the court has under consideration the question of its constitutionality.

The injunction was granted upon a request last week by Robert C. Morris, attorney for the New York Journal of Commerce, which has attacked the validity of the act. Postmaster General Burleson had notified him that newspapers which had not filed statements required by the law would be penalized.

TAKES UP ALL OF M'ADOO'S TIME

Secretary Declines to Receive Any More Personal Applications for Positions.

Washington, March 17.—The first sequence to President Wilson's determination to refer office-seekers to members of his cabinet came today when Secretary McAdoo announced that he was compelled to decline to receive personal applications for office.

"I have tried it for ten days," the secretary said, "and I find that it takes my entire time and leaves me no chance to attend to important public business. Besides it is absolutely futile, because none but a superman could remember at the end of a day everyone who has poured a story into his ear.

"While I fully appreciate and sympathize with the very natural and proper desire of those who are seeking places, nevertheless it should be made clear to them that nothing is to be gained by haste. Ample time is going to be taken to consider applications. They should be made in writing. They will be filed and receive much more careful consideration than if pressed in person."

DIVIDENDS, $8,000; FIREMEN, $1,000

Rate of Divisions of Railway Income Shown By Experts.

New York, March 17.—Eight thousand dollars has been paid out in dividends to every $1,000 paid out in wages to firemen on the New Haven railroad, according to testimony given today by W. J. Lauck, statistical expert for the firemen in their arbitration proceedings with the Eastern railroads.

During the eleven years covered by these figures, Mr. Lauck added, the New Haven road increased the tractive capacity of its locomotives 64.5 per cent and the firemen increased their efficiency 28.7 per cent. There was a gain in freight revenue of $10,259,000 but the firemen received an increase of only $162,000.

SAYS SNOW WILL HASTEN BREAKUP

Towing Company Manager Looks for Early Opening of Navigation.

Capt. G. H. Vrooman, manager of the Union Towing & Wrecking company, is not discouraged over the continued cold weather. He said today that while it is discouraging because of its continued lowness of temperature and that many vessel men are not predicting a late opening of navigation, he would not be surprised to see an early break-up.

"This heavy snow on the ice," said the captain, "may be discouraging while the cold weather lasts, but once melting starts the snow will cause the ice to go more quickly than without it. Heavy snow melting on ice will go through it as fast as kerosene and will break up a field in no time. Should warmer weather set in now after all of this snow it would not be long until there would be little or no ice to be seen, the Soo would soon break up and the first thing you would know navigation would be started.

"It would not be at all surprising should the break-up come suddenly and soon."

SECOND LARGEST FLEET ON LAKES.

For the season of 1913 the fleet of the Tomlinson company of Duluth will be the second largest on the Great Lakes, the Pittsburgh fleet being the largest. Five boats of the Gilchrist fleet have just been purchased, which will increase the fleet to twenty-eight ships, all large ore carriers of the modern type. The Gilchrist acquisitions are the F. W. Hart, C. W. Watson, Steel King, F. M. Osborne and F. M. Saunders.

Will Go to Cleveland.

W. A. Bourke, commissioner of the Lake Carriers' association at this point, will go to Cleveland tonight on business with the association headquarters. The chief commissioners of the association are to have a final consultation regarding the prospective matters in connection with the coming navigation season.

London Telegraph: The following item appeared in a morning paper: "The body of a sailor was found in the river this morning cut to pieces and sewed up in a sack. The circumstances seem to preclude any suspicion of suicide."

WHEELS OF JUSTICE TURNING SLOWLY

Disagreements Reported By Juries in Two District Court Cases.

The wheels of justice are turning slowly in district court as far as two cases, which occupied attention of the court the greater portion of last week, are concerned. Two juries which went out Friday afternoon spent a restless night Friday and several hours Saturday in an endeavor to settle the issues in question, but in both cases failed to agree.

The jury in the lawsuit brought by Edward Dormedy against Lucien A. Barnes, involving a dispute over a real estate commission of $450, tusseled with the question for twenty-three hours and then agreed to disagree. Judge Cant discharged them.

In the first of the numerous fire cases which are on the March term calendar, John Makkyla versus the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, a disagreement was reported to Judge Dibell Saturday afternoon after the jury had had the case in its hands for eighteen hours.

This morning, a jury was drawn in another of the fire cases. The plaintiff in this action is Victor Stromberg, who asks damages from the Duluth & Iron Range railroad because of a fire which swept across his farm which is located in the White Iron Lake district. Stromberg is one of some thirty litigants who are suing the Duluth & Iron Range railroad for damages from fires which were prevalent during the dry season of 1910.

This afternoon, Judge Dancer will charge the jury which has been hearing evidence in the lawsuit which Inga Rensaa has brought against Gust Egdahl, saloonkeeper and his sureties, the Illinois Surety company, to recover $10,500 damages on the ground that her husband lost his eyesight in Egdahl's saloon and that she has been cut off from his support.

FEMALES MORE INTELLIGENT.

Chicago correspondence, New York World: Prof. E. H. Harper of the chair of biology of the Northwestern university, has been experimenting on the relative intelligence of the sexes in animals. He tried his experiments on pups and kittens. He found the females were brighter, more intelligent, grasped ideas quicker than males. It was the same with kittens.

"The female in all trials displayed great quickness in grasping ideas," said the professor. "The female maintained her supremacy over her male companion in a rather militant manner, which is quite according to the ideas of sex supremacy. That the conditions revealed are illustrative in the case of men and women is not quite certain. But such a theory would find support in some quarters."

BUY SITE AT THIEF RIVER

Pennington County Fair Association Plans for This Year's Show.

New Site Adjacent to Thief River Falls Will Be Utilized.

Thief River Falls, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Pennington County Fair association held its annual meeting Saturday night in the council chambers at the Auditorium, about twenty stockholders being present. The treasurer's statement, which was accepted, showed a very favorable condition. The association has over $1,500 in its treasury, and the value of its buildings is estimated at $750. The following officers were elected: President, Dr. G. A. Penney; first vice president, John Morgan; second vice president, Rasmus Oen; secretary, Jesse La Bree; treasurer, Robert McGinn.

The matter of purchasing a new fair ground was discussed, following investigations which had previously been made. It was decided that the association purchase a 20-acre tract, adjoining the city on the west, from the Hanson & Brazen Milling company, for $4,000, and that additional stock in the association be sold to cover the purchase price.

To Remove Old Buildings.

H. Pheffer estimated the amount of lumber in the buildings on the old rented site at 50,000 feet. The old buildings will be removed to the new site and the fences and grand stand will be torn down and rebuilt. Work will be commenced upon the grounds at an early date.

The new site is within easy walking distance of the city, being only two blocks from the end of the present cement walks.

The dates for the county fair will be Aug. 6, 7 and 8, which dates correspond with those on which the fair has been held each year for the past decade.

TRIAL OF KAHM BEGINS TUESDAY

Alleged Slayer of Turkish Wrestler to Face Jury in North Dakota.

Minnewauken, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sibil Kahm, charged with the murder of Hassan Abdulla, a Turkish wrestler of St. Paul, at Oberon, N. D., July 20, 1912, will be placed on trial before Judge C. W. Buttz at the term of the Benson district court which opens here tomorrow. Kahm, also a St. Paul man, was Abdulla's manager when the men joined the C. P. Patten carnival company.

According to the state's version of the case, Kahm and Abdulla had quarreled frequently over money matters, and on the evening of the killing it is claimed that Kahm threatened Abdulla because the latter had failed to pay him money which he claimed was due to him. Abdulla was alone with Kahm in a tent when the killing occurred. An hour later Kahm walked into an Oberon poolroom and declared that he had killed Abdulla when the latter attacked him.

NO REQUISITION

Issued By Governor Hanna for William Alexander of Illinois.

Bismarck, N. D., March 17.—Governor Hanna has refused to issue extradition papers for William Alexander, who is at his home in Moline, Ill. The young man was in the state and undertook to sell a line of calendars, and failed to make good at the game and left the samples to make good a hotel bill he had contracted and left for his home. It is understood that the samples were secured for the owner by the father of the boy, and they supposed all was settled, but the man from whom the young man took the agency is said to have demanded damages, and it was on this action that the requisition was asked.

WILL GIVE PROGRAM.

Bessemer Improvement Association to Entertain Tuesday Evening.

Bessemer, Mich., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bessemer Improvement association will hold its regular meeting tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium. The organization is in a flourishing condition with a membership of eighty. The following program will be rendered. Piano duet, Misses Tremberth and Bickford; song, high school girls glee club; address, Rev. Father Swoboda; violin solo, Miss Redner; address, "Improvement of Conditions of the Laboring Class," Rev. W. S. Smith; vocal solo, Miss Spratt; address, Dr. Pinkerton; song, girls glee club; piano duet, Misses Mildred Hagen and Matilda Jensen.

Miss Ransom will be chairman and the evening's entertainment is in charge of the following committee: Miss Ransom, Mrs. Paradis, Mrs. Cobb, Mrs. Nemacheck and W. F. Truettner. A business meeting will follow the program after which refreshments will be served and a good social time is assured.

ONE DOSE MAKES INDIGESTION GO.

All Stomach Distress Quickly Ended With "Pape's Diapepsin."

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmlessness; its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach trouble has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any drug store and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.

TWO ENTERTAINMENTS.

Are Given in Cloquet By the Graduating Class.

Cloquet, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Six Sharps—One Flat," the senior class play, and a sketch, "My Aunt's Heiress," were given Friday and Saturday evenings in the opera house by the 1913 high school graduates before a large audience. Both the play and sketch were comedy and were carried off in a most thorough manner. Mrs. Scroogs, and her daughter, Clarrissy Eldory, parts taken by Misses Bessie George and Iva Olson, were exceptionally good and made a great hit with the audience. The May Pole dance was beautiful and the Floro Doro sextette charmingly arranged. The twenty-six students who finish the high school course in June and who took part in the program were: Misses Gladys Johnson, Corinne Stapleton, Fannie Bratloff, Ethel Doddridge, Lucile Brunelle, Alma Johnson, Bessie George, Iva Olson, Myrtle Gorham, Marlo Huot, Elsie Batters, Bertha Johnson, Amy Collins, Mollie Norman, Myrtle Campbell, Emma Seimer, Charlotte Coad, Iva Olson; Messrs. George Stevens, Fred Lindberg, Clarenco Keller, Maurice Brunelle, George Stevens. In the wedding tableau which closed the play, two very little girls, Mary Olesen and Winnifred Andrews, acted as flower girls.

LUMBERMEN TO MEET.

Annual Gathering of North Dakota Association at Fargo This Week.

Fargo, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will be from 200 to 300 independent lumber dealers here Tuesday aid Wednesday to attend the annual session of the North Dakota Lumbermen's association. Mayor Sweet will welcome the delegates in the afternoon, and the response will bo by George Lutz of Jamestown, president of the organization. Tho reports of the officers and the standing committees will occupy the rest of the afternoon. A business session will be held in the evening at 7:30 and at 9 tho delegates will attend a vaudeville performance.

At 10:30 Wednesday morning the annual address of President Lutz will bc delivered and the rest of the forenoon devoted to a discussion of the suggestions made by him.

The annual banquet will be held Wednesday evening in the Commercial club rooms.

"HUMAN CHAIN" SAVES.

Five Mill City Firemen Overcome By Fumes From Burning Lead.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 17.—Five firemen, near death in a burning building, were saved by a human chain early Saturday. When fire destroyed the art glass factory of the Witte Bros. company, J. H. Witte, father of the factory owners, was thought to be inside the building and the first five firemen rushed in to rescue him. Witte was home in bed at the time, while the firemen, almost overcome by the fumes arising from the burning lead, were groping about for an opening in the burning structure. They were rescued by members of other fire companies, who arrived later.

The elder Witte was night watchman at the plant, but owing to the severe storm prevailing Friday night, he did not leave home. The property loss was $25,000.

SCHOOLMA'AM ATTACKED

Posse Searches Around Medora, N. D., for Her Assailant.

Medora, N. D., March 17.—A sheriff's posse searched the surrounding country Sunday for an unknown man who is said to have attacked Miss Emma Larson, a school teacher late Saturday, and held her captive for several hours. When released late Saturday night, the young woman staggered into town and after telling her story she collapsed. It is reported from the hospital that she is in a serious condition. No trace of her alleged assailant was found.

ST. PAUL TELEPHONE EMPLOYES ACCUSED.

St. Paul, Minn., March 17.—Harry Allen, assistant chief clerk in a local telephono company office, was arraigned in municipal court Saturday charged with embezzling $715 belonging to the company. According to the police Allen has confessed to having taken $2,166 by substituting vouchers for cash turned over to him, and to have used some of this money in furnishing a home for his bride. Ten other employes of the company have been arrested or discharged in connection with the case and other arrests are expected.

FUGITIVE WISCONSIN MAN MEETS DEATH.

Cumberland, Wis., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Former Mayor Albert C. Uecke of this city was killed a few days ago in a railroad wreck in California. The news was telegraphed back to Wisconsin in response to a circular letter received out West, offering a reward of $300 for Uecke's arrest for defrauding a Southern Wisconsin bank. Uecke disappeared from here last November while under indictment for two criminal charges set for trial at the present term of circuit court. Failing to appear Uecke's bondsmen had to pay his bond and the court declared Uecke a fugitive from justice. Uecke was a well known and at one time a successful real estate dealer.

Come From Lac Qui Parle.

Cass Lake, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—L. T. Powelson, who purchased land in township 1-48-30, has arrived with his team and machinery to live on his purchase. Mr. Powelson came from Lac Qui Parle county. Six of Mr. Powelson's friends have purchased land in the same section and will move up during the summer and fall.

Violated School Compulsory Law.

Fargo, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first prosecution for years in Cass county under the compulsory school law resulted in the conviction on the county court of Richard O'Neill of Page. He had some differences with the school board and has kept his children away from school since early in October.

Fire Damages Cass Lake Home.

Cass Lake, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire Saturday afternoon partially destroyed the home owned and occupied by Henry Janz in the south part of town, the roof being entirely burned off, but nearly all the furniture was saved. The fire was discovered by a neighbor, before Mrs. Janz, who was in the house at the time knew her home was in flames. The firemen laid 1,400 feet of hose through the deep snow and among stumps to reach the house from the nearest hydrant. The loss was about $800 on the house, and $75 on the furniture, fully covered by insurance.

Caught In "Pig" Raid.

Minnewaukon, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of a raid on the blind pigs at Baker, five residents of that town are now in the county jail serving sentences from four to six months. They were captured in a raid by Sheriff Randall and a force of deputies.

Wagon Pole Through Home.

Mandan, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Driving the pole of the wagon through the side of the house and pushing a dresser to one side was the peculiar result of a runaway by John Olson's team. Olson drove to Walter Deitzman's house and the horses threw him out, making an unceremonious entry into the Deitzman residence.

Bisbee Store Again Entered.

Bisbee, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Burglarizing the O'Reilly drugstore here appears to have become a habit. The second entry was made by breaking the glass in the front door. In addition to numerous articles the burglars secured about $7 from the cash drawer.

First 1913 Prairie Fire.

Forbes, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The prairie fire which started near the Kabrud farm gained such deadway that it ran over the line to South Dakota before the flames burned themselves out. It was the first of the season in this section of North Dakota.

Join Better Farming Movement.

Velva, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—This part of North Dakota has joined in the Better Farming movement. Leading farmers and local business men have guaranteed the expenses of an expert and will have one located here to devote his entire time to improving the farming methods in the territory tributary to this point. The expert is to be furnished by the Better Farming movement and will conduct the work under the auspices of the state association.

New Way to Make Apple Dumplings

Served With Hard Sauce or Cream and Sugar

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

Here is a new way to make apple dumplings that will surely please every housewife, for it is not necessary to have whole apples, and the juice cannot run out and burn as with apple dumplings where the apple is placed in the center and the dough turned up around it. The biscuit part forms a crispy shell that holds the apples and juice.

31

K C Apple Dumplings

One and one-half cups sifted flour; ½ teaspoonful salt; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; ¼ cup shortening; about ½ cup milk; apples.

Fill the cups of a buttered muffin pan with pared and sliced apples, sprinkle with salt and turn two or three tablespoonfuls of water into each cup. Sift together, three times, the flour, salt and baking powder; work in the shortening, and mix to a soft dough with the milk. Drop the dough from a spoon with the apples in the cups, giving it a smooth exterior. Let bake about twenty-five minutes. Invert the pan on a large serving-dish. Put a spoonful of hard sauce above the apple in each dumpling and finish with a grating of nutmeg.

This is only one of the many new, delicious and appetizing recipes contained in the K C Cook's Book, which may be obtained free by sending the colored certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the JAQUES MFG. Co., Chicago. Be sure to get the 25-cent size—smaller cans do not contain Cook's Book certificates.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

HERDING THE SPORTING SHEEP AND GOATS INTO THE DOPE CORRAL, AS SEEN BY BRUCE

THE idea of having a magnificent new clubhouse, one of the most complete of its kind in the country, is one not in the least chimerical or vague, if the present plans of the officers of the Lakeside Athletic association are carried through. According to the statement of several of the officials of the new organization, funds for the construction of the new clubhouse are really in sight and the plans of the building have been submitted to an architect.

It would be indeed difficult to conceive of anything more beneficial to general athletics of this city than the consummation of this project. Normally a prolific field for athletics, Duluth will come into its glorious own through just such concrete expression of renewed interest in clean sports. Those most directly responsible for the organization of the Lakeside club have already performed yeomen service in securing temporary quarters and hustling a healthy membership list. If the early efforts of the officers and members can be taken as an indication of what is coming later, then the general public, or that part of it that is vitally interested in the development of the clean athletic spirit, can be assured of the eventual building of a fine and modern home for this hustling organization.

SPEAKING of the abandonment of the transcontienta tour of the five pugilistic champions of the world reminds one of the trick fate has been playing on Jack Curley during the past few months. He has been one of the most fortunate individuals in the world, but the goddess of luck has turned its fickle countenance for the time being in another direction.

Like many others the writer refused to believe the statement that Jim Flynn really had a chance of beating Jack Johnson at Las Vegas. However after talking with Marty Cutler, who was in the corner of the smoke, the belief is gradually borne in upon one regarding the truth of some of the assertions made by Dean Naughton and other prominent sport writers.

Cutler informed the writer not so long ago that Johnson was actually on the stage of physical collapse when the fight was brought to an untimely end. If Flynn had won this contest there is no counting the money Curley would have made.

Then came the conception of the largest and most imposing tour ever undertaken by an athletic troupe. Five champions of the world in one company, believe us, is some show. But from the very first there was dissatisfaction and petty jealousies, and evidently Billy McCarney grew tired of the prodigious task of keeping peace in the belligerent family, for the tour of the combination that set sail on the amusement sea with such splendid promises of success, was abruptly stopped at Cincinnati and cancellations made all the way down the line.

Jack Curley believed that this would prove even a greater money maker than the Jeffries-Gotch show. The failure of the tour may shake some of the confidence of one of the most nervy promoters in the world of sport.

LOVERS of wrestling have seen during the present season some of the greatest matches that have been decided in any part of the country. Those who have any knowledge of the wonderful skill of Walter Willoughby, the former Cleveland star, who for the past two years has made his home at Mellen, Wis., appreciate the fact that the coming contest between this really great mat artist and the wonderful Mike Yokel is going to prove one of the most interesting, one of the most desperately contested and one of the most desperately contested and one of the most spectacular matches that have been staged here during all of the seasons that the mat game has flourished.

Yokel will meet a man of his size in Willoughby, for the Mellen man is naturally over the 158 pound limit. Coming onto the mat at 162 pounds will permit Willoughby to retain all of his strength and speed, and those who have followed the record of the clever Badger know that he is going to give Yokel one of the hardest battles of his career, and this is not excepting any of the sensational contests that Yokel fought out with the great Henry Gehring.

CHICAGO TO DULUTH YACHT RACE PLANNED

Officials of the Duluth Boat club are inclined to look with decided interest upon the announced intention of officials of the Chicago Yacht club to hold a race from the Windy City to the Head of Lake Superior.

Unofficially it has already been announced that in the event of the contemplated plans going through, the Duluth Boat club will make adequate efforts to receive the visiting yachtsmen upon their arrival here.

There will be no meeting of the local club officials until the plans of the Chicago club have been definitely decided upon and the date for the start of the race named.

Chicago, March 17.—A 900-mile yacht race from Chicago to Duluth is being considered by Commodore James O. Heyworth, of the Chicago Yacht club.

This race, the most adventurous held by any fresh water yacht club in the world, is made possible by the large number of big sailing vessels which have been purchased or built for the Chicago club fleet this year.

FREDDY WELSH CLAIMS TITLE

British Lightweight Styles Himself Champion and Will Tour United States.

New York, March 17.—Freddie Welsh of Cardiff, Wales, the world's lightweight champion, is going to sail for New York on March 22. A short vaudeville engagement of six weeks will probably first occupy his time.

He has received an offer of $9,000 to put in that length of time showing the paces of a "world's champion" to an admiring public. Since leaving America last summer, Welsh has accomplished wonders in the fistic line. Tuned up to his old form of cleverness, speed and endurance by three months' of hard work on Roycroft farm, the home of Elbert Hubbard, the noted philosopher, at East Aurora, N. Y., Welsh returned to England and the first shot out of the box won back his title from Matt Wells. He then took the Australian championship away from Hughey Mehegan, who had landed in England touted as a copper riveted wonder. As Welsh already had Willie Ritchie's scalp tucked in his belt, he is certainly entitled to the big three-sheet toplined—"World's Champion." He has been going right down the line since the Mehegan muss, and taken first money in many battles. Only last week he grabbed three victories in seven days. Friday night he beat "Young" Nipper; Monday night, Vittet, the pride of the French lightweights, and on Thursday night, Eddie Beattie, one of England's best. Welsh was dickering for a match with "Young Philadelphia." Jack O'Brien to take place in Liverpool the last of this month, but the club only wanted to give a purse of $7,500 and Fred wants that much for his end. O'Brien went to England a couple of weeks ago, but according to big brother, Jack, expects to return to America in a month's time, and if he can make the weight and suitable inducements are offered, Welsh may meet him here later on. After Welsh finishes his vaudeville engagement he will take a trip to the coast and look the situation over in 'Frisco and Los Angeles.

WILLOUGHBY TO MAKE POUNDAGE

Word comes today from Tom Scanlon, the famous sport promoter, that Walter Willoughby, the great Mellen, Wis., wrestler, will be compelled to deposit $200 with one of the sport writers of Duluth before the match with Mike Yokol can be considered closed.

"Insist on Willoughby putting up $200 as a forfeit insuring his making 162 pounds inatside," writes Scanlon. "This will give him three or four pounds the best of it, and we don't want him coming in eight or nine pounds heavier than Yokel. He will be tough enough, believe me, and we are not going to take any chances about losing the title Mike has been four years in winning."

According to the letter from Cleveland Yokel is duo to arrive here several days before the contest. Both Scanlon and Yokel know that Walter Willoughby is one of the toughest, fastest and cleverest wrestlers in the world. Ed. W. Smith, the famous sporting authority of the Chicago American, pronounced the Mellen man the cleverest piece of wrestling machinery in the world. This was after Willoughby won the Empire Athletic club medal.

McGRAW SAYS THORPE IS A RAW RECRUIT

Marlin, Tex., March 17.—Here is Manager McGraw's opinion of Jim Thorpe, the disqualified Olympic hero, after watching the Indian at work during the first two weeks of the training season:

"Thorpe knows little or nothing about baseball," said McGraw. "He may learn it after long, patient coaching, but he is the rawest recruit I ever had. He will be carried along, first because he is a drawing card and second because he will develop into a great ball player."

THOMPSON VS. YOUNG MAHONEY

Principals Secured for Next Card Before Superior Club.

"Cyclone Johnny" Thompson has been matched with "Young" Mahoney to furnish the main bout at the Superior A. C.'s show to be held at the Superior Grand Opera house April 7.

Mahoney performed to the satisfaction of the "fans" against Eddy McGoorty at the last show in Superior. Thompson claims a long string of battles, in which he has met and defeated many of the good men of his division, he having graduated from the lightweight division several years ago and turned welter and then middleweight.

Jehre, who is said to be tough and enduring, will stack up against Joe Franklin of Kansas City. Jehre challenged the winner of the recent bout between Perkins and Godfrey, and claimed at that time that he could trim both of them in the same ring.

There will be a preliminary exhibition between two good boys from the Head of the Lakes. Their names have not been announced.

LANGFORD BEATS BARRY WITH EASE

Tar Baby Puts Chicago Heavy Away in First Round.

Brisbane, Australia, March 17.—Sam Langford, the Boston heavyweight pugilist, today defeated Jim Barry of Chicago in the first round.

This is the second time Barry has been beaten by Langford. In their fight at Melbourne in May, 1912, they went eleven rounds.

FARGO BOWLER IS MAKING BIG RECORD.

Fargo, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rolling a higher score in competition that the winning singles in the national bowling tournaments during recent years, Al Benarfa of Fargo is being congratulated on his record. He has been playing a consistent game all winter and his recent score was 713, divided into 227, 245 and 241. The bowling fever has hit Fargo harder this year than for a decade and some rather superior scores have been made by the devotees of the game.

WINONA IS FORMALLY ADMITTED INTO LEAGUE

See-Eye Representatives Perfect Permanent Organization for Voting in Southern Minnesota City---Duluth to Open Season at St. Paul April 23.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Winona was formally voted in as a member of the See-Eye league at the meeting here, yesterday afternoon, and this despite the fact that two representatives from Port Arthur and Fort William pleaded with the assembled magnates to reconsider the proposition of admitting the Canadian Twins to the league. Though the representatives from across the border were eloquent and persuasive, the nothing doing sign was hung dismally in their countenances.

With the formal voting in of the Winona club as an official member of the enlarged See-Eye family came also the adoption of the schedule which is practically ready at the present time. While there are some changes to be made in the playing dates, it is definitely known that Duluth is to open the season in St. Paul on April 23.

President George A. Barton returned from his journalistic sojourn at Hickman, Ky., where he was following the movements of the Millers with a fountain pen, and presided. During the course of the meeting he stated that one of the first official duties of the executive office will be to serve notice on both the umpires and club managers that all games must be played as quickly as possible.

Frank Taylor was on hand, showing commendable nerve in even attempting to break into the meeting. Just what the procrastinating gentleman from Winnipeg had on his mind it is difficult to state, for the magnates refused to permit him to come before the meeting and the speech he may have prepared was probably delivered as a soliloquy or to the more or less attentive ears of the bell hops.

Pitcher William Carney, formerly one of the stars of the Minneapolis team, has been signed as manager of the Winona club, according to the announcement of President H. A. Clark of that team, who was the representative of the Southern Minnesota city.

Carney, according to the information given out at the meeting, has been negotiating with the men interested in the Port Arthur baseball preparations, and it is understood that he has some players signed. These baseball chattels will be transferred to Winona.

Will Be a Success.

All of the magnates present at the meeting are genuinely enthusiastic over the prospects of the league. President Barton declared in unequivocal terms that there was not the least doubt in the world over the success of the enlarged See-Eye, while Mike Cantillon, head of the large Minneapolis club and who represented the smaller team and is also a member of the schedule committee, succeeding Frank Taylor, also believes that the word failure, as in the bright lexicon of youth, is something quite impossible.

"If we all co-operate and work for fast, clean baseball, there is not the least doubt in the world over the success of the league," said Mr. Cantillon. "We have one of the best little leagues in the country. We tap some of the best territory in the whole United States. It is up to the magnates to work together for the interests of the league before those of a selfish nature, and if this policy is followed out naught but success can attend our efforts."

H. A. Blume, representing the Duluth club, was one of the sticklers for fast baseball. The genial delegate from the North was not the least backward in letting those assembled learn of the brooding of his mind.

The rotund representative declared that the public wants to see snap on the baseball field, and that when the umpires and managers of the club thoroughly understand that they are paid for serving the public and considering the desires of the public, just so much quicker will it be better for the clubs of any league where this policy is carried into effect.

Mr. Blume took this matter up directly with President Barton and the league executive promptly promised that it was truly an important detail of baseball and one that would receive faithful attention from the head of the league.

All of those in attendance expressed the opinion that the new See-Eye is to have about the fastest baseball of any league of its class in the country. After the business session had come to a close the magnates indulged in a fanning bee, and during the course of this baseball conversation it developed that some promising material has already been signed by the various teams.

Edward Finch, the representative of the Virginia team, stated that he had about closed with "Spike" Shannon and it is very likely that the former outfielder of the Cardinals and New York Giants will be the pilot of the Queen City team.

H. A. Clark of Winona is enthusiastic over the prospects at Winona and declared that the little southern state city would come to the barrier with one of the strongest teams in the league. Mr. Clark added that Winona was endowed with plenty of funds to go all the way through the season with a strong aggregation of players.

C. D. Se Cheverell represented Superior, also acting as a member of the schedule committee. Mr. Se Cheverell stated that Superior has already received signed contracts from a number of promising players.

With the final detail in the permanent organization of the league settled, the work of preparing for the opening date, April 23, will now be seriously taken up. Each representative expressed the opinion that his club would put over a winner.

KENT THROUGH WITH ROWING

Business Compels Crack Senior Sweep to Give Up Game for Year.

Roy Kent, one of the best oarsmen who ever sat in a Duluth boat, will not row the coming season. Business and rowing have come into tangled conflict, and in the case of Kent, business crossed sport with a wicked short right and the rowing is off.

During the spring and summer months business will take Roy out of the city a great deal of the time. Believing that he could not under the conditions give his time to the crew the tall oarsman gave the final word Saturday and the Duluth eight loses one of the best if not the best man of the boat and the prospects of beating Winnipeg in the senior eight event are consequently lessened.

On top of the positive statement from Kent that he cannot come out this season, is also the statement that Joe Lathrup is going on the road for the firm he is employed by. In the event of Josephius hitting the rattler for brief visits from town to town, the crew will also lose another veteran.

The loss of Kent is a severe blow to the prospects of the senior eight. Especially is the disappointment the keener since Kent has been out for the past month working on the machines.

If Lathrup also decides that it will be quite impossible for him to row, it will require a lot of hard work to fill the gap in the boat.

UNDERWOOD, N. D., IN PROPOSED FAIR CIRCUIT.

Underwood, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Underwood probably will become a part of the new racing and fair circuit which is being organized by North Dakota and Montana cities, and known as the Missouri-Yellowstone Fair circuit. Underwood holds annual fairs and race meets, and the question of joining the new organization has been taken up with Secretary Fred Goulding of Glendive, Mont. Interested in the circuit already are Glendive, Mont., Mandan, N. D., Dickinson, N. D., Beach, N. D., and several other cities.

FINAL GAMES IN CURLING EVENTS

Finals will be played this evening in The Herald and Bagley events. Stevo Jones and Billy Dinham meet in the finals of the former event, while Stocking and Cleveland's green rink are to clash for the prize in the Bagley. Dinham and Bradley are booked to play off the semi-finals of the Manley-McLennan, the winner going into the finals with Jacobi. As Walsh and Bradley are already in the finals of the Universal, it is expected that tomorrow evening will see the windup of the regular trophy event games of the present season.

SENIORS ARE CHAMPIONS.

Sophomores Are Defeated for the High School Hockey Title.

The Duluth Central high school senior class hockey team defeated the sophomores Saturday by the score of 8 to 5, thus winning the class championship of the hilltop institution. Jimmy Owens was the star of the contest, making three of the goals for the seniors. Zuger played a star game at goal for the second year men.

The line-up:

Seniors—		Sophomores—
Mahan	g	Zuger
Gude	p	Lynam
Butchart	cp	Baker
Owen	r	Gunderson
Crassweller	c	Hegardt

Stark	rw	Parsons

FARGO HIGH WINS.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota high school basket ball championship was won by Fargo in the third of a series of games between Grand Forks and Fargo, the locals losing two of the contests. The Fargoans won the deciding contest by the score of 17 to 15, finishing the first half 12 to 4 in their favor. Grand Forks made a hard fight in the last half but couldn't overcome the lead. The lineup:

Grand Forks—		Fargo—
Wells	f	Haines
Jackson	f	Melchor
Helmky	c	Thompson
Ferguson and Laughlin	g	Berner
Campbell	g	Childs

LOCAL SPORT EVENTS.

The Loseau club and the Bankers are scheduled to meet at hockey this evening at the curling club. There is considerable rivalry between the members of the two organizations and the contest promises to be interesting. The Loseau club won the first contest by a very slight score and the Bankers hope to do the comeback.

There will be a meeting this evening of those interested in the organization of a Duluth Motorcycle club, the Quayle-Larsen store being the place decided upon. There is considerable interest in the forming of a club here, as the number of motorcycle owners is rapidly increasing. While the plans are yet in the nebulous stage, among other things spoken of are the building of a speedway and the securing of membership in the American Racing association.

BOMBARDIER WELLS NOT ANXIOUS FOR LONG BOUT

Luther McCarty's seeming disinclination to meet Bombardier Wells in a ten-round decisionless bout in New York has raised a quite a controversy, and from what the writer can gather the majority of the critics seem to think the Bombardier has the better of the argument.

Well, as the pugilistic world wags nowadays, it is no very serious complication, nor can McCarty be charged with any violent offense against Queensbury ethics if he sets his face against the ten-round, no-decision proposition to the very last.

What the writer would like to know is why the Bombardier is so persistent in holding out for a short bout, and why he is content to dispense with the services of a referee.

To hark back a little. This fellow McCarty has been a commendably busy man since the process of weeding out the hopes of the world began. Fired by the ambition to get into the title of white champion, he has engaged in several contests, and among those who were considered the toughest of the pale-face set, says W. W. Naughton.

He beat Al Kaufman in jig time and he took a little longer to dispose of that rock-ribbed warrior, Jim Flynn. With his hands crippled and only a week or two between fights he went against the hardest of them all—Al Palzer.

Easily Defeated Al Palzer.

This match, when it was arranged, looked like the final test for American heavies, and to add eclat to the occasion Promoter Tom McCarey furnished a championship belt.

McCarty won hands down almost and the very next day the sports began talking about a Bombardier Wells-Luther McCarty bout, to take place on the following Fourth of July.

In the meantime one Jesse Willard, who had outpointed Luther McCarty in an Eastern short bout, began to inquire why Luther should be looked upon as the kingpin of American heavies.

"Why don't you box Jesse Willard for the championship next Fourth of July?" Billy McCarney was asked.

"Well, it does not matter much what Billy said. The one thing apparent was that there was a desire to sidetrack Willard in favor of the Bombardier. Something was sprung about the Wells-McCarty prospects having an international flavor, and it was argued that there was nothing to prevent Willard coming up with the winner later along in the year.

McCarey, the belt provider, liked the Wells-McCarty idea.

"The British have done so much for the game of the gloves that I think we ought to display a hands-across-the-sea spirit and extend courtesies to any representative fighter they send us," said Uncle Tom.

The British papers liked the idea. They were a unit in extolling Bombardier Wells as "the representative British heavyweight," and they declared he would command lots of backing from his own country when America selected a man to compete against him.

Likes Ten-Round Distance.

Has Wells ever shown an inclination to hook up with McCarty or any one else on this side in a regulation championship encounter.

After all the nice things the English press said about him one might expect to find him fired with the ambition to strive for the championship in the orthodox way. I have no doubt that some of the old-time Britishers on this side of the pond had visions of the Bombardier tying his colors to the ring post in his corner and coming to the scratch for the championship tussle with the old, ungrammatical formula, "May the best man win," on his lips.

But the Bombardier wants ten rounds and no decision.

In justifying his decision he said recently:

"Any sane person knows it is better to take $10,000 for a ten-round bout than for a twenty-round affair, particularly if there is no decision rendered. If McCarty should be outpointed I will agree to meet him in a twenty-round bout in California on a winner-take-all basis, and bet him $5,000 on the side. If McCarthy decines this offer he will stand convicted of cowardice and I will promptly claim the title. If I don't hear from him I will go out on the road and challenge McCarty in every big city in which he shows. I take this means of proving to the American public that I really mean business.

Ordinary Dodger's "Guff."

This line of talk is no better and no worse than the ordinary "guff" that emanates from ringmen, who are, as a rule, more boastful than belligerent. In proposing to fight a real championship battle later the Bombardier is putting the cart before the horse. We should have the reference first and the no-decision affair afterward.

As to claiming McCarty's title, the Bombardier had better wait until McCarty defaults in an out-and-out championship contest. Championships are not disturbed by no-decision bouts or by failure to engage in them.

As for following Luther around the country and challenging him, wouldn't it be the deuce if Wells ran across Willard in some wild and woolly Western spot, where Jesse is not barred?

And wouldn't it be terrible if Jesse said: "Seeing as how you can't land McCarty and not liking the idea of your going back to England without a match, I'll fight you myself."

Well, whichever way the cat jumps will be the right way. There are no hard and fast rules for top-notch fighters to follow and if Wells can badger McCarty into a ten-round, no-decision match no one will blame Wells.

But Bombardier Billy's present course is not overwhelming proof that he "really means business." Of two evils—a championship bout and a ten-round, no-decision flutter, he seems inclined to choose the lesser.

OARSMEN WIN CLOSE GAME

Superior Normal Basket Ball Team Beaten By Score of 21 to 17.

"Morrey" Harris and Louie Paddock Prove Stars for the Duluth Quint.

At the Y. M. C. A. gym Saturday night the strong boat club team defeated the crack normal alumni five of Superior in what was probably the best and fastest game of basket ball played in Duluth this season, by the score of 21 to 17.

The normal alumni presented the best balanced team that has played against the "oarsmen" this season. The acquisition of Texter, formerly center on the "U" of Wisconsin freshman team, eliminating the only weak spot in their line-up.

The "peds" started things with a rush, but after scoring the first points of the game on a pretty throw by Underhill, the close guarding of the boat club men quickly blocked their team play. The "oarsmen" showed good team work and fast, accurate passing and basket shooting all through the first half, every man on the team scoring one or more field goals. The half ended 13 to 5 in favor of the boat club.

The second half did not bring out as steady play on the part of either team as that shown in the first period. Both teams were apparently over anxious and the game became very rough, team plays were blocked as soon as started, and brilliant individual work was responsible for most of the scores. "Morrey" Harris was the star performer with three beautiful field goals, all of them long shots from hard angles, Couley and Texter following closely with two goals each.

Susens played a good heady game at guard for the "peds," and Paddock's defensive playing was a revelation.

The line-up:

Boat Club—		Normal Alumni—
Harris	f	Underhill
Johnson	f	Couley
Paddock	c	Texter
Boerner	g	Susens
Solheim, Lathrop	g	Sheehan

Detailed score: Field goals—Harris, 4; Johnson, 2; Paddock, 1; Solheim, 2; Boerner, 1; Underhill, 1; Couley, 2; Texter, 2; Susens, 2. Points on free throws—Johnson, 1; Underhill, 2; Texter, 1. Score first half—Duluth Boat club, 13; normal alumni, 5; final, Duluth Boat club, 21; normal alumni, 17.

BOWLING TOURNAMENT ON AT MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, March 17.—Only doubles and singles were played in the International Bowling association tournament here yesterday afternoon.

In the doubles the highest scores were made by A. Kron and H. Kenyon of Stillwater, Minn., who made a total of 1,116. E. Jacobson and O. W. Harrod of Sioux City, Iowa, rolled a total of 1,092.

In the singles, P. Nelson of St. Paul led with a score of 610. F. Hagen of Sioux City following with 601.

In the five-team event last night, Sioux City No. 3 rolled a total of 2,739. The Olson-Andersons, Minneapolis, came second with 2,489 and the Leure-Johnsons, Minneapolis, third with 2,463.

WIN AND LOSE.

San Francisco, March 17.—The Chicago Americans were defeated yesterday morning by Oakland and defeated San Francisco in the afternoon. Chicago's defeat came in the seventh inning, when four runs and five hits were gained off Douglass, who followed Walsh. Walsh pitched four hitless innings. In the afternoon Chicago defeated San Francisco 10 to 3, easily.

First game:	R.	H.	E.
Oakland	4	8	4
Chicago	2	4	6

Batteries — Gregory and Mitze; Walsh, Douglass and Schalk.

Second game:	R.	H.	E.
Chicago	10	15	0
San Francisco	3	9	4

Batteries—Lange, Benze and Kuhn; Hughes and Supulveda.

HIBBING TO FIGHT FEVER

Extra Precautions to Prevent Further Spread of Scarlet Fever.

Chisholm Health Authorities Claim to Have Epidemic Well in Hand.

Hibbing, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. B. S. Adams, chairman of the board of health, today requested the police department for special officers to assist in the enforcement of the scarlet fever quarantine regulations at several different sections of the village. Complaints to the health department that small attention is being paid to the restrictions at several homes closed on account of scarlet fever, have recently been made frequently.

Two New Cases.

Two new cases of the disease developed yesterday and the health authorities announce that from this time on any violations of quarantine will be prosecuted. The board does not contemplate closing the schools or churches, but if new cases continue to develop it may be necessary on account of the laxity of parents and people affected by the quarantine regulations generally. There are but a few cases of the disease here and such as have appeared are of a mild nature.

Chisholm Quarantine Strict.

Chisholm, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is said to be little change in the scarlet fever situation. It is claimed no new cases developed in the last few days.

The quarantine rule is being rigidly enforced but it is hoped the health department will remove the quarantine to the extent of allowing children where their homes have not been affected to go about as usual.

The schools will remain closed another week and unless the epidemic breaks out anew before the end of the week will be running Monday, March 24.

One or two infants succumbed during the week but as these were previously included in the twenty-nine cases reported it cannot be construed to mean that the disease is spreading.

FATHER FLOYD LECTURES.

Duluth Priest Delivers Address at Hibbing Church Event.

Hibbing, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Twenty trained voices took part in the sacred concert given at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament last evening at which Rev. Father Floyd of Duluth delivered an especially interesting address.

The program follows: St. Patrick hymn, chorus; "Christian, the Morn Breaks Over Thee," (Shelly), Messrs. Blaiznig, Sheehy, Page and chorus; soprano solo, "Ave Regina," (Dana), Miss Alice Killorin; duet, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," Mrs. McEachin and Mr. Spensley; "Ave Maria," (Goumod), Miss Julia Gulas and chorus; violin solo, "Meditation," (Meitzke), Miss Pauline McElroy; bass solo, "Gloria," (Buzzi-Peccia), George Jenson; "King All Glorious," (Barnby), chorus; "Sanctus," (Gounod), Messrs. Spensley, Angst and chorus; lecture, Rev. Father Hugh A. Floyd; "O Salutaris," (Gounod), chorus; "Tantum Ergo," (Schumann), chorus.

Piano, Miss Marcella Lavelle; organ, Miss Jane McElroy.

Chorus—Sopranos, Misses Gulas, Killinor, Swinnerton, Champion, Mesdames Lawrence and de Lorimer; altos, Misses McElroy, Furgeson and Marshall; tenors, Messrs. Blaiznig and Angst; basses, Messrs. Spensley, Page and Sheehy.

Rheumatic Blood is Whole Story

Wonderful Specific for Sciatica, Lumbago, and a Cure for Dreaded Articular Rheumatism.

There is a host of pills, powders, tablets and what-not for rheumatism, but they all lack the first essential to being a natural medicine. To begin with, rheumatism is simply a name given to designate a variety of pains, and can only be reached by irrigating the entire blood supply with a naturally assimilative antidote. True, the pains may be eased with narcotics or the acids may be neutralized for the time being with other acids. But these merely temporize and do not even lead to a cure. There is but one standard rheumatism remedy, and it reflects the best thought of the day. It is prepared in the great Swift Laboratory in Atlanta, Ga., and sold in all drug stores under the name of S. S. S. at $1.00 a bottle.

Starvation has been advocated by many as a cure for rheumatism, and yet S. S. S. accomplishes in fact what faddists proclaim in theory and without the punishment of starvation. Hot springs and sweating are often recommended, but S. S. S. does all that is expected of these expensive and weakening methods.

It is conceded by the closest students of the subject that rheumatism is caused in most cases by an acid condition of the blood and aggravated by the remedies commonly used for relief. In other cases rheumatism is the result of nerve depression; in still others it is the effect of some scrofulous blood condition, having been treated with mercury, iodides, arsenic and other poisonous mineral drugs.

The recoveries of all these types of rheumatism by the use of S. S. S. is a wonderful tribute to the natural efficacy of this remarkable medicine, for it is assimilated just as naturally, just as specifically, and just as well ordained as the most acceptable, most palatable and most readily digested food. Do not fail to get a bottle of S. S. S. to-day. You will be astonished at the results. If your rheumatism is of such a nature that you would like to consult a great specialist confidentially, write to The Swift Specific Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

FINNISH SINGERS ARE GOING ABROAD

Mesaba Range and Head of Lakes Men to Tour Old Countries.

Virginia, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local members of the Finnish American concert troup are getting ready for their big European tour, first suggested nearly twelve years ago by the present director, Prof. Sanfrid Mustonen, of Duluth.

The chorus, which will comprise thirty-six of the finest Finnish voices at the Head of the Lakes and on the Iron ranges, has arranged a series of concerts to be held in Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Finland and it is expected that nearly 200 old-timers of this state and Michigan will accompany the singers on their tour. All do their utmost to boost Northern Minnesota among their friends and relatives in the countries that they visit.

Those Who Will Go.

Singers from this city will be Iver Prasa, assistant cashier of the Virginia State bank, and Arvid Hyvaru, pharmacist for the Red Cross pharmacy here. Eveleth will be represented by Walter Gomsi and Victor Parks. The officers for the tour will be R. Granquist, president; William Ohman, vice president; Fred Johnson, secretary; M. Sundberg, assistant secretary; and Dr. J. E Nyquist, treasurer.

YOUNG ATHLETES WILL GIVE SHOW

Virginia Athletic, Composed of Young Finns, Growing Concern.

Virginia, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia Athletic club, organized about two months ago by young men of Finnish nationality, will put on an athletic show in the Finnish temperance hall now used for training quarters. The club has a membership of thirty-five. Recently a dance was given and a neat sum of money realized which has been invested in athletic apparatus, equipment and uniforms. Athletic entertainment there will be exhibitions of boxing, trapese stunts, acrobatic work and various special feats. The program will be exclusively athletic. The club has a tight rope walker, a heavy weight lifter, a marathon runner and many acrobats. The physical director is John Lehto, brother of Carl Lehto, the wrestler. Arvid Hyvari is the chairman of the committee on arrangements. The new equipment will be in place within a week.

ALBERT LEA PAIR FINED IN HIBBING

Merchant and Banker Pay $25 and Costs for Violating Game Laws.

Hibbing, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bert Skinner, a merchant, and R. E. Barrigan, a banker, at Albert Lea, Minn., through their attorney, S. C. Scott of Hibbing, entered pleas of guilty before Judge Brady today to a charge of having deer illegally in their possession. Fines of $25 and costs each were assessed.

Skinner and Barrigan hunted in this section last fall and the carcasses of two deer they had in their possession were confiscated at the Great Northern depot in this city by Game Warden Wood, who claims that both had been shot by "headlight" hunters and that Skinner and Barrigan purchased them.

CAUGHT SMALL FISH.

Biwabik Man Fined By Justice of Peace at Gilbert.

Gilbert, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. Fridman of Biwabik was arraigned before Judge Andersizo pike and perch in his possession. He was found guilty and assessed a fine of $100 and costs. Later, upon the representation of friends, Judge Anderson reduced the fine to $10 and costs.

VIRGINIA WOODMEN GOING AFTER PRIZE.

Virginia, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The modern Woodmen will hold their grand annual ball Monday, March 31, to finance the trip of the Virginia drill team to the annual convention. Capt. E. F. Murray, who is in charge of the drill team again this year, hopes to come home with the prize.

Virginia Moose Election.

Virginia, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following officers were elected by the Loyal Order of Moose: Dictator, H. C. Holmes; vice dictator, Tom O'Keefe; prelate, Emmett Smith; secretary, E. F. Murray; treasurer, Fred J. Verville; sergeant-at-arms, M. J. Dover; inner guard, David Johnson; trustees, E. F. Crossland, Louis Cohen and Ed Zeil; physican, Dr. C. M. Golden.

Pinioned Under Omnibus.

Hibbing, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Clinton Barrett, son of the village trustee, is getting over a harrowing experience of Friday evening, when an omnibus he was driving from the Morris location to Hibbing overturned, pinioning him underneath in the snow. D. D. Butchart discovered his predicament and rescued him. The high wind had upset the conveyance.

New Boiler Inspector.

Hibbing, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. S. Cox, engineer at the Agnew mine, has been appointed boiler inspector for the Forty-ninth and Fifty-fourth legislative districts by Governor Eberhart, succeeding Louis Boo.

Virginia Church Meeting.

Virginia, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the Presbyterian church will be held March 27. The secretaries and treasurers of the various church auxillary organizations have been directed to be ready with financial and other reports.

TWO HARBORS IS READY FOR FRAY

Citizens and Socialist Candidates Lining Up for Tuesday's Battle.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The lines are closely drawn for the battle at the polls tomorrow between the Citizens' league and the Socialists' candidates for office at the city election.

The candidates are: Citizens—Dr. E. P. Christensen, mayor; J. P. Sande, John J. Larson and Iver Amundsen, aldermen at large; Gust Risberg, alderman, First ward; Albert Hanson, alderman, Fourth ward.

Socialists—William Towl, mayor; Harry Van Dyken, Martin Hedlund and C. G. Rothfus, aldermen at large; John Anderson, alderman, First ward; Alex Halliday, alderman, Second ward; Ernest G. Strand, alderman, Third ward; Charles Esse, alderman, Fourth ward.

Both sides feel confident that they will elect a majority of their candidates and have been working hard to that end. The Citizens' league has been holding regular Thursday night meetings, which have proved very effective, both in arousing the citizens to see the need of good non-partisan city government and increasing its membership. These meetings will continue after the election. The membership of the league numbers nearly 400.

Socialists Laud Themselves.

The Socialists have also been very active and have distributed to the public circulars telling all the favorable actions they have taken in the city government during the past two years they have been in power. Some of these statements, however, did not appear to hold water and they were consequently very seriously censured by those opposing such a method of fooling the public. Outside of what literature was gotten out by the Socialists, he has been very little mudslinging during the campaign.

Morris Kaplan of Duluth was here Sunday and spoke to a number of Socialists at the Glen hall.

ELY POSTOFFICE IN NEW QUARTERS

Epworth League of M. E. Church Is Planning for Easter Sunrise Services.

Ely, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The postoffice is now in the new quarters in the James block on Chapman street. The new location had been greatly improved this winter by the addition of a steel ceiling and walls, and gives to the postoffice much larger quarters than it formerly had on First avenue east. The report has it that a 5 and 10 cent store will soon be opened in the building vacated by the postoffice.

John Zoveri was taken to Duluth Saturday to await the action of the grand jury as a result of the part he is claimed to have in the shooting affair on Milwaukee avenue last Sunday night.

Easter Sunrise Prayer Service.

The Epworth league of the Methodist church have arranged to hold a sunrise prayer service on next Easter morning. The meeting will begin at 7 o'clock and an invitation has been extended to all the other church to unite in the holding of this service. The league have also arranged for a sleigh ride to be given the members and attendants at the league services for Tuesday evening. The party will gather at the church leaving at 7:30 and drive to Winton, where they will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Axel Anderson.

FAREWELL FOR DOCTOR.

Biwabik Friends Honor Physician Who Is Going to Crosby.

Biwabik, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. Baxter A. Smith, who for the past six years has been connected with the Bray hospital staff, has been appointed chief surgeon of a mining company at Crosby, Minn., and will leave for there some day this week.

Last Saturday night a farewell banquet was tendered Dr. Smith in the dining room of the new Hill hotel. A very fine spread had been prepared for the occasion. There were short talks by several present, all regretting the departure of Dr. Smith from our midst. J. E. Lunn was toastmaster. About forty-five friends of Dr. Smith were present.

TOWER BRIEFS.

Tower, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The public schools closed Friday for a week's vacation.

A booth tastefully made in one corner of the room where home-made candy was sold. The room was prettily decorated in green in honor of St. Patrick's day. A light lunch was served, and a large number were present in spite of a raging blizzard which lasted all the afternoon and evening. About $10 was cleared.

MRS. WEITZEL'S FUNERAL

Last Rites Saturday Afternoon for Late Biwabik Woman.

Biwabik, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Mrs. Susan Weitzel, who died at the home of her son Thursday, was held from the parlors of the New Hill hotel Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Harris of the Congregational church officiated. The three sons who reside at Coudrad, Mont., Empalive, Sonora, Mex., and Alameda, Cal., were unable to attend the funeral. The pallbearers were N. B. Shauk, J. E. Lunn, F. B. Myers, J. R. Gillpatrick, H. H. Salmon and H. M. Glass. Interment was at the Biwabik cemetery.

NEW LINE DID WELL.

Recent Blizzard Did Not Seriously Interfere With Traffic.

Chisholm, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Mesaba Range Electric railway did pretty well operating its cars during the recent blizzard, managing to maintain hourly schedules with the exception of an hour around 10 o'clock of the second night when the power at the main station went off and this short shut down permitted the tracks to fill in with snow and made it hard for the first car to get through after the shut down. The cars all started out right after the shut down and when the first car attempted to make the Lake street grade in Chisholm it had some very hard snow fighting to overcome, but after an hour's hard work got through to Hibbing. The motormen claimed that the worst drift was just at the top of the Chisholm hill, but with the assistance of the new up-to-date snowplow, with plow on both end, they were able to bury the car in snow and still extricate it for another run into the snow drifts. The cars ran up to 3 a. m., when the last car pulled into the barns.

TWO HARBORS WINS.

Basket Ball Team Defeats the Five From Proctor.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local Y. M. C. A. team added another victory Saturday night by defeating the Proctor Y. M. C. A. team, 56 to 32. The game was one of the cleanest exhibitions of basket ball ever witnessed in the local gym and was attended by a goodly number of enthusiastic admirers of the local team. Kernan for the locals was by far the star performer of the game having 30 points to his credit. Woodward and Fortman also played a good game. The local Y. M. C. A. team have been successful in winning every contest so far this year and at present hold the range championship. The Aurora basket ball team however dispute championship of the range as claimed by the local team and have issued a challenge for a game. A game will no doubt be arranged for between the two teams to be played here next Saturday night.

The following was the line up:

Proctor.		Two Harbors.
Anderson	c	Woodward
Averson	f	Kernan
Wile	f	Filiatrault
Reneau	g	McCurdy
Hodak	g	Fortman

Takes Chisholm Job.

Ishpeming, Mich., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Blamey, who has worked as mine clerk at the Oliver Iron Mining company's Champion mine for the past seven years, left Friday evening for Chisholm, Minn., where he has been transferred to fill a similar position.

Gilbert Miner Accused.

Gilbert, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nick Jacki, a miner, will have a hearing today on the charge of breaking into a trunk belonging to Howard Beall of Genoa and stealing $10 in cash and checks amounting to $142.20, a suit of clothes and a watch and chain. Both men roomed at the same place and the theft is alleged to have occurred early Saturday. Jacki when arrested in a saloon was wearing the stolen clothes, it is said by the police, while the watch and one of the checks were found in his pocket.

SNOW

Winter still has a good grip on Duluth. Yesterday was fair though far from springlike in temperature. Today falls in the same class. More snow is predicted for tonight and tomorrow with somewhat warmer temperatures. There is hardly any question of the necessity for the postponement of the Easter parade.

Mild weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:17 and it will set at 6:16 this evening, giving eleven hours and fifty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Colder weather prevails in the Lake region and Eastern states, while from the Mississippi river westward the temperature has risen generally during the last twenty-four hours. Snow or rain fell throughout most of the Northern states Sunday or last night and over most of the Atlantic states Saturday or Saturday night. Heavy to killing frosts occurred last night in Alabama and Louisiana. Conditions favor milder weather in St. Louis and Douglas counties today and Tuesday."

General Forecast.

Chicago, March 17.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours, ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday:

Upper Michigan—Unsettled weather with snow tonight or Tuesday; rising temperature.

Wisconsin—Snow tonight and Tuesday in west and tonight or Tuesday in east portion; warmer.

Minnesota—Snow and warmer tonight; Tuesday local snows.

South Dakota—Local snows or rains tonight and probably Tuesday; warmer tonight.

North Dakota—Local snows tonight and probably Tuesday; colder tonight in northwest portion; colder Tuesday.

Montana—Snow in northeast, snow or rain in east and south portions tonight and Tuesday; colder tonight; colder Tuesday in south portions.

Shippers' forecast—Protect 36-hour shipments of perishables against minimum temperatures 5 to 15 deg. above zero in Northeastern Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin.

Grip Germs Are Everywhere

The grip needs only a few days to wreck the health. In this short time it so thoroughly poisons the blood and every tissue of the body that the victim is prostrated. Every muscle and joint of the body aches, sleep is fitful and disturbed, and there is pain back of the eyes and in the head. The grip stays in the system for years unless the blood is cleansed and built up so that it can overcome the poisons of the disease.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills taken in time will save you much suffering and will so tone up your system that you will enjoy the best of health.

Write today to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for their free booklet on "Building Up the Blood." Then go to your druggist and get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for 50 cents or better still six boxes for $2.50 or order them direct by mail.

Accept the Advice of Specialists

There are few of the specialists who can claim to be masters of diseases of men and women at the same time. It takes more than half a lifetime to become proficient to thoroughly know and understand all the diseases and ailments of both sexes. The Electro Medical doctors have secured the services of an expert, who not only had the greatest and widest experience in diseases of men and women, but who, in addition, is by far the best known Specialist in Electro Medical Methods.

The Electro Medical doctors have spent ten thousand dollars in the equipment of the office with the sole object in view to make this office a success and to cure the people better and cheaper and quicker than other doctors could with their old and backward methods. We make a specialty of old and chronic diseases, leaving the acute class and the easily curable to the many noble and able physicans we have.

If you have tried scores of doctors and you have not succeeded in a cure, if you have been discouraged and have given up hopes, we invite you to come and try Electro Medical Methods. You have read hundreds of testimonials of patients we cured; you have seen men and women cured who have been given up as hopeless. Why should we not cure you also?

Do not delay—you surely will profit by an early call.

SELFISHNESS IS PASTOR'S THEME

"Selfishness always turns a treasure valley into a desert. The rain falls upon the just and unjust alike, but a man cannot insult the ministeries of kindness continually without some day reaping the penalty of retributive justice."

This was the expression of Rev. W. F. Hovis, pastor of Endion M. E. church, in his sermon yesterday morning. The subject of the sermon was "Holy Water," which the pastor defines as "water sanctified in merciful ministry in behalf of God's thirsty little ones."

The pastor then went on to show the inheritance which had been lost by cruelty was regained by love. In his sermon he recalled the story told by Ruskin in his "King of the Golden River," in which the characters of Schwarts and Hans are set up as two selfish characters. He uses the story to illustrate his sermon.

BIRTHDAY OF GREAT EXPLORER

Livingstone Remembered By Duluth Pastors—Clan Stewart Celebration.

The centenary of the birth of Dr. David Livingstone, the famous explorer and missionary of the African continent was observed in many of the Duluth churches yesterday.

Rev. M. S. Rice, pastor of the First Methodist church, Rev. R. Edward Sayles of the First Baptist and Dr. Lawrence of the Glen Avon Presbyterian all devoted their morning sermons to a sketch and commentary on this illustrious life. A missionary meeting held yesterday afternoon in the First Swedish Baptist church had for its subject "Livingstone and Africa." At the Endion M. E. church a vesper service held by the Epworth league had the topic, "The Centenary of David Livingstone.

The exact hundredth anniversary of the birth of David Livingstone falls on Wednesday, March 19. Clan Stewart, Order of Scottish Clans, will meet in Foresters hall in the evening and hold a literary session in honor of the renowned Scotchman. A paper on the life of Dr. Livingstone will be read by Henry Taylor, the local British vice consul, who was once a personal acquaintance of the subject of his thesis.

Woman's Realm

Mackinaws, sweaters, moccasins and oiled boots are still the popular wearing apparel and while old winter lasts Duluthians are taking full advantage of the opportunity offered for winter sports. Nowhere are there more enthusiastic advocates of skiing, snowshoeing, tobogganing and skating than in Duluth and the hills and woods were covered yesterday and Saturday with men, women, girls and boys, enjoying the fresh fall of snow.

Cabin parties were gotten up on the spur of the moment and crowds with knapsacks full of provisions, and with skis and bobs were seen on every corner and the Woodland and Lakeside cars carried many sport seekers to the suburbs for a day's outing. The many trails leading from Woodland down to Lakeside, most of which come out at the Country club were the favorite routes of the skiers while snowshoes generally took to the open flat country.

Skating has continued at some of the free rinks and at the Curling club the members have been enjoying the prolonged chances for enjoying the ice there. The season shortened by the delay in opening the rink is gradually lengthening out into a pretty good season after all and skating parties followed by little informal suppers are being crowded into this week before the ice shall be gone.

LECTURE AND SOCIAL.

Twentieth Century Club Will Hold Open Meeting.

A lecture on "Minnesota Laws Regarding Women" by Mrs. Irene C. Buell and a social hour with vocal solos by Mrs. Jane Everington Seully and piano numbers by Miss Winifred Hicks will be features of the open free meeting of the Twentieth Century club which will be held this evening at the library club room.

An informal discussion will follow Mrs. Buell's lecture and during the social hour tea will be served by Mrs. J. H. Richards, assisted by other members of the club. Everyone interested is invited.

"THE CRUCIFIXION."

Sacred Cantata Heard at the Pro-Cathedral.

Over 300 people were unable to gain admittance at Trinity pro-cathedral yesterday afternoon to hear the sacred cantata, "The Crucifixion" by Sir Joseph Strainer which was sung by the full choir of forty voices under the direction of Miss Isabel Pearson organist and choir director.

Dr. F. A. Amundson, tenor and George H. Madison, basso sang the solos. The power of the pipe organ gave out early yesterday afternoon and a piano had to be used for the accompaniment which was less effective but those who heard the rendition were carried away with its beauty and power and the admirable rendition. Several unaccompanied choruses and duets were gems of the afternoon and great credit is due to the singers and their director.

"The Crucifixion" will be repeated some time later when the organ has been repaired.

FREE MAGAZINE FOR DULUTH WOMEN

Through the courtesy of the George A. Gray Co., The Herald has received a copy of the second issue of "Good Dressing," the new fashion magazine which the firm has ready for distribution with its compliments, to each customer and any other style-loving women who will call and ask or it.

This 32-page magazine is edited by the editors of a well known women's magazine and is beautifully illustrated. The cover is in colors by Carol Aus, and a leading feature is an article by Harrison Fisher, another artist, who is well known as a student of female beauty and whose paintings and cover designs for magazines are known the world over.

Mr. Fisher selects three gowns for spring, which are portrayed in full length, and in his article he makes the assertion that it is difficult for most women to realize their own defects and shortcomings—to get the correct perspective, as it were, which is really essential in the selection of clothes. The garments of today are designed after careful study, and environment as well as personality in the planning of one's clothes must be considered, if they are to give the best effect. Beoause a certain type of dress or hat looks well on a young woman of 16 is no reason why a mature woman of 40 should wear it—yet many of them will do so.

Mr. Fisher properly condemns freakish fashions—he has not one kind word for them, saying they only serve to make women conspicuous, diverting attention from the wearer to her clothes. This is a very great mistake, if women only realized it, as clothes should be merely a setting for the personality—all should form a complete picture that is absolutely harmonious.

Beside the featured article by Mr. Fisher, the April number of "Good Dressing" shows a brilliant variety of types to meet the requirement of any occasion—and any woman. The materials of which these designs may be made are shown; the newest fabrics are discussed, and such helpful advice is given that the choosing of styles, materials and colors is turned from the usual task to an appreciated pleasure.

American fashions for American women, concerning which so much is being said in the style centers, are illustrated and discussed—and there is interesting news from Paris.

For the young ladies, Nancy Norton writes a bright letter from her New York boarding school—telling her friends at home just what the smart metropolitan girls are wearing.

A special feature which the women of Duluth should appreciate is the correspondence department through which is offered free advice on the etiquette of clothes, home dressmaking, needlework, millinery, children's clothes, hair dressing or any one of the many things pertaining to fashions about which women are so many times perplexed.

DULUTH GIRL IN MEXICO CITY

Former Zenith City Stenographer Had Thrilling Experiences During Recent Battles in Mexican Capital.

A letter describing the recent battle in the City of Mexico has been received by Jacob Laux of Lakeside from Miss Annie Jones, a stenographer of that city, formerly a resident of Duluth. Speaking of the experiences of herself and others who had fled to the Berry hotel for refuge, Miss Jones writes, under date of Feb. 23:

"Wednesday night every one seemed worn out and retired early, but they are soon frightened out of bed again. I was just going to sleep when the cannon on each side of us began roaring again. I was just going to sleep ing again. It sounded as if they were close to the building. Every one in the building hurried downstairs, half-dressed, wondering what they were doing. Nearly all brought down their bedclothes and slept in the parlor. I thought my room as safe as the parlor, so I went back again about 11:30, but stayed up for the rest of the night, though the firing only lasted a few minutes.

"Next morning we learned the Maderistas had tried to steal a march on the Diaz men were not sleeping and the Diaz men were not sleeping and drove them back. We also found out that the Maderistas had moved their cannon back again, where they remained until the end of the fighting. What we were most in danger of was the Maderistas going to mount their guns on top of the building. Word came from them one day that they were going to take the building. The proprietor of the hotel, who is a Mexican, turned the keys of the hotel over to one of the Americans in the house, and the man that owns the building, and is a personal friend of Diaz, went to Diaz and asked him not to fire on the building, as it was full of Americans and in charge of an American. Diaz replied that he would give his men instructions not to fire on this building, but that people in the hotel must keep off the roof, or they might be taken for rebels.

"Then one of the men in the hotel, an American, who was personally acquainted with Madero, went to the palace to see him, but Madero was not to be seen. He saw his private secretary and asked him to keep their men off the building, or, if they insisted on having the building, that they must give us two hours and a half notice to get out, but he would make no promises, so the men in the hotel prepared to keep the Maderistas away themselves, and got their guns and ammunition ready. Some one stayed on guard in the parlor all the time, where they kept the guns. The doors to the hotel were also guarded.

"Diaz evidently kept his word, as, with the exception of some bullet shots and stray shell that went through the dining room on the top floor, the building was not damaged, while the buildings next to the hotel were badly damaged, one of the buildings being almost ruined. The only thing we learned afterwards, that kept the Maderistas off the building, was that it was too exposed, it being the highest building on the street.

"After the night of our fight, I slept in the proprietor's private office, and two other girls had his room adjoining the office. I did not have my clothes, only my shoes and dress off for a week or until it was over. The night after Madero was taken prisoner, we had another scare. They wanted to burn the Imperial, one of the papers which the government recently purchased. The building adjoins the hotel in the back and is owned by the man that owns the hotel building. As soon as it was found out, soldiers were placed all around the block and stayed on guard all night."

SEEN IN THE SHOPS

Duluth Stores Are in Gay Attire and Ready for Their Spring Openings.

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"I'm going a-shopping, sir," she said.
"This is the opening week, you know, And I want to see what styles they show."

Tomorrow this conversation might be credited to most of the maids and matrons of Duluth, for shops dressed in their gay spring attire will await inspection tomorrow and the merchants are giving a cordial invitation to all to see the gorgeous new spring styles, and Duluth women are only awaiting this invitation to throng the shops and see just what they show.

The department and garment shops are filled with the gowns, suits, wraps, waists, lingerie and the little accessories which are last word in chic, up-to-the-minute style and the millinery stores are brimming over with the most delightful creations which will bring joy to the heart of every woman, tired of her winter hats, with the charming fresh street and dress hats.

And cheer up, little woman! The day has dawned at last when the large hat that fitted only the Amazon type of femininity has given place to diminutive affairs that look like dolls' hats in comparison.

The hats have small crowns and small brims; in fact, in some hats the brim is lacking entirely or concealed with the trimming.

The Numidi plumes, which are said to be the Indian species of ostrich, are very popular and make a practical trimming, as they are uncurled and immune to sudden summer showers. They make a high trimming and are another boon to the small woman, as they give her height.

The graceful leghorns that adapt themselves so readily to the portrait hats have been restored to fancy and handsome models of this material are shown in several of the Duluth hat shops.

There are, of course, some of the large hats shown, but they are rare, indeed, and will not be particularly popular.

Not in years have the French milliners sent forth such gay colors for approved styles. The Balkan blue and oriental reds are placed together in a way that produces a most pleasing effect and little unique trimmings make the styles distinctive.

Nutmeg brown and the Nell rose are two colors of special favor this season seen in millinery and gowns and suits.

The hats rest high upon the hair and the woman, who a few seasons ago found it necessary to purchase a large amount of store hair to fill in the vacant place of the large hats, can now lay aside her puffs and curls and braids and with just the natural locks she can find a hat that will fit and be becoming.

A new adaptation of the sailor is a small-brimmed affair with just a saucy bow at the back or a pair of jaunty cupids' wings.

Duluth women are fortunate in having shops so well stocked from which to choose their spring wardrobe and with one accord all who are able to get out tomorrow will visit the shops, large and small, and see what they have to offer.

WANTS DAY AS COMMISSIONER

Fred Lynch Asks President to Appoint Him to General Land Office.

Only Minnesota Democrat Who Is Asking for Federal Position.

(From The Herald Washington Bureau.)

Washington, March 17.—As a result of a conference today between President Wilson and National Committeeman Fred B. Lynch, it is understood that Frank A. Day is to be given a Federal position outside of Minnesota.

Mr. Day came to Washington Saturday evening prepared to ask for the position of commissioner of Indian affairs, which pays $5,000 a year. After talking with his friends, however, yesterday and this morning, he decided that he would not ask for that place and so informed Mr. Lynch when the latter reached Washington.

With Land Office.

Later in the day gossip connected his name with the position of commissioner of the general land office and Mr. Lynch has asked President Wilson to appoint him. Should Day fail to land either of these places it is the understanding that he will be given some other good place. Mr. Day is the only Minnesota Democrat who is asking for a Federal position and the president and his political advisers want to give Mr. Lynch, his backer, something in return for the good work Lynch did for Mr. Wilson at Baltimore, which makes it all the more certain that Day will land.

Lynch in Demand.

Immediately upon his arrival here Mr. Lynch was in demand and practically all his time was spent in conferences.

His first caller was Representative W. S. Hammond of the Second district and Lynch had hardly gone to the latter's rooms at the New Willard when Frank Day joined them.

The result of the interview between them was that Day renounced any claim to the office of commissioner of Indian affairs and decided to go after something else.

Will Work Together.

It was apparent also that Mr. Lynch and Mr. Hammond will work in accord in patronage matters in Minnesota, with the congressman in absolute control in the Second district and probably advising Mr. Lynch on other appointments in the state.

Following the conference with Hammond and Day, Mr. Lynch went to the White House and saw Secretary Tumulty and arranged to see President Wilson, just before the president went to luncheon.

Mr. Lynch then tramped over to the treasury department and spent an hour with Secretary William McAdoo, who is vice chairman of the national committee and who probably will be in charge of national committee affairs when Chairman McCombs goes to France as ambassador.

On General Matters.

At the White House it is understood the talk was on general matters, and also on the question of getting a place for Frank Day. Following precedent Mr. Lynch would not be interviewed but he told the newspaper men that he had urged the appointment of Mr. Day to a Federal position. Later Mr. Lynch went to luncheon with Messrs. McAdoo and Tumulty. Mr. Lynch expects to be in Washington until tomorrow afternoon when he will go to New York.

Beyond recommending Day he did nothing on patronage matters affecting Minnesota. So far as could be learned he did not take up the question of filling the fifty presidential postoffices that were left to the disposal of the Democrats when congress adjourned. He may see Postmaster General Burleson tomorrow and ask that official when he will be ready to consider recommendation, so that he may be ready to file a batch by the time congress meets April 7.

CAR FERRY MAKES TRIP THROUGH ICE

"Ste. Marie" Arrives at St. Ignace Three Days After Leaving Toledo.

"Information has been received at the general offices of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway, that the new car ferry steamer Ste. Marie, arrived at St. Ignace at 11:30 a. m. yesterday, having left Toledo, Ohio, 10:30 a. m. Thursday, a most remarkable trip in view of the fact that ice was encountered all the way and solid ice from Presque Isle to St. Ignace, it being in many places thirty inches thick.

She made the trip very easily.

This steamer will be put in operation between St. Ignace and Mackinaw City, and is one of the most complete car ferries in operation. This steamer together with the Wawatam, will have no difficulty in making regular trips at all times. The management of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway anticipate no trouble now that the two giant steamers are in operation.

DR. COULTER MEMBER OF NEW COMMISSION.

(From The Herald Washington Bureau.)

Washington, March 17.—Dr. John Lee Coulter of Minnesota was today appointed by President Wilson a member of the commission created by act of the last congress to study in European countries co-operative rural credit unions and similar organizations and institutions, devoting their attention to the promotion of agriculture and the betterment of rural conditions. Dr. Collins is at present employed as an agricultural expert in the division in the census office of which Dr. Legrande Powers of Minneapolis is the chief. He is a native of Polk county, Minnesota.

WHERE WASHINGTON CROSSED.

New York Mail: The historic spot where Washington crossed the Delaware Christmas eve, 1776, is to be commemorated with a memorial bridge and a park if the plans of the New Jersey state commission, headed by Governor Wilson, materialize.

Charles W. Leavitt, Jr., made the designs, now being exhibited at the Architectural league. The plans call for a park of three hundred acres encircled by a drive, with an entrance to the park from the famous "old highroad."

Through the center of the park runs what will be known as Washington's Lane, leading straight through the park to the memorial bridge.

An attempt will be made by the landscape engineers of the commission to replace many of the former natural beauties of the location. Trees will be transplanted to make an attractive vista on the Delaware.

PRISONERS CHANGE THEIR PLEAS IN DISTRICT COURT

Albert J. Mason, who on March 2 last lured 19-year-old Catherine Scott into a Michigan street rooming house, pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with indecent assault today. The plea of not guilty made last week was withdrawn and one of guilty substituted. The plea was received by Judge Cant at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Mason and the complaining witness were playmates together when both of their families resided in Grand Marais. In Duluth, when he learned that she was employed as a domestic in a home at Woodland, he called on her and told her that he would like to have her go with him for a visit to his mother, who resided in Bayfield. She unsuspectingly agreed to do so and packed her grip.

They went to the depot during the afternoon. After Mason had borrowed $4 of her to buy the tickets and had gone to the ticket window, he returned with the information that there would be no train until 8 o'clock that evening. He advised her to go with him to a hotel in the meantime. She accompanied him to the North Star lodging house across the street.

Mason signed up as man and wife, although she did not see him do so. She went to the room first and he followed an hour or so later. After he entered the room, people conducting the place heard the girl cry out and struggle. Going to the door, they asked if they were married, and Mason answered in the affirmative.

Later, when the sounds were renewed, the questioners listened through the keyhole and heard Mason promising the girl that he would marry her as soon as they got to Bayfield. A policeman was summoned and Mason was placed under arrest.

Iver Often, police character, changed his plea in Judge Cant's court this morning from not guilty to guilty, admitting the theft of a suit of clothes and two razors from the room of Larry Wright, 22 West First street, a few weeks ago. The goods were sold to Harry Vertelney, 202 Lake avenue south, who identified Often as the man wanted for the theft. Often, a few days previous to his arrest, had just finished serving ninety days in the workhouse at Superior for petty larceny. He has a record in this county for petty crimes.

Edwain Edward Alaupri, alias Ed. Alanen, changed his mind today, withdrew his former plea of not guilty to grand larceny, second degree, and entered one of guilty. Aalanen robbed Frank Tuomi of $99 on Jan. 15 last while the two were together in the toilet of a Sutphin street saloon. He was arrested for the Duluth authorities at Virginia.

• • •

Earl White, a fireman employed by the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, living at Proctor, was arraigned in district court this afternoon on an indictment which accused him of having had carnal knowledge of 15-year-old Florence Stafford, Duluth Heights. White entered a plea of not guilty.

NOTICE!

Owing to the fire which destroyed our building on Sunday morning, all orders and communications will be received at the old Hammond Packing Company building, 110 West Michigan street, until further notice. All business will be taken care of and all orders filled in the same prompt manner as in the past. Respectfully,

M. B. PEYTON, PRESIDENT.

SUFFRAGETTES SEE PRESIDENT

Ask Him to Urge Constitutional Amendment in Message to Congress.

Tells Delegates He Has Not Yet Made Up Mind on Question.

Washington, March 17.—Suffrage for the women of the United States by a constitutional amendment was formally presented to President Wilson today by a committee of national leaders in the movement. Mr. Wilson was urged to recommend to the special session of congress action on such an amendment but he told his visitors he had not made up his mind on the suffrage question.

"The president was courteous and sympathetic throughout," said Mrs. Ida Husted Harper of New York, one of the leaders of the National Woman's Suffrage association. "He said there were many pressing questions to come up at the extra session and that if he did not recommend action on the question he did not want it to be taken as an indication of his general attitude as he was not committing himself yet."

President Open Minded.

Other members of the party said the president viewed the woman suffrage idea as a question of great practical importance. There were indications, they said, that the president was open minded on the subject.

The committee had a half hour of the president's time. Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley of the Housekeepers' alliance set forth the value of suffrage from the viewpoint of the mother influencing society. Mrs. Claude V. Stone, wife of Representative Stone of Illinois, pointed out the difficulties of obtaining suffrage through amendments to the state Constitutions. Only by amendment to the Federal Constitution, she argued, could there by immediate action.

Miss Bartlett Dixon and Miss Alice Paul, chairmen of the congressional committee seeking woman's suffrage, set the question before the president as a question equivalent in importance to emancipation of the negro.

Mrs. Harper informed Mr. Wilson that there never were such arguments made for woman suffrage as he himself had given in his last book. She quoted the following passage:

Wilson's Words.

"I don't want a smug lot of experts to sit down behind closed doors in Washington and play Providence to me. If any part of our people want to be wards, if they want to have guardians put over them, if they want to be taken care of, if they want to be children, patronized by the government, why I am sorry because it will sap the manhood of America."

Mrs. Harper declared that women, too, "did not want men playing Providence to them behind closed doors in Washington or in the various state capitals."

Mrs. Harper reminded the president that Mrs. Susan B. Anthony pleaded with Mr. Roosevelt shortly after he took office and during his administration appeals were made to him not to leave the presidency without recognizing suffrage.

A similar but futile appeal, she said, had been made to President Taft.

"Almost a century ago the greatest step which has ever been taken by the Democratic party occurred with the enfranchisement of the workingman. We ask that the Democratic party take another great step in giving the vote to women."

CHINA AND AMERICA.

Physically Much Alike, Says J. D. Whelpley in Magazine.

In the March Century James Davenport Whelpley, author of the Century "Trade of the World" papers, writes of "The Trade of China," and gives a clear idea of the obstacles to overcome before such trade can be developed. To gain a general idea of the physical character of China, says Mr. Whelpley, is easy, for in many ways it resembles North America. The deserts, the vast plains, and the mountains of the North are found in both countries. The fertile arable land lies along the middle belt and far to the south, as in the United States. Great river systems divide the country into many natural drainage zones, and the range of climate is much the same as in America. Given these like conditions, we find like natural resources and a like productive power. This comparison is near enough to the truth to serve for all those who cannot see the land for themselves.

But here the comparison ends. Imagine 400,000,000 people on the American continent, the arable land filled for hundreds of years consecutively; the population kept within bounds only by disease, wars, and famine; no intercourse with the outside world; no communication between the different parts of the country except on foot, by caravans, or by slow-moving river boats, and picture, if possible, the conditions which would ensue. Ancient prejudices, beliefs and conventions would rule without change. The rich would grow richer, the poor poorer. The vested rights and interests of the overlords would become as sacred institutions, and the rulers of the land would be those who could wrest power one from the other as the turn of the wheel gave them opportunity. This is what happened to China, and this is what would happen to any self-sufficient nation living upon a self-contained area and multiplying upon itself behind a wall, real or other, which prevented the exchange of thought with other and newer civilizations.

TERMINALS LIKE HOTELS

Recent Decision of Commerce Commission of Interest to Duluth.

Sentence in Decision Apparently Bears on the Duluth Situation.

The matter of common use of railroad terminals has become a live subject in Duluth in the light of recent demands and happenings in Duluth, where terminals are controlled—that is the most central terminals and the most vital ones—by one company, the Northern Pacific Railroad company. Therefore every decision by a court or the interstate commerce commission regarding it are looked upon with interest by Duluthians. The most recent is in the case of the St. Louis, Springfield & Peoria vs. the Peoria & Pekin Union Railway company, in which the interstate commerce commission has made a decision.

And the commission, according to the Wall Street Journal decides that a railroad must "run its terminals like a hotel."

James J. Hill says this is impossible, and other railroad men declare themselves the same way. Railroad men in this part of the country, particularly those connected with the Northern Pacific, especially among those President Elliott, say that it cannot be done. The Northern Pacific owns the largest terminal property holdings in Duluth. The idea of letting other roads use them—in other words running the terminals like a hotel—does not appear satisfactory to the holders.

In the case referred to, the complainant, St. Louis, Springfield & Peoria railroad, a part of the so-called Illinois system of electric roads, asked the commission to compel the Peoria & Pekin Union railway to establish joint through routes and rates with it which would enable it to receive cars from and deliver them to team and industrial tracks owned by the defendant in and near Peoria. The Union railway has refused to do this, but had offered to grant the complainant the use of all its facilities, including passenger station, shops, yards, freight houses, etc., on the same terms as it exacted from seven roads which own the stock of the Union railway and from two tenant roads not interested in the terminal company as proprietors. The electric line would in that case have been compelled to pay a fixed interest rental of $2,500 a year, besides contributing to the maintenance of the terminals on a use-basis and paying stated charges for movement of cars, etc.

"It is not our view that the inhibition in section 3 was intended to give, or that it does give, defendant the privilege to accord one carrier an interchange of traffic and to deny such interchange to a competitor of such carrier, or to accord one carrier the use of a part of its terminal facilities and deny such use to another. That it has done these things is apparent from a consideration of its relations with the three carriers aforesaid and its lack of relations with complainants. What is the future of a community if a terminal company that is in practical command of the traffic situation there, as is this defendant at Peoria, may refuse to enter into traffic arrangements with carriers which are desirous of fully serving the community and of using the lines entering it in the movement of interstate commerce?"

The last sentence is significant in regard to the Duluth situation.

BEING POLITE.

A Man's Reason for Refusing to Assist Strange Women.

Julius Chambers in the Brooklyn Eagle: I was leaving an uptown, Manhattan bank when I encountered a friend at the door. A shower had occurred while I had been inside; rain was falling quite smartly, and as we stood under the glass awning a handsomely attired woman emerged from the bank and started to run across the pavement to a taxicab that awaited her. My friend still held aloft a dripping umbrella; I had none.

"Why don't you go to the aid of that woman and save her from wetting her gown?" I exclaimed, chidingly.

"Wouldn't do it for a hundred dollars!" was the immediate rejoinder.

There was emphasis about the words that guaranteed sincerity.

"That sounds like a story," said I; "come into the hotel next door and tell it."

We went; and here is the experience. In these days when "mashers" are so frequently arrested for "insulting" women, it presents an interesting picture of misunderstood man and hysterical woman.

Offered To Call a Cab.

"About ten days ago, I was leaving the bank next door—where I have had an account for twelve years—when a woman emerged behind me. It was a rotten day. A cold, misty rain was falling; the sidewalk was deep with slush. As I was raising an umbrella I carried, I noticed that the woman was looking about for the tall porter in livery who usually stands at the entrance to the bank. For some reason, the man was absent.

"In the most thoughtless manner, I offered my services to call a cab. She said nothing, which I accepted as acquiescence; I motioned to a taxi chauffeur waiting a hundred feet up the street; in a minute he was in front of the bank and had the door of his vehicle open. I held the umbrella over the woman and took a step toward the cab.

"At that moment, a policeman, enveloped in rubbers, came sauntering along and, to my horrified amazement, the stranger touched him upon the arm, as she said in a voice that would have chilled the piety of a saint:

"'Officer, arrest this man! He has insulted me!'

"The policeman looked at me, savagely; but I mustered courage to say, 'The lady is mistaken; I was about to render her a service!'

"'Arrest him, I say!' fairly screamed the woman: 'he wanted me to get into a cab with him!'

Almost Went To Jail.

"Then I got angry. As the policeman was about to take me by the arm I said: 'This is an infernal outrage! Bring this woman into the bank, where I am known to all its officers. I will convince you there is a serious mistake.'

"You can understand what an arrest on such a charge would have meant to me. In my mind's eye I saw an account of my arrest in all the newspapers, arrested as a 'masher'—one of those contemptible creatures that go about scraping acquaintance with women! I was in a cold perspiration; but the very gravity of my position kept me cool. I led the way into the bank and to the president's room. I stated the case. The woman made her statement, omitting the charge that 'I wanted to get into the cab with her,' which, of course, was a bit of imagination. I referred to that part of her charge and demanded to know why she had made it. She didn't know—admitted that the only words I had used were: 'Can I be of service?'

She was the wife of a successful tradesman, and at that uncertain period of a woman's life in which she imagines all sorts of things. She admitted she wanted a cab and, as I had divined, was looking for the porter to have one called. I kept my temper, but I never felt more angry. The bank president told her who I was and that she was mistaken. The woman did not apologize, but flounced out saying she had 'taught me a lesson.' Indeed, she had! No more courtesies to women unknown to me."

CAMERA AS AN AID TO FLIRTATION

Cleveland Plain Dealer: An acquaintance of ours who is so disgustingly rich as to be able to visit Palm Beach every winter, postcards us this anecdote:

"In front of the hotel the other morning I met a nice-looking fellow to whom I had never been formally introduced, but who looked as if a man could speak to him without being squelched. So I ventured thus:

"'You are an enthusiastic photographer, aren't you?'

"'I'll tell you a secret,' he answered, smiling sweetly, 'I don't know which button to push in order to take a picture. And my camera isn't loaded.'

"'But you carry your camera about with you all the time.'

"'Sure I do. When I approach a bunch of girls, the ugly ones run away and the pretty ones group themselves in an unconsciously picturesque attitude. It's a swell scheme—especially on the beach.'"

LLOYD GEORGE'S HOUSE, DAMAGED BY SUFFRAGETTES

This is the house, which had been leased by Lloyd George, which was injured by the militant suffragettes of England. Lloyd George had not taken transfer of the house when the damage was done so the loss falls not on him but on the owner. The dynamiters were not caught but in a public speech Mrs. Pankhurst claimed responsibility for the act.

EASTER APPAREL FOR THE BOYS

EASTER comes next Sunday and here is our Boys' Department's best greetings to mothers who want their boys to look a credit to their family.

¶ Splendid, practical, well made, good style, economical clothes for boys of all ages.

¶ Today there are tailors for boys, as well as for men, and every suit in our store is designed and made by real boys' tailors.

¶ Ours is the only store where the famous high grade Sampeck Boys' Clothes are sold.

¶ Prices of Columbia Boys' Clothes are $1.95, $2.50, $3.50, $4.90 (THE LITTLE COLUMBO) $6.50, $7.50, $10.00 and up.

Russian Suits These are worn by boys 2½ to 6 years of age. The military style has the preference in this style.

Sailor Suits While they are not used so much as in years gone by, before the Junior Norfolk replaced them to some extent, they are good in sizes 5 to 8 years. Both the sailor and the military collar are nice on this suit.

Junior Norfolks Now worn by boys 5 to 10 years of age and can be had in every new pattern and shade of cloth considered good. Two particularly favored styles in the Junior Norfolk are the box plait with yoke coat and the loose belted coat with gathered back.

Norfolk Suits While the plain suit is always a favorite with some, Norfolk styles are preferred by most boys of ages 11 to 18. They come in rough finished cloths, worsteds, Scotch and Bannock effects. The coats are made with plaits, yoke and loose belt; gathered backs with loose belt and sewed-down plaits, with patch pockets and sewed-down belts. They are very stylish suits. Those with patch pockets have the English effect and are extremely nifty for boys of the ages 11 to 18. Here is a big selection of styles and cloths, at all prices to suit the particular ideas of the growing young fellow.

Confirmation Suits The most popular are the blue rough and smooth serges, in either plain or Norfolk styles. All sizes and prices from $1.95 to $15.00.

MANY FAIL TO REGISTER

Total Registration Is 2,000 Below Vote at November Election.

First Ward Has 2,086 and Seventh Ward 1919 Voters Qualified.

The total registration for the election to be held April 1 to elect commissioners under the new charter will run somewhere between 10,200 and 10,300, or approximately 2,000 under the total votes cast at the general election last fall.

With three precincts missing the records at the office of the city clerk this noon showed that 4,870 voters registered Saturday. Roughly estimated the missing precincts will average about 100 each, which will bring it over 5,200. The total registration last Tuesday was 5,037, as returned to the city clerk.

Those who have not registered cannot vote April 1 unless they file an affidavit, attested by two freeholders of their precinct, stating that they are qualified voters. Among the requirements are a residence of six months in the state and thirty days in the precinct.

The heaviest registration is in the First ward, with a total of 2,086 names on the poll books, with the Seventh a close second with a total of 1,919.

FORGOTTEN BY THE CANDIDATES

Many of Them Just Remembering Corrupt Practices Act.

The candidates have awakened to the fact that there is a corrupt practices act in effect in Minnesota. There was a strong demand for expense blanks at the city clerk's office this morning, and several candidates filed statements of their expenses.

The state law provides that each candidate or secretary of a personal campaign committee shall file with the filing office on the second Saturday after expense is incurred a statement of the expense, and a similar statement shall be filed on the second Saturday of each calendar month following, with a final statement summarizing all others, on the Saturday before election.

City Clerk C. S. Palmer is sending out notices to candidates today calling their attention to the law and instructing them to file their statements of expenditures.

The statements filed up to noon today show the following expenditures: Neil B. Morrison, $20.50; John Hogan, $43.58; W. B. Ardouin, $24.30; John T. Dunphy, $3.80; Alex Kennedy, $10; F. J. Voss, $5; J. W. Preston, $25.50; D. B. Stevens, $9.25; W. L. Bernard, $27; Frank Jordan, $17.50.

Some of the candidates were under the impression that the statements should be filed with the county auditor. The law provides that they shall be filed with the officer with whom the announcement of candidacy or nominating paper is filed.

HAVE UNITED TO SOUND CANDIDATES

Municipal League, Church Council and Stirrup Club Join Hands.

The postponed meeting of the Municipal Ownership league will be held at the council chamber in the city hall tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock and an interesting session is expected.

The league intends to take an active part in the campaign, supporting candidates favorable to municipal ownership and opposing those whose views do not accord with those of the league.

Presumably some of the candidates will be heard at the meeting tomorrow night. However, the meeting was called, not to hear candidates, but to lay plans for the campaign.

The Municipal Ownership league and the Men's Inter-Church council have united with the Stirrup club in sounding out the candidates for the commission. The Stirrup club sent out letters some time ago asking the candidates views on certain questions. It was announced that the answers would be opened to the Municipal Ownership league, which is interested in the same questions.

The executive committee of the Men's Inter-Church council has now sent a letter out to the candidates informing them that the council will have access to the answers to the Stirrup club questions, and urging them to send in their answers if they have not already done so.

The Stirrup club has received forty replies to its letters, and is now considering means of getting the answers before the public.

STRAW VOTE TAKEN IN CIGAR STORE

The result of a straw vote in a Superior street cigar store was posted this morning. First, second and third choices were added together, with the following result on mayor: Prince, 62; Silberstein, 47; Cullum, 33; McEwen, 28; Dowling, 22; Kaplan, 13; Nesbitt, 12; Day, 11; Getchell, 11.

For long term commissioner, Fred J. Voss led with 144, McCormick had 112, Armstead, 102; Merritt, 96, and Preston, 88.

For short term commissioner, Bert Farrell led with 98. W. A. Hicken had 42, Frank Jordan, 40, H. P. Curren, 36, and C. R. Hoar, 35. The other votes were badly scattered, J. W. Cumming, John A. MacDonell, Neil B. Morrison, J. C. Myron, O. G. Olson. W. H. Smallwood and D. E. Stevens each getting 20 or more.

Judge Cutting led Brown for special municipal judge by 53 to 27, and N. H. Wilson led the assistant municipal judge, getting 72 votes to 13 for H. W. Lanners and 11 for W. H. Gurnee.

JUDGES WILL GO TO SCHOOL

City Clerk Will Instruct Them on Details of New Ballot.

There will be a school for election judges at the city hall Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, March 25, 26 and 27.

City Clerk C. S. Palmer has arranged to hold the school of instruction and all men appointed as election judges will be urged to attend and receive detailed instructions as to the counting and reporting of the votes.

Unless the judges are thoroughly instructed the new ballots will make their task a most difficult one, but with adequate instructions they will be able to count and report them as easily as if there were no second and other choices.

Mr. Palmer will have large charts showing the ballot, the tally sheets and the blanks for reporting the vote. He will give a demonstration of the methods of counting best adapted to the new ballots and will impress upon the judges the need not only for accuracy, but for dispatch. On account of the fact that no election can be settled until all the precincts are reported, the judges will be urged to get their returns in as early as possible after the closing of the polls.

Campaign Committee.

O. J. Larson, campaign manager for W. I. Prince, candidate for mayor, announces the following members of Mr. Prince's personal campaign committee: J. L. Cromwell, F. J. Dacey, Jacob Jacobson, Dr. O. A. Oredson, Peter Grignon and D. L. Fairchild.

No speaking dates have yet been arranged for Mr. Prince, but he is conducting a personal campaign, meeting the voters as much as possible. He will give several speeches toward the end of the campaign, Mr. Larson says. Mr. Prince's headquarters have been opened on the first floor of the Torrey building and his campaign committee expects to conduct an aggressive campaign for his election.

Postpones Meeting.

W. E. McEwen, candidate for mayor, who was to have opened his campaign at Bricklayers' hall, in the West end tomorrow night, has postponed the meeting. Mr. McEwen says he will confine his speaking to the last week of the campaign and will content himself with personal work for the present.

CHARLES BOYLE, DULUTH PIONEER, IS SUMMONED

Charles Boyle, a pioneer of Duluth, and for years in the saloon and restaurant business here, is dead. The passing occurred at the hospital for the insane at Fergus Falls, where Mr. Boyle has been in charge for almost a year. The telegram announcing his death was received this morning by his sister, Mrs. Thomas Lannigan, of 517 West Fourth street; but what the funeral arrangements are, have not yet been decided. These will be announced later.

Surviving Mr. Boyle, who was 62 years of age and a widower, were Mrs. Thomas Lannigan and Mrs. Michael Lannigan, sisters, both of Duluth; and James Boyle, now living at Hibbing. Several nephews and nieces also survive him. His wife died some years ago.

"Charley" Boyle, as most people called him, came to Duluth in 1884, looked it over and then went South for a trip, but had his mind made up that this was the point where he wished to locate. Previous to this he was in business in Cincinnati and Indianapolis for some time, and was identified in business in Chicago for a number of years. He came back to Duluth in 1885 and entered the saloon and cafe business here. He sent for his brother, James Boyle, shortly afterwards, and in a short time and for many years "Boyle's" was known the continent over. It was recognized as "the" saloon and cafe of the West, and there are many who have traveled miles to spend a day here and get a steak at Boyle's. The bar was par excellence and was the "hang-out" for the city and the Northwest. His place at 317 and 319 West Superior street he occupied from October, 1887, to April 1911, after which he suffered softening of the brain and became a charge of the state.

"The ruling passion, strong in death" proved to be with him that of wanting and striving to pay his debts. When he was utterly incompetent, although it was not generally known at that time, he made his last loan, and those with whom he had dealt, knowing his integrity, let him have the money to rehabilitate himself. Instead of saving himself he started out to pay miscellaneous debts. That was the beginning of the end, for soon his creditors crowded down upon him and he succeeded by others.

"Charley" Boyle was one of Duluth's characters. Since his incarceration in the hospital for the insane at Fergus Falls, knowledge of his actual surroundings has been withheld from him. He imagined that he was in a hotel of large proportions but has never been satisfied, for some of the other guests at the hotel were objectionable for many reasons. His real friends never deserted him, and had there been any possible show to recover his usually adroit mental faculties would doubtless have stood back of him in a recovery of business. But it was ordained otherwise, and those who liked him—and there were many—grieve today for the passing of an exceptional character and an exceptional friend.

He was a member of the local lodge of Elks up to the time that his mind became weakened, but it is expected that the Elks will take charge of his remains, for the local lodge, it is said, has been indebted to him in many ways, and sometimes in a financial way during its young and struggling years.

CHARLES BOYLE.

NOTICE!

Owing to the fire which destroyed our building on Sunday morning, all orders and communications will be received at the old Hammond Packing Company building, 110 West Michigan street, until further notice. All business will be taken care of and all orders filled in the same prompt manner as in the past. Respectfully,

Peyton Paper Company Duluth, Minn.

M. B. PEYTON, PRESIDENT.

Railroads

RAILROAD DEAL AGAIN REVIVED

Rumor Again Current Great Northern Has Bought N. P. Branch.

Carrington, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The shipment of 5,000 grade stakes by the Great Northern to this point has caused a revival of the rumors that the Great Northern has purchased the Turtle Lake branch of the Northern Pacific and will build west to Lewistown, Mont., through this route rather than carry out its original plans to start from New Rockford. Residents of Carrington who have contended all the time that the line would be started from here regard the shipment of the stakes as strongly confirmatory.

Going From New Rockford.

New Rockford, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The announcement has been made here that the Great Northern will carry out its original plans and construct the Lewistown branch from here. For a time there was some doubt because of the difficulties over the right-of-way across the Berthold reservation, but these matters have been adjusted with the Federal officials at Washington and the road will now be hurried to completion. For awhile, where there was some doubt about the matter, the officials thought of purchasing the Turtle Lake line of the Northern Pacific and building through Carrington, but it is now officially stated that idea has been abandoned entirely.

Becoming convinced that the Great Northern line to Lewistown, Mont., will run from New Rockford, representatives of the J. I. Case company, who had planned to construct a branch house here, will locate here. The change of plans is due to the conclusion this point affords the greater opportunities.

BRIDGE TO BE BUILT.

Great Northern Officials Confirm Reported Fargo Plans.

Fargo, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Vice President Gruber, General Manager Emerson, General Supt. Bell and other officials of the Great Northern railway, spent part of Sunday here and the report that the company will construct shops and a new bridge over Red river at Fargo was confirmed. The shops will be on the west side of the city. The cutoff between here and Minot will be made the main line and will eventually be double-tracked.

ST. ANTHONY, N. D., IS AFTER MILWAUKEE LINE.

Mandan, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two business men of St. Anthony, Morton county, have gone to Chicago, where they will appear before officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad in an effort to secure an extension of that company's lines through the southern part of the county, from Freda to St. Anthony. Anthony Damsky and J. Lantz are carrying the petition of the St. Anthony district residents.

The Mandan Commercial club has also been working on this proposition, seeking an extension of the Milwaukee from Freda to Mandan, by way of St. Anthony. The territory that would be tapped by this extension is very rich, being of the finest in Southwestern North Dakota.

ANOTHER HEARING ON GRAIN RATE CASE.

There will be another hearing on the Duluth grain rate case before Chairman Clark of the interstate commerce commission at Washington Thursday, March 27. Traffic Commissioner G. Roy Hall of the Commercial club and Secretary C. F. Macdonald of the Duluth Board of Trade will probably attend.

The tariffs published by the railroads in response to the order of the commission were suspended by the commission on application of Chicago and Milwaukee people, who protest against increases to those cities. The Duluth people are interested in the maintenance of the distance relation, as between Duluth and the Lake Michigan ports, and will contend that any reduction in the rates to Chicago and Milwaukee should also be reflected in the Duluth rates.

CHICKENS FOR ITS DINING CARS.

The Northern Pacific dining car service has, for Easter week, put on unique decorations in the various dining cars.

On the buffet of each car will be a miniature poultry yard. The chickens will be alive and one of them over a week old. As many as possible will not be over a day old for the supply will be replenished as often as can be arranged for. This started yesterday and each dining car of the road had 1-day-old chickens. This will be carried on all week.

The poultry yard will be surrounded with the regulation wire fence and brooding yards will be maintained. It will be a farm-yard scene in the miniature as nearly as can be reproduced. These little chicks—at least those that have been seen in Duluth—are alive and very, very fussy, for they have special attendants and are fed with care. The way they fight for the provender is very amusing.

Has New Line of Stories.

A. M. Thompson, traveling passenger agent of the Erie, with headquarters in St. Paul, is here today. He has been in Elmira, N. Y., at a meeting of the traveling passenger agents of the system for some days and has just returned.

Mr. Thompson is noted as a raconteur and while in Elmira learned a lot more. Not content with that acquisition he went on to Gotham and there learned such a fund of new ones or those refurbished that he had come back lop-sided with the renewal. He is here today getting a line on business.

HOW TO CARE FOR BABY.

Dr. William B. Griggs in the Philadelphia North American: Do not handle the baby any more than possible.

Keep him warm by proper clothing, having the clothes so made as not to obstruct his movements.

Bathe the eyes with a weak solution of boric acid, using raw cotton.

See that the baby gets the proper amount of sleep.

Do not overfeed the child, as more children die from overfeeding than underfeeding.

Keep the scalp clean.

Spray the throat with a nasal syringe.

Do not expose the child to contagious diseases.

Ruptured People Give This a 60-Day Trial

Only Thing Good Enough To Stand Such a Thorough Test

Here is something you can try sixty days—just as a test—without having to risk a cent—

Something which in the last twenty-four years has saved thousands of ruptured people from having to undergo operation.

Something so strengthening to the ruptured parts that you can work right along without the slightest danger—

Something absolutely guaranteed to keep rupture from coming out—if it doesn't, it will cost you absolutely nothing.

You Don't Have to Risk a Penny

We don't ask you to pay out a penny on the strength of any mere promise or claims.

We will make you a guaranteed rupture holder especially for your case—make it to your measure—and let you try it sixty days.

Let you give it a thorough test without asking you to risk a cent.

If it doesn't keep your rupture from coming out or bothering you in any way—if it doesn't prove every claim we make—then you can send it back and it won't cost you a penny.

See What It Does

This guaranteed rupture holder—the famous Cluthe Automatic Massaging Truss—is made on an absolutely new principle. It is far more than just a truss.

You see this truss—unlike all others—is self-adjusting, self-regulating.

The support it gives automatically increases when there is any sudden movement or strain—as in working—so no strain can force your rupture out.

And, in addition, the Cluthe Truss provides the only way ever discovered for overcoming the weakness which is the real cause of rupture.

Just how it does that—entirely automatically—is all explained in our free book.

300,000 People Have Tested It

The Cluthe Truss has such a remarkably strengthening and beneficial effect that it has cured some of the worst cases on record—

Among them men and women 50 to 70 years old, who had been ruptured from 20 to 50 years.

Cured many of them after everything else, including operation, had failed to do any good.

No Belt—No Leg-Straps—No Springs

The Cluthe Truss does away entirely with belts, leg-straps and springs. People who have tried it say it is as comfortable as their clothing. It is waterproof—will hold in the bath. Also perspiration-proof and easily kept clean.

Get World's Greatest Rupture Book

So that you can judge for yourself, we want to send you a free book we have written—a clothbound book of advice. People who have read it—including physicians—say it is the best book ever written on Rupture.

It sums up all we have learned about rupture in forty years of day-after-day experience. It deals with rupture in all its forms and stages. Explains the dangers of operations. Shows why wearing elastic or spring trusses is sooner or later almost sure to shorten your life. And it exposes the humbug "appliances," "methods," "plasters," etc. Puts you on guard against throwing money away.

It shows why 60-days trial is the only safe way to buy anything for rupture, and how the Cluthe Truss is the only thing you can get on such a long trial, because the only thing good enough to stand such a thorough test.

And it tells all about the Cluthe Truss—how it ends constant expense—how you can try it 60 days, and how little it costs if you keep it.

It tells—in their own words—the experience of many former sufferers—gives their names and addresses—perhaps you know some of them.

5,000 voluntary endorsements sent with the book.

Write for it today—don't put it off—this book may be the means of adding many years to your life and of restoring you to full strength and usefulness.

City Clerk C. S. Palmer is sending out notices to candidates today calling their attention to the law and instructing them to file their statements of expenditures.

The statements filed up to noon today show the following expenditures: Neil B. Morrison, $20.50; John Hogan, $43.58; W. B. Ardouin, $24.30; John T. Dunphy, $3.50; Alex Kennedy, $10; F. J. Voss, $5; J. W. Preston, $25.50; D. E. Stevens, $9.25; W. L. Bernard, $27; Frank Jordan, $17.50.

Some of the candidates were under the impression that the statements should be filed with the county auditor. The law provides that they shall be filed with the officer with whom the announcement of candidacy or nominating paper is filed.

HAVE UNITED TO SOUND CANDIDATES

Municipal League, Church Council and Stirrup Club Join Hands.

The postponed meeting of the Municipal Ownership league will be held at the council chamber in the city hall tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock and an interesting session is expected.

The league intends to take an active part in the campaign, supporting candidates favorable to municipal ownership and opposing those whose views do not accord with those of the league.

Presumably some of the candidates will be heard at the meeting tomorrow night. However, the meeting was called, not to hear candidates, but to lay plans for the campaign.

The Municipal Ownership league and the Men's Inter-Church council have united with the Stirrup club in sounding out the candidates for the commission. The Stirrup club sent out letters some time ago asking the candidates views on certain questions. It was announced that the answers would be opened to the Municipal Ownership league, which is interested in the same questions.

The executive committee of the Men's Inter-Church council has now sent a letter out to the candidates informing them that the council will have access to the answers to the Stirrup club questions, and urging them to send in their answers if they have not already done so.

The Stirrup club has received forty replies to its letters, and is now considering means of getting the answers before the public.

STRAW VOTE TAKEN IN CIGAR STORE

The result of a straw vote in a Superior street cigar store was posted this morning. First, second and third choices were added together, with the following result on mayor: Prince, 62; Fay, 52; Silberstein, 47; Cullum, 33; McEwen, 28; Dowling, 22; Kaplan, 13; Nesbitt, 12; Day, 11; Getchell, 11.

For long term commissioner, Fred J. Voss led with 144, McCormick had 112, Olmstead, 102; Merritt, 96, and Preston, 88.

For short term commissioner, Bert Farrell led with 98, W. A. Hicken had 42, Frank Jordan, 40, H. P. Curren, 36, and C. R. Hoar, 35. The other votes were badly scattered. J. W. Cumming, John A. MacDonell, Neil B. Morrison, J. C. Myron, O. G. Olson, W. H. Smallwood and D. E. Stevens each getting 20 or more.

Judge Cutting led Brown for special municipal judge by 53 to 27, and N. H. Wilson led the assistant municipal judge, getting 72 votes to 13 for H. W. Canners and 11 for W. H. Gurnee.

JUDGES WILL GO TO SCHOOL

City Clerk Will Instruct Them on Details of New Ballot.

There will be a school for election judges at the city hall Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, March 25, 26 and 27.

City Clerk C. S. Palmer has arranged to hold the school of instruction and all men appointed as election judges will be urged to attend and receive detailed instructions as to the counting and reporting of the votes.

Unless the judges are thoroughly instructed the new ballots will make their task a most difficult one, but with adequate instructions they will be able to count and report them as easily as if there were no second and other choices.

Mr. Palmer will have large charts showing the ballot, the tally sheets and the blanks for reporting the vote. He will give a demonstration of the methods of counting best adapted to the new ballots and will impress upon the judges the need not only for accuracy, but for dispatch. On account of the fact that no election can be settled until all the precincts are reported, the judges will be urged to get their returns in as early as possible after the closing of the polls.

Campaign Committee.

O. J. Larson, campaign manager for W. I. Prince, candidate for mayor, announces the following members of Mr. Prince's personal campaign committee: J. L. Cromwell, F. J. Dacey, Jacob Jacobson, Dr. O. A. Oredson, Peter Grignon and D. L. Fairchild.

No speaking dates have yet been arranged for Mr. Prince, but he is conducting a personal campaign, meeting the voters as much as possible. He will give several speeches toward the end of the campaign, Mr. Larson says. Mr. Prince's headquarters have been opened on the first floor of the Torrey building and his campaign committee expects to conduct an aggressive campaign for his election.

Postpones Meeting.

W. E. McEwen, candidate for mayor, who was to have opened his campaign at Bricklayers' hall, in the West end tomorrow night, has postponed the meeting. Mr. McEwen says he will confine his speaking to the last week of the campaign and will content himself with personal work for the present.

Railroads

RAILROAD DEAL AGAIN REVIVED

Rumor Again Current Great Northern Has Bought N. P. Branch.

Carrington, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The shipment of 5,000 grade stakes by the Great Northern to this point has caused a revival of the rumors that the Great Northern has purchased the Turtle Lake branch of the Northern Pacific and will build west to Lewistown, Mont., through this route rather than carry out its original plans to start from New Rockford. Residents of Carrington who have contended all the time that the line would be started from here regard the shipment of the stakes as strongly confirmatory.

Going From New Rockford.

New Rockford, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The announcement has been made here that the Great Northern will carry out its original plans and construct the Lewistown branch from here. For a time there was some doubt because of the difficulties over the right-of-way across the Berthold reservation, but these matters have been adjusted with the Federal officials at Washington and the road will now be hurried to completion. For awhile, where there was some doubt about the matter, the officials thought of purchasing the Turtle Lake line of the Northern Pacific and building through Carrington, but it is now officially stated that idea has been abandoned entirely.

Becoming convinced that the Great Northern line to Lewistown, Mont., will run from New Rockford, representatives of the J. I. Case company, who had planned to construct a branch house here, will locate here. The change of plans is due to the conclusion this point affords the greater opportunities.

CHARLES BOYLE, DULUTH PIONEER, IS SUMMONED

Charles Boyle, a pioneer of Duluth, and for years in the saloon and restaurant business here, is dead. The passing occurred at the hospital for the insane at Fergus Falls, where Mr. Boyle has been in charge for almost a year. The telegram announcing his death was received this morning by his sister, Mrs. Thomas Lannigan, of 517 West Fourth street; but what the funeral arrangements are, have not yet been decided. These will be announced later.

Surviving Mr. Boyle, who was 62 years of age and a widower, were Mrs. Thomas Lannigan and Mrs. Michael Lannigan, sisters, both of Duluth; and James Boyle, now living at Hibbing. Several nephews and nieces also survive him. His wife died some years ago.

"Charley" Boyle, as most people called him, came to Duluth in 1884, looked it over and then went South for a trip, but had his mind made up that this was the point where he wished to locate. Previous to this he was in business in Cincinnati and Indianapolis for some time, and was identified in business in Chicago for a number of years. He came back to Duluth in 1885 and entered the saloon and cafe business here. He sent for his brother, James Boyle, shortly afterwards, and in a short time and for many years "Boyle's" was known the continent over. It was recognized as "the" saloon and cafe of the West, and there are many who have traveled miles to spend a day here and get a steak at Boyle's. The bar was par excellence and was the "hang-out" for the city and the Northwest. His place at 317 and 319 West Superior street he occupied from October, 1887, to April 1911, after which he suffered softening of the brain and became a charge of the state.

"The ruling passion, strong in death" proved to be with him that of wanting and striving to pay his debts. When he was utterly incompetent, although it was not generally known at that time, he made his last loan, and those with whom he had dealt, knowing his integrity, let him have the money to rehabilitate himself. Instead of saving himself he started out to pay miscellaneous debts. That was the beginning of the end, for soon his creditors crowded down upon him and he succeeded by others.

"Charley" Boyle was one of Duluth's characters. Since his incarceration in the hospital for the insane at Fergus Falls, knowledge of his actual surroundings has been withheld from him. He imagined that he was in a hotel of large proportions but has never been satisfied, for some of the other guests at the hotel were objectionable for many reasons. His real friends never deserted him, and had there been any possible show to recover his usually adroit mental faculties would doubtless have stood back of him in a recovery of business. But it was ordained otherwise, and those who liked him—and there were many—grieve today for the passing of an exceptional character and an exceptional friend.

He was a member of the local lodge of Elks up to the time that his mind became weakened, but it is expected that the Elks will take charge of his remains, for the local lodge, it is said, has been indebted to him in many ways, and sometimes in a financial way during its young and struggling years.

CHARLES BOYLE.

NOTICE!

Owing to the fire which destroyed our building on Sunday morning, all orders and communications will be received at the old Hammond Packing Company building, 110 West Michigan street, until further notice. All business will be taken care of and all orders filled in the same prompt manner as in the past. Respectfully,

Peyton Paper Company Duluth, Minn.

M. B. PEYTON, PRESIDENT.

BRIDGE TO BE BUILT.

Great Northern Officials Confirm Reported Fargo Plans.

Fargo, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Vice President Gruber, General Manager Emerson, General Supt. Bell and other officials of the Great Northern railway, spent part of Sunday here and the report that the company will construct shops and a new bridge over Red river at Fargo was confirmed. The shops will be on the west side of the city. The cutoff between here and Minot will be made the main line and will eventually be double-tracked.

ST. ANTHONY, N. D., IS AFTER MILWAUKEE LINE.

Mandan, N. D., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two business men of St. Anthony, Morton county, have gone to Chicago, where they will appear before officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad in an effort to secure an extension of that company's lines through the southern part of the county, from Freda to St. Anthony. Anthony Damsky and J. Lantz are carrying the petition of the St. Anthony district residents.

The Mandan Commercial club has also been working on this proposition, seeking an extension of the Milwaukee from Freda to Mandan, by way of St. Anthony. The territory that would be tapped by this extension is very rich, being of the finest in Southwestern North Dakota.

ANOTHER HEARING ON GRAIN RATE CASE.

There will be another hearing on the Duluth grain rate case before Chairman Clark of the interstate commerce commission at Washington Thursday, March 27. Traffic Commissioner G. Roy Hall of the Commercial club and Secretary C. F. Macdonald of the Duluth Board of Trade will probably attend.

The tariffs published by the railroads in response to the order of the commission were suspended by the commission on application of Chicago and Milwaukee people, who protest against increases to those cities. The Duluth people are interested in the maintenance of the distance relation, as between Duluth and the Lake Michigan ports, and will contend that any reduction in the rates to Chicago and Milwaukee should also be reflected in the Duluth rates.

CHICKENS FOR ITS DINING CARS.

The Northern Pacific dining car service has, for Easter week, put on unique decorations in the various dining cars.

On the buffet of each car will be a miniature poultry yard. The chickens will be alive and one of them over a week old. As many as possible will not be over a day old for the supply will be replenished as often as can be arranged for. This started yesterday and each dining car of the road had 1-day-old chickens. This will be carried on all week.

The poultry yard will be surrounded with the regulation wire fence and brooding yards will be maintained. It will be a farm-yard scene in the miniature as nearly as can be reproduced. These little chicks—at least those that have been seen in Duluth—are alive and very, very fussy, for they have special attendants and are fed with care. The way they fight for the provender is very amusing.

Has New Line of Stories.

A. M. Thompson, traveling passenger agent of the Erie, with headquarters in St. Paul, is here today. He has been in Elmira, N. Y., at a meeting of the traveling passenger agents of the system for some days and has just returned.

Mr. Thompson is noted as a raconteur and while in Elmira learned a lot more. Not content with that acquisition he went on to Gotham and there learned such a fund of new ones or those refurbished that he had come back top-sided with the renewal. He is here today getting a line on business.

HOW TO CARE FOR BABY.

Dr. William B. Griggs in the Philadelphia North American: Do not handle the baby any more than possible.

Keep him warm by proper clothing, having the clothes so made as not to obstruct his movements.

Bathe the eyes with a weak solution of boric acid, using raw cotton.

See that the baby gets the proper amount of sleep.

Do not overfeed the child, as more children die from overfeeding than underfeeding.

Keep the scalp clean.

Spray the throat with a nasal syringe.

Do not expose the child to contagious diseases.

Ruptured People Give This a 60-Day Trial

Only Thing Good Enough To Stand Such a Thorough Test

Here is something you can try sixty days—just as a test—without having to risk a cent—

Something which in the last twenty-four years has saved thousands of ruptured people from having to undergo operation.

Something so strengthening to the ruptured parts that you can work right along without the slightest danger—

Something absolutely guaranteed to keep rupture from coming out—if it doesn't, it will cost you absolutely nothing.

You Don't Have to Risk a Penny

We don't ask you to pay out a penny on the strength of any mere promise or claims.

We will make you a guaranteed rupture holder especially for your case—make it to your measure—and let you try it sixty days.

Let you give it a thorough test without asking you to risk a cent.

If it doesn't keep your rupture from coming out or bothering you in any way—if it doesn't prove every claim we make—then you can send it back and it won't cost you a penny.

See What It Does

This guaranteed rupture holder—the famous Cluthe Automatic Massaging Truss—is made on an absolutely new principle. It is far more than just a truss.

You see this truss—unlike all others—is self-adjusting, self-regulating.

The support it gives automatically increases when there is any sudden movement or strain—as in working—so no strain can force your rupture out.

And, in addition, the Cluthe Truss provides the only way ever discovered for overcoming the weakness which is the real cause of rupture.

Just how it does that—entirely automatically—is all explained in our free book.

300,000 People Have Tested It

The Cluthe Truss has such a remarkably strengthening and beneficial effect that it has cured some of the worst cases on record—

Among them men and women 50 to 70 years old, who had been ruptured from 20 to 50 years.

Cured many of them after everything else, including operation, had failed to do any good.

No Belt—No Leg-Straps—No Springs

The Cluthe Truss does away entirely with belts, leg-straps and springs. People who have tried it say it is as comfortable as their clothing. It is waterproof—will hold in the bath. Also perspiration-proof and easily kept clean.

Get World's Greatest Rupture Book

So that you can judge for yourself, we want to send you a free book we have written—a clothbound book of advice. People who have read it—including physicians—say it is the best book ever written on Rupture.

It sums up all we have learned about rupture in forty years of day-after-day experience. It deals with rupture in all its forms and stages. Explains the dangers of operations. Shows why wearing elastic or spring trusses is sooner or later almost sure to shorten your life. And it exposes the humbug "appliances," "methods," "plasters," etc. Puts you on guard against throwing money away.

It shows why 60-days trial is the only safe way to buy anything for rupture, and how the Cluthe Truss is the only thing you can get on such a long trial, because the only thing good enough to stand such a thorough test.

And it tells all about the Cluthe Truss—how it ends constant expense—how you can try it 60 days, and how little it costs if you keep it.

It tells—in their own words—the experience of many former sufferers—gives their names and addresses—perhaps you know some of them.

5,000 voluntary endorsements sent with the book.

Write for it today—don't put it off—this book may be the means of adding many years to your life and of restoring you to full strength and usefulness.

LAST TRIBUTE TO R. S. MUNGER

Simple Funeral Services Held at Pilgrim Congregational Church.

Old time friends of Roger S. Munger filled Pilgrim Congregational church this afternoon to pay their last tribute to the man whom they had loved and revered for so many years.

The funeral services for Mr. Munger were very simple, and consisted chiefly of music. Rev. C. N. Thorp spoke very briefly but feelingly of Mr. Munger's life and achievements.

The pall bearers were: E. W. Matter, George A. Gray, Russell R. Gray, N. J. Upham, T. F. Upham, and Dwight E. Woodbridge.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

In these days of woeful 'plaints about lumberjacks and alleged lumberjacks jumping from one camp to another, the impression might be gained that none of them ever accumulate the rolls which they used to blow in in the spring with free and lavish hand.

The days when the jacks came in from the pines and the drives with their clothes lined with green plush have been handed down to history in song and story. The wild debauches and the bloody fights and the feats of strength and skill are written in indelible records. They are linked with past times which are gone forever from this neck of the woods.

But woodsmen still will come into Duluth with considerable cash in their jeans, scores of them. Like the first robin, their appearance is one of the signs of spring. Wherefore spring must be here, for the forerunners of the horde are making their presence known.

Saturday two of them were picked up by the police. When they were searched by the jailer money came from every pocket. They had greenbacks plastered all over them. One had a wad of the long green totalling $106 and the other was carrying $110 of the stuff which is credited with being the root of all evil.

Being picked up by the police may have been the means of saving their coin for them. For bundles and bundles of past experience has shown that once they fall into the hands of some of the sharks infesting the Bowery district they get a short shift for their coin. "Get the sucker stiff, dope or strong arm or any old way, and roll him," is the way the old policeman summed it up, and it about tells the story.

In the next chapter the victim wakes up with a head which feels as though it were splitting in six or a dozen directions at once and the unfortunate is lucky if he can scrape together the price of an "eye-opener" and a bite at the nearest beanery.

Martin Hanson fell to the sidewalk near First avenue east and Superior street yesterday and was stunned. He was taken to the station, where he was examined by the police surgeon. He had a couple of bad bruises, but was not otherwise hurt, and was taken to his home at 618 Ninth avenue east.

Axel Makinen was brought to Duluth from Floodwood this morning by Deputy Sheriff King. He was arraigned in police court on a charge of robbing Gust Hermanson of $80. He didn't know whether he wanted an examination or not, and his hearing was set for Thursday afternoon.

A warrant was issued this morning for the arrest of Nellie Blaine, keeper of a notorious St. Croix alley dive, and she will be arraigned in police court this afternoon. The Blaine woman is charged by Isaac Maki with keeping a vicious dog. Maki claims that the mongrel bit him when he was passing her dive Saturday night.

Seymour Washington got F. W. Williams' "goat" when he threatened to "beat him up" Saturday. It appears that the two colored gentlemen are not on friendly terms, and Williams claims that Washington even went so far as to threaten to kill him when they had a word battle last Saturday. Williams proceeded to seek protection under the wing of the law, and caused Washington's arrest for a breach of the peace. Washington protested his innocence in police court this morning, but he was not able to convince the judge that he hadn't scared Williams. Washington said that he would get out of town, and the case was continued until this afternoon for disposition.

Pearl McDonald, alias Victoria de Rosier, didn't leave for other parts when she was given a chance to do so after being convicted in police court Friday of residing in a house of ill-fame. Saturday night Pearl and her sweetheart, James R. Coakley, were found together in a downtown hotel.

Pearl had a sentence of $50 and costs or sixty days hanging over her head when she was given her opportunity to leave for other parts and she was committed on the old charge without being brought into court. The sentence is the minimum provided for that offense under the ordinance. Coakley pleaded guilty to a disorderly allegation and got $20 and costs or twenty days over the hill. Pearl is 30 years old and Coakley is five years her junior.

In police court last week Pearl declared that Coakley was trying to reform her by taking her from the confines of the underworld. But she didn't know whether or not she would marry him, explaining that in these days of wickedness a girl has to be pretty careful before she ties up to a mere male for life. Incidentally it appeared that Pearl had been married once before but had not heard from her hubby for nine years.

Louis William Peterson was arrested this morning on a charge of non-support. He pleaded guilty, admitting that he had not lived with his wife for four or five years. His case was continued until 2 o'clock for disposition.

A man believed to be Theodore Peterson of Ironwood, Mich., from a name and address written in a memorandum book in his pocket was found dead in bed in the Bethel this morning. He appeared to be 24 or 25 years old. He seemed to be in good health when he secured his room there last night. The body was removed to the undertaking rooms of C. J. Stewart, where a post mortem examination will be made to determine the cause of death. There were no indications of suicide.

CITY BRIEFS

Says Rate Was Excessive.

The Duluth Iron & Metal company has filed a complaint with the interstate commerce commission at Washington alleging overcharges of $1,242 against the Northern Pacific and other railroads. It is charged that on shipments of scrap iron from Duluth to Breckenridge, Minn., the railroads charged 36½ cents per 100 pounds, whereas the lawful rate was $4.79 per long ton.

NO APPOINTMENTS FOR THE PRESENT

President Does Not Intend to Make Any Until Congress Convenes.

Washington, March 17.—President Wilson does not expect to announce any more appointments until the extra session of congress convenes April 7, unless some extraordinary occasion demands it. The president does not believe it necessary to make recess appointments with a session of congress only a few weeks off. Before April 7 he is expected to select men for most of the important posts he has to fill and their names will be put before the new senate then.

ACTORS WILL SPEND HOLY WEEK IN DULUTH

In keeping with his rule, Mort H. Singer of Chicago has arranged for the members of "The Modern Eve" company to spend the holy week in Duluth.

The company, fifty strong, arrived in Duluth yesterday and will spend the week here visiting and enjoying the outer beauties of the city. The regular engagement of the company does not begin until next Sunday.

With the company are Charles Thall, manager, and A. A. Pearson, personal representative of Mort H. Singer of Chicago, owner of the production. Mr. Singer has made it a point never to book his shows during holy week and as a result about fifteen of his companies are this week lying idle.

No Evidence of Foul Play.

Southampton, Eng., March 17.—The post-mortem examination today of the body of Frances Leslie, the young American actress who was found dead Saturday on board the steamship Oceanic, showed that death was due to an attack of epilepsy. There was no evidence of foul play.

If you are "easily satisfied" with your boarding place, it will not be long before nothing else will matter much, either.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION —OF— E. A. DAHL & COMPANY.

We, the undersigned, do hereby associate ourselves together and agree upon the following Certificate, for the purpose of forming a corporation under the provisions of Chapter 58, Revised Laws 1905, of the State of Minnesota, and acts amendatory thereof, and for that purpose have organized by adopting and signing the following Certificate of Incorporation:

Article I. The name of this corporation shall be "E. A. DAHL & COMPANY." The principal place where the business of this corporation is to be transacted is Duluth, Minnesota. The general nature of the business of this corporation shall be,

(a). To conduct and carry on the business of builders and contractors for the purpose of building, erecting, altering, repairing or doing any other work in connection with any and all classes of buildings and improvements of every kind and nature whatsoever, including the building, rebuilding, alteration, repairing or improvement of houses, factories, buildings, works, structures or erections of every kind and description whatsoever, including the locating, laying out, constructing and repairing of roads, avenues, docks, slips, sewers, bridges, wells, walls, canals, sidewalks, floors, pavements, railroads or street railways, power plants, and generally in all classes of buildings, structures, erections and works, both public and private, or integral parts thereof, and to perform engineering and architectural work, including the preparation of plans and specifications in expert work, as acting and consulting and superintendent engineers and architects, and generally to do and perform any and all works as builders and contractors, and with that end in view, to solicit, obtain, make, perform and carry out contracts covering the building and contracting business and the work connected therewith.

(b). To manufacture, buy, sell, trade and deal in all and every kind of material and product, manufactured or unmanufactured, iron, steel, wood, brick, cement, lime, plaster, concrete, artificial stone, stone and paving materials of all kinds, and other products and materials, including the quarrying of stone, to buy, acquire, hold, use, employ, make, convey, lease and dispose of patent rights, letters patent, processes, devices, inventions, trademarks, formulas, good will and other rights; to conduct, acquire, buy, hold, own, maintain, work, develop, sell, convey, lease, mortgage, exchange, improve and otherwise deal in and dispose of real estate and real property or any interest or rights therein without limit as to amount; to lend money on bonds or notes secured by mortgage, and real property, and to advance from time to time on bonds or notes secured by mortgage for future advance on real estate, but nothing herein set forth shall give or be construed to give this corporation any banking powers.

(c). To purchase, conduct and lease, or in exchange, hire or otherwise acquire any real or personal property, rights or privileges, suitable or convenient for any of the purposes of the business hereinbefore set forth, and to purchase, acquire, erect and construct, make improvement of buildings or machinery stores or works, in so far as the same may be appurtenant to or useful for the conduct of the business as above specified, but only to the extent to which this corporation may be authorized by the statutes of this state under which it is incorporated.

Article II. The time of the commencement of this corporation shall be March 20, 1913, and the period of its continuance shall be thirty (30) years thereafter.

Article III. The amount of the capital stock of this corporation shall be Fifty Thousand ($50,000) Dollars, divided into Five Hundred (500) shares of the par value of One Hundred ($100) Dollars each, which shall be paid in in cash or any other property, at such times, in such manner, and in such amounts as the Board of Directors shall determine.

Article IV. The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which this corporation shall at any time be subject shall be the sum of Fifty Thousand ($50,000) Dollars.

Article V. The names and places of residence of the persons forming this corporation are as follows: E. A. Dahl, R. Robertson and R. M. Hughes, all of Duluth, Minnesota.

Article VI. The names of the first Board of Directors of this corporation are: E. A. Dahl, J. A. Robertson and R. M. Hughes, who shall hold their offices until the first annual meeting of the stockholders, which shall be held at Duluth, Minnesota, on March 20, 1913, at eleven o'clock a. m., and thereafter such annual meeting shall be held on the second Tuesday in January in each year. The government of this corporation, and the management of all of its affairs, shall be vested in a board of three (3) directors, who shall be stockholders of this corporation, and who shall be elected annually at the stockholders' annual meeting. There shall also be the following officers, who shall have such powers, and perform such duties as may be prescribed by the Board of Directors, and who shall be elected annually at the meeting of said board immediately following the annual meeting of the stockholders; a President, Secretary and a Treasurer, no two of such offices can be held by the same person. The Board of Directors may create such other offices, with such powers and duties as to them may seem advisable.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, we have hereunto set our hands and seals this 11th day of March, A. D. 1913.

WHEAT DROPS STILL LOWER

Report of Large Decrease in American Visible Fails to Boost.

Trade in Flaxseed Is More Active—Prices Change But Little.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 17.—Wheat worked lower today on the markets of North America in spite of the report of the large decrease in the American visible supply. There was no demand, either foretgn or domestic, sufficient to sustain prices. Duluth May wheat today closed ½c lower. Duluth cash wheat closed 1½ to 2c under May. Durum, oats, barley and ryo closed unchanged. Duluth May and July flaxseed today closed ¼c higher.

The report of a substantial decrease in the American visible wheat supply today failed to bull the market. On the contrary it went lower than it has been at any previous time this year. The decrease was largely in the stocks at Buffalo, the movement of which to the Atlantic seaboard for export was pretty much in fulfillment of old contracts. The export demand for wheat was very poor. The domestic demand was also quite slack.

Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at 86c bid, opened today at the same figure bid, and at noon was quoted at 84¾c asked. There were lower quotations also at Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg.

Liverpool wheat closed unchanged to ½d lower. The market was affected by liberal Plata offers and large world shipments to the United Kingdom, but the price was steadied by an improved demand from the continent.

Flax is Steady.

The Duluth flaxseed market this morning was fairly steady with an improved volume of trading. There was a scattered buying demand and the offers were fairly liberal. Duluth May seed at noon today was unchanged and July was ⅛c higher. The price of cash seed at Minneapolis at noon was 2¼c under Duluth May. Winnipeg May seed at noon was ½c off at $1.11¼, being just 16c under Duluth May. Buenos Ayres May Saturday night closed unchanged at $1.21¾. London-Calcutta March today closed unchanged at $1.37¼.

FLAXSEED.

All last week the flaxseed market of Duluth was very narrow. Buyers were conservative and offers were not heavy. The narrowness of the trading made the quotations quite sensitive to slight influences. During the week the price of cash flaxseed at Duluth advanced ½c to ¾c, while the May price went up 1c. The price of Winnipeg May during the same week advanced 1½c. The margin between the Duluth and Winnipeg May prices diminished from 16½c to 16c. All last week Winnipeg May flaxseed was too low for exportation into the United States for American consumption, a margin of at least 17c is necessary for such a movement.

"From the standpoint of the grain dealers in Minneapolis," writes a correspondent in that city, "the wheat situation looks bearish in the extreme. The Minneapolis steel elevators are pretty well filled. The elevator men are not encouraging the country people to send any more wheat, but of course all wheat will be taken at some price when it arrives. From all that I can learn I am of the opinion that the elevator companies still have a great deal of room in which to store grain in their old frame elevators, but they only use these as a last resort, for the insurance companies charge heavy premiums on grain that is stored in such unsafe places. Of course the companies cannot give such high prices for the grain, when it has to be put away in such places, where there is a much greater expense of keeping it. I am told that some of the modern elevators are considered as safe, that the cost of storing and using them, do not have the grain that is stored away in them insured at all, considering the risk so remote that insurance is not worth while.

"The Minneapolis mills have large stocks of wheat, and they are not eager buyers. Their flour sales have not been large of late. During the past month the flour business has been rather dull, but for several months before that the quantity of wheat ground at Minneapolis was prodigious. It seems that the country is well stocked up everywhere with both wheat and flour and I can see little in the situation to give the bulls any hope for the immediate future.

"Some people a few weeks ago were looking forward to a dry spring in South Dakota and adjacent parts of Minnesota, but lately there has been a great deal of precipitation through that region and the ground must be pretty well soaked. Here is another bearish factor. South Dakota is frequently dry—I am talking about water—but it looks now as if the ground would contain plenty of moisture for the crop of this year. Of course there is still plenty of time for a big change, by the recent severe weather and the lack of snow covering. Weather is now seasonable. An early opening of navigation is expected.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Overselling of Pit Traders Causes Wheat Prices to Harden.

Chicago, March 17.—Wheat prices hardened today because pit traders were apparently oversold. This was especially the case in the May option. Liverpool reports of improved demand from the continent tended to help the bulls. Opening prices were ¼@¾c lower to ⅛@⅜c higher. May started at 88½c to 88⅜@88¾c, varying from ⅛c lower to ⅛@¼c advance and rose to 88⅞c.

Large world shipments and heavy primary receipts checked the advance which was due partly to a liberal decrease in the visible supply. The close was nervous with May ⅜c net lower at 88¼c.

Corn developed a heavy tone owing to slackness of demand. May opened unchanged to ⅛c up at 51½c to 51⅝@51⅝c and fell to 51⅜c but reacted to 51⅝@51⅜c.

Covering by shorts led to a subsequent advance. The close was firm at 51¾c for May, a net loss of ⅛c.

Liquidation on the part of holders weakened oats. May started a sixteenth to ⅛c off at 32@32⅛c to 32⅛@32¼c, declined to 31⅞@32c and then rallied to 32¼c.

Notwithstanding an advance in hogs, provisions wavered at the outset. First sales were 2½c lower to 7½c up, with May $20.70 for pork, $10.67½ for lard and $10.80 for ribs.

WEAKNESS IN STOCKS

Prices Hover Near the Lowest Point In the Final Hour.

Much Weakness Is Shown By a Long List of Specialties.

New York, March 17.—Stock exchange traders were prepared for lower prices today owing to the abandonment of the Harriman dissolution plan, further gold exports and continuance of tight money rates. The Harriman stocks moved widely in London before the opening here, but the weakness of Union Pacific and the strength of Southern Pacific abroad were fully reflected here on initial prices. The market in geenral did not come up to expectations, in point of movement or volume of business. Southern Pacific ultimately fell back nearly to Saturday's close, despite tho gradual improvement of the rest of the market.

Bonds were heavy.

There were wide fluctuations in the Harriman stocks at the opening today, owing to the announcement on Saturday that the dissolution plan had been abandoned. Union Pacific opened at a decline of 1⅝. Southern Pacific rose a point. Trading in these stocks was not large and the market showed no trace of nervousness over the failure of the Harriman plan. Fluctuations in the general list were irregular with a majority of declines. Canadian Pacific lost 1⅜ and Lehigh Valley and Great Northern Ore, 1.

Increased weakness showed in various railroads and specialties. Southern Pacific surrendered its advance and Union Pacific went down to 148. Hill stocks also became heavy.

Speculation dragged along despite an early announcement from Washington that there would be no decision in the Minnesota rate case today. Goodrich was sold freely and touched 30¾, a new low record.

Liquidation of New Haven and some low priced specialties induced renewed pressure against the general list in which Union Pacific and Steel were conspicuous. New Haven dropped 4¼ to 114½.

The market closed weak. Prices hovered near the lowest in the final hour. Business was much reduced and fluctuations were narrow. Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Reading and Steel were foremost in the day's decline. Much weakness was shown by a long list of specialties, including Goodrich, Rubber, the Petroleum stocks, and other recent flotations.

London Stocks.

London, March 17.—American securities were unsettled by the failure of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific dissolution plan and prices moved irregularly during the forenoon. Southern Pacific advanced 2¼, Union Pacific declined 1⅜ and the rest of the list ranged from ¼ above to ¾ below parity. Later New York selling orders depressed prices and Southern Pacific lost its morning advance. The close was dull. Money was in strong demand but discount rates were easy.

Cotton Market.

New York, March 17.—The cotton market opeend steady at an advance of 3 to 6 points. Under realizing prices eased off a point or two right after the call, but the general tone of the early market was steady and offerings seemed to be held in check by predictions for renewed rains in the south toward the end of the week.

Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 12.60; middling gulf, 12.85; sales, 1,400 bales. Futures closed steady. Closing bids: March, 12.26; April, 12.02; May, 11.91; June, 11.85; July, 11.84; August, 11.75; September, 11.43; October, 11.38; December, 11.39; January, 11.35.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., March 17.—Barrett & Zimmerman report. Market easy in tone, clearance being limited to retail orders for general purpose from horses and mares with shipments to points in Dakota, Montana and Canada. Today's receipts included about a hundred head of draft horses and mules. Matt Hughes, J. D. Barrett, W. E. Barker and J. P. Mulvehill being among the shippers. Sale of School and Other State Lands

State of Minnesota, State Auditor's Office.

St. Paul, February 24, 1913.

Notice is hereby given that on April 15, 1913, at 10 o'clock A. M., in the office of the County Auditor at Duluth, St. Louis County, in the state of Minnesota, I will offer for sale certain unsold state lands and also those state lands which have reverted to the state by reason of the non-payment of interest.

Terms: Fifteen per cent of the purchase price and interest on the unpaid balance from date of sale to June 1st, 1914, must be paid at the time of sale. The balance of purchase money is payable in whole or in part on or before forty years from date of sale; the rate of interest on the unpaid balance is four per cent per annum, payable in advance on June 1st of each year; provided, the principal remains unpaid for ten years; but if the principal is paid within ten years from date of sale, the rate of interest will be computed at five per cent per annum.

Appraised value of timber, if any, must also be paid at time of sale.

Lands on which the interest is delinquent may be redeemed at any time up to the hour of sale, or before resale to an actual purchaser.

All mineral rights are reserved by the laws of the state.

Not more than 320 acres can be sold or contracted to be sold to any one purchaser.

Agents acting for purchasers must furnish affidavit of authority. Appraisers' reports, showing quality and kind of soil, are on file in this office.

Lists of lands to be offered may be obtained of the state auditor or the state commissioner of immigration at St Paul, and of the county auditor at above address.

SAMUEL G. IVERSON,
State Auditor.

REAPPORTIONMENT BILL HAS BEEN FINALLY PASSED AND BECOMES LAW WHEN SIGNED BY THE GOVERNOR

KING GEORGE OF GREECE VICTIM OF AN ASSASSIN AT TURKISH FORTRESS

Had Been at Saloniki Since Its Capture From Turks.

Was in His 68th Year and Had Ruled Fifty Years.

Previous Attempt to Assassinate Him Made in 1898.

Saloniki, March 18. — King George of Greece was assassinated here this afternoon.

King George, who had taken personal command of his troops during the earlier period of the war, had been here since December, when the Turkish fortress was occupied by the Greeks after a short siege.

The queen of Greece also has been here and has paid great attention to the care of the sick and wounded.

King George in December had a meeting here with King Ferdinand of Bulgaria to discuss the disposition of the captured Turkish territory after the war.

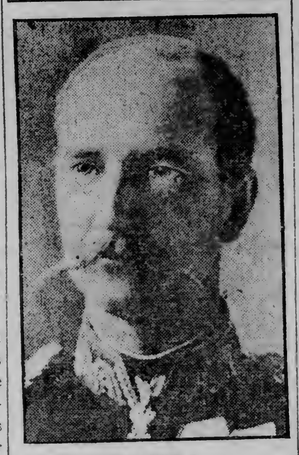
King George was in his 68th year and had ruled fifty years. He was a brother of Queen Mother Alexandra of England and a son of the late king of Denmark. He was chosen king of the Hellenes in 1863, in succession to Otho I.

A previous attempt to assassinate him was made in 1898, but was frustrated.

King George was married in October, 1867, to Princess Olga, eldest daughter of the Grand Duke Constantine of Russia, a brother of the late Emperor Alexander II.

Crown Prince Constantine, who has been in active command of the Greek troops throughout the hostilities in the eastern part of Turkey, in Europe, and who was at the head of the army that recently captured the Turkish fortress of Janina, with its garrison of 32,000 men, will be the successor of his father. His wife is Princess Sophia, a sister of the German emperor.

KING OF GREECE WHO WAS ASSASSINATED



GEORGE I.

IS PAROLED AFTER THIRTY-SEVEN YEARS

Edward Eckart Released From the Penitentiary at Waupun.

Waupun, Wis., March 18.—Edward Eckart of Pennsylvania was today paroled from the Wisconsin penitentiary after thirty-seven years of actual time served behind the bars. He was convicted of murder when 21 years old; he comes out of the darkness at the age of 58, in excellent health and as a cook, upon which he expects to depend for a living.

Eckart's victim was Charles Peterson, also of Pennsylvania. The two were tramping in Wisconsin during the excessively cold winter of 1875. In a quarrel over a fire started beside the railroad track near Jefferson, Peterson was killed and Eckart was sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder. He never has admitted the crime, maintaining that Peterson was killed by a tramp.

In the thirty-seven years of prison confinement never a mark of demerit has been placed against the Waupun record of Eckart. He is pronounced the model prisoner of the century. Warden Woodworth and other wardens before him favored the paroling of Eckart, expressing the belief that the few years yet vouchsafed him will be devoted to useful citizenship.

Eckert cannot leave Wisconsin and his conduct must be exemplary in every way, otherwise his parole may be summarily revoked and he returned to the penitentiary for the remainder of his days.

In the third of a century of imprisonment his kin has deserted him and he does not know the whereabouts of his wife and daughter. In the comparatively few years of freedom prior to his imprisonment, Eckert saw much of the world, sailing the salt waters and penetrating the diamond fields of South Africa.

The judge who sentenced him and the district attorney who prosecuted, are dead and only three of the jurymen are yet living.

Eckert never lost hope. Alone and without money he managed to bring his case before the supreme court of Wisconsin and the circuit court of appeals of the United States, but at every turn he was thwarted. In a desperate last hope he appealed to a Milwaukee newspaper man who was directly instrumental in obtaining his conditional release from the prison life that seemed interminable.

Ships Sunk in Hurricane.

Hamburg, Germany, March 18.—Eighty ships, mainly small craft, were sunk off this city early today in a southwesterly hurricane. It is thought that the death list may reach fifty persons.

TERMINAL ELEVATORS

Governor Hanna Approves Bill Passed By North Dakota Legislature.

Vetoes Measure Affecting Membership of Board of Equalization.

Bismarck, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Hanna yesterday approved the bill under which a levy of one-eighth of a mill will be made in North Dakota the revenue to be used in the construction of terminal elevators in Minnesota and Wisconsin. Originally the bill provided for a one-mill tax but this was reduced because of the anticipated change in the basis of assessment. On the present basis the levy will create a fund of about $40,000 annually. The operation of the state terminal eleavators will be under the direction of the board of control of state institutions. Authority for the terminal elevator levy is included in the constitutional amendment adopted last November.

The governor has vetoed several important bills, filing statements with the secretary of state today giving his

SWITCHMEN ARE READY TO STRIKE

Authorize Their Leaders to Act If They Deem It Advisable.

Chicago, March 18.—It became known today that switchmen and switch tenders of nineteen railroads entering Chicago have voted authorization to their leaders to call a strike if their demands are not met, though the formal result of the mail vote will not be announced until late this afternoon after the official count has been made.

The men, numbering about 5,000, ask for shorter hours and time and a half for overtime. The employers do not expect a strike, despite the vote, as probably mediation under the Erdman act will be sought.

Such an appeal, it is said, would clear up a question whether the Erdman act was not wiped out by the law which created the department of labor.

PRIMARY ELECTION HELD IN WISCONSIN.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 18.—A primary election throughout Wisconsin today for the nomination of candidates for the judiciary is being held today. Little interest attaches to the election and the voting is extremely light. Supreme Court Justice R. G. Siebecker has no opposition for renomination. The principal contests in Milwaukee are for the nominations for district judge, a circuit court judge and a number of school directors. State Superintendent of Schools Charles P. Cary is being opposed for that nomination by William Kittle.

BOSS COX AND MANY OTHERS ARE INDICTED

Former President and Officers of Cincinnati Trust Company.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 18.—George B. Cox, former president of the defunct Cincinnati Trust company, two former officers of the company and eight members of the board of directors were named in indictments returned by the Hamilton county grand jury yesterday. The envelopes containing the indictments were opened by Common Pleas Judge Cosgrave today.

One of the nine counts charges the "misapplication" of $115,000 of the bank's money through alleged illegal loans to the Ford & Johnson Chair company, now in the hands of receivers.

The abstraction of a $252,500 note by three officers and six directors of the bank with intent to injure and defraud the Cincinnati Trust company also is charged.

For Illegal Loans.

Those against whom indictments were returned for alleged illegal loans to the Ford & Johnson company are: George B. Cox, Charles H. Davis, Norman C. Kenan, James F. Heady, James M. Hutton, J. N. Miller, N. S. Keith and F. R. Williams.

The following were indicted on the charge of abstracting the $252,500 note: George B. Cox, J. M. Crawford,

CLEVELAND MEMORIAL DEDICATED

Wooden House Where Late President Was Born Is Taken Over.

Caldwell, N. J., March 18.—The little wooden house where Grover Cleveland was born attracted a distinguished company today for its dedication as a permanent memorial to the dead president.

The formal program for the day began with the transfer of $17,610 in payment for the house, purchased by the "Grover Cleveland Birthplace Memorial association" from trustees of the First Presbyterian church.

Richard F. Cleveland, the ex-president's son, was selected to receive the key and open the front door, while his sister, Esther, was chosen as the first of the official visitors to enter the room where her father saw the light just seventy-six years ago and decorate it with flowers. Her mother, now Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, was among the spectators.

The Cleveland memorial is the Presbyterian manse which the president's family occupied when his father was pastor of the Caldwell Presbyterian church. For its purchase the memorial association raised $25,000 of which $5,000 was contributed by residents of this town and the rest by a number of wealthy men, many of whom came here today for the dedication. A movement

HOUSE IN WHICH CLEVELAND WAS BORN

SECRETARY OF STATE BRYAN SIZING UP THE SITUATION IN ILLINOIS

Says He Will Listen to Anyone But Has Nothing to Say at Present.

Cabinet Member in Fine Humor as He Receives His Callers.

Goes to Springfield and Consults With Political Leaders.

Springfield, Ill., March 18.—"I am ready to listen to anyone who has any information to impart but I am not prepared to do any talking on the subject myself," said Secretary of State William J. Bryan this morning when the question of the Illinois senatorial situation was put up to him.

"I have no engagement to discuss the matter with any one," continued Mr. Bryan. "This does not mean, however, that I might not have something to say on the subject before I leave. I simply have nothing to say now.

"The situation here reminds me of a story my father-in-law used to tell of a man who was being questioned regarding his qualifications to serve on a jury.

"'Have you formed any opinion regarding this case?' asked the judge.

"'No, sir,' said the prospective juror.

"'After you have heard the evidence and listened to the arguments in the case will you form an opinion?'

"'No, sir.'

Not Quite So Far.

"I will not say that I will carry the matter that far, but that is my attitude for the present at least," said Mr. Bryan.

The secretary was in fine humor when he received the newspaper men at the executive mansion. He had just finished a quiet breakfast with some of the members of the governor's family.

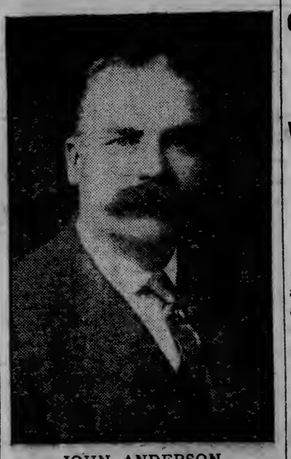
Mr. Bryan would not comment on the criticism directed against him in the London Morning Post, calling his St. Patrick's banquet speech in Washington last Saturday night a "blazing indiscretion."

Col. J. H. Lewis, Democratic primary nominee for United States senator, and William L. O'Connell, political advisor of Governor Dunne, accompanied Mr. Bryan and Governor Dunne from Chicago to Springfield last night. The four were closeted in Mr. Bryan's stateroom over an hour on the trip.

While none of the participants in the conference was willing to discuss its details, the attitude of Mr. Bryan indicated that he had not committed either the Federal administration or himself on the Illinois situation.

HELP!

IS POSTMASTER AS WELL AS LEGISLATOR



JOHN ANDERSON,
Representative From Wadena County, Who Was the First Postmaster at Sebeka, a Position Which He Still Holds.

POSTMASTERS TO BE NAMED

Fred Lynch Calls on Postmaster General as to Appointments.

Formally Indorses Frank A. Day for Land Office Commissioner.

(From The Herald Washington Bureau.)

Washington, March 18.—As a windup of his visit to Washington, National Committeeman Fred B. Lynch will get some information from Postmaster General Burleson about filling presidential postoffices in Minnesota, where the terms of the Republican postmasters have expired, with Democrats. When congress adjourned there were about fifty nominations for postmasterships in Minnesota pending in the senate, and it is expected that the postmaster general will be ready to submit other names for these offices soon after congress convenes in extra session on April 7. Mr. Lynch called at the postoffice department this morning and arranged for a conference with the postmaster general late this afternoon.

Under the Republican regime there were Republicans in the Democratic districts whose recommendations in filling presidential offices were followed. It is believed that the Democrats will not follow the plan, but, generally speaking, will let the national committeemen in the various states make these recommendations.

Hammond to Control Second.

In Minnesota Representative W. S. Hammond will have full control in the Second district, with National Committeeman Lynch in control of the other districts, in co-operation with the local organizations. Mr. Lynch today saw Secretary Lane of the interior department and formally indorsed Frank A. Day for appointment as commissioner of the general land office. His recommendation was backed up by Former Senator Charles A. Towne, who happened to have come from New York on personal business. Mr. Day will see Secretary Lane shortly to discuss the appointment.

For Diplomatic Service.

Mr. Lynch has also recommended C. A. Quist of Minneapolis for a diplomatic post, and it is understood that he is being urged as the successor of Col. Charles H. Graves of Duluth, now minister to Sweden.

The Minnesota committeeman has also recommended Gustav Scholle of St. Paul for appointment as minister to Spain. Mr. Scholle is now secretary of legation at Madrid. A third diplomatic indorsement filed by Mr. Lynch is for C. M. Andrist of the state university who wants to be diplomatic agent to Switzerland.

Mr. Lynch expects to leave Washington tonight for New York, whence he will go home.

Women's Minimum Wage.

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 18.—The women's minimum wage bill, which provides that no woman or girl shall receive less than 75 cents per day for the first year's service, and no less than $1.25 per day after a year's service, was signed by Governor Spry yesterday. The juvenile court bill providing for the establishment of a children's court in every judicial district in the state, also was signed. The juvenile courts will have their own judges and will be conducted apart from the regular district courts.

CHANGES BY THE SENATE AGREED TO

House Concurs in Senate Amendments and Repasses Bill.

Only Fifteen Votes Are Cast Against in the House.

Will Be Signed By Governor as Soon as Engrossed.

(By a Staff Correspondent).

St. Paul, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—After a generation of injustice and vexatious delay, and after ten years of the hardest kind of fighting against obstacles of many kinds, reapportionment is at last a fact—or it will be as soon as the governor signs the Warner-Johnson reapportionment bill, which the house this morning repassed, concurring in the senate amendments, by a vote of 94 to 15.

The message from the senate returning the bill with amendments has been lying at the desk since yesterday, waiting for a compromise upon the Anoka-Sherburne-Mille Lacs-Isanti-Kanabec county districts, which was reached this morning when Senator Swanson agreed to accept the proposal that had been made to add Sherburne to Isanti and Anoka. This is to be done in a supplementary bill to be introduced later.

As soon as this news came to the house, Representative C. H. Warner, chairman of the house reapportionment committee, called up the bill and moved a call of the house. Then he moved that the house concur in the senate amendments.

The Last Kick.

The last aspiring flicker of the opposition blazed up feebly when Representative Thomas Frankson moved as a substitute that the bill be laid over a day.

Representative Cleon T. Knapp of Chisholm and others opposed the motion, Representative Knapp saying that everybody understood the situation and that there was no need of delay. Frankson's motion was defeated, 23 for and 77 against.

Then Mr. Warner's motion to concur was adopted almost unanimously by a viva voce vote. The bill was then put upon its repassage and it carried with only fifteen negatives.

Governor Will Sign.

As soon as it can be engrossed it

TRAINS STILL BLOCKED IN NORTHERN NEBRASKA

Norfolk, Neb., March 18.—Train service has not yet been completely restored in Northern Nebraska as a result of last Thursday's blizzard which was the worst in twenty years. Not a train has been moved west of Valentine, Neb., on the Black Hills route, in five days.

A baby was born on a Northwestern train at Valentine, Neb. At Chadron a funeral party headed from Hot Springs, S. D., to Chicago, has been held since Thursday.

FIREWORKS OVER STAFF

Governor's Staff Nearly Cut Out of the Gettysburg Trip.

Exhibit at Norwegian Exposition at Christiana Is Urged.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The resplendent staff of the governor of Minnesota came within an ace of losing a trip to Gettysburg yesterday afternoon when the house passed the R. C. Dunn bill, appropriating $25,000 to take the veterans of the First Minnesota and others to the historic battle ground for the semi-centennial exercises in July.

Representative Knud Wefald of Hawley proposed an amendment cutting the governor's staff out of the party, and it got fifty votes with fifty-five against it.

There were a few fireworks in the debate.

In opposing the amendment, Mr. Dunn said that Governor Eberhart had told him that if the legislature didn't send his staff along with him he wouldn't go himself.

This brought Representative Gunnar

SERVICES FOR EASTER

West End Churches Prepare for Commemoration of the Resurrection.

Special Musical Programs Prepared for All Services Next Sunday.

Special Easter services and programs have been prepared by all the West end churches for next Sunday.

At the St. Clement's Catholic church, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street, the first mass will be celebrated at 8 o'clock, to be followed at 9:15 o'clock with another mass for the children. Solemn high mass will be sung at 10:30 o'clock, after which Rev. Augustine Brockmeyer will preach the Easter sermon. Brosig's mass in C, with orchestral accompaniment, will be sung. A benediction service will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, closing the services for the day.

The choir of the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, will give a special Easter program at the morning service. Mrs. J. J. Daniels will be in charge of the chorus. In the evening the children's chorus, organized especially for Easter, will give a program of songs.

A chorus of seventy-five voices will sing the Easter cantata, "Light Out of Darkness," Sunday evening at the First Norwegian-Danish Methodist Episcopal church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street. Among the soloists will be Miss Mille Olson; Miss Nora Otterson, John E. Jensen and H. O. Hanson. A. O. Anderson will be in charge of the chorus and among the principal numbers to be heard will be the following:

Chorus—"Dark and Drear the Midnight Skies" .....
Solo—"I Am He That Watches in Yonder Hilltops" .....
Solo—"Be Not Cast Down" .....
Chorus—"O Christ, Who Died for All" .....
Contralto—"Raboni" .....
Solo—"When the World Did Scoff and Scorn" .....
Quartet—"O Glad and Glorious Easter" .....
Chorus—"Sing Glorious Hallelujahs"
Carol—"Sing of the Easter Bells"..
Solo—"O Divine Redeemer" .....
Tenor solo—"Ho Ye That Once Were Sad" .....
Solo and quartet—"Go Ye and Teach All Nations" .....
Chorus—"Behold a Great Light Hath Come Out of the Darkness" .....

At Bethany Church.

An Easter service will be held at 10 o'clock at the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street. The Sunday school will hold its annual festival in the evening. A program of music and recitations will be rendered.

Rev. F. O. Hanson of the Trinity English Evangelical Lutheran church will conduct Easter Sunday services at 10 a. m. Sunday at the Woodmen hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street. The children's first annual festival will be held at the hall at 7:45 o'clock.

The annual Easter service at the St. Peter's Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street, will be held at 10:45 o'clock. Rev. W. E. Harmann will preach. The children's festival will be held at 8 o'clock.

At the Grace M. E. church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, two services will be held in the morning, the first at 9:30 o'clock and the second at 10:30 o'clock. In the evening an Easter program will be given by the children.

The Easter service at the St. Paul's Lutheran church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, will be held at 11 o'clock. Following the sermon by Rev. W. Wulfsberg, a program of music will be given. The choir will take part in the song service.

Children's Service.

The children of the Garfield Avenue chapel, 830 Garfield avenue, will conduct an Easter program in place of the regular Sunday evening service at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. W. Grant Fritz will be in charge of the program.

Two song services will be held next Sunday at the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. One of these will be held at 11 o'clock in the morning and the other at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. The pastor, Rev. Swaney Nelson, will be in charge of both services.

At 10:30 o'clock at the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, a special Easter service will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. M. Nervig. A program of music will be given during the morning. In the evening a song service will be held.

Rev. J. A. McGaughey of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior streeet, will preach the Easter sermon in the evening. The subject will be "The Resurrection Day," the last sermon in the series for this week. The song service will be held in the morning.

At the First Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, the Easter service will be held in the morning and the special song service in the evening. Rev. C. W. Wermine, pastor, will be in charge.

Bridge Luncheon.

Mrs. J. W. Allen of 129 North Nineteenth avenue west was hostess yesterday at a charming St. Patrick's day bridge luncheon. The rooms were artistically decorated with palms, green flags and shamrocks, which formed effective backgrounds for groups of white carnations. Harps and flags were used as place cards.

Bridge was played at three tables, the honors being won by Mesdames C. D. Campbell, E. G. Batte and August Piering. The other guests were: Mesdames Frank Church, P. G. Pastoret, F. F. McQuade, J. F. Dennis, W. M. Farmer and F. G. Tresise and Miss Pearl Tresise.

Protection Against Bronchitis and Pneumonia

A Recipe

Into a pitcher put a tablespoonful of butter, one-quarter cup light brown sugar, an ounce of fresh, whole allspice and a pint of Duffy's pure malt whiskey. Let it stand for half an hour; then add one-half pint boiling water. Let it stand again for a short while, and before serving stir well and add the juice of one orange and one lemon. This is to be served in a wine glass.

It is very wholesome, appetizing and strengthening, especially for fever and chills in stormy and blustering weather. Prompt action on such occasions will ward off many a serious and oftttime fatal attack of bronchitis and pneumonia, as well as irritating coughs and colds.

PLANNING TRIP TO NATIVE LAND

Big Party of West Enders Will Sail May 24.

At least 100 Scandinavian residents of Northern Minnesota will take the trip this summer to Norway, Sweden and Denmark. The trip is being arranged by Fred W. Erickson of 2009 West Third street.

Mr. Erickson stated yesterday that he is receiving inquiries from all sections of Northern Minnesota and that from present outlooks about 100 people will be in the party that will leave Duluth on May 21 for a five months' trip. Mr. Erickson will have personal charge of the party.

Mr. Erickson has had charge of several parties visiting the Scandinavian countries. This year the local party will sail on the liner Olympic, the largest in the world. The excursion will take the local Scandinavians through their fatherland, allowing them also time to visit with their relatives in the old country. The party will remain there all summer.

The local party, according to the arrangements already made, will leave Duluth in a special car on May 21 and will sail from New York on Saturday, May 24.

AWAKES TO FIND HER BABY DEAD

Mrs. Edward Youngs of 120 North Eighteenth aveune west awoke yesterday morning to find that her 1-month-old son had died during the night.

Dr. L. Q. Greeley was called to the home and after an examination he declared that the child had been dead for several hours. An autopsy was held yesterday afternoon by Doctors McAuliffe and Greeley, under the direction of Coroner McComb. It was found that the child died of asphyxiation, resulting from an enlargement of the glands.

The body has been taken to the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms, from where the funeral will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Interment will be at Park Hill cemetery.

YOUNG PEOPLE OF CHURCH TO GIVE PLAY.

The Young Men's Sodality of the St. Clement's Catholic church, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street, will present "Capt. Jack" in the church hall next Tuesday evening.

The play is a three-act comedy. The young men will be assisted by four young women of the church. The members of the cast have been rehearsing for the past two months under the direction of Father Raymond and Miss Mary Shesgren.

The complete cast follows:

Capt. Edward Gordon...Charles Kremer
Squire Shannon .....Walter Emerson
John Driscoll .....J. J. Miller
Barney Donovan .....James E. Wade
Teddy Burke .....Lawrence Drohan
Tim Burns .....Howard Kiley
Lieut. Rodgers .....Ben Owens
Alice Driscoll...Miss Louise Emerson
Nellie Shannon ...Miss Alice Kennedy
Kate Kelley .....Miss Mae Nolan
Mary .....Miss Jane Miller

Union Services.

The congregations of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church and the Trinity English Evangelical Lutheran church will hold union Good Friday services Friday evening at the former church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street. Rev. C. G. Olson of the Bethany church and Rev. F. O. Hanson of the Trinity church will be in charge of the service.

Surprise Party.

Miss Ruth Saaf of 2322 West Second street was pleasantly surprised at her home last evening, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. Games were played, after which a luncheon was served to the following guests: Mesdames C. Saaf, E. Wise, M. Olson, E. Saaf; Misses Elsie Paulson, Alma Swanson, Ruth Berne, Agnes Benson, Ruth Saaf, Anna Wester, Gertrude Fahrman, Anna Olson, Elizabeth Anderson, Esther Saaf, Glen Oxley, Hannah Saaf, Anna Erickson, Olive Wise, and the Messrs. Axel Saaf, Oscar Bostrom, Rudolf Peterson, Stanley Adams, Robert McLeod, Oscar Olson, George Jackson, Edwin Horngren, Carl Jackson, Oscar Peterson, Herbert Nelson, George Saaf and Clarence Olson.

Falls From His Wagon.

Andrew Mattson, who collects garbage and ashes, was taken with an epileptic fit at Garfield avenue and Superior street late yesterday afternoon. He fell from his wagon and was slightly injured. Officer Snarski took Mattson into a nearby drug store, where medical attention was given him.

Truck Overturns.

A heavily loaded truck belonging to the Radford company tipped over after crossing the railroad tracks on Garfield avenue and delayed street car traffic for twenty minutes yesterday afternoon. The driver escaped injury by jumping just as the truck tipped over.

Surprised By Friends.

Mrs. W. P. Waste of 1029 West Second street was surprised by a party of friends at her home yesterday afternoon. She was the recipient of a number of handsome gifts. Musical numbers were rendered during the afternoon by Miss Annabelle McLeod. The guests present were: Mesdames J. Brown, E. Mellen, N. Battley, William Laughton, J. Kruschke, D. Eagles, M. McCullom, E. Rooney, A. W. Torrance, C. Kachlel and Julien and Miss McLeod.

Candidates Invited.

An invitation to candidates for the commission has been sent by the French Naturalization club, which will hold its regular semi-monthly meeting Friday evening at the St. Jean Baptist hall, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. Each candidate will be allowed fifteen minutes.

Parcel Shower.

Miss Elly Anderson of 2409 West Fourth street entertained at a parcel shower last evening in honor of Miss Esther Murray, whose wedding to C. W. Middlecoff will take place early this spring. The guests present were: Mrs. A. F. Fredin and the Misses Agnes Campbell, Anna Segermann, Nellene Lowe, Josephine Ehmecke, Anna Sullivan and Anna Thorsell.

West End Briefs.

Walter Stresow of Hermantown has left for his home in the southern part of the state where he will remain until next fall.

Thomas L. Shodrell of Park Rapids, Minn., was a business visitor in the West end yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Johnson of Hermantown entertained at a dinner last evening in honor of the Misses Ellen Vandegrift and Opal Wiltse, who are visiting here from Aitkin, Minn.

The choir of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will meet this evening at the home of J. A. Swanson.

The union chorus held its regular weekly rehearsal last evening at the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street.

The confirmation class of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, will meet in the church parlors Saturday morning.

Mrs. W. F. Mallet of 2121 West Second street returned home yesterday from St. Luke's hospital, where she has been ill.

ACTING AS HIS OWN LAWYER

Defendant in Slander Suit Does Not Engage an Attorney.

Cyrus J. West, mechanical engineer, didn't bother to get an attorney when he was made defendant in a suit for malicious slander brought against him by Abraham Y. Littman, junk and second-hand dealer, 333 East Superior street.

West appeared in court this morning to conduct his own case. His opposing counsel was William Marx. West had little difficulty in cross examinations and got what he wanted out of the witnesses.

The case grows out of a trivial affair. Littman asks $2,000 damages from West on the grounds that he was termed by the latter as a thief, the expression being prefixed by two rather strong adjectives.

The testimony was that West on the morning of Nov. 26 last while walking past the junk shop of the plaintiff, noticed a pair of boots in the window for sale. He recognized them, or he thought he did, as the identical boots which had been stolen from him.

Eager to recover the lost articles of footwear, West entered the store and informed Littman, in charge of the store, that the boots were his, and that they had been stolen from him. Littman was quick to deny what he thought was an accusation as to his integrity.

Some rather hasty words were exchanged. The outcome of the affair was West's admission that he was mistaken and that his boots didn't have a patch on them. The police had been called into the case, however, before West had discovered his mistake.

West admitted these facts but denied that he had called Littman the particular kind of a thief, as is charged by Littman. The case will probably go to the jury this afternoon.

West will talk to the jury in his own behalf.

HYPOCRISY IS THEME OF EVANGELIST

One of the best meetings in the series now running in the First Christian church, was that of last night, when Evangelist Robert Whiston preached on "The Silence of God."

His text was from the Psalms and involved an arraignment of hypocrisy, both subjective and objective. He said: "The cry 'hypocrite' is nothing new, but as old as rightousness itself. Every man is a hypocrite to the dirty politician or the grafter, who votes the reform or clean ticket. The man who is arrayed against the institutions that are antagonistic to decency and character, is characterized as a 'hypocrite' by the indecent and lawless bunch. The fight is on between decency and indecency, between the law abiding and the lawless, between heaven and hell, and the term 'hypocrite' from the mouths of those who stand four-square against rightousness, may be a term of honor. Every knock against Christianity from the unrighteous crowd is a boost. There are hypocrites in the church but not nearly so many as some would have us believe. The counterfeit is a proof of the genuine. For every man that deliberately does wrong there are thousands who are upright, and outright for God, and downright in living the true life.

"Every man who is called a hypocrite is not necessarily one. The fact that a Christian makes a mistake or does a wrong, is but proof of his humanity and the bitterness of the fight for the mastery. Christ chose twelve disciples, and it is reasonable to suppose that he chose the twelve best men of His day, as He had the pick of men. Yet one betrayed Him, another denied Him, and the others followed afar off. I don't think we are any worse off today, in proportion. If a Christian wrongs another he will apologize, and right the wrong. This is what makes him different from the non-Christian. Some people never apologize. They haven't the nerve. There are thousands in Duluth on the road to perdition because they haven't the nerve to apologize to God."

Tonight Mr. Whiston will speak on "The Sheepfold and the Sheep." He announced this as one of his "Happy" messages. Mrs. Compton will sing as also will the evangelists.

Delegates representing about fifty local commercial clubs are expected.

TEN YEARS FOR KILLING NEGRO

Slayer of Black in Egeland, N. D., Poker Game Sentenced.

Cando, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Isaac McGinnis, aged 22, last night was sentenced to ten years in the North Dakota penitentiary for the murder of Sleman Parker, colored, during the progress of a poker game near Egeland, last summer.

McGinnis pleaded guilty to the charge of murder in the second degree, and the evidence was submitted to a jury to determine sentence.

He killed Parker when the latter attempted to regain money that he had lost in the game, reaching across the table to the stack in front of McGinnis, who drew a revolver, and shot Parker four or five times.

CLOQUET WOMAN DIES AFTER AN OPERATION.

Cloquet, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Albert Mooney, aged 34 years, died at 10:30 this morning following an operation at the Cloquet hospital on Monday from which she rallied only partially. Her sisters, Mrs. McElroy of Minneapolis and Mrs. Harry Walters of Superior, are here also E. A. Mooney of Duluth. Mrs. Mooney's death is a great shock to many. The funeral will be held Wednesday morning at the Methodist church. The body will be shipped later to Turtle Lake, Wis.

Skin and Scalp Troubles Banished

(From American Health Review.)

"A case is reported from a nearby city, where a woman twenty-three years old had suffered for four years from eczema of the scalp. The hair was thin and straggly from continued scabby formation.

"She was advised by a neighbor to use quintone, which she did as follows: She procured two ounces of quintone from her druggist, dissolved it in a half pint hot water, then applied the solution to her scalp twice a day. Relief from the torturing itching was the result of the first application. The two weeks' treatment restored the scalp to a clean and healthy condition.

"Quintone has been used successfully for treatment of eczema, salt rheum, tetter, ringworm and other eruptions of the skin."

Firemen Arrest Highwaymen.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 18.—Three firemen, while returning from a fire, arrested two men, who, they claimed, were holding a third man down on a railroad track and apparently going through his pockets. The three were taken to the police station. Remer Swenson and Patrick McCorry were arraigned and held to the grand jury. Their alleged victim, who gave his name as Dell Wellman, told the court that he had been robbed. He is held as a witness.

Fergus Falls Child Drowns.

Fergus Falls, Minn., March 18.—Hattie, the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Drake of this city, was drowned in the Red river here Saturday afternoon while trying to cross on the ice. A channel was cut on the ice in the river in an effort to find the body, which was unsuccessful.

To Change Crookston's Charter.

Crookston, Mich., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The charter commission has organized by electing the following officers: W. A. Marin, president; J. E. O'Brien, vice president, and C. M. Lohn, secretary. The next meeting will be held March 27, and the following proposed amendments will be discussed: An increase in the tax levy for the general fund; the inauguration of a budget system.

Must Stand Punishment.

Lisbon, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Denied a reversal of the verdict of a district court jury under which they were declared guilty of misdemeanors, John Murphy and Pat Kelly must face punishment meted to them by the lower court. They claimed that they had not been given sufficient time in which to make their pleas.

Thrown From Bed by Bomb.

Chicago, March 18.—A bomb believed to have been placed by Italian blackmailers partly wrecked the home of Pedro Silvestri here early today. Silvestri, his wife and four children were thrown from their beds but were otherwise uninjured.

Piano Agent Arrested.

St. Paul, Minn., March 18.—Charged with the embezzlement of funds amounting to $10,000 from the H. H. Kimball Piano company, of which he was an agent, A. C. Nelson was arrested here Monday. The warrant for his arrest was sworn out by his firm at Faribault, Minn. Nelson is accused of misappropriating company funds which had been paid to him for instruments.

Ashland Having Primary.

Ashland, Wis., March 18.—Ashland is having its first primary election under the commission form of government today. There are three candidates for mayor and twelve for commissioners. On April 1 three out of the six men will be chosen. The candidates are: James Phillips, John Sandstrom, Louis Matson, W. C. Morris, Clarence Dennis, Otto Premo, W. G. Nohl, V. T. Pierrelee, P. H. Grim, Grant Childs, Frank Brindle, J. C. Roehm, E. J. Stahl, J. A. Cobb and Albert Simmons.

Smallpox Hits Gwyther, N. D.

Gwyther, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The smallpox epidemic here has put the school, the newspaper, the lumber yard, the hotel and the depot out of business. The teacher, the editor and the lumber agent boarded at the hotel and are all quarantined inside. The hotel is running but is not receiving new guests.

Are Testing Seeds.

Fargo, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The heads of the Better Farming movement in this state with the experts in twenty or more counties are conducting seed tests this week. From experiments recently made it has been demonstrated that while certain grades are high in their germinating qualities some others showed very weak.

Stone, Wis., Has Boom.

Couderay, Wis., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The First National bank of Stone Lake, Sawyer county, has just opened its doors for business. The bank is capitalized at $25,000 and is located in its own new modern two story brick building.

That village is enjoying a building boom on account of the large number of settlers who have located in that vicinity in the last ten months.

Be Sure to Specify This Gas Range for Your New Home or Flat Building

The First and Only Real Improvement In Gas Range Construction in Twelve Years

The Best Double Action Is Surely a Departure From the Old Style Gas Consumers —Let Us Show You Why

IT DIFFERS IN MANY WAYS

There is no use denying that with the old style gas range whatever was being cooked in the oven had to be turned a number of times to prevent the bottom baking faster than the top, the top faster than the bottom, or the sides faster than the center. Uniform baking or roasting was impossible without constantly changing the position of the food.

Broiling was rarely attempted owing to the fact that it was hard to accomplish without setting the broiler on fire.

Judging by outward appearance, the Double Action Gas Range, aside from the original features of dress, is practically like many other gas ranges—but there the likeness ends.

No other gas range heats its oven as does the Double Action.

No other gas range broils as does the Double Action.

The Double Action gas range is constructed on an entirely new principle and is different from all other gas ranges made. The Double Action gas range uses the heat in the oven twice, and is the only oven in the world that does. The Double Action gas range has only two rows of fire in the oven where all others have three or four, which means that the Double Action oven uses from thirty-three and one-third to fifty per cent less gas.

SERVICES FOR EASTER

West End Churches Prepare for Commemoration of the Resurrection.

Special Musical Programs Prepared for All Services Next Sunday.

Special Easter services and programs have been prepared by all the West end churches for next Sunday.

At the St. Clement's Catholic church, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street, the first mass will be celebrated at 8 o'clock, to be followed at 9:15 o'clock with another mass for the children. Solemn high mass will be sung at 10:30 o'clock, after which Rev. Augustine Brockmeyer will preach the Easter sermon. Brosig's mass in C, with orchestral accompaniment, will be sung. A benediction service will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, closing the services for the day.

The choir of the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, will give a special Easter program at the morning service. Mrs. J. J. Daniels will be in charge of the chorus. In the evening the children's chorus, organized especially for Easter, will give a program of songs.

A chorus of seventy-five voices will sing the Easter cantata, "Light Out of Darkness," Sunday evening at the First Norwegian-Danish Methodist Episcopal church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street. Among the soloists will be Miss Mille Olson, Miss Nora Otterson, John E. Jensen and H. O. Hanson. A. O. Anderson will be in charge of the chorus and among the principal numbers to be heard will be the following:

Chorus—"Dark and Drear the Midnight Skies" .....
Solo—"I Am He That Watches in Yonder Hilltops" .....
Solo—"Be Not Cast Down" .....
Chorus—"O Christ, Who Died for All" .....
Contralto—"Rahoni" .....
Solo—"When the World Did Scoff and Scorn" .....
Quartet—"O Glad and Glorious Easter" .....
Chorus—"Sing Glorious Hallelujahs" .....
Carol—"Sing of the Easter Bells" .....
Solo—"O Divine Redeemer" .....
Tenor solo—"Ha Ye That Once Were Sad" .....
Solo and quartet—"Go Ye and Teach All Nations" .....
Chorus—"Behold a Great Light Hath Come Out of the Darkness" .....

At Bethany Church.

An Easter service will be held at 10 o'clock at the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street. The Sunday school will hold its annual festival in the evening. A program of music and recitations will be rendered.

Rev. F. C. Hanson of the Trinity English Evangelical Lutheran church will conduct Easter Sunday services at 10 a. m. Sunday at the Woodmen hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street. The children's first annual festival will be held at the hall at 7:15 o'clock.

The annual Easter service at the St. Peter's Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street, will be held at 10:45 o'clock. Rev. G. E. Harmann will preach. The children's festival will be held at 8 o'clock.

At the Grace M. E. church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, two services will be held in the morning, the first at 9:30 o'clock and the second at 10:30 o'clock. In the evening an Easter program will be given by the children.

The Easter service at the St. Paul's Lutheran church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, will be held at 11 o'clock. Following the sermon by Rev. W. Wulfsberg, a program of music will be given. The choir will take part in the song service.

Children's Service.

The children of the Garfield Avenue chapel, 830 Garfield avenue, will render an Easter program in place of the regular Sunday evening service at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. W. Grant Fritz will be in charge of the program.

Two song services will be held next Sunday at the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. One of these will be held at 11 o'clock in the morning and the other at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. The pastor, Rev. Swaney Nelson, will be in charge of both services.

At 10:30 o'clock at the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, a special Easter service will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. M. Nervig. A program of music will be given during the morning. In the evening a song service will be held.

Rev. J. A. McLaughey of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, will preach the Easter sermon in the evening. The subject will be "The Resurrection Day," the last sermon in the series for this week. The song service will be held in the morning.

At the First Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, the Easter service will be held in the morning and the special song service in the evening. Rev. C. W. Wermine, pastor, will be in charge.

Bridge Luncheon.

Mrs. J. W. Allen of 129 North Nineteenth avenue west was hostess yesterday at a charming St. Patrick's day bridge luncheon. The rooms were artistically decorated with palms, green flags and shamrocks, which formed effective backgrounds for groups of white carnations. Harps and flags were used as place cards.

Bridge was played at three tables, the honors being won by Mesdames C. D. Campbell, E. G. Ratte and August Piering. The other guests were: Mesdames Frank Church, P. G. Pastoret, F. F. McQuade, J. F. Dennis, W. M. Farmer and F. G. Tresise and Miss Pearl Tresise.

Protection Against Bronchitis and Pneumonia

A Recipe

Into a pitcher put a tablespoonful of butter, one-quarter cup light brown sugar, an ounce of fresh, whole allspice and a pint of Duffy's pure malt whiskey. Let it stand for half an hour; then add one-half pint boiling water. Let it stand again for a short while, and before serving stir well and add the juice of one orange and one lemon. This is to be served in a wine glass.

It is very wholesome, appetizing and strengthening, especially for fever and chills in stormy and blustering weather. Prompt action on such occasions will ward off many a serious and oftttime fatal attack of bronchitis and pneumonia, as well as irritating coughs and colds.

PLANNING TRIP TO NATIVE LAND

Big Party of West Enders Will Sail May 24.

At least 100 Scandinavian residents of Northern Minnesota will take the trip this summer to Norway, Sweden and Denmark. The trip is being arranged by Fred W. Erickson of 2009 West Third street.

Mr. Erickson stated yesterday that he is receiving inquiries from all sections of Northern Minnesota and that from present outlooks about 100 people will be in the party that will leave Duluth on May 21 for a five months' trip. Mr. Erickson will have personal charge of the party.

Mr. Erickson has had charge of several parties visiting the Scandinavian countries. This year the local party will sail on the liner Olympic, the largest in the world. The excursion will take the local Scandinavians through their fatherland, allowing them also time to visit with their relatives in the old country. The party will remain there all summer.

The local party, according to the arrangements already made, will leave Duluth in a special car on May 21 and will sail from New York on Saturday, May 24.

AWAKES TO FIND HER BABY DEAD

Mrs. Edward Youngs of 129 North Eighteenth avenue west awoke yesterday morning to find that her 1-month-old son had died during the night.

Dr. L. G. Greeley was called to the home and after an examination he declared that the child had been dead for several hours. An autopsy was held yesterday afternoon by Doctors McAuliffe and Greeley, under the direction of Coroner McComb. It was found that the child died of asphyxiation, resulting from an enlargement of the glands.

The body has been taken to the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms, from where the funeral will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Interment will be at Park Hill cemetery.

YOUNG PEOPLE OF CHURCH TO GIVE PLAY.

The Young Men's Sodality of the St. Clement's Catholic church, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street, will present "Capt. Jack" in the church hall next Tuesday evening.

The play is a three-act comedy. The young men will be assisted by four young women of the church. The members of the cast have been rehearsing for the past two months under the direction of Father Raymond and Miss Mary Shesgren.

The complete cast follows:

Falls From His Wagon.

Andrew Mattson, who collects garbage and ashes, was taken with an epileptic fit at Garfield avenue and Superior street late yesterday afternoon. He fell from his wagon and was slightly injured. Officer Snarski took Mattson into a nearby drug store, where medical attention was given him.

Truck Overturns.

A heavily loaded truck belonging to the Radford company tipped over after crossing the railroad tracks on Garfield avenue and delayed street car traffic for twenty minutes yesterday afternoon. The driver escaped injury by jumping just as the truck tipped over.

Surprised By Friends.

Mrs. W. P. Waste of 1029 West Second street was surprised by a party of friends at her home yesterday afternoon. She was the recipient of a number of handsome gifts. Musical numbers were rendered during the afternoon by Miss Annabelle McLeod. The guests present were: Mesdames J. Brown, E. Mellen, N. Bartley, William Laughton, J. Kruschke, D. Eagles, M. McCullom, E. Rooney, A. W. Torrance, C. Bechtel and Jullen and Miss McLeod.

Candidates Invited.

An invitation to candidates for the commission has been sent by the French Naturalization club, which will hold its regular semi-monthly meeting Friday evening at the St. Jean Baptist hall, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. Each candidate will be allowed fifteen minutes.

Parcel Shower.

Miss Elly Anderson of 2409 West Fourth street entertained at a parcel shower last evening in honor of Miss Esther Murray, whose wedding to C. W. Middlecoff will take place early this spring. The guests present were: Mrs. A. E. Fredin and the Misses Agnes Campbell, Anna Segermann, Nellene Lowe, Josephine Elmcke, Anna Sullivan and Anna Thorsell.

West End Briefs.

Walter Stresow of Hermantown has left for his home in the southern part of the state where he will remain until next fall.

Thomas L. Shodrell of Park Rapids, Minn., was a business visitor in the West end yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Johnson of Hermantown entertained at a dinner last evening in honor of the Misses Ellen Vandegrift and Opal Wiltse, who are visiting here from Aitkin, Minn.

The choir of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will meet this evening at the home of J. A. Swanson.

The union chorus held its regular weekly rehearsal last evening at the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street.

The confirmation class of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, will meet in the church parlors Saturday morning.

Mrs. W. F. Mallet of 2121 West Second street returned home yesterday from St. Luke's hospital, where she has been ill.

ACTING AS HIS OWN LAWYER

Defendant in Slander Suit Does Not Engage an Attorney.

Cyrus J. West, mechanical engineer, didn't bother to get an attorney when he was made defendant in a suit for malicious slander brought against him by Abraham Y. Littman, junk and second-hand dealer, 333 East Superior street.

West appeared in court this morning to conduct his own case. His opposing counsel was William Marx. West had little difficulty in cross examinations and got what he wanted out of the witnesses.

The case grows out of a trivial affair. Littman asks $2,000 damages from West on the grounds that he was termed by the latter as a thief, the expression being prefixed by two rather strong adjectives.

The testimony was that West on the morning of Nov. 28 last while walking past the junk shop of the plaintiff, noticed a pair of boots in the window for sale. He recognized them, or he thought he did, as the identical boots which had been stolen from him.

Eager to recover the lost articles of footwear, West entered the store and informed Littman, in charge of the store, that the boots were his, and that they had been stolen from him. Littman was quick to deny what he thought was an accusation as to his integrity.

Some rather harsh words were exchanged. The outcome of the affair was West's admission that he was mistaken and that his boots didn't have a patch on them. The police had been called into the case, however, before West had discovered his mistake.

West admitted these facts but denied that he had called Littman the particular kind of a thief, as is charged by Littman. The case will probably go to the jury this afternoon.

West will talk to the jury in his own behalf.

HYPOCRISY IS THEME OF EVANGELIST

One of the best meetings in the series now running in the First Christian church, was that of last night, when Evangelist Robert Whiston preached on "The Silence of God."

His text was from the Psalms and involved an arraignment of hypocrisy, both subjective and objective. He said: "The cry 'hypocrite' is nothing new, but as old as righteousness itself. Every man is a hypocrite to the dirty politician or the grafter, who votes the reform or clean ticket. The man who is arrayed against the institutions that are antagonistic to decency and character, is characterized as a 'hypocrite' by the indecent and lawless bunch. The fight is on between decency and indecency, between the law abiding and the lawless, between heaven and hell, and the term 'hypocrite' from the mouths of those who stand four-square against rightousness, may be a term of honor. Every knock against Christianity from the unrighteous crowd is a boost. There are hypocrites in the church but not nearly so many as some would have us believe. The counterfeit is a proof of the genuine. For every man that deliberately does wrong there are thousands who are upright, and outright for God, and downright in living the true life.

"Every man who is called a hypocrite is not necessarily one. The fact that a Christian makes a mistake or does a wrong, is but proof of his humanity and the bitterness of the fight for the mastery. Christ chose twelve disciples, and it is reasonable to suppose that he chose the twelve best men of His day, as He had the pick of men. Yet one betrayed Him, another denied Him, and the others followed afar off. I don't think we are any worse off today, in proportion. If a Christian wrongs another he will apologize, and right the wrong. This is what makes him different from the non-Christian. Some people never apologize. They haven't the nerve. There are thousands in Duluth on the road to perdition because they haven't the nerve to apologize to God."

Tonight Mr. Whiston will speak on "The Sheepfold and the Sheep." He announced this as one of his "Happy" messages. Mrs. Compton will sing as also will the evangelists.

WANT MORE SETTLERS.

Matter to Be Discussed at Grand Forks Meeting.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Plans for utilizing to a greater degree the provisions made by state laws on the question of promoting immigration will form the central topic for the consideration of the North Dakota Federation of Commercial clubs which will hold its annual meeting here tomorrow and Thursday.

Delegates representing about fifty local commercial clubs are expected.

TEN YEARS FOR KILLING NEGRO

Slayer of Black in Egeland, N. D., Poker Game Sentenced.

Cando, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Isaac McGinnis, aged 22, last night was sentenced to ten years in the North Dakota penitentiary for the murder of Sieman Parker, colored, during the progress of a poker game near Egeland, last summer.

McGinnis pleaded guilty to the charge of murder in the second degree, and the evidence was submitted to a jury to determine sentence.

He killed Parker when the latter attempted to regain money that he had lost in the game, reaching across the table to the stack in front of McGinnis, who drew a revolver, and shot Parker four or five times.

CLOQUET WOMAN DIES AFTER AN OPERATION.

Cloquet, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Albert Mooney, aged 34 years, died at 10:30 this morning following an operation at the Cloquet hospital on Monday from which she rallied only partially. Her sisters, Mrs. McElroy of Minneapolis and Mrs. Harry Walters of Superior, are here also E. A. Mooney of Duluth. Mrs. Mooney's death is a great shock to many. The funeral will be held Wednesday morning at the Methodist church. The body will be shipped later to Turtle Lake, Wis.

Skin and Scalp Troubles Banished

(From American Health Review.)

"A case is reported from a nearby city, where a woman twenty-three years old had suffered for four years from eczema of the scalp. The hair was thin and straggly from continued scalphy formation.

"She was advised by a neighbor to use quintone, which she did as follows: She procured two ounces of quintone from her druggist, dissolved it in a half pint hot water, then applied the solution to her scalp twice a day. Relief from the torturing itching was the result of the first application. The two weeks' treatment restored the scalp to a clean and healthy condition.

"Quintone has been used successfully for treatment of eczema, salt rheum, tetter, ringworm and other eruptions of the skin."

Firemen Arrest Highwaymen.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 18.—Three firemen, while returning from a fire, arrested two men, who, they claimed, were holding a third man down on a railroad track and apparently going through his pockets. The three were taken to the police station. Remer Swenson and Patrick McCorry were arraigned and held to the grand jury. Their alleged victim, who gave his name as Dell Wellman, told the court that he had been robbed. He is held as a witness.

Fergus Falls Child Drowns.

Fergus Falls, Minn., March 18.—Hattie, the 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Drake of this city, was drowned in the Red river here Saturday afternoon while trying to cross on the ice. A channel was cut on the ice on the river in an effort to find the body, which was unsuccessful.

To Change Crookston's Charter.

Crookston, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The charter commission has organized by electing the following officers: W. A. Marin, president; J. E. O'Brien, vice president, and C. M. Lohn, secretary. The next meeting will be held March 27, and the following proposed amendments will be discussed: An increase in the tax levy for the general fund; the inauguration of a budget system.

Must Stand Punishment.

Lisbon, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Denied a reversal of the verdict of a district court jury under which they were declared guilty of misdemeanors, John Murphy and Pat Kelly must face punishment meted to them by the lower court. They claimed that they had not been given sufficient time in which to make their pleas.

Thrown From Bed by Bomb.

Chicago, March 18.—A bomb believed to have been placed by Italian blackmailers partly wrecked the home of Pedro Silvestri here early today. Silvestri, his wife and four children were thrown from their beds but were otherwise uninjured.

Piano Agent Arrested.

St. Paul, Minn., March 18.—Charged with the embezzlement of funds amounting to $10,000 from the H. H. Kimball Piano company, of which he was an agent, A. C. Nelson was arrested here Monday. The warrant for his arrest was sworn out by his firm at Faribault, Minn. Nelson is accused of misappropriating company funds which had been paid to him for instruments.

Ashland Having Primary.

Ashland, Wis., March 18.—Ashland is having its first primary election under the commission form of government today. There are three candidates for mayor and twelve for commissioners. On April 1 three out of the six men will be chosen. The candidates are: James Phillips, John Sandstrom, Louis Matson, W. C. Morris, Clarence Dennis, Otto Premo, W. G. Nohl, V. T. Pierrelee, P. H. Grim, Grant Childs, Frank Brindle, J. C. Roehm, E. J. Stahl, J. A. Cobb and Albert Simmons.

Smallpox Hits Gwyther, N. D.

Gwyther, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The smallpox epidemic here has put the school, the newspaper, the lumber yard, the hotel and the depot out of business. The teacher, the editor and the lumber agent boarded at the hotel and are all quarantined inside. The hotel is running but is not receiving new guests.

Are Testing Seeds.

Fargo, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The heads of the Better Farming movement in this state with the experts in twenty or more counties are conducting seed tests this week. From experiments recently made it has been demonstrated that while certain grades are high in their germinating qualities some others showed very weak.

Stone, Wis., Has Boom.

Canderay, Wis., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The First National bank of Stone Lake, Sawyer county, has just opened its doors for business. The bank is capitalized at $25,000 and is located in its own new modern two story brick building.

That village is enjoying a building boom on account of the large number of settlers who have located in that vicinity in the last ten months.

The First and Only Real Improvement In Gas Range Construction in Twelve Years

The Best Double Action Is Surely a Departure From the Old Style Gas Consumers —Let Us Show You Why

IT DIFFERS IN MANY WAYS

There is no use denying that with the old style gas range whatever was being cooked in the oven had to be turned a number of times to prevent the bottom baking faster than the top, the top faster than the bottom, or the sides faster than the center. Uniform baking or roasting was impossible without constantly changing the position of the food.

Broiling was rarely attempted owing to the fact that it was hard to accomplish without setting the broiler on fire.

Judging by outward appearance, the Double Action Gas Range, aside from the original features of dress, is practically like many other gas ranges—but there the likeness ends.

No other gas range heats its oven as does the Double Action.

No other gas range broils as does the Double Action.

The Double Action gas range is constructed on an entirely new principle and is different from all other gas ranges made. The Double Action gas range uses the heat in the oven twice, and is the only oven in the world that does. The Double Action gas range has only two rows of fire in the oven where all others have three or four, which means that the Double Action oven uses from thirty-three and one-third to fifty per cent less gas.

TO TEST NEW LIQUOR LAW

Duluth and Twin Cities Supply Most of Dakota's "Wet Goods."

Liquor Dealers and Express Companies Will Be Hard Hit.

The bill that passed both houses of the national congress forbidding the government sanction on the shipment of liquor into states or districts which are on a prohibition footing is supposed to be in operation, but no notice has been sent out to the various liquor houses or express companies not to ship. However, it is expected that such notices will soon be received and that that will be the signal for a vigorous fight through the courts to try to prove the law unconstitutional.

There are few districts so affected as the three large cities of Minnesota—Duluth, Minneapolis and St. Paul—for from these emanate most of the shipments of liquor into North Dakota. It is expected that from some point in Minnesota the fight will start, for it will be a serious crippling of business for many of the wholesale liquor houses and the breweries. Just what will be done cannot yet be learned for the dealers are unwilling to talk.

It is known that in case the law holds good, there will be a great loss of business to the three cities mentioned, and that consequently there will be an effort to shut off the prohibition by the government. Up to the present, while the state of North Dakota has been prohibitive and South Dakota has had local option, putting parts of it under the "no-booze" ban each spring, the government has ignored the state conditions and as long as the government granted its license in these prohibitive districts the liquor interests "should worry." Now it has come down to hard pan.

One liquor man today said that it would be impossible at this time to estimate nearly what the loss in a financial way would be if the new bill holds good. An agent for an express company admitted that it would "put a crimp" in their business if it really became operative, but that is the best information that was obtainable.

City Accepts Terms.

The city commission last evening voted to approve the street-ends settlement, which has already received the indorsement of the railroads and the city officials. All that is necessary now to make it effective is the sanction of the state legislature. The settlement provides that the city shall deed to the railroads nineteen street ends and slips, in return for which the roads will give the city 886 feet of dock line property and a number of lots.

Burglar Sentenced.

Robert Madden, the burglar, who was caught by William H. Mitchell, general agent of the Northern Pacific railroad, just as he was coming out of the Mitchell residence Saturday evening, was yesterday sentenced to one year in the state prison at Waupun. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell were returning from the theater, when they saw Madden coming out of their house.

Will Build Addition.

The directors of the Lake Superior Mission met yesterday afternoon and diseussed plans for the erection of an addition to the present building. It is planned to build one more story to the structure and to construct an addition in the rear. About $15,000 will be spent on the improvements.

Primaries Today.

The pools are open today to elect candidates for supervisor and justices of the peace. There is a contest in only one ward, where there are more than two candidates running for the office of supervisor. In the other wards but two candidates have filed in each.

Little Girl Shot.

Adeline, the 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Olson, 906 Belknap street, was accidentally shot by Carl Meyers, her playmate, yesterday afternoon. The boy was playing with a rifle and did not know it was loaded. The little girl is in a serious condition.

RECEPTION IN HONOR OF AMERICAN CREWS.

Fort William, Ont., March 18.—On the opening of navigation here about April 15, an elaborate reception to all vessel owners and a banquet to all lake captains calling at the port will be given by the board of trade of this city, chiefly in honor of the forty-eight American crews.

Previous to the opening ceremonies there will be a parade of captains and crews of various boats. There are more American boats here this year than ever before.

Has anybody seen an unattached wad of greenbacks wandering about looking for its owner?

Said roll is described as being of large dimensions, such as would comfortably fill anybody's pocket, with identifying marks running from $100 to $5 plainly displayed on the several faces, and having an unmistakable Canadian accent. When last seen it was worth $470.

Judging from the company in which the roll is reported to have been last seen, the police incline to the opinion that it has fallen into bad hands. The roll is claimed to have been inveigled into the presence of bad associates and real fears of its safety are entertained. That it met with foul play is one of the theories advanced.

The plush came into Duluth a week ago yesterday. It served as the upholstering of one Adolph Monty, a teamster, who had been laboring and saving in Canada. Adolph had always had a hankering for that rich feeling and to gratify it he has had his innocent-appearing apparel lined with the green goods.

When he first wandered into the corporate precincts of the Zenith City, Monty was possessed of a cautious intuition and placed his wealth in the safe at the Bethel. The count showed just $495 in the bundle which went into the strong box of the institution. Monty wandered about, drawing some $25 for purposes of entertainment in the course of the next three or four days. He was having a pretty good time and had as many drinks as were good for him. Last Saturday Monty went to the manager at the Bethel and told him that he had another job in Canada and that he wanted his coin. Once again Monty became a walking bank. But not for long. Possessed of that rich feeling, a feeling that a fellow might get with $470 in his jeans, Monty let himself out a notch or two. The first speeds called for still another progressive shift of the gears and pretty soon Monty was whizzing along at a mile-a-minute clip. Caution was thrown to the winds and he let 'er zip.

Sowing with a lavish hand, it was not long before he fell in with those who were willing to reap the harvest. Monty got drunk. Monty got very drunk. Monty got so drunk that he doesn't remember much of what did happen. Whereforo Monty and his roll were separated. Monty ordinarily had a very friendly feeling for that roll. He had become quite attached to it and liked to feel it hugging him with its satisfying crinkle.

When Monty came to his senses Sunday, he looked first for his old pal, the roll. It had disappeared. Sick at the very thought, he made his way to the police station. He wanted to get his roll back, or at least a part of it. He was somewhat befuddled still, despite the shock occasioned by his loss. But glimmerings of what had taken place came back to him. He remembered that he had met Elmer McLean and said that he had handed him $20 to help him have a real, red-ot session. He remembered McLean, he said, because he had worked for McLean's father in Canada. The police looked McLean up and at the same time picked up Joe Blais, with whom McLean had been for the last couple of days.

Blais was broke Saturday, but when he was brought into the station he had $39 in his pocket. Asked where he got it, Blais told the police that McLean had handed it to him while they were together in the lavatory of a Bowery hotel, admonishing him to "take the money and say nothing." McLean denies that he robbed Monty, but admits that he gavo him some money. Blais also denies that he had been in any farewell party relative to Monty and his roll.

But at the present writing both McLean and Blais are being detained at headquarters, confronted with charges of grand larceny.

Both of them asked for an examination when they were arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon, and their hearings were set for this morning. But the police stated that they had one or two threads that they wanted to follow up, and the case was continued until tomorrow morning.

A board carelessly left leaning against the furnace in the basement of the Osborn block at Nineteenth avenue west caused the fire department a run. The board began to smoke and an alarm was turned in. There was no damage. Had the person who saw the smoke taken a minute to ascertain the cause the ineipient blaze could have been squelched with a bucket of water drawn from the kitchen tap.

Adolph Bicord, about 27 years old, died last night at St. Mary's hospital, whence he was taken from the county jail. Bicord was arrested last week on a charge of being drunk. He denied his guilt but was in such condition that it was decided to detain him for a week. He was seized with an epileptic fit in the police station and fell to the floor, battering and bruising his head. He was in bad shape when he was taken to the county jail and little time was lost in transferring him to a hospital. The body was taken to Crawford's morgue where it is being held pending efforts to locate relatives.

HUBBARD TALKS TO LEGISLATURE

Fra Albertus Says Jefferson Was First and Only Democrat.

Madison, Wis., March 18.—"Thomas Jefferson was the world's first, last and only Democrat; with him died the race," said Elbert Hubbard, the "Sage of Aurora," in an address before the Wisconsin legislature today.

"Jefferson was the only president we have had who had red hair. There is a difference between having red hair and being red-headed. Sometimes I think we should have had more presidents with red hair," he said. Hubbard said he believed a country is governed best which is governed least.

In the course of his talk he referred to the United States supreme court as the "court of last conjecture."

The assembly favored the bill by Mr. Vint, Socialist, authorizing the industrial commission to investigate the subject of old age pensions.

Senator Ackley's resolution relating to the Federal prohibition of polygamy was adopted by the assembly.

A bill providing for a state flag was ordered engrossed by the assembly.

Bills given final assembly passage included:

Prohibiting the use of the common drink in public places; making the penalty for assault, with intent to rob, thirty years.

San Francisco, Cal., March 18.—If Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champion, loses his fight with Tommy Murphy next month he will quit the ring for good. Tom Jones, Wolgast's manager, made this assertion in talking over the plans of the fight prior to Wolgast's departure today for his training camp at Harbin Springs.

STRANGE SERVIAN MONUMENTS.

Tit-Bits: As a result of the Bulgarian-Turko war, Servian towns are being dotted with strange wooden monuments erected to the nation's fallen heroes. Throughout Servia and the Balkan kingdoms the custom has long prevailed among the peasantry of thus honoring their relatives slain in war. The monument, usually carved out of a single block of wood, represents in bas-relief the soldier whose death it commemorates. They are usually put up near the soldier's home or near the spot where he fell, if that spot happens to be in his native country. As the Servian heroes are falling in the enemy's territory, the monuments are necessarily raised in their homes, and very few farms are to be found today in which one at least of these crude carvings is not to be found. They are usually painted in vivid reds and blues. Above the head of the wooden figure is an inscription giving the soldier's name, and sometimes a few details of the manner in which he met his death.

INTIMATES AN UNDERSTANDING

Tillman's Speech Before Senate Rather an Unusual One.

Washington, March 18.—Senator Tillman's unusual speech in the Democratic caucus last Friday when he failed of acceptance as chairman of the appropriations committee became public today when it was printed in full under authority of the senate. References to Senator Martin's activities leading up to his selection for the appropriations chairmanship have aroused general discussion in congressional circles.

Senator Tillman declared he was unable to understand why Mr. Martin should have withdrawn from the contest for party leader and should then have been given the most important chairmanship in the senate.

"I would hate to believe there had been any understanding or any promises or pledges made," he said. "As I have not proof I must perforce leave any accusations unsaid. But I cannot help the suspicion that there must have been a deal of some kind, or Senator Martin would not have retired without a show down."

Senator Tillman said he had given up his plan to deliver a vitriolic speech because he wanted to promote party harmony.

"Democratic harmony and concert of action are more necessary at this time than anything I know of," he said.

"Democratic discipline also is needed very much for, as compared with the Republicans, we are an untrained mob."

CITY GAS AND WATER PLANT EARNED $156,691 IN 1912

Annual Report Shows a Healthy Increase in the Net Revenue.

Board Recommends New Reservoir and New Pump at Lakewood.

The fourteenth annual report of the board of water and light commissioners up to the close of business, Dec. 31, 1912, has just been made to the council.

The board consists of T. T. Hudson, president; J. B. Erd, vice president, and H. H. Phelps, George D. Swift and W. W. Hoopes. In the report are given statistics of the amount of work done during the past year, and many recommendations are given for work to be done in the future. In view of the fact that within a month the city will come under the commission form of government the recommendations of the board are considered to be of exceptional importance.

An improvement urged is the construction of a 5,000,000-gallon reservoir for the Hillside system at Fourteenth street between Second and Third avenues east. Title to the necessary land has been obtained and it is recommended that steps be taken at once to construct the reservoir. A new pumping station for the Woodland and Orphanage district is also recommended and and an additional pumping station at Lakewood. In connection with the latter recommendation it is stated in the report that the demands of the city require the pumping of more than 7,500,000 gallons daily and at certain seasons of the year the requirement is greater than that.

It is recommended that there be installed in the near future at Lakewood, another electrically driven pump of from 15,000,000 to 18,000,000 gallons daily capacity.

In connection with the recent breaks in the 42-inch main supplying the city with water, more rigid inspection of the main is recommended but the statement is made that it is believed to be unnecessary to duplicate the supply main for several years because the main in general is in excellent condition. It is claimed that the steel main is in fine condition and the breaks came in some cast iron connection or valve, of which there are but very few in the entire length of the main.

Tests for Bacteria.

In his report to the board, Manager Hatch mentions the bacteriological tests of the water that have been made and of the safeguards against a typhoid epidemic. He says:

"Pending the design and installation of the permanent hypochlorite plant at Lakewood the emergency plant of the state board of health was installed and has been operated since Oct. 5. The permanent plant, which has been built under the direction of the engineering division of this department, is now complete and is only awaiting the arrival of the driving motor before being put in operation. As a further precaution a plant for the disposal of the sewage from the pumping station and dwellings at Lakewood has also been built at that point."

In another part of this column appears a table showing the gross earnings and the net earnings from operation of the water and light department and in Mr. Hatch's report he states that the total earnings of 1912 compared with those of 1911 show an increase of more than 23 per cent.

He reports a reduction in rates as follows by years:

	Gas. Light.	Fuel.
Aug. 1, 1898	$1.90	$1.00
Dec. 1, 1898	1.65	1.00
April 1, 1899	1.40	1.00

Jan. 1, 1904	.90	.90
July 1, 1904	.90	.75
Oct. 1, 1905	.75	.75

Jan. 1, 1906, gas for heating of premises and gas engines was reduced to 50 cents.

Water.	Per Cent.
Jan. 1, 1899, water rates reduced	20
Jan. 1, 1901, water rates reduced	16 2-3
Jan. 1, 1901, flat rates reduced	33 1-3
July 1, 1904, meter rates reduced	11 1-9
Jan. 1, 1904, flat rates reduced	11 1-9
Making total reductions aggregate for both meter and flat rates	50
Jan. 1, 1909, dawn sprinkling	5½ cents per 100 cubic feet.

Some Statistics.

In its report the department shows the following: It now possesses 142,629 miles of water mains and 126,671 miles of gas mains, all of which has been laid by the department except 53,086 miles of water mains and 29,557 miles of gas mains, which were acquired through purchase when the city took over the plants. The department has water reservoir capacity of 28,500,000 gallons and a gas holder capacity of 718,000 cubic feet. When the plans were first taken over there was capacity of 5,000,000 gallons of water and 200,000 cubic feet of gas. The department operates six pumping stations, 11,588 service connections, 6,552 water meters and 8,693 gas meters in use. During the year just ended the department acquired storage grounds at the East end and at West Duluth adjoining railroad tracks for the convenient storage and handling of its pipes in conducting the business of the city.

An important item reported upon is the fact that during the year 1912 the department laid 13,537 miles of water mains and 14,995 miles of gas mains, installed 958 water and 788 gas connections and set an additional 669 water and 726 gas meters.

Construction Work.

The total amount paid out for construction work during the year, consisting chiefly in making ordinary extensions to distributing systems, was $204,703.48, of which $126,330.14 was for additions and extensions to the water plant and the rest for additions and extensions to the gas plant. The cash balance on Dec. 31, 1912 was $30,821.66. In this connection the following table showing the gross receipts from operations—that is almost entirely receipts from consumers—and the net earnings, at the same time showing an interesting growth in each from 1905 to 1912, inclusive:

	Gross receipts from operation.	Net earnings.
1905	$292,223.72	$ 26,577.04
1906	324,205.88	47,572.97
1907	400,773.95	86,700.19
1908	466,413.50	104,644.36
1909	507,261.86	109,311.44
1910	532,447.23	122,599.86
1911	567,951.37	127,123.19
1912	583,816.14	156,691.17

TRIBUTE TO GREAT TEAM OF GENIUSES

Wall Street Journal Tells of Achievement of Mackenzie and Mann.

The Wall Street Journal pays a tribute to the genius of Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann for their unique achievement in building the Canadian Northern and making every mile pay its way. The Journal says concerning them and the building of the great coast-to-coast road:

"The second railroad system across the continent from the Atlantic to the Pacific will be completed this year. This system, the Canadian Northern, is unique in railroad achievements from the fact that every mile has been made to pay interest charges and a profit from the day it was added. Because of this unique distinction there now is invested in the project of Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann over $260,000,000. Both builders were born poor.

"The gaps in the system which thousands of men and horses, with ponderous machinery are expected by Sir Donald Mann to close before Jan. 1 next, are in Northern Ontario, from the hopper into which the stupendous crops of the fertile empire of grain in western provinces are poured, to Canadian Northern lines in Central Ontario; and at the west end from Yellowhead pass to Port Mann on the Pacific, through the mountains. A construction army such as never was marshalled before is expected to have the eastern link finished in time to haul the 1913 crops and the western link by Jan. 1.

"In this achievement for which the builders have been knighted, Mackenzie always has been the financial genius and Mann the genius of construction. Together they are a team which in the last ten years has made the Canadian Northern grow each year by leaps and bounds from a system earning net in 1902-3 $860,285 to one which earned net of approximately $6,000,000 during the fiscal year last reported, and from 1,300 miles of prairie lines to a system that gridirons not only the grain provinces but the eastern provinces of manufactures as well. Its fleets of ships sail the Atlantic and the Great Lakes. No line was added until the prospective traffic was certain to be profitable, no extension or branch has failed to add to the aggregate net earnings which averaged in 1911-12 about 1,513 per mile.

"In the colonizing of the western provinces the Canadian Northern was a pioneer and a potent factor until this winter, for lack of the completed link of the Canadian Northern, the grain by millions of bushels has been delayed in reaching the seaboard notwithstanding that the elevators and boats at the head of Lake Superior and the line to Duluth has handled a quantity of cereals greater than the total crop of the Dominion but a few years ago. Freight earnings have been the basis for the road's extension, but great passenger stations now will be built or are being built in Montreal, and other cities of the East and Vancouver on the Pacific coast.

"To Western Canada the completion of the system will be momentous, affording an outlet to the seaboard at the east and to the Pacific at the west. When the Panama canal is completed it is expected that much of the grain will be sent to Liverpool through it. About five years will be required for the completion of the terminals at Port Mann and in Vancouver, but shortly thereafter, according to present plans, a Pacific fleet will be added.

"Steel for the line through British Columbia now is being hurried to the West, both by shiploads around the 'horn' and by rail. The longest tunnel, 2,887 feet near Battle Bluff, is nearly completed and other tunnels being driven with record-making dispatch. The order has gone out that the line must be finished this year and the builders have accomplished many times what has been called the impossible."

PLANNING FOR STARTING WORK

Aitkin Contractors Getting Ready to Build Railway Grade.

Aitkin, Minn., March 18.—Olson & Tully of Aitkin, who have the contract to build seventeen miles of railway grade from Deer River to Little Fork, are establishing their camps preparatory to commencing work.

The Backus Interests built twenty miles south from Little Forks into the woods to Backus Camp No. 5. The road now runs from Deer River to Craig. The work of Olson & Tully will fill the gap between Little Forks and Deer River.

B. of R. T. Dance.

The Easter ball of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will be held next Monday evening at the Auditorium.

The lodge is known as No. 569, and the order includes the road and yardmen and the conductors. La Brosse's orchestra will play, and the following committee will have charge of the arrangements: P. McHugh, Roy Hughes and D. J. Brophy.

FEW GRAIN CHARTERS MADE

Elevators at Buffalo Filled; Little Room at Head of Lakes.

Very few charters are being made these days for the conditions in the grain shipping market are rather peculiar. A well known vesselman said yesterday that he fully expects that very soon charters are bound to be made on an export basis.

The wheat capacity at Buffalo is packed and no more is wanted now until export business starts, the elevator capacity at the Canadian Head of the Lakes is jammed and an embargo has been placed on more grain there. And that condition is being rapidly reached at Duluth-Superior. Country elevators in the meantime are bulging their sides trying to hold what is being poured into them and are yelling for help from the terminal elevators with no help in sight until navigation opens.

Therefore very few charters are being made. In fact only two have been made so far as known in the last ten days.

FIRST PACKAGE FREIGHTERS APRIL 19.

F. W. Winship, local agent of the Mutual Transit company got back today from Buffalo where he has been at the head office of the company. He says that the first boats of the company are scheduled to start on the morning of April 19 from each end of the lake, and transportation will open for that organization at that time.

Ice Still Solid.

The ice in the bay yesterday was reported as being thirty-five and five-eighths inches thick and solid. Last year, it is claimed, it was loosened up at this time of the year; and the vessel men for the most part are inclined to think that the opening of navigation is bound to be seriously delayed by the continued cold snap.

STAGE HANDS HOLD SOCIAL SESSION

Lively Entertainment Held During the Early Morning Hours.

The stage hands' union held a social session last night at the Eagles hall. It is said that there was a very lively session. There were a few boxing exhibitions, in one of which the referee won the popular decision himself, for he chased the principals out of the ring; the reason being that they could not fight. It is said that there was a time that few present will forget in many moons.

The session started at 11:30 o'clock after the members of the union were able to get away from their regular duties. The sporting elite of the city was present.

Not the least of the entertainment was the effort to get a portion of the buffet luncheon that was served. The members of the union which had the affair in charge had done themselves proud in arranging that luncheon and it is agreed that it was a dream; but few were able to get away with it. The crowd was too large.

They gathered at the corner where the luncheon was to be served and all endeavored to get a plate. Then they would start for some place of repose where they could enjoy the repast. They would raise the plate above their heads to keep it from being crushed. If they arrived all right they won, but few arrived. As the plate would appear above the heads of the concourse somebody who could not get to the serving table would seize it and proceed to devour it before the original owner could serve replevin papers.

The entertainment lasted until a late hour and if those present are to be believed, it was "some entertainment."

Are You Subject to Constipation

Here Is a Simple Way of Correcting It Instantly Before It Becomes Chronic.

Very few people go through life without some time or other being troubled with constipation. Thousands injure themselves by the use of strong cathartics, salt mineral waters, pills and similar things. They have temporary value in some cases, it is true, but the good effect is soon lost, and the more one takes of them the less effective they become.

A physic or purgative is seldom necessary, and much better and more permanent results can be obtained by using a scientific remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It does not hide behind a high sounding name, but is what it is represented to be, a mild laxative medicine. It is so mild that thousands of mothers give it to tiny infants, and yet it is so compounded, and contains such definite ingredients that it will have equally good effect when used by a person suffering from the worst chronic constipation. In fact, among the greatest endorsers of Syrup Pepsin are elderly people who have suffered for years and found nothing to benefit them until they took Syrup Pepsin.

It is a fact that millions of families have Syrup Pepsin constantly in the house, homes like those of Mrs. G. B. Pruitt, Berea, Ky., who used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin as a laxative tonic. Mrs. Pruitt writes that it so strengthened and cleansed her system that she was quickly relieved of a severe cough which had troubled her for months. The special value of this grand laxative tonic is that it is suited to the needs of every member of the family. It is pleasant-tasting, mild and non-griping. Unlike harsh physics it works gradually and in a very brief time the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to do their work naturally again, when all medicines can be dispensed with.

MRS. G. B. PRUITT

You can obtain a bottle at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar. The latter size is usually bought by families who already know its value. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Have You Rheumatism, Kidney, Liver or Bladder Trouble?

Pain or dull ache in the back is evidence of kidney trouble. It is Nature's timely warning to show you that the track of health is not clear.

Danger Signals.

If these danger signals are unheeded more serious results follow: Bright's disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble, may steal upon you.

The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable curative effect in the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine, you should have the best.

Lame Back.

Lame back is only one of many symptoms of kidney trouble. Other symptoms showing that you need Swamp-Root are, being obliged to pass water often during the day and get up many times during the night.

Inability to hold urine, smarting in passing, uric acid, headache, dizziness, indigestion, sleeplessness, nervousness, sometimes the heart acts badly, rheumatism, bloating, lack of ambition, may be loss of flesh, sallow complexion.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physician, who usually content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease constantly undermines the system.

Can You Save on Your Present Income?

Many people intend to save when their income is larger.

They say that the cost of living prevents them from saving now.

Suppose your income were reduced $2, $5, $10 a week or month. You would get along, wouldn't you, simply by the practice of a little more economy?

Perhaps you could SAVE that amount, too, if you made up your mind to do it.

INTIMATES AN UNDERSTANDING

Tillman's Speech Before Senate Rather an Unusual One.

Washington, March 18.—Senator Tillman's unusual speech in the Democratic caucus last Friday when he failed of acceptance as chairman of the appropriations committee became public today when it was printed in full under authority of the senate. References to Senator Martin's activities leading up to his selection for the appropriations chairmanship have aroused general discussion in congressional circles.

Senator Tillman declared he was unable to understand why Mr. Martin should have withdrawn from the contest for party leader and should then have been given the most important chairmanship in the senate.

"I would hate to believe there had been any understanding or any promises or pledges made," he said. "As I have not proof I must perforce leave any accusations unsaid. But I cannot help the suspicion that there must have been a deal of some kind, or Senator Martin would not have retired without a show down."

Senator Tillman said he had given up his plan to deliver a vitriolic speech because he wanted to promote party harmony.

"Democratic harmony and concert of action are more necessary at this time than anything I know of," he said.

"Democratic discipline also is needed very much for, as compared with the Republicans, we are an untrained mob."

Six Persons Hurt.

Macon, Ga., March 18.—Six persons were slightly hurt this morning when three sleepers and one day coach of the Dixie Flyer, Chicago to Jacksonville, were ditched twenty-five miles south of Macon, on the Georgia Southern & Florida tracks.

Wanted in Minneapolis.

Chicago, March 18.—Roy Hock, said by the police to be wanted at Minneapolis for the alleged theft of $2,000 worth of clothing from the Model Clothing company, by which he was employed, was arrested here today. Hock denies the accusation.

Are You Subject to Constipation

Here Is a Simple Way of Correcting It Instantly Before It Becomes Chronic.

MRS. G. B. PRUITT

Very few people go through life without some time or other being troubled with constipation. Thousands injure themselves by the use of strong cathartics, salt mineral waters, pills and similar things. They have temporary value in some cases, it is true, but the good effect is soon lost, and the more one takes of them the less effective they become.

A physic or purgative is seldom necessary, and much better and more permanent results can be obtained by using a scientific remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It does not hide behind a high sounding name, but is what it is represented to be, a mild laxative medicine. It is so mild that thousands of mothers give it to tiny infants, and yet it is so compounded, and contains such definite ingredients that it will have equally good effect when used by a person suffering from the worst chronic constipation. In fact, among the greatest endorsers of Syrup Pepsin are elderly people who have suffered for years and found nothing to benefit them until they took Syrup Pepsin.

It is a fact that millions of families have Syrup Pepsin constantly in the house, homes like those of Mrs. G. B. Pruitt, Berea, Ky., who used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin as a laxative tonic. Mrs. Pruitt writes that it so strengthened and cleansed her system that she was quickly relieved of a severe cough which had troubled her for months. The special value of this grand laxative tonic is that it is suited to the needs of every member of the family. It is pleasant-tasting, mild and non-griping. Unlike harsh physics it works gradually and in a very brief time the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to do their work naturally again, when all medicines can be dispensed with.

You can obtain a bottle at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar. The latter size is usually bought by families who already know its value. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

CITY GAS AND WATER PLANT EARNED $156,691 IN 1912

Annual Report Shows a Healthy Increase in the Net Revenue.

Board Recommends New Reservoir and New Pump at Lakewood.

The fourteenth annual report of the board of water and light commissioners up to the close of business, Dec. 31, 1912, has just been made to the council.

The board consists of T. T. Hudson, president; J. B. Erd, vice president, and H. H. Phelps, George D. Swift and W. W. Hoopes. In the report are given statistics of the amount of work done during the past year, and many recommendations are given for work to be done in the future. In view of the fact that within a month the city will come under the commission form of government the recommendations of the board are considered to be of exceptional importance.

An improvement urged is the construction of a 5,000,000-gallon reservoir for the Hillside system at Fourteenth street between Second and Third avenues east. Title to the necessary land has been obtained and it is recommended that steps be taken at once to construct the reservoir. A new pumping station for the Woodland and Orphanage district is also recommended and and an additional pumping station at Lakewood. In connection with the latter recommendation it is stated in the report that the demands of the city require the pumping of more than 7,500,000 gallons daily and at certain seasons of the year the requirement is greater than that.

It is recommended that there be installed in the near future at Lakewood, another electrically driven pump of from 15,000,000 to 18,000,000 gallons daily capacity.

In connection with the recent breaks in the 42-inch main supplying the city with water, more rigid inspection of the main is recommended but the statement is made that it is believed to be unnecessary to duplicate the supply main for several years because the main in general is in excellent condition. It is claimed that the steel main is in fine condition and the breaks came in some cast iron connection or valve, of which there are but very few in the entire length of the main.

Tests for Bacteria.

In his report to the board, Manager Hatch mentions the bacteriological tests of the water that have been made and of the safeguards against a typhoid epidemic. He says:

"Pending the design and installation of the permanent hypochlorite plant at Lakewood the emergency plant of the state board of health was installed and has been operated since Oct. 5. The permanent plant, which has been built under the direction of the engineering division of this department, is now complete and is only awaiting the arrival of the driving motor before being put in operation. As a further precaution a plant for the disposal of the sewage from the pumping station and dwellings at Lakewood has also been built at that point."

In another part of this column appears a table showing the gross earnings and the net earnings from operation of the water and light department and in Mr. Hatch's report he states that the total earnings of 1912 compared with those of 1911 show an increase of more than 23 per cent.

He reports a reduction in rates as follows by years:

Gas.

	Light.	Fuel.
Aug. 1, 1898	$1.90	$1.00
Dec. 1, 1898	1.65	1.00

Jan. 1, 1904, flat rates reduced	11 1-9

Making total reductions aggregate for both meter and flat rates 50

Jan. 1, 1909, dawn sprinkling 55 cents per 100 cubic feet.

Some Statistics.

In its report the department shows the following: It now possesses 142,629 miles of water mains and 126,671 miles of gas mains, all of which has been laid by the department except 53,086 miles of water mains and 29,597 miles of gas mains, which were acquired through purchase when the city took over the plants. The department has water reservoir capacity of 28,500,000 gallons and a gas holder capacity of 718,000 cubic feet. When the plants were first taken over there was capacity of 5,000,000 gallons of water and 200,000 cubic feet of gas. The department operates six pumping stations, 11,588 service connections, 6,552 water meters and 8,693 gas meters in use. During the year just ended the department acquired storage grounds at the East end and at West Duluth adjoining railroad tracks for the convenient storage and handling of its pipes in conducting the business of the city.

An important item reported upon is the fact that during the year 1912 the department laid 13,537 miles of water mains and 14,995 miles of gas mains, installed 958 water and 788 gas connections and set an additional 669 water and 726 gas meters.

Construction Work.

The total amount paid out for construction work during the year, consisting chiefly in making ordinary extensions to distributing systems, was $204,703.48, of which $126,350.14 was for additions and extensions to the water plant and the rest for additions and extensions to the gas plant. The cash balance on Dec. 31, 1912 was $30,321.86. In this connection the following table showing the gross receipts from operations—that is almost entirely receipts from consumers—and the net earnings, at the same time showing an interesting growth in each from 1905 to 1912, inclusive:

	Gross receipts from operation.	Net earnings.
1905	$292,222.72	$ 26,577.04
1906	324,205.88	47,572.97
1907	400,773.95	86,700.19
1908	465,413.50	104,644.35
1909	507,261.86	103,311.44
1910	532,447.23	122,599.86
1911	557,951.37	127,123.19
1912	633,816.14	156,691.17

TRIBUTE TO GREAT TEAM OF GENIUSES

Wall Street Journal Tells of Achievement of Mackenzie and Mann.

The Wall Street Journal pays a tribute to the genius of Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann for their unique achievement in building the Canadian Northern and making every mile pay its way. The Journal says concerning them and the building of the great coast-to-coast road:

"The second railroad system across the continent from the Atlantic to the Pacific will be completed this year. This system, the Canadian Northern, is unique in railroad achievements from the fact that every mile has been made to pay interest charges and a profit from the day it was added. Because of this unique distinction there now is invested in the project of Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann over $250,000,000. Both builders were born poor.

"The gaps in the system which thousands of men and horses, with ponderous machinery are expected by Sir Donald Mann to close before Jan. 1 next, are in Northern Ontario, from the hopper into which the stupendous crops of the fertile empire of grain in western provinces are poured, to Canadian Northern lines in Central Ontario; and at the west end from Yellowhead pass to Port Mann on the Pacific, through the mountains. A construction army such as never was marshalled before is expected to have the eastern link finished in time to haul the 1913 crops and the western link by Jan. 1.

"In this achievement for which the builders have been knighted, Mackenzie always has been the financial genius and Mann the genius of construction. Together they are a team which in the last ten years has made the Canadian Northern grow each year by leaps and bounds from a system earning net in 1902-3 $569,285 to one which earned net of approximately $5,000,000 during the fiscal year last reported, and from 1,300 miles of prairie lines to a system that gridirons not only the grain provinces but the eastern provinces of manufactures as well. Its fleets of ships sail the Atlantic and the Great Lakes. No line was added until the prospective traffic was certain to be profitable, no extension or branch has failed to add to the aggregate net earnings which averaged in 1911-12 about 1,513 per mile.

"In the colonizing of the western provinces the Canadian Northern was a pioneer and a potent factor until this winter, for lack of the completed link of the Canadian Northern, the grain by millions of bushels has been delayed in reaching the seaboard notwithstanding that the elevators and boats at the head of Lake Superior and the line to Duluth has handled a quantity of cereals greater than the total crop of the Dominion but a few years ago. Freight earnings have been the basis for the road's extension, but great passenger stations now will be built or are being built in Montreal, and other cities of the East and Vancouver on the Pacific coast.

"To Western Canada the completion of the system will be momentous, affording an outlet to the seaboard at the east and to the Pacific at the west. When the Panama canal is completed it is expected that much of the grain will be sent to Liverpool through it. About five years will be required for the completion of the terminals at Port Mann and in Vancouver, but shortly thereafter, according to present plans, a Pacific fleet will be added.

"Steel for the line through British Columbia now is being hurried to the West, both by shiploads around the horn and by rail. The longest tunnel, 2,887 feet near Battle Bluff, is nearly completed and other tunnels being driven with record-making dispatch. The order has gone out that the line must be finished this year and the builders have accomplished many times what has been called the impossible."

PLANNING FOR STARTING WORK

Aitkin Contractors Getting Ready to Build Railway Grade.

Aitkin, Minn., March 18.—Olson & Tully of Aitkin, who have the contract to build seventeen miles of railway grade from Deer River to Little Fork, are establishing their camps preparatory to commencing work.

The Backus interests built twenty miles south from Little Forks into the woods to Backus Camp No. 5. The road now runs from Deer River to Craig. The work of Olson & Tully will fill the gap between Little Forks and Deer River.

B. of R. T. Dance.

The Easter ball of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will be held next Monday evening at the Auditorium.

The lodge is known as No. 569, and the order includes the road and yardmen and the conductors. La Brosse's orchestra will play, and the following committee will have charge of the arraugements: P. McHugh, Roy Hughes and D. J. Brophy.

FEW GRAIN CHARTERS MADE

Elevators at Buffalo Filled; Little Room at Head of Lakes.

Very few charters are being made these days for the conditions in the grain shipping market are rather peculiar. A well known vesselman said yesterday that he fully expects that very soon charters are bound to be made on an export basis.

The wheat capacity at Buffalo is packed and no more is wanted now until export business starts, the elevator capacity at the Canadian Head of the Lakes is jammed and an embargo has been placed on more grain there. And that condition is being rapidly reached at Duluth-Superior. Country elevators in the meantime are bulging their sides trying to hold what is being poured into them and are yelling for help from the terminal elevators with no help in sight until navigation opens.

Therefore very few charters are being made. In fact only two have been made so far as known in the last ten days.

FIRST PACKAGE FREIGHTERS APRIL 19.

F. W. Winship, local agent of the Mutual Transit company got back today from Buffalo where he has been at the head office of the company. He says that the first boats of the company are scheduled to start on the morning of April 19 from each end of the lake, and transportation will open for that organization at that time.

Ice Still Solid.

The ice in the bay yesterday was reported as being thirty-five and five-eighths inches thick and solid. Last year, it is claimed, it was loosened up at this time or the year, and the vessel men for the most part are inclined to think that the opening of navigation is bound to be seriously delayed by the continued cold snap.

STAGE HANDS HOLD SOCIAL SESSION

Lively Entertainment Held During the Early Morning Hours.

The stage hands' union held a social session last night at the Eagles hall. It is said that there was a very lively session. There were a few boxing exhibitions, in one of which the referee won the popular decision himself, for he chased the principals out of the ring; the reason being that they could not fight. It is said that there was a time that few present will forget in many moons.

The session started at 11:30 o'clock after the members of the union were able to get away from their regular duties. The sporting elite of the city was present.

Not the least of the entertainment was the effort to get a portion of the buffet luncheon that was served. The members of the union which had the affair in charge had done themselves proud in arranging that luncheon and it is agreed that it was a dream; but few were able to get away with it. The crowd was too large.

They gathered at the corner where the luncheon was to be served and all endeavored to get a plate. Then they would start for some place of repose where they could enjoy the repast. They would raise the plate above their heads to keep it from being crushed. If they arrived all right they won, but few arrived. As the plate would appear above the heads of the concourse somebody who could not get to the serving table would seize it and proceed to devour it before the original owner could serve repletin papers.

The entertainment lasted until a late hour and if those present are to be believed, it was "some entertainment."

NEW ISSUE IN CAMPAIGN

Dowling Proposes Committee to Interview Steel Corporation Heads.

Would Present Duluth's Case and Ask for Co-operation.

P. E. Dowling today injected a new issue into the campaign by announcing a new plank in the platform on which he is seeking election as mayor of Duluth.

Mr. Dowling proposes a committee of business men headed by the new commission mayor who by virtue of his office can with the committee speak officially for the whole city, such committee to co-operate with the head officers of the United States Steel corporation at New York in building a large city at the Head of the Lakes.

Mr. Dowling explains the plan as follows:

"For years and years Duluth has been waiting for the United States Steel corporation to build a steel plant here in Duluth. It is being built now but this is only the beginning. There will be many subsidiary plants to follow. Duluth has simply been sitting back and waiting. Some local men formerly in charge of the company's affairs and chiefly responsible for bringing the plant here should with the local president of the Minnesota Steel company be a part of the business men's committee.

"I would like to see a committee of representative business men without any affiliations that would embarrass them go to New York and present Duluth's case to the directors of the corporation. It is not the intention to go armed with a club or to go begging favors. These committee members would simply present Duluth's case in a business like way to business men.

"Duluth has been fighting the Steel corporation's battles for years. The corporation is a great big institution, and the fairest of the big corporations in this country. We should go to them and say: 'Here, we want to help you any way we honestly can. Tell us what you want Duluth to do, and we'll do it if we can. On the other hand we want you to help us make a big city out of Duluth. We want all the subsidiary plants we can get; we'll help you get sites for them without being held up and we'll see that you'll get fair play in taxes. Duluth is with the corporation and is its friend and we want the corporation to be Duluth's friend, but we want reciprocity all along the line.

"The men in charge of the corporation's affairs are broad minded business men and they would be willing to co-operate with such a committee if Duluth's case were fairly presented to them. By this method, or in this way, the Steel corporation will feel that Duluth is on the job and the officers of the corporation will undoubtedly give Duluth its heartiest co-operation.

"We should if necessary place a man from Duluth in New York that he may carry with him the weight of the large corporation and zealously seek new industries for Duluth which are most suitable for our conditions, and along manufacturing lines."

Mrs. Inga Rensaa Given $7,488 Damages in District Court.

Saloon Owner and Bonding Company Are Both Held Liable.

In returning a verdict of $7,488 damages against Gust Egdahl, saloon keeper, and his sureties, a district court jury yesterday afternoon established a precedent which is not only expected to make keepers of disorderly saloons more careful of the manner in which their patrons are treated but will also, it is believed, cause bonding companies to exercise a little more discretion in the matter of furnishing sureties for men who are engaged in the retail liquor business.

The jury's award of damages was in favor of Inga Rensaa, whose husband, Delans Rensaa, was set upon and brutally assaulted in the exit of one of Egdahl's saloons on Sept. 3 last. In the fracas, one of his eyes was kicked out, leaving him totally blind. He had lost the sight of his other eye years ago. Mrs. Rensaa sued for $10,500, claiming that by reason of Egdahl's violation of the law in selling liquor to her husband when intoxicated and of his permitting tough characters to congregate in his place of business, both he and his sureties are liable.

In the verdict which was returned, the Illinois Surety company, bondsmen for Egdahl, was held liable to the extent of $4,000, the amount of the bond furnished the city for Egdahl. Egdahl is personally held liable for the remainder of the verdict, $3,488. A stay of judgment has been granted by Judge Dancer of the trial court. It is expected the case will be appealed.

The case brought by Mrs. Rensaa is distinctly apart from any cause of action which Rensaa himself may bring against Egdahl or the men who committed the assault which left him helpless and blind. He still has the privilege, if he chooses, to bring another suit for damages for suffering, pain and loss of time experienced.

Under the law the saloon keeper and sureties are liable to the wife in certain cases. Her grounds for damages were based on what support she has been deprived of by reason of her husband's disabilities.

Egdahl is the proprietor of two saloons, one at 509 West Michigan street and the other at 512 West Superior street.

One of the features of the case is the jury's finding as to the liability of the surety company for the full amount of the bonds furnished. Heretofore, there have been few, if any, actions of this character brought against a saloon keeper's surety and the result has been that bonds have been furnished at a very low premium on a big risk.

If the case is established and the wife of the injured man wins out in the event that the matter is carried to the supreme court, it may serve to make bonding companies act with a little more discrimination than they apparently have been doing in the past.

John Jenswold, Jr., is attorney for Mrs. Rensaa and considers the jury's verdict quite a victory. H. R. Spencer of Spencer & Marshall appeared in the action as attorney for Egdahl and the surety company.

Montana Appointments.

Washington, March 18. — President Wilson yesterday afternoon nominated: To be registers of land office, Fred H. Foster at Billings, Mont.; Fletcher W. Appleton at Bozeman, Mont.; to be receiver of public moneys, W. F. Eatman, at Harrison, Ark.; Edward J. McLean, at Billings, Mont., and James T. Hamilton, at Miles City, Mont.

ROBS CASH REGISTER AS POLICEMAN LOOKS..

St. Paul, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A thief entered the Bismarck cafe here early today, took $242 from the cash register and safe while a policeman looked through the front window and mistook him for a bartender.

When the officer pressed his face against the window glass, without hesitation the thief walked boldly to the window and looked the policeman in the face. Then he pretended to be wiping off the bar and fastening the doors. The policeman passed on, thinking the man inside was an employe.

The police are searching for a former employe of the cafe, who used to room above the place.

Dig Up Prehistoric Animal.

Marshall, Minn., March 18.—The skull of a prehistoric animal was found by workmen who were digging near the village of Russell. The curio, which lay twenty-five feet below the surface, is nearly as large as the skull of a full-grown steer, but the eyesockets are only two inches apart. The skull rises eight inches above the eyesockets, and is longer and narrower than the skull of a steer. There is no evidence that the head bore horns.

DISCUSSION ON CAMPAIGN

The Municipal Ownership League Meeting Will Attract Candidates.

Bookmakers Pick Four Men to Win Against the Field.

The meeting of the Municipal Ownership league at the council chamber in the city hall is the principal attraction in the political field tonight.

The league is preparing to take part in the campaign and some of its officers have been studying the replies to the Stirrup club letters in order to get a line on the candidates.

Many candidates will be on hand tonight and all expect an opportunity to talk. Members of the league are willing to accept first hand information and to have an opportunity to question candidates, so tonight's meeting is likely to develop a free-for-all political discussion.

The book-makers have arranged their odds on the basis of the outlook at present, and the books are posted in downtown cigar stores. The book is interesting, as showing how the men with money to bet look at the situation.

Prince for mayor, Voss and McCormick for long term commissioners and Bert Farrell for short term commissioner are the only men backed to win, even money being offered that each of the four will be elected.

Odds of 2 to 1 are offered that Cullum, Dowling, Fay, or Silberstein will not be elected. The odds are 3 to 1 against McEwen, 4 to 1 against Day and 5 to 1 against Getchell, Nesbitt and Kaplan.

The book-makers offer 2 to 1 against Armstead, Merritt and Preston, with 7 to 1 against Graff and 10 to 1 against the others.

Next to Farrell, Hicken and Jordan are made favorites for the short term by offers of even money against their election. The odds against the other candidates for the short term range from 5 to 1 to 100 to 1. W. B. Ardouin being the longest shot on the board.

Judge Cutting is the only top-heavy favorite in the list of candidates, 2 to 1 being offered that he will be elected.

An illuminating straw vote was cast yesterday in a downtown business place, where a representative body of men is employed. The result of the poll is of no more importance than any straw vote, but the feature is the extent to which the second and third choice columns were used.

Fifty first choice votes for mayor were cast, and 45 second choice. The total of additional was 76. For long-term commissioner, the total vote of all candidates on first choice was 56, on second choice 72 and on third choice 66.

P. E. Dowling, candidate for mayor, will speak tomorrow night at the Polish hall, Fourth avenue east and Fourth street. Thursday evening he will speak at Dormedy hall in West Duluth, and Friday evening at the French Naturalization club in the West end. Saturday evening he will make an address at Bricklayers' hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street. Headquarters were opened for Mr. Dowling at 12 Phoenix building this morning. His campaign committee has been organized, with J. C. Myles as manager and Ross Boyd and J. C. Haley as assistants.

Marcus L. Fay, candidate for mayor, will speak tonight at Dormedy hall, West Duluth. Mr. Fay will speak on his candidacy and reaffirm his stand on law enforcement.

• • •

W. J. Prince's headquarters in the Torrey building are now in full blast. The headquarters are in charge of Henry E. Voight. Oscar J. Larson, Mr. Prince's campaign manager, says that Mr. Prince will probably make some speeches next week, but his campaign will be mostly confined to personal work.

The speech by Christ D. O'Brien, former mayor of St. Paul, in support of the candidacy of Leonidas Merritt for commissioner for the long term has been arranged for Tuesday evening, March 25. It will be given at K. of P. hall, 118 West Superior street. Mr. O'Brien has many friends in Duluth and he will attract a big crowd. He and Mr. Merritt have been friends from boyhood, and the St. Paul man is anxious to see Mr. Merritt elected.

TOTAL REGISTRATION WAS ONLY 10,115

Final registration figures reported to City Clerk C. S. Palmer show that 10,115 Duluth voters have registered for the election April 1.

The registration for the general election Nov. 5 was 12,706, indicating that over 2,500 Duluth voters will not vote this spring, or expect to vote after the filing of affidavits of residence on election day.

The registration on the first day was 5,037 and on the second day 5,078.

Following is the total registration of the precincts:

First Ward.

First, 204; Second, 269; Third, 345; Fourth, 260; Fifth, 542; Sixth, 466; total, 2,086.

Second Ward.

First, 265; Second, 315; Third, 330; Fourth, 363; Fifth, 250; total, 1,523.

Third Ward.

First, 114; Second, 251; Third, 258; Fourth, 318; total, 941.

Fourth Ward.

First, 221; second, 79; Third, 154; Fourth, 165; Fifth, 164; total, 783.

Fifth Ward.

First, 363; Second, 212; Third, 196; Fourth, 200; Fifth, 124; total, 1,095.

Sixth Ward.

First, 71; Second, 182; Third, 121; Fourth, 261; Fifth, 105; total, 740.

Seventh Ward.

First, 431; Second, 360; Third, 248; Fourth, 296; Fifth, 282; Sixth, 302; total, 1,919.

Eighth Ward.

First, 300; Second, 163; Third, 144; Fourth, 247; Fifth, 37; Sixth, 40; Seventh, 67; Eighth, 30; total, 1,028.

Grand total of wards, 10,115.

A voter who failed to register last week may vote on election day by filing an affidavit of residence supported by the affidavits of two property owners of the election district in which he lives. Blarks will be provided at the polling places for the affidavits, and it is expected that a sufficient number of votes will be cast on affidavits to offset the ordinary falling off of the vote from the total registration.

TALK TO VOTERS AT WOODLAND

The Socialist candidates held a well attended mass meeting at Woodland Monday night. E. N. Edes, W. E. Towne and Morris Kaplan were the speakers.

E. N. Edes, candidate for the short term, announced last night the plans of the candidates for a municipal labor bureau.

Concerning the purpose and character of this bureau Mr. Edes stated that it will be left free to develop as conditions will command. It is expected that the bureau will inaugurate several lines of work. The policy will not be one of rigid plan, but rather a growth that will meet the needs of the local labor market as these needs uncover themselves.

For instance if a woodyard seems necessary, it will be established, if a municipal hotel is demanded it will be opened. Only that will be undertaken for which, upon investigation, there proves to be a real demand.

The most important immediate undertaking of the bureau will be the establishment of a labor exchange, the functions of which are clearly defined to meet an obvious need.

All studies, such as research work and immediate relief concerning the unemployed will be handled by this bureau as the head of which a sociological expert will be engaged.

Such an institution, claims Mr. Edes, will solve 75 per cent of the Bowery saloon problem.

Tuesday night all candidates as well as E. B. Harris of Superior, who will speak on municipal socialism, will address a meeting at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. Wednesday evening they will be at the Park Point mission.

Last Spring My Health

Was competely broken down through prolonged watching at a sick bed. My appetite was gone. I was so nervous that I could not sleep. I became pale, thin, languid, tired, looked ten years older. Through physical weakness my mental condition was affected. Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to perfect health. It aided the wornout nerves of my stomach to do their duty. I could soon eat and sleep peacefully and felt new life course through my veins. Within six weeks I was my former self, and for a year have enjoyed the best health." Julia C Tison, Atlantic City, N. Display of Spring Millinery

The Millinery Opening Shows the Accepted Modes for Spring

Today's visitors were most enthusiastic over the showing.

OUR NEW MILLINERS have scored a triumph for us, they bring to you the advantages of ripe experience in metropolitan fashion centers. They are artists in designing and adapting; they have the originality and talent to conceive hats that will be La Mode, yet uncommon. They understand how to create pleasing little differences which appeal to women of taste and refinement. There is "tone," there is "class" to the hats you will see here and if your requirements demand a specially designed hat, our workroom is prepared to execute your orders with taste and dispatch. A wide range of styles is favored. Many new Mushroom shapes are presented, though upturned brims predominate. Flowers, ribbons and novelty feathers run riot. Quaint little Poke Bonnets and shapes turned up in the back suggest Louis XVI or Shepherdess style—smart yet demure, brimless, or close brimmed turbans are also shown; flat brimmed sailors will appeal to many.

WE QUOTE FROM ONE OF THE BEST POSTED FASHION WRITERS WHO SENDS FROM PARIS THE FOLLOWING:

"The Trend in Trimmings" includes—

Colored English Crepes,
Small Bright Colored Flowers.
Fancy Bulgarian Ribbons.
Numidie continues extremely smart.
Ostrich, especially in novelty effects.
Shadow Lace on dressy models.
Long Bearded Wheat.

For Matrons

there are pleasing roll-brim shapes as well as toques with the newly fashionable long-from-front-to-back effects.

The question mark and Bulgarian bands and ornaments are even used but in subdued form or degree.

When the flowers are used in upright fashion as they frequently are—they are distinguished by a certain stiffness and straightness.

Tree-like effects are relieved from stiffness by clever touches given to the fairy-like flowers.

Old fashioned bouquet effects of Roses, Forget-me-nots, Mignionette, Marigold and Zinnias are highly favored.

Crowns of plain or fancy satins, chiffons and malines are represented.

Every color of the rainbow is represented in the showing.

Opening Displays of Garments

A thoroughly satisfying collection of women's apparel ready for Easter, prepared especially for women of taste, style sense and good judgment of values.

This store, rich and beautiful in its spring stocks, will appeal especially to those women who care both for what they wear and what they pay for it.

We rest our claim for your patronage on two main foundations—our styles and our values. Judge us by either or by both, and act as your judgment directs. On anything like a critical comparison, we have no doubt of your decision.

Coats, Suits, (Including the incomparable Wooltex styles) Dresses, Waists, Gloves and Neckwear

all ready for your inspection. Detail is impossible—the preparations of months cannot be told in a short advertisement and you probably would not read a long one.

All we need or can say in this space is come and see. We have what you want at a price you will think reasonable

Woman's Realm

Minnesota laws relating to women were explained by Mrs. Irene C. Buell in her talk last evening at the open social meeting of the Twentieth Century club held at the library club room.

A law prohibiting malicious gossip or the repetition of scandal exists she said although it is little known and "Persons," she said, "who shall maliciously speak of a woman in any false or defamatory words which shall injure her reputation, or shall expose her to hatred, contempt or ridicule, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

"This law," she said, "is one of the Minnesota rulings favoring women and here married women have almost equal property rights with their husbands."

She explained marriage and divorce laws, the awarding of alimony and at the close of her talk questions were asked by members of the audience and answered by Mrs. Buell.

Mrs. Buell is the only one of five women lawyers in the state of Minnesota who is practising law exclusively and her talk proved enlightening and of interest.

Preceding the talk Miss Winnifred Hicks played "The Rosary" with a beautiful interpretation and Mrs. Jane Everington Scully sang, "I Had A Flower" and "Love Has Wings," in her usual charming style.

Members of the Evening Shakespeare class acted as hostesses for the evening the guests being received by Mrs. H. L. Gage and presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Gage and Mrs. N. F Hugo assisted by members of the class.

GLEE CLUB COMING.

Minnesota Students Will Be Entertained in Duluth.

What promises to be one of the musical treats of the season will be the concert to be given at the Central high school auditorium Easter Monday evening by the University of Minnesota Glee club, under the auspices of the Central High School Alumni association. The concert is to be given for the Charles Alden Zenith Memorial fund.

In addition to a chorus of twenty-five voices, word was received here this morning stating that Mrs. Carlyle Scott, wife of the club's director, will render several violin solos and Ernest Golden, one of the club members and its accompanist, will give one or two piano solos during the evening. The club quartet, consisting of Messrs. Grindeland, Crawford, McNally and Webster, will sing several popular songs as an added attraction of the concert.

The boys will arrive in Duluth next Monday afternoon and are to be the guests of the Minnesota Alumni association of Duluth during their stay in the city. Arrangements are to be made within a few days for either an informal dancing party following the concert or a luncheon the latter part of the afternoon at one of the downtown hotels. Edward Furni, president of the high school alumni, who is in charge of the concert; Walter Dacey, president and A. B. Kendrick of the Minnesota Alumni association, are in charge of the entertainment.

Following the Duluth concert, the club will make a tour of the range cities, visiting Hibbing on Tuesday and Virginia Wednesday morning.

MISSIONARY MEETING.

Annual Session of Women's Societies Being Held.

The twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Duluth Presbytery opened this morning well attended at the First Presbyterian church. Preliminary business and the reports of officers for the past year were given at the meeting this morning, the following officers speaking. Mrs. C. E. Canfield, secretary of literature; Mrs. J. Blackmarr, secretary of Freedman; Mrs. G. M. Smith, secretary of study classes; Mrs. J. D. McBride reported for Mrs. W. H. Burris, treasurer, and Mrs. Robert Yost, corresponding secretary.

This afternoon, Miss Elizabeth Cameron, field secretary of the Woman's Board of Home Missions, gave an address following the devotional service led by F. H. Rogers.

The program for the meetings tomorrow follows: Reports of officers, Mrs. C. S. Pierce, Mrs. J. A. McGaughey, Mrs. F. H. Rogers, Mrs. W. I. Jackson and Mrs. W. J. Baracken reporting for different departments.

At Wednesday afternoon's session Mrs J. P. Engstrom, field secretary of the board of the Northwest, will give an address on general mission work.

SOCIAL LEADER IN TWO GREAT CITIES

MISS MAY VAN ALEN.

May Van Alen is a daughter of James Van Alen of New York and Newport and well known socially in London. Miss Van Alen has spent much of her time in England in recent years. She is a sister of Mrs. Robert J. Collier and closely related to the Astor family.

AT CHILDREN'S HOME.

Youngsters Have Frolic on St. Patrick's Day.

An effective St. Patrick's day party was given for the little folks at the Children's home last evening by Miss MacGregor, the matron of the home, and her assistants there. Miss Madle Wallen played a group of piano numbers during the evening for their games and dancing, and a potato race, folk dances and other games were thoroughly enjoyed by the little youngsters. In the reception room a big dome made of barrel hoops covered with green crepe paper and hung with shamrocks and clay pipes, was used and a little Irish lad seated near the fireplace added to the decorative scheme. At 9 o'clock a little supper was served and baskets of fruit tied with green bows and cunning little shamrock place cards adorned the children's table and the green and white was carried out in the ice and cakes.

There were several guests at the home for the party who were served in the small dining room where a centerpiece of shamrocks made from potatoes was used and green shaded candles cast a pretty light.

An evening party was a treat allowed because this is vacation week with no school "the morning after."

Study City Budget.

Miss Amy Oliver led the meeting of the Civic Study class of the Woman's council held yesterday afternoon at the library club room, the subject being "The City Budget." Budget publicity will be discussed at the next meeting in two weeks with Mrs. M. B. Baldwin as leader, and this will conclude the work of the class for the year.

Next year the class will study ordinance and their enforcement.

Gardner-Anderson.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wallen, 124 Tenth avenue east was the scene of a quiet little wedding Sunday afternoon when Miss Florence A. Gardner, formerly of this city, became the bride of Andrew M. Anderson of Ewen, Mich. Rev. R. E. Sayles, pastor of the First Baptist church read the ceremony in the presence of only a few intimate friends, and Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left on the evening train for Ewen, where they will make their home.

Church Meetings.

The Woman's Alliance of the Unitarian church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Mrs. Alfred Jaques, 1205 East Third street. The members are asked to be prompt and the afternoon will be spent doing mending for the Children's home.

* * *

The women of the First M. E. church will be entertained at the regular monthly thimble bee tomorrow afternoon at the parlors of the church, with Mrs. Shellenburger, Mrs. Cluett and Mrs. Kulght as hostesses for the afternoon.

Mrs. McAlpine Hostess.

Mrs. John McAlpine was hostess at two St. Patrick luncheons yesterday afternoon and this afternoon at her home, 1610 East First street, at which the honor guest was Mrs. D. H. Nichols of Chicago, who was formerly Miss Irene Whiting of this city.

Covers yesterday were laid for six, and today there were ten places laid. The decorations were of course carried out in green and white, the table linen being embroidered with green shamrocks. The place cards, centerpieces and all appointments were of the same colors.

Secretary Resigns.

Miss Ellen Ledward, who has been in charge of the junior work at the Young Women's Christian association for the past few months, has resigned and returned to her home in Chicago. The vacancy will not be filled at present.

MISS ELLEN LEDWARD.

Birthday Party.

Miss Edna Magnusson of 2617 West Fifth street entertained a few of her friends last evening in celebration of her birthday. The evening was pleasantly spent in games and music by the following guests:

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Johnson.
Mrs. Enna Anderson.
Misses.—
Olga Johnson, Lillian Soderberg,
Cora Borgstrom, Lillian Magnusson,
Hulda Soderberg,
Olga Nickelson.
Edna Magnusson,
Messrs.—
Horace Stewart, Bruce Stewart,
Ira Bishop, Henry Magnusson,
Leonard Soderberg, Arthur Selins.

Party Postponed.

The card party which was to have been held this evening by Zenith lodge, No. 99, Degree of Honor, at the Maccabee hall has been postponed until Tuesday afternoon of next week.

Bundle Shower.

Miss Ellyn Anderson entertained at a bundle shower last evening at her home, 2402 West Fourth street in honor of Miss Esther Murphy, whose wedding to C. J. Middlecoff will take place in the early spring. Music and games were features of the evening and refreshments were served to the following guests:

Mrs. Fredin, and the Misses Agnes Campbell, Gertrude Ehmcke, Anna Segerman, Nelline Lowe, Josephine Kadet, Anna Sullivan, Anna Thorsell, Murray and Anderson.

Auxiliary to Meet.

The Sons of Veterans auxiliary will hold its regular meeting tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at Memorial hall. A number of new candidates will be admitted and other business of importance will be transacted and a large attendance is urged.

Livingston Program.

The one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Livingstone will be celebrated with a "Livingstone program" tomorrow afternoon at the regular meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, which will be held at 2:30 o'clock in the church parlors.

Irish Porgam.

A talk by William E. McEwen on "Ireland and Irishmen," and a program of Irish songs and readings was enjoyed by members of Duluth Council, No. 1, Modern Samaritans, following their regular meeting last evening in the K. of P. hall. Mr. McEwen spoke of Ireland as a "country of statesmen and poets," and he spoke of Wellington, the soldier type, O'Connell, the orator; Tom Moore, the poet, and Robert Emmet, the martyr-patriot as typical of the Irish.

The Lavick brothers played Hoffman's "Barcarole" in a violin duet; Miss Dorothy Close sang, "Killarney, My Home Over the Sea," with Miss Harriet Close at the piano and Henry G. Lavick playing a violin obligato.

"St. Patrick" was the subject of a talk by Dr. Stella Wilkinson and John Galbraith sang "Coming Through the Rye."

Miss Enid Shaw gave two readings, "An Irish Journey" and "A Proposal," and Miss Ruth Glover sang "The Kerry Dance" and "By the Well," and a duet, "If I Were a Girl" was given by Maud Leonard and Dorothy Kern.

A dancing party is planned for Easter Monday evening.

Bridge Luncheon.

Mrs. Harry Hopkins of 4931 East Superior street entertained at a bridge luncheon at her home yesterday afternoon in compliment to Mrs. George Neally of Chisholm. Covers were laid for twelve and the table decorations were shamrocks and carnations and green candles shaded with shamrock shades.

The bridge prize was won by Mrs. E. F. Chalk and Mrs. Neally received the guest prize.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Brooks of Twenty-first avenue east and Second street have returned from a two weeks' trip to Kansas City, Mo., and points in Texas.

* * *

Mrs. George W. Alexander of 717 West Second street is visiting friends and relatives at Keokuk, Iowa, for a few weeks.

Walker Liked Entertainment.

Pine River, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Walker turned out a packed house Saturday night at the appearance of the Pine River Concert orchestra in that city. The trip to Walker was made in a special car, the Pine River folks going along being of sufficient number to fill the car. A week ago the orchestra gave a concert at Pequot which was well attended notwithstanding very bad weather, and the organization is becoming very popular throughout the country. Arrangements are talked of for an extended tour of this section of the state.

Don't wait until Saturday.

Train Service Resumed.

La Crosse, Wis., March 18.—Traffic on the Southern Minnesota and the Reno Preston divisions of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad and on the La Crosse & Southeastern line, which was practically abandoned after the heavy rain of last Thursday night, was resumed Monday, and although the washouts have not been completely repaired, trains are operating over the various branches of the roads.

STYLE WEEK OPENS IN DULUTH

Local Stores Have Magnificent Displays of Easter Apparel---What the Shopper Is Offered at Gray's, Freimuth's, the Glass Block and Gidding's.

Style week in Duluth is certainly receiving due consideration from members of the fairer sex, for streets and shops are crowded with "window shoppers," and many who intended only to look have been unable to resist the attraction of the fresh, pretty things and have bought. Nearly every shop has arranged its new styles for inspection this week and the wonderfully effective things shown are a revelation to the visitors.

Feminine "ohs" and "ahs" proclaimed the delight of that half, or rather about nine-tenths, of the shoppers, and a few exclamations of pleasure in the bass from the other one-tenth who viewed the shows from the view of mere man. However, this last one-tenth seemed as well satisfied with the pageant of gorgeous fashions as the wives, daughters and sisters were and gave up their check book with small reluctanee in exchange for lovely wardrobes for the spring and summer.

At Gidding's Store.

The shopper got off the car at the Gidding corner and was immediately lost in admiration of the exquisitely dainty and distinctive costumes shown there. Shown with elegant simplicity are several imported frocks which are "perfect dreams" which the shopper is loath to pass by, and a group of unique miniature figures, "Un Coin de Pessage a Longchamp," is attracting much attention. It is a pretty little gem of decoration showing several little wax figures in gowns of the hour.

Inside, the sweet mingled perfumes of roses, carnations, narcissus, sweet peas, tulips and the verdure of stately palms transform the place of commercialism into a restful bower of beauty where the shoppers lingered with evident pleasure.

Genuine copies of the firm's individual importations from Paquin, Poiret, Worth, Beer, Premet, Bonnaeau, Reverdot and other noted makers are displayed and the Greek and Bulgarian influences are seen everywhere in the brilliant dashes of color that characterize the linings and trimming and sometimes even the entire garment.

Rich brocaded silk and wool materials, matalese silks, embossed crepes, pompadour voiles, Persian and Dresden effects, imported novelty, ratines and a host of other materials make the shopping an interesting one.

Gowns of soft, filmy draperies and marvelous colorings are shown, and the suits are well divided between the plain and fancier types, with novelty styles well to the fore. Small, close-fitting hats, tall and stunning hats, a few large ones for the women who insist on having them or for the faces which cannot stand the smaller hats, all have their place in the millinery department, but the large hats are most of them flat, having the effect of a sun shade and they are soft and drapy rather than stiff and imposing.

At the Glass Block.

From the window displays of the Glass Block store the visitor or shopper gets a fair idea of the lovelinss of this shop in the expanse of the departments of vital interest to the woman who is looking for correctness in detail in spring hats, suits and frocks and the little accessories necessary to complete her wardrobe for the coming season.

Carried out in Grecian effect of white with trailing vines or roses and great clusters of graceful iris, the windows themselves are a pretty setting for the things displayed. In one window a model in a gown of the new "Nell pink" is seated in front of a dressing table, and hats and frocks are also displayed which are being closely examined by the passerby. A window of tans and browns is attractive and one suit of a dainty tan, with boots and gloves to match, appears especially suggestive of Easter.

The attractive little evening wraps and street coats of a shorter length than last season, made with one button and the cut-away effect, are shown, and also hats of particular effectiveness and brilliance of color.

In the hat department, which has been enlarged, covering about half of the third floor, the display of hats, large and small, but, of course, mostly small, is simply bewildering. The suit and gown departments are as attractive and the dress goods department, too, with its tub fabrics and silks, was popular.

At Geo. A. Gray's.

Spring apparel and all the lovely little accessories so much admired by the shoppers were displayed to advantage in the spacious departments at the George A. Gray company shop for the pleasure of the shoppers who thronged the shops today and many a sale was made through the tempting showings.

One forgets the snow and wind and the possibility of March freckles in the daintiness and fluffiness of the summer things displayed. The shopper went first to the hat department where a perfect riot of color charmed the eye and hats galore in the latest little style fancies are shown. The "man-who-knows" there said that among the colors which are especially good this season is the "Kelly green" and he showed the shopper a table full of wonderful little creations in that hue. He also told of the "up-standing trend in trimming" which is quite impressive to the short woman and he pointed out one of the pattern hats of a delicate tan soft straw of small turban shape with a banding of black velvet ribbon around the crown and the most real looking peonies adding at least five inches to the height.

There was a pretty little street hat of a deep lilac straw trimmed with ribbon and lilacs and a band of the inevitable "Nell pink." There was also a dainty little evening hat of black malline made to fit close over the head, almost in cap fashion and it was edged with a wreath of pansies in violet and lavender with a purple shaded numidi plume at the side.

Gowns of soft silks and ginghams, linens and tissues were all shown in their places and among the new tub gowns were many of soft cotton crepes which are particularly strong this season. This material is also shown prominently in the dress goods department. Embroidered voiles, crepes and bordered ratine and voile combinations are also attractive.

In the coat department a pretty model of covert cloth lined with a delicate rose silk was shown and in the tailored models this is the goods which leads.

Gowns with the skirts silt up as far as the knee for freedom in walking were shown, most of the openings being covered with deep flaps or underflouncings.

The new things in gloves, scarfs, leather goods, jewelry and neckwear also attracted the shopper.

At Freimuth's.

Peestrians on Superior street at the Lake avenue corner were compelled to stop at the windows of the I. Freimuth shop to get a good view of the beauties of summer wardrobes shown there. Brocaded silks in the new shades filled one window. Another showed a handsome rose ratine coat of the 45-inch length made on cut-away lines, fastened with three crystal buttons clustered near the waist line.

A window full of millinery was also of special interest, one of the models shown being a large white bonnet-shaped leghorn with fetching black velvet bows and streamers, and a small hat of vivid blue covered with the much-used chiffon veiling brought out in a saucy bow in the back was also attractive.

Among the gowns shown, a black lace embroidered with large figures in gold, made up with draped effect, was noticeable, and a gown of old gold chiffon over a brocaded silk, with little touches of green velvet, was also shown.

From the windows one simply had to go inside, and the hat and gown and suit departments were the crowded parts of the shop.

Saleswomen in the hat department with deft fingers placed the dainty little hats on at just the right angle and simply hypnotized many into getting their spring hat right away, when they had made up their minds to wait a bit. Dear little shapes fitting snugly and "just showing the hair on the left side a little bit" gave an air of smartness and style. Hats of one color or shade were arranged on separate tables and wonderfully attractive models peeped out from glass cases most alluringly.

Brocades, chiffons, silks and other delicate materials deftly draped and fitted into distinctive looking gowns are shown on models and hangers in the gown department and exquisitely dainty negligees of silk and laces are also given their place on display.

Blouses with long or short sleeves, with high lace or net collars, or with round turn-back collars are shown, and soft wash silks are prominent in the waist department. The tailored waists hold their own as at all times, but are especially good in the soft tub silks and pongees.

HELP! NOW COMES THE "CUBIST" GOWN FOR SPRING

Chicago, March 18.—The "Cubist" gown will be the proper conceit in women's dress this spring, according to information imparted last night by a member of the Chicago Dressmakers' club.

A full description of the new departure in dress has not been obtainable, but one woman said a front view of the gown reminded her of the futurist painting, "Nude Descending a Stairway," which recently was shown at the international exhibition of modern art in New York.

The creation is of "futurist" satin, with a floral design in straight lines. The trimmings are square, resembling alphabet blocks. The sleeves are four-cornered. Despite the geometrical construction of the lines, the garment does not make the figure angular, but accentuates the curves, and is said to lend a distinctive air of grace.

About 1,000 dressmakers are here to attend the annual convention of the club which will open today.

Time Passed in Gossiping Better Spent in Improving One's Mind.

The habit of gossip is one that is attached, in the minds of men, at least, with the female sex. That there are men gossips, however, cannot be denied; although we women must admit that they are comparatively rare, as compared with the female of the species. Most women—though many probably would resent the impeachment—are given to gossip in one form or another, and to a smaller or larger degree. There is gossip, however, and gossip. Some of it, no doubt, is harmless; but the other brand is evil, and often wickedly malicious. The former is not worth while, and the latter is, to my mind, one of the worst evils that flesh is guilty of.

In the very nature of things, I suppose it is the inevitable thing for two or more women, when they get together, to indulge in this practice—at least in its petty form. They have to talk about something, and nothing apparently reaches the feminine heart so much as the subject of some other woman's domestic affairs, her personal habits and tastes and her intimate personal affairs. This form of gossip, if free of evil and malicious spirit or intent, is to say the least, profitless and in bad taste, and has positively no redeeming feature to make it worth while.

Gossip in the other form is a far more serious matter. Under the law, if a man or woman takes another's life, he or she is answerable at the bar of justice for murder. But there are assassins of reputation in every community, who go scot free. They might be haled into court in a crimnal action for slander, or a civil suit for libel; but that is generally impracticable, because the professional gossip generally covers up her tracks. Even if such recourse were practicable, the evil would be done. It is easier to start an evil report than to recall it; and no matter how improbable or untrue it may be, it always falls upon some willing ears.

I contend that women of true culture and refinement do not gossip. How much more profitable it would be for those who do, if they would spend the same amount of time in cultivating their minds—in reading good literature and enlarging their mental grasp generally. As one's mental vision widens, the desire to gossip grows less, until one finally reaches the point where one scorns the practice, and finds it repulsive in others.

Indeed, women who have a live interest in domestic or social problems, or in literature or art, have little time and less use for gossip. And knowledge and some wholesome interest teaches them charity for their own kind.

Woman's Realm

Minnesota laws relating to women were explained by Mrs. Irene C. Buell in her talk last evening at the open social meeting of the Twentieth Century club held at the library club room.

A law prohibiting malicious gossip or the circulation of scandal exists she said, although it is little known and "Person," she said, "who shall maliciously speak of a woman in any false or calumnious words which shall injure her reputation, or shall expose her to hatred, contempt or ridicule, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

She also said, in one of the Minnesota cities four women and two men were appointed to act as probation officers with full authority.

She explained married and property laws, the wording of which led to the case of our talk questions were asked by members of the class present and answered by Mrs. Buell.

Mrs. Buell is the only one of the women lawyers in Duluth. She is also a member of the legislature and a member of the board of education.

During the talk Miss Winnifred Hicks played The Rosary with a beautiful interpretation and Mrs. Ed Overman sang, "Love Has Wings." Flowers from the Vasa lodge, the usual charming accompaniment.

Members of the Twentieth Century club were hostesses for the evening and the committee in charge of the meeting consisted of Mrs. Ed Overman, Mrs. Ingebretsen and Mrs. H. Hagen. Mrs. Buell was presented with a bouquet of flowers by members of the class.

GLEE CLUB COMING.

Minnesota Students Will Be Entertained in Duluth.

What promises to be one of the musical treats of the season will be the concert to be given at the Central high school by the Minnesota Glee club Monday evening, under the auspices of the Central High School Parent-Teacher association. The concert is to be given for the benefit of the Alice Zenith Memorial fund.

In addition to a number of selections by the club, which has received high praise from musical critics, Miss Marie Morrisey, reader, and Miss Mabel Beddall, violinist, will appear on the program. Miss Morrisey is a graduate of the school of expression of Minneapolis and has appeared in concert work in that city. Miss Beddall is a pupil of Prof. Carl Fique of the Duluth Conservatory of Music. She has appeared during the season in a number of concerts in Duluth and has been heard in recital with Miss Morrisey. The program will be announced in full later.

MISSIONARY MEETING.

Annual Session of Women's Societies Being Held.

The annual missionary meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the First Methodist Episcopal church is being held this afternoon and evening in the church parlors. This afternoon's session began at 2:30 o'clock and will continue until 5 o'clock. This evening's session will begin at 7:30 o'clock and will continue until 9 o'clock. Mrs. Frank Crandall is in charge of the meeting.

Study City Budget.

Miss Amy Oliver led the meeting of the Study class of the Woman's council held yesterday afternoon at the library. The subject being the City Budget publicity was discussed. Of the next meeting two weeks with Mrs. M. B. Baldwin as leader, and this will conclude the work of the class for the year.

Next spring the class will study ordinances and their enforcement.

Gardner-Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wallin announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Florence Wallin, to Mr. Roy Gardner, which took place Sunday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, 1919 West Third street. Rev. Mr. Rogers performed the ceremony in the presence of only a few relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Gardner will be at home after April 1 at 1919 West Third street.

SOCIAL LEADER IN TWO GREAT CITIES

MISS MAY VAN ALEN.

May Van Alen is a daughter of Denis Van Alen of New York and Newport and well known socially in London. Miss Van Alen has spent much of her time in England in recent years. She is a sister of Mrs. Robert J. Collier and closely related to the Astor family.

AT CHILDREN'S HOME.

Youngsters Have Frolic on St. Patrick's Day.

A merry St. Patrick's day party was given for the little folks at the children's home last evening by Miss Margaret, the matron of the home, and her assistants there. Miss Mattie Wilson played a group of piano numbers during the evening for their games and dancing, and a potato race, folk dances and other games were thoroughly enjoyed by the little young-sters in the reception room a big pile of barrel hoops covered with green crepe paper and hung with shamrocks and clay pipes, was used and a little Irish lad seated near the staging added to the decorative scheme. At 6 o'clock a little supper was served and baskets of fruit tied with green bows and running little shamrock ribbons adorned the children's table and the green and white was carried out in the ice and cakes.

There were several guests at the home for the party who were served in the small dining room where decorations of shamrocks made from potatoes were used and green shaded candles cast a pretty light.

An evening party was a treat allowed because this is vacation week and no school "the morning after."

STYLE WEEK OPENS IN DULUTH

Local Stores Have Magnificent Displays of Easter Apparel---What the Shopper Is Offered at Gray's, Freimuth's, the Glass Block and Gidding's.

Style week in Duluth is certainly receiving due consideration from members of the fairer sex, for streets and shops are crowded with "window shoppers," and many who intended only to look have been unable to resist the attraction of the fresh, pretty things and have bought. Nearly every shop has arranged its new styles for inspection this week and the wonderfully effective things shown are a revelation to the visitors.

Feminine "ohs" and "ahs" proclaimed the delight of that half, or rather about nine-tenths, of the shoppers, and a few exclamations of pleasure in the lass from the other one-tenth who viewed the shows from the view of mere man. However, this last one-tenth seemed as well satisfied with the pageant of gorgeous fashions as the wives, daughters and sisters were and gave up their check book with small reluctance in exchange for lovely wardrobes for the spring and summer.

At Gidding's Store.

The shopper got off the car at the Gidding corner and was immediately lost in admiration of the exquisitely dainty and distinctive costumes shown there. Shown with elegant simplicity are several imported frocks which are "perfect dreams" which the shopper is loath to pass by, and a group of unique miniature figures, "Un Coin de Pesage a Longchamp," is attracting much attention. It is a pretty little gem of decoration showing several little wax figures in gowns of the hour.

Inside, the sweet mingled perfumes of roses, carnations, narcissus, sweet peas, tulips and the verdure of stately palms transform the place of commerce into a restful bower of beauty where the shoppers lingered with evident pleasure.

Genuine copies of the firm's individual importations from Paquin, Poiret, Worth, Beer, Premet, Rondeau, Reverdot and other noted makers are displayed and the Greek and Bulgarian influences are seen everywhere in the brilliant dashes of color that characterize the linings and trimming and sometimes even the entire garment.

Rich brocaded silk and wool materials, matalose silks, embossed crepes, pompadour voiles, Persian and Dresden effects, imported novelty, ratines and a host of other materials make the showing an interesting one.

Gowns of soft, filmy draperies and marvelous colorings are shown, and the suits are well divided between the plain and fancier types, with novelty styles well to the fore. Small, close-fitting hats, tall and stunning hats, a few large ones for the women who insist on having them or for the faces that cannot stand the smaller hats, which cannot stand the smaller hats, will have their place in the millinery department, but the large hats are most of them flat, having the effect of a sun shade and they are soft and drapy rather than stiff and imposing.

At the Glass Block.

From the window displays of the Glass Block store the visitor or shopper gets a fair idea of the loveliness at this shop in the expanse of the departments of vital interest to the woman who is looking for correctness in detail in spring hats, suits and frocks and the little accessories necessary to complete her wardrobe for the coming season.

Carried out in Grecian effect of white with trailing vines or roses and great clusters of graceful iris, the windows themselves are a pretty setting for the things displayed. In one window a model in a gown of the new "Nell pink" is seated in front of a dressing table, and hats and frocks are also displayed which are being closely examined by the passers-by. A window of tans and browns is attractive and one suit of a dainty tan, with boots and gloves to match, appears especially suggestive of Easter.

The attractive little evening wraps and street coats of a shorter length than last season, made with one button and the cut-away effect, are shown, and also hats of particular effectiveness and brilliance of color.

In the hat department, which has been enlarged, covering about half of the third floor, the display of hats, large and small, hat, of course, mostly small, is simply bewildering. The suit and gown departments are as attractive and the dress goods department, too, with its tub fabrics and silks, was popular.

At Geo. A. Gray's.

Spring apparel and all the lovely little accessories so much admired by the shoppers were displayed to advantage in the spacious departments at the George A. Gray company shop for the pleasure of the shoppers who thronged the shops today and many a sale was made through the tempting showings.

One forgets the snow and wind and the possibility of March freckles in the daintiness and fluffiness of the summer things displayed. The shopper went first to the hat department where a perfect riot of color charmed the eye and hats galore in the latest little style fancies are shown. The "man-who-knows" there said that among the colors which are especially good this season is the "Kelly green" and he showed the shopper a table full of wonderful little creations in that hue. He also told of the "up-standing trend in trimming" which is quite impressive to the short woman and he pointed out one of the pattern hats of a delicate tan soft straw of small turban shape with a banding of black velvet ribbon around the crown and the most real looking peonies adding at least five inches to the height.

There was a pretty little street hat of a deep lilac straw trimmed with ribbon and lilacs and a bunch of the inevitable "Nell pink." There was also a dainty little evening hat of black maline made to fit close over the head, almost in cap fashion and it was edged with a wreath of pansies in violet and lavender with a purple shaded nunhill plume at the side.

Gowns of soft silks and gingham, linens and tissues were all shown in their places and among the new tub gowns were many of soft cotton crepes which are particularly strong this season. This material is also shown prominently in the dress goods department. Embroidered voiles, crepes and bordered ratine and voile combinations are also attractive.

In the coat department a pretty model of covert cloth lined with a delicate rose silk was shown and in the tailored models this is the goods which leads.

Gowns with the skirts slit up as far as the knee for freedom in walking were shown, most of the openings being covered with deep flaps or underflouncings.

The new things in gloves, scarfs, leather goods, jewelry and neckwear also attracted the shopper.

At Freimuth's.

Pedestrians on Superior street at the Lake avenue corner were compelled to stop at the windows of the I. Freimuth shop to get a good view of the beauties of summer wardrobes shown there. Brocaded silks in the new shades filled one window. Another showed a handsome rose ratine coat of the 45-inch length made on cut-away lines, fastened with three crystal buttons clustered near the waist line.

A window full of millinery was also of special interest, one of the models shown being a large white bonnet-shaped leghorn with fetching black velvet bows and streamers, and a small hat of vivid blue covered with the much-used chiffon veiling brought out in a saucy bow in the back was also attractive.

Among the gowns shown, a black lace embroidered with large figures in gold, made up with draped effect, was noticeable, and a gown of old gold chiffon over a brocaded silk, with little touches of green velvet, was also shown.

From the windows one simply had to go inside, and the hat and gown and suit departments were the crowded parts of the shop.

Saleswomen in the hat department with deft fingers placed the dainty little hats on at just the right angle and simply hypnotized many into getting their spring hat right away, when they had made up their minds to wait a bit. Dear little shapes fitting snugly and "just showing the hair on the left side a little bit" gave an air of smartness and style. Hats of one color or shade were arranged on separate tables and wonderfully attractive models peeped out from glass cases most alluringly.

Brocades, chiffons, silks and other delicate materials deftly draped and fitted into distinctive looking gowns are shown on models and hangers in the gown department and exquisitely dainty negligees of silk and laces are also given their place on display.

Blouses with long or short sleeves, with high lace or net collars, or with round turn-back collars are shown, and soft wash silks are prominent in the waist department. The tailored waists hold their own as at all times, but are especially good in the soft tub silks and pongees.

Most women—though many probably would resent the impeachment—are given to gossip in one form or another, and to a smaller or larger degree. There is gossip, however, and gossip. Some of it, no doubt, is harmless, but the other brand is evil, and often wickedly malicious. The former is not worth while, and the latter is, to my mind, one of the worst evils that flesh is guilty of.

In the very nature of things, I suppose it is the inevitable thing for two or more women, when they get together, to indulge in this practice—at least in its petty form. They have to talk about something, and nothing apparently reaches the feminine heart so much as the subject of some other woman's domestic affairs, her personal habits and tastes and her intimate personal affairs. This form of gossip, if free of evil and malicious spirit or intent, is to say the least, profitless and in bad taste, and has positively no redeeming feature to make it worth while.

Gossip in the other form is a far more serious matter. Under the law, if a man or woman takes another's life, he or she is answerable at the bar of justice for murder. But there are assassins of reputation in every community, who go scot free. They might be haled into court in a criminal action for slander, or a civil suit for libel; but that is generally impracticable, because the professional gossip generally covers up her tracks. Even if such recourse were practicable, the evil would be done. It is easier to start an evil report than to recall it; and no matter how improbable or untrue it may be, it always falls upon some willing ears.

I contend that women of true culture and refinement do not gossip. How much more profitable it would be for those who do, if they would spend the same amount of time in cultivating their minds—in reading good literature and enlarging their mental grasp generally. As one's mental vision widens, the desire to gossip grows less, until one finally reaches the point where one scorns the practice, and finds it repulsive in others.

Indeed, women who have a live interest in domestic or social problems, or in literature or art, have little time and less use for gossip. And knowledge and some wholesome interest teaches them charity for their own kind.

IMMORALITY IN OHIO STATE HOUSE

So Woman Writes and Wants Laws for More Clothes on Women.

Columbus, Ohio, March 18.—Declaring that the immodesty of the attire worn by women is the cause of "a great wave of immorality now sweeping over the country" Representative Louis H. Cappelle of Cincinnati yesterday introduced a bill in the lower house of the legislature providing for the appointment of a commission of three members to "prescribe the fashions to be worn by women in Ohio."

Introduction of the measure resulted from a charge filed with Governor Cox by a woman who did not sign her name, that "immorality is practiced by married men in the offices of the state house and elsewhere in the state of Ohio."

The proposed commission would be compelled to fix limits on decollete dresses so that "not more than two inches of the neck below the chin shall be uncovered." Another clause of the measure provides "that transparent stockings shall not be displayed or worn in public places.

Another provision states that "it shall be unlawful to display or wear any outer garment trimmed or combined with lace, insertion or any kind of embroidery mesh or net through which the color and texture of the skin may be distinguished without having the lace or other transparent material backed with opaque material."

Members of the proposed commission, according to the bill, would have to be between 30 and 50 years of age. Not more than two of them would have to be married men, and "of good moral character."

One of the members would be an ordained minister, one a parent of not less than three children and the third a social settlement worker.

The commission would be authorized to "prescribe rules and regulations for the designing and manufacture of women's clothing, and to prohibit such styles and patterns of garments as the commission shall deem to be detrimental to virtue and chastity."

The bill goes so far as to prohibit department stores from displaying undraped artificial figures. The bill makes violation of the act punishable by a fine of not less than $25.

Paper Scores Equity Society.

Minot, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minot Independent, a local weekly, which has been a staunch supporter of the American Society of Equity has turned against the organization and in a long statement in its current issue condemns the present management of the society alleging it has impaired its usefulness by allowing others than farmers to join. The paper's attitude has created a mild sensation in Equity circles.

SAVES ELDERLY PEOPLE FROM KIDNEY AND BLADDER MISERIES

Sleep Disturbing Bladder Weaknesses, Backache, Stiff Joints Rheumatic Pains Disappear After Few Doses Are Taken

While people along in years are naturally more subject to weak kidneys, they can avoid the tortures of backache, and rheumatism, and be saved the annoyance of getting up at night with disagreeable bladder disorders, for the new discovery, Croxone, quickly relieves the most severe and obstinate cases.

Croxone cures these conditions because it removes the cause. It is the most wonderful remedy ever devised for ridding the system of uric acid. It is entirely different from all other remedies. It is not like anything else ever used for the purpose. Croxone makes the kidneys filter the blood and sift out all the poisonous acids and waste matter that cause these troubles.

It soaks right in and cleans out the stopped-up, inactive kidneys like water does a sponge, dissolves, and drives out every particle of uric acid and other poisonous impurities that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause rheumatism. It neutralizes the urine so it no longer irritates the bladder, overcomes unnecessary breaking of sleep and restores the kidneys and bladder to health and strength.

It matters not how long you have suffered, how old you are, or what else you have used. The very principle of Croxone is such that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work the minute you take it and relieves you the first time you use it, and all your misery and suffering soon disappear. You can secure an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first-class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if it fails in a single case.

MORSE RETURNS, HIS HEALTH RESTORED

Financier Arrives in New York From Tour of Europe.

New York, March 18.—Charles W. Morse, the financier who was given less than six months to live by physicians a year ago, arrived on board the steamship Kaiserin Victoria looking in better health than when he left here and announced that his physicians in Europe had told him that he will live for many years more.

Mr. Morse, who was formerly connected with large ice and steamship interests, announced that he would reenter business, but declined to say what line he would take up.

Mrs. Morse accompanied her husband and is overjoyed at the encouraging prophecies made by the physicians.

"My physicians tell me," said Mr. Morse, "that I can live a good many years if I give myself good care. I must diet and take regular excrcise and watch myself constantly and closely. They say at Baden Baden, where I went for the treatment, that it is known as 'kill or cure' place.

Treatment Is Drastic.

"It was a drastic treatment, being hot salt water internally and externally. After I had taken a course of treatments and had thought myself benefited we went to London, but the change was not good and I had to hurry back to Baden Baden for more treatments. When I had completed this we went to the Italian Riviera, about fifty miles east of Genoa."

Asked if he would go into business again, Mr. Morse said:

"Yes, I will go into business again as there is now no necessity for staying out of it. What I will do I am not prepared to say, as I have been too busy getting well."

Will Not Discuss Steamers.

Mr. Morse was asked if he would regain control of the coastwise steamship companies, of which he was formerly the head, but he did not care to discuss that, in view of the case against the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, now in the Federal courts in regard to its steamship lines.

When informed that the ice crop from the Hudson was a failure this year, Mr. Morse said: "It will not be long before New York city will be using entirely manufactured ice. When this comes the price will be always the same as there will always be a sufficient supply. The South today does not depend upon Maine for its ice, as it did formerly, as manufactured ice has taken its place."

FIREWORKS OVER STAFF

B. Bjornson of Minneota to his feet for a vigorous and indignant speech in favor of the amendment.

"I understand from the gentleman from Mille Lacs," said Mr. Bjornson, "that the governor tells us that he will not represent the state unless this house pays the expense of sending his staff along with him.

"If that is his stand, we, as self-respecting representatives, should most certainly say that the staff shall not go. There never was a governor of this state, and there never will be a governor of this state, big enough to dictate to the legislature in that fashion."

Representative Lydlard of Minneapolis, in opposing the amendment, said that there seemed to be a number of members anxious to take slaps at the governor of this state, but he was proud to say that he is not one of them.

Representative W. J. Nolan of Minneapolis supported the amendment. He said that the president of the United States has no staff, and when he makes a trip he goes attended only by a single aide.

"If the governor of this state is not big enough to go to Gettysburg without all this gold braid, then he had better not go," concluded Mr. Nolan.

Mr. Dunn said the other states were sending the gold braid along with their governors, and that Minnesota would look foolish and cheap if it didn't do the same thing.

After the gold braid amendment was beaten Representatives Porter and Bendixen tried to cut the appropriation down from $25,000 to $10,000 and failed, and then Representative Wefald tried to make it $15,000, which attempt also failed. The bill then passed, 91 to 2.

It provides for taking to the Gettysburg semi-centennial celebration the surviving veterans of the First Minnesota, other Minnesota veterans who participated in the battle, Minnesota veterans who won medals in the war, and veterans who were in hospital during the battle and couldn't be there to fight.

Hibernians to the Front.

There was a distinctive Hibernian tinge to the legislative atmosphere yesterday, it being the day devoted to the memory of St. Patrick.

Representative Daniel Patrick O'Neill of Thief River Falls introduced a joint resolution, backed in violet green, congratulating the Irish people on winning home rule and wishing them Godspeed. The house suspended the rules and adopted the resolution unanimously, the senate presently following suit.

Speaker Rines, in recognition of the occasion, called Representative Thomas J. Green of St. Paul to the chair, where he presided with ability and dispatch the remainder of the afternoon. The hall was hung with green banners, and green carnations covered the speaker's rostrum and the desk. Everybody had a touch of green in his buttonhole, and there were many sprigs of the real shamrock.

It was ordered that copies of the O'Neill resolution be sent to John E. Redmond, the Irish leader, and to Premier Asquith.

The house unanimously adopted a resolution that Representatives Patrick H. McGarry and Robert C. Dunn be brought to the bar of the house and ordered to sing "The Wearin' of the Green."

Mr. McGarry flunked, but Mr. Dunn appointed John G. Lennon of Minneapolis to be his substitute, and Mr. Lennon sang "Why Paddy's Always Poor," to tumultuous and long-continued applause. He sang it mighty well, too. Later Robert E. Geehan, a sturdy young Irishman from whom rich melody poured forth with joyous spontaneity, was brought in and sang "Where the River Shannon Flows."

The senate celebrated by putting Senator Michael J. McGrath of Winona in the chair in committee of the whole, he making a pretty speech before proceeding to business.

Exposition at Christiania.

Governor Eberhart yesterday afternoon sent in a special message recommending that Minnesota follow the example of North Dakota in arranging to have an exhibit at the Norwegian exposition at Christiania in 1914. He pointed out that a quarter of Minnesota's people are of Norwegian extraction, and that the Norwegian people have exerted a powerful influence in the settlement and development of the state, and have contributed largely to all its industrial, social and cultural achievements. So he thought it would be a nice thing if this state could be represented in the Norwegian exposition. His communication was referred to the committee on general legislation.

The public ownership of the oil producing industry is proposed in a joint memorial to congress introduced in the house yesterday afternoon by Representative Frankson. In the preamble Mr. Frankson declared that the oil business has gotten into a hopeless state of monopoly, and that the only way out is government ownership. He hasn't heard, probably, that the oil trust has been "busted."

Representative Pless of Sibley county, who introduced the bill restoring capital punishment in this state, yesterday afternoon brought in two bills aimed at another angle of the problem. One provides that no first degree murderer who is convicted can ever be pardoned except because of newly discovered evidence, and the other prohibits such an offender from being paroled.

Itasca Men Differ.

There was something of a row between Itasca county folks before the house committee on towns and counties, over the bill by Senator Gunn of Grand Rapids reducing the salaries of the county commissioners of Itasca county from $800 a year to $300 a year.

County Commissioners C. M. King, Andy Nelson and Joseph Passard, with E. C. Kiley, A. J. La Frenlere and R. A. Stone, appeared against the bill, stating that there was no call for it and that the need of fair pay for the county board is just as great now as it was two years ago when a law was enacted increasing the pay to the present figure.

Senator Gunn and E. J. Farrell appeared in favor of the bill, stating that the business interests of the county favor the change.

• • •

The senate yesterday afternoon passed the bill by Senator H. W. Cheadle of Duluth, allowing the Public Ownership party to change its name in a state convention. The party wants to take its real name of Socialist, which it was unable to do when it began business in Minnesota because the Socialist Labor party was then a recognized party, and it was held that there was too much similarity in the names.

• • •

The house bill by Representative D. P. O'Neill of Thief River Falls, requiring railroad locomotives to have headlights of at least 1,500-candle power, passed the house yesterday afternoon.

• • •

The senate yesterday afternoon passed the house bill by Representatives Bouck and Vasaly, amending the anti-pass law so as to allow railroad employes to hold unpaid public positions without forfeiting their passes.

• • •

The house grain investigating committee, after a long debate between attorneys, yesterday afternoon asked the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce to produce the books of its clearing house association so that it can study future trading. It was understood that the committee would not make public facts relating to the names of parties trading.

The question whether the senate committee is to continue its investigations further, which was to have been taken up in the senate yesterday afternoon, was put over to today.

• • •

The Reapportionment Bill.

The reapportionment bill came back to the house yesterday afternoon, with the senate amendments which the senate asked the house to concur in.

The bill was laid on the table to be taken up later.

In the meantime, every effort was made to bring about an agreement in the only instance where there is any real dispute.

In the districts represented in the house by Speaker Rines and Representatives Davis, Walker and R. C. Dunn, there is a sharp dispute between the two houses.

As the bill passed the house Sherburne and Anoka county constituted one district, and Mille Lacs, Isanti and Kanobec constituted another. This was entirely satisfactory to the house members from these counties.

In the senate committee Senator Swanson of Anoka county had this changed so as to bring Anoka and Isanti county into one district.

The dispute really relates to county option, as Representative Davis of Sherburne objects to the Sherburne-Mille Lacs-Kanabec district because it is nowhere near so certain a county option district as the Sherburne and Anoka district would be.

It was hoped last night that this dispute might be arranged so that it would be possible to repass the bill in the house without the peril of subjecting it to conference.

The house committee on taxes will consider the Bjorge-Frankson new tonnage tax bill, imposing a tax for state purposes of 1 cent a ton on the franchises of mining corporations, next Monday evening.

• • •

The senate yesterday refused to concur in the house amendments to the Clague bill extending local option to fourth class cities, and a conference committee was appointed from each body.

• • •

St. Louis County Bills.

Senator James P. Boyle yesterday afternoon introduced in the senate three bills asked for by County Attorney Greene and judges of the district court. One permits arguments on demurrers and other minor issues in criminal cases without the defendant being present. Another permits the court ond the prosecuting attorney to refer to the failure of a defendant to testify in his own behalf. The third provides that in suits for damages for death by wrongful act the representatives of the deceased cannot take money in settlement of the case without providing a bond and securing the court's approval of the settlement.

The St. Louis county delegation introduced in both branches yesterday afternoon a bill increasing the salaries of court reporters in St. Louis county to $3,000 a year, in anticipation of the fact that the very probable passage of a workingmen's compensation act, by cutting off a proportion of the litigation, will also cut off a large share of their earnings.

• • •

Senator Boyle has secured a favorable report from the senate finance committee on his bill providing for a commission to fix minimum wages for women and children, and yesterday afternoon he had the bill referred to the judiciary committee for an opinion as to its constitutionality.

• • •

Senators Dale and Hayeraft yesterday afternoon introduced in the senate bills repealing the mortgage registry tax and putting mortgages under the law taxing moneys and credits $3 per $1,000.

The effect of this would be to increase the tax on mortgages, but it would exempt mortgages held by non-residents. Its chief purpose is to relieve the borrower, who invariably pays the mortgage registry tax.

The following bills came in yesterday afternoon:

By Senator Olson—Requiring the publication of board proceedings in independent school districts.

By Senator Gunderson—Allowing the courts to put offenders on probation for offenses the maximum penalty for which is not more than seven years. The present figure is five years.

By Senator Denegre—Putting mortgage loan and land companies under the regulation of the department of banking.

By Representative Child—Providing that subscriptions, contracts or notes given to peddlers or canvassers shall not be negotiable.

By Representative Fuchs—Requiring overhead wires in cities and villages to be displaced wherever it is necessary in order to move buildings.

By Representative H. H. Dunn—Providing for a state brand for butter and cheese.

• • •

The house yesterday afternoon passed the senate bill by Senator Boyle legalizing the Virginia electric light bonds and providing for issuing them serially; also the O'Neill bill, providing for terms of district court at Baudette.

ECZEMA BROKE OUT IN PIMPLES

On Face, Arms and Parts of Body. Itching and Burning Intense. Scratching Disfigured Face. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

336 30th Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.—"I was cured of eczema by Cuticura Soap and Ointment. My face and arms and other parts of my body were affected. The way it broke out was in pimples, then it became a rash. The itching and burning were so intense that they made me scratch and disfigure my face. My clothing that was close to my body was very irritating. It kept me from getting my sleep.

"I used several remedies which were of no success. I suffered a year or more with eczema, then I began to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment. It was several times I used them and then they relieved that itching. I continued my treatment and now I have no trouble whatsoever. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me completely." (Signed) Miss Alice Martens, Aug. 3, 1912.

For pimples and blackheads the following is a most effective and economical treatment: Gently smear the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment, on the end of the finger, but do not rub. Wash off the Cuticura Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water and continue bathing for some minutes. This treatment is best on rising and retiring. At other times use Cuticura Soap freely for the toilet and bath, to assist in preventing inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores. Sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T. Boston."

Tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

WILL CELEBRATE FEAST OF PURIM

March 23 Will Be Observed as Festival By Jewish Residents.

Jewish residents of Duluth will celebrate Purim, the Feast of Lots, simultaneously with their brethren in all parts of the world, on Sunday, March 23. The Book of Esther will be read in all the synagogues. This is a time of general festivity among Jews. Like most festivals of the Jewish calendar, it is a time for the giving of gifts to the poor.

Purim celebrates the victory of Mordecai, the faithful Jew, over Haman, the grand vizier of the King Ahasuerus, who plotted to destroy the Jew. Queen Esther, it will be remembered, had been elevated to the throne to succeed Vashti, who had displeased the king. Esther was a most beautiful and virtuous maiden, and it was through her intervention with the king that the heroism of Mordecai and the villainy of Haman was disclosed to him.

The story of the Book of Esther reads like a novel, and may or may not have real historical value. Purim means "lots" and the festival is so called because the day on which the destruction of the Jews was decreed was chosen by lots.

It is an old phrase that it is better to laugh than cry. However, as Dorothy Dix would say: "Be that as it may," Edith Luckett the young leading woman with the "Broadway Jones" company is a firm believer in the old but true saying. "I laughed my way into this position," says Miss Luckett. "You see, it was like this: I was in Cohan and Harris' office waiting to see Mr. Forrest, general stage director, when Mr. Cohan passed through he noticed Miss Luckett's happy mood and that she was the life of the party of actors and actresses who are subjected at times to long waits in the manager's outside office during the engaging season.

Mr. Cohan sent for the pretty smiling girl and when she stated her business, Mr. Cohan at once engaged her for Broadway Jones." "Do you know why I engaged you," inquired the young author. "No," replied Miss Luckett. "Because you seem so happy and smile so sweetly." "Well," replied Miss Luckett, "I might have gotten the idea from you, as one of your smartest lines is, 'Always leave them laughing when you say goodbye,' and while she was still smiling Mr. Cohan said 'goodbye.'"

"Broadway Jones" will be at the Lyceum Friday and Saturday.

"It is wonderful how many good hearty laughs one can get while traveling through the country, as an actor is compelled to do, if one only looks for them," says Fred Harris, the wonderful dancer on roller skates, who is now appearing at the Empress theater and who will be seen until Wednesday night. "A sense of humor is one of the greatest gifts a man can possess for it helps him to enjoy traveling about from town to town and relieves the tedium of long railroad journeys. There is hardly a day that I don't get a good laugh from something I see or hear on a railroad train. Here is one of them: We were traveling on a slow train on a railroad in Georgia the other day and I had had a lot of good laughs furnished me by the queer characters on the train. But it remained for the general passenger agent of the road to give me the heartiest one. At one end of the coach was a large notice signed by him and neatly framed which read this way:

"'Passengers are requested to keep their feet off the seats.'

"'Employes are instructed not to permit this.'

"Now what is a man going to do under such circumstances?"

BOSS COX AND MANY OTHERS ARE INDICTED

Charles H. Davis, David C. Edwards, James F. Heady, James M. Hutton, N. S. Keith, F. K. Williams and O. V. Parrish.

Converted to Own Use.

The indictment charging abstraction of the note alleges that the men named in the indictment, having control of the funds of the company, converted to their own use a promissory note of the trust company for $352,500 and that the men who were liable for the note, cancelled it and entered it as paid in the company's book, when it had not been paid.

Each of the nine counts of the indictment charging misapplication of funds relates to a separate loan to the Ford & Johnson Chair company, of which President Cox of the trust company also was a director. The total amount of the nine loans was $115,000. It also was claimed that the notes sent out in the indictment comprised only a part of those made to the chair company.

All the defendants except Heady, who is ill, and Hutton, who is out of the city, were in court when the indictments were read.

is on foot to raise $25,000 more by popular subscription to provide for its care. Until this money is obtained, and a caretaker installed the manse will continue to be occupied by the present pastor of the church.

The memorial is a two-story frame structure set back from the road behind two big elms. The association intends to paint it white with green trimmings and otherwise restore it to the condition it was in when occupied by the Clevelands. On the adjoining lot a memorial library will be erected. Andrew Carnegie has promised $7,500 for this building.

reasons. The bills vetoed include the so-called anti-ambulance chasing act, the bill that contemplated the displacement of the commissioner of agriculture and labor as a member of the board of equalization and placing the chairman of the tax commission on the board instead, and the bill providing for a freight rate on lignite briquettes.

Why He Vetoed Bill.

Fargo N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Hanna is in Fargo today and in commenting on his veto of the measure enacted at the last legislative session for changing the membership of the board of equalization from the commissioner of agriculture and labor to the chairman of the state tax commission said: "I think all members of the board of equalization should be elective and responsible directly to the people. It was the evident intention of the framers of the Constitution that the farmers should have representation on that board. The commissioner of agriculture is their member and directly represents them.

"My strongest reason, however, was that the chairman of the tax commission is appointive. A situation might arise where the governor and the chairman appointed by him would be on the board at the same time. This would virtually give the governor two votes and I am sure no such contingency was ever contemplated. I felt it my duty under the circumstances to veto the measure which had been prepared under the direction of the state tax commission."

REAPPORTIONMENT BILL FINALLY PASSED

will go to the governor for his signature. He will sign it, and that will end the issue of reapportionment, involving as it has a mischievous sectional bitterness and a useless conflict between city and country, for a long time to come.

After the bill was repassed Representative C. H. Warner moved to reconsider the vote, and asked that his motion be voted down, which was done unanimously.

This was done so that the enemies of reapportionment could not delay final action by making the same motion later. The final passage of the bill was greeted with applause, and there is the greatest rejoicing among Northern Minnesota men at the capital over this final victory after years of delay and defeat.

Refused to Cut Liquor Fees.

The house this morning refused to overturn a report of the temperance committee recommending for indefinite postponement the Hopkins bill doing away with all liquor license fees except a $10 fee to cover the cost of issuing licenses. Mr. Hopkins made a forceful plea for his bill as a temperance measure, saying that the license fees corrupt municipalities and blind people to the evil of the saloon. Nevertheless, the committee was sustained and the bill killed, 67 to 38.

Against Brewery Saloons.

The special senate committee appointed in 1911 to investigate the brewery-owned saloon, consisting of Senators Saugstad, Rustad and Boyle, has prepared a report which will be submitted this afternoon. It finds that wholesalers do own saloons, that they also sell to blind pigs and houses of illfame, that breweries interfere in local elections to protect their interests, that wholesolers control 87 per cent of the Twin City saloons, that this greatly increases competition in the liquor business and thereby forces dealers to violate liquor laws to get profits, and that blind pigs would not flourish without brewery support. The committee recommends two bills, one prohibiting brewery ownership of saloons and the other giving municipalities power to regulate wholesale dealers.

The special order on the Cashman distance tariff bill was continued to this afternoon in the house, when it probably will pass, very likely by a large bandwagon vote. The special order on the public domain bill was continued until tomorrow.

Itasca County Salaries.

The house committee on towns and counties this morning recommended for indefinite postponement the bill by Senator Gunn cutting the salaries of Itasca county commissioners. Representative C. H. Warner of Aitkin moved to overturn the committee report, and was vigorously opposed by Representative P. H. McGarry and members of the committee. Before a vote was taken on the overthrow of the report, Mr. McGarry, after consultation with others interested, asked that the matter be laid over so that agreement could be made to amendments that would satisfy all parties.

The Wallace senate bill penalizing owners and agents of buildings used for immoral purposes was recommended to pass by the house committee on general legislation.

The house adopted a report of the temperance committee increasing from 2 per cent to 4 the tax on liquor license fees to support the state inebriate farm at Willmar.

• • •

Anti-Treating Bill Favored.

The house committee on temperance favorably reported Representative Putnam's anti-treating bill.

The following bills came in:

Representatives Holmberg, R. C. Dunn and Burrows—Joint memorial to congress favoring a Federal system of highways—Passed under suspension of the rules.

Representative H. H. Harrison—Authorizing Stillwater to regulate the smoke nuisance.

TWENTY-ONE HURT IN TRAIN WRECK

"Twin City Special" on M. & St. L. Railroad Derailed Near Marshalltown.

Marshalltown, Iowa, March 18.—Twenty-one persons were injured, three of them possibly fatally, when a north bound passenger train on the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad, known as the "Twin City Special," was derailed six miles north of here early today. Most of the injured were from Missouri and Southern Iowa and were bound for Minneapolis and the Northwest.

Among the seriously injured are:

Mrs. James Grist, Danna City, Ill., scalp torn off.

Guy Haling, Northfield, Minn., face cut, nose and one leg broken.

Floyd Mick, Oskaloosa, Iowa, scalp cut.

A. K. Breeden, Grinnell, arm and back injured.

The derailment took place at the approach of a culvert shortly after 2 o'clock. The engine passed over in safety but the combination baggage and mail car, and a chair car went into the ravine, now filled with water, and caught fire, the baggage car being destroyed. The third car turned over on its side.

The train was running about ten miles an hour. The injured were brought to Marshalltown.

BROTHER DECLARES ACTION A CRIME

Says Dr. Friedmann Is Willing to Treat Sufferers Without Pay.

New York, March 18.—Dr. Friedrich F. Friedmann is ready to treat without charge all sufferers from tuberculosis, according to his brother, Dr. Arthur Friedmann, who today declared that it was a crime not to permit him to do so. Dr. Friedmann has been refused permission by the medical authorities of the city to give his treatment except in connection with certain hospitals. Since his arrival here hundreds of sufferers have besought him to aid them.

"Many of these people have come from out of town and they cannot be taken into the city hospitals because they do not live here," Arthur Friedmann declared. He told of a victim of the disease who had laid siege daily to Dr. Friedmann at his hotel for ten days.

"This man," he continued, "has a temperature of 104 and 105 and is walking about the streets. He may drop dead in the street but we cannot help him. Dr. Friedmann can treat only cases in hospitals and those under care of a government physician. There are hundreds of persons in New York to whom he wants to give his treatment for the benefit of humanity, but his hands are tied. He is eager to treat those patients, rich and poor alike, without charge. It is a crime not to allow him to do so."

A dozen persons suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis received Dr. Friedmann's treatment at Bellevue hospital this afternoon. All of them were in an advanced stage of the disease. Some of the scores who waited outside in the vain hope that they might be given the treatment came in automobiles. All were turned away and only the cases previously selected came to his attention.

CONFERENCE AT TWO HARBORS

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of April 7, 8 and 9, the district conference of the Duluth district of the Northern Minnesota conference of the First Methodist Episcopal church will be held at Two Harbors.

The Rev. William A. Quayle, D. D., LL. D., of St. Paul, will be the presiding bishop, while the Rev. Edgar K. Copper, D. D., of this city, is the present district superintendent. The entertainment committee consists of Thomas Owens, William McCurdy, A. F. Blood, Mrs. M. P. Catlin, Mrs. F. A. Hall and Mrs. J. M. Elliott.

DAIRYMEN TRY TO FIX PRICES OF MILK.

Aurora, Ill., March 18.—Dairymen through whom Chicago and contiguous territory get their milk supply are meeting in Chicago today to try and fix upon a scale of milk prices for the summer that recalcitrant milk producers will accept. The dairymen will offer between $1.40 and $1.50 per hundred. The producers through their association which takes in most of the big producers in Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin are holding out for a flat rate of $1.50 per hundred, 3 cents a quart. In previous years the "summer price" producers have received has averaged about $1.25 per hundred.

The demands of the producers cannot be met entirely the dairymen say without a raise in the price of the retail price of milk, now 8 cents a quart.

Elmer Fellows of St. Charles, Ill., president of the Milk Producers' association, declares the farmers are willing to arbitrate the price of milk.

ECLIPSE OF THE MOON SATURDAY

Will Be Visible in Duluth During Early Morning Hours.

Duluthians who are sufficiently interested in astronomical phenomena to care to leave their beds at 4:22 o'clock in the morning to see an eclipse of the moon will enjoy this treat on Saturday morning, March 22, if the weather is not too cloudy.

The moon will enter the shadow of the earth a few seconds after that time and the total eclipse will begin fifty-eight minutes later. The total eclipse will continue until the moon sets, and no part of the satellite will be visible again in full brilliancy that morning. The eclipse will be visible from all parts of the United States where the weather permits. At Denver the end of the total eclipse may be seen, after it has continued one hour and thirty-four minutes. At San Francisco the moon may be seen to leave the earth's shadow entirely three and one-half hours after entering it.

Mother's Advice To Her Daughter

A Real Live Doll to Fondle Is Womans' Greatest Happiness.

One of the most important matters about which women concern themselves is their future status as a grandmother. And she is wisdom itself who knows of or learns of that famous remedy, Mother's Friend. This is an external application for the abdominal muscles and breasts. It certainly has a wonderful influence, allays all fear, banishes all pain, is a most grateful encouragement to the young, expectant mother, and permits her to go through the period happy in mind, free in body and thus destined to anticipate woman's greatest happiness as nature intended she should.

The action of Mother's Friend makes the muscles free, pliant and responsive to expansion. Thus all strain and tension upon the nerves and ligaments is avoided, and, in place of a period of discomfort and consequent dread, it is a season of calm repose and joyful expectation.

There is no nausea, no morning sickness, no nervous twitching, none of that constant strain known to so many women, hence Mother's Friend is really one of the greatest blessings that could be devised.

This splendid and certain remedy can be had of any druggist at $1.00 a bottle, and is sure to prove of inestimable value, not only upon the mother, but upon the health and future of the child. Write to Bradfield Regulator Co., 132 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their book to expectant mothers.

FEEL BULLY! HEAD CLEAR, STOMACH SWEET, BOWELS RIGHT--"CASCARETS"

You men and women who can't get feeling right — who have headache, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, and are all worn out.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets—or merely dosing yourself every few days with salts, cathartic pills, castor oil and other harsh irritants?

Cascarets immediately cleanse and sweeten the stomach, remove the sour undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box will keep your head clear, stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular and make you feel cheerful and bully for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

EMERGENCY AMBULANCE

Council Buys New Automobile Equipment for Police Department.

Ordinance Directing Employment of Social Center Expert Is Defeated.

The city council filled a long-felt want last night when it bought a combined automobile patrol and emergency ambulance for the police department.

The contract was awarded to the Duluth Automobile company for a new Peerless, costing $3,900.

With this machine in commission the police department will be in a position to answer emergency calls in accident cases. That Duluth has been without an ambulance which could be pressed into quick and efficient service under such circumstances has been constantly deplored. The Kato which is now being used has been in a crippled condition for months. It will be kept in the station for reserve use when the Peerless goes into commission.

The ordinance directing the employment of a social center expert and inspector of playgrounds, under the direction of the board of public welfare, was killed last night by a vote of 13 to 1. The ordinance committee reported adversely on the measure, stating that the commissioner who will have charge of public affairs will have authority to hire such an expert if he deems it necessary. It was also pointed out that but a short time remains before the commission will be in charge of the city government.

The city attorney was directed to investigate the complaints which were made against the street car service on Park Point below Thirty-ninth street. A committee consisting of Aldermen Scott, Hector and Miller was appointed to co-operate with him and to make such recommendations as may be deemed necessary to adjust the present differences.

The Fay-Schau company was awarded the contract for supplying the bonds for the mayor and four commissioners who will take office April 14. Their bid was $1,392. The Hepworth-Kirby company bid $1,563.75. Ten other bonding companies submitted bids of $1,862.50, all being alike. Each commissioner and the mayor will be under bonds of $25,000.

An ordinance was adopted to allow $750 for the improvement of the East Duluth and Lester River road. The county will spend a similar amount. The money will be used to improve the highway. A cliff will be cut away to straighten the route and the crushed rock will be utilized for surfacing. The suggestion to make the improvement was made to the council by S. F. Snively.

M. W. Turner was awarded the contract for a smallpox ambulance for the health department. The contract price as provided by the ordinance was $150, but this will be brought to $180 by improvements which will be installed.

City Engineer John Wilson reported that in his opinion no reducing plant should be built at the mouth of the Woodland trunk sewer at the present time. He pointed out that the sewer has been discharging for six months at a depth of 6 feet, 25 feet from the shore line, and that no nuisance has become apparent. The outlet will be extended so that it will be discharging 15 feet below the surface. He believed that the building of any tank should be continued until the flow of sewage can be accurately determined and it becomes necessary.

Emma Mattes notified the council that she claims $5,000 for personal injuries alleged to have been sustained in a fall in front of the Orpheum theater Feb. 22 because the city negligently failed to keep the walk free of snow and ice. Upon recommendation of the city attorney the council allowed G. L. Towne $100 in settlement of his claim for a broken right arm and allowed Miss Margaret Gerson $30 for a fractured wrist.

E. A. Silberstein notified the council that he will hold the city responsible for damage which was sustained when the basement of his property at 1116 West First street was flooded. He asserted that it was due to the freezing of the main sewer, which he alleged to be laid at a depth of but 4 feet while it should have been 6 feet under the surface of the street.

G. Carino was granted a license to sell his stock of clothing and jewelry at auction at 607 West Superior street for thirty days.

A Bell telephone was ordered installed in the police station at New Duluth.

The board of public works reported that it has fixed nineteen sprinkling districts for the coming year. It recommended that the contracts be awarded at once as the streets will be dusty as soon as the snow is gone.

Nixon & Co. protested against the awards which it had been allowed for property which had been condemned for park purposes at Oneota, claiming that the proceedings were not in proper form and that the damages were insufficient.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 18.—Arthur C. Gelharr, 35 years old, a well-known attorney of Milwaukee, slashed his throat with a razor in the street today in an attempt at suicide. It is said he may not recover. He had come here to attend the funeral of his mother-in-law.

STATE MARKET FOR WISCONSIN

Governor Proposes Legislation to Help Farmers Sell Products Better.

Madison, Wis., March 18.—In a message sent to the Wisconsin legislature last night, Governor McGovern recommends the passage of a bill creating a state market commission to enable farmers to sell their products to better advantage, and at the same time lower the cost to the consumer.

Accompanying the message was a bill drafted by the governor, which he desires enacted into law.

The measure was submitted to the legislature because of the insistent demand from the rural communities of the state for assistance in organizing and establishing co-operative enterprises to protect the farmer against unfair business practices and methods of competition. The bill also seeks to improve conditions surrounding home life in the country and prevent the constantly increasing influx of persons from the rural communities to the cities.

The proposed law creates a state market commission composed of the dairy and food commissioners as ex-officio members and two other members to be appointed by the governor.

Objects of Commission.

The purposes of the commission summarized are:

To prevent monopoly, contracts and combinations in every form detrimental to the people.

To promote the interests of the public, including consumer and producer, alike, economical and efficient production and distribution of all commodities.

To promote developments of the natural resources of the states and its proper agriculture and commercial interests so far as such development is consistent with public welfare.

To improve country life and to provide equality of opportunity for the people of the state.

To perform the duties heretofore performed by the dairy and food commissioners, the state board of immigration and the state board of agriculture.

To aid in the establishment of co-operative enterprises and to give instruction by correspondence and bulletins regarding the practical features of production, distribution, efficient business methods and to establish a market news service, including information regarding crops, freight rates, commissions and such other matters as may be of service to producers and consumers.

To devise economical systems of marketing and the best method of marketing.

To reduce waste in marketing and distribution.

To establish city markets and place the consumer in closer touch with the rural producer.

To encourage competition without fixing prices.

To investigate and consider complaints of the producer and consumer.

The commissioners are subject to recall by the legislature.

Farmers Are Behind Cities.

In his message Governor McGovern said among other things:

"Like older communities the farming sections of Wisconsin recently have failed to keep pace with the cities in wealth and population. One reason is that there has been little co-operation of effort or concert of action among them. In the purchase of things needed on the farm country people have clung to the primitive idea of each one buying for himself, although in almost every case those who supplied them were combined into great industrial trusts.

"The farmer also has paid heavily to the trusts in the sale of his products. It is no extravagance to say that farmers are as a rule not good business men. When the farmer needs anything, he throws his product on the market at whatever price it will bring. He has neglected the commercial side of farming. Better business methods are therefore his most urgent need. Like a factory, the farm should run on sound principles of marketing. No industrial concern would last long that sold its output as farmers have long been accustomed to sell theirs, virtually to the first comer, or at public auction. Here is where the principle of co-operation is likely to prove most valuable. It permits of specialization in agriculture.

"There is excellent reason for the belief that the high cost of living is but another of the causes that have partly depopulated the country side. There is no necessity for antagonism between the consumers who want the cost of living lowered and the farmer who demands higher prices for his products. His prices for farm products may indeed be one of the most potent means of reducing the cost of living.

"The time has come in Wisconsin to give practical effect to the co-operative idea. But we must act with our eyes open to the obstacles to be encountered and the difficulties to be overcome. What is needed is the establishment of a broad, consistent public policy in harmony with economic conditions as they now exist in all occupations. The line must be plainly drawn, that separates monopoly from legitimate co-operation; that distinguishes unreasonable restraint of trade from mutual helpfulness; that will secure the advantages of free competition without exposing industry to unregulated industrial warfare."

Now You Can Get Beer Without That "SKUNKY" Taste!

All you have to do is to ask for Schlitz in Brown Bottles.

Sunlight grows hops, but spoils the beer.

"Beer acted upon by light soon takes up the very disagreeable, so-called 'light taste,' and also a repulsive, skunk-like odor," says no less an authority than the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology, the scientific authorities on the subject. "Beer so affected," they say, "is offensive to the palate of most consumers."

Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives the best protection against light. The Brown Bottle protects Schlitz purity from the brewery to your glass.

Why don't you, too, drink Schlitz? More and more people every year are demanding it.

DEATH CUT SHORT PROMISING CAREER

That William S. Bishop, once cashier of the First National bank of Duluth, would have attained national prominence in banking circles, had not his career been cut short by an early death, is the conclusion that his friends in Duluth are obliged to reach, on reading letters that have been received in regard to him from officials of the Chicago bank, where he was last employed. Mr. Bishop died at Chicago recently. He left Duluth a few years ago to become assistant cashier of the National Bank of the Republic at Chicago.

Robert M. McKinney, cashier of this bank, writes as follows:

"My admiration and respect for Mr. Bishop increased daily and I not only came to honor him but to love him as well. He was a most efficient bank officer and his splendid services to the National Bank of the Republic won for him the honor and esteem of his fellow officers and employes."

Wendell P. Mosher of Minneapolis quotes Mr. McKinney as saying: "We didn't let Mr. Bishop wait until his illness to know of our regard for him, for the officers personally expressed to him their appreciation of what he, as assistant cashier, had accomplished in systematizing the work of the bank."

"NEAR THE KINGDOM"

Sometimes Nearness But Increases the Distance, Says Pastor-Evangelist in Lyceum Sermon.

"Near the Kingdom," was the subject of the address by Rev. M. S. Rice at the Lyceum last evening. He took for his text: "Thou art not far from the Kingdom of God."

"This is a word from Jesus to a Scribe who seeing there was an argument had approached and put in his question: 'Master what is the greatest commandment?' said the speaker. "It was not an unexpected question from an earnest man for they were living under a list of laws almost as extensive as the code of our own state to which we diligently add every two years. Six hundred and thirteen explicit commandments and precepts they had to weigh when they sought for the most significant ones. Men cannot be commanded in conduct with such a mass of orders. If religion is to grasp the lives of men it must shake off the multitude of small things and drive to the heart of things and furnish men firm foundation for conduct upon fundamentals. This questioner was perfectly genuine. He wanted his faith reduced to a primary situation. It is always sure sign of dead faith to be fixing attention on petty externals and mere human details. Jesus honored the question and reduced the commandments to the two fundamentals, love of God and love of man, and said plainly that whosoever yielded himself to the rule of God, in all his life, that man has put himself inside the Kingdom of God.

"The tragedy of the text however, lies in the near approach of this questioner. For no matter how complimentary the words of Jesus were, the man was yet outside the Kingdom. He was near, but that is tragic. I have had some experiences in the business of the Christian minister that have made me feel that sometimes nearness increases the distance. There are some things in life that mere nearness to, makes tragic in loss a thousand-fold. The man who just misses the Kingdom of Heaven is the most pathetic figure I ever see. As I utter that word there leap out of the great multitude of people I have met, those figures that have become to me of absorbing interest, men and women whose lives have about them so many matters I admire and cherish and, yet one thing they lack.' Splendid people in our own city, not far from, but not in the Kingdom. The difference is not great in distance but infinite in significance. Our city cannot forget that tragic storm-swept day when the great ships were tossed on the rocks of our rugged coast, like logs from a broken boom. And right here at the very mouth of our harbor, on the very front steps of our town, a stone's throw from safety, so near we could speak to them through the storm, the heroes of a noble ship died before our very eyes. When morning came we could scarce believe that men so near could not be saved, yet with painful strokes the rescuers with ice-picks cut those poor bodies from solid cakes of ice and tenderly brought them ashore. When distance from safety is reduced to the least margin there is the more bitter sorrow in the littleness of it, and the issue of life and death has seemed measured in inches.

"There are men and women before me now who are not far from the Kingdom, but they are not in the Kingdom, and what I seek to say to you tonight is, that when it comes to a matter of the Kingdom of God, then any separation from it is an eternal calamity. The only virtue in the fact of your nearness lies in the ability which is yours to step into the Kingdom now. I am here tonight with that one purpose supreme in this service, that somehow to every man and woman here, the insufficiency of nearness might be made plain, and that tremendous peril is lodged today against the fact that many seem satisfied, that by one or another sacred influence they have been brought nigh. There are certain great influences that never entirely miss any soul and tend ever to draw us to God. But the best they can do is to get us where we shall see the responsibility of our own personal choice."

GIVE US A WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION LAW.

Four years of hard work have resulted in the presentation before the state legislature of a reasonable bill providing for compensation of injured workmen. Now it is up to the legislature.

Reports from St. Paul tell of sinister influences at work against the bill. The opposition to it, according to these reports, is now centered in an effort on the part of certain personal injury lawyers—"ambulance chasers"—to make use of money to defeat it. There is other opposition, but it is not regarded as being of so serious a character as this.

Watch the progress of that bill in the legislature. Action on it is to come in both houses within a short time. Meanwhile the ambulance chasers' slush fund will be put to work. The results of that work will show in the vote on the bill.

Minnesota wants a workmen's compensation law. Minnesota has wanted one for four years, or rather the people have known for four years that that was what they wanted. The state needs such a law. Duluth has seen, within the last few months, a striking example of the greatness of the need. Workingmen who have been injured have been fleeced long enough under the old method. Employers have been compelled long enough to pay tribute to the gang that trails the ambulances.

The present bill provides protection for both employers and employes. It is a much fairer bill than the most ardent advocates of compensation could have expected to get before the legislature at this time. It ought to be passed. It must be passed, if Minnesota is not to lose the opportunity to take a leading place among the states that are looking after the interests of their people.

Meanwhile Julian Hawthorne has been accumulating some corking material for a new series of detective stories.

A WORD TO THE CANDIDATES.

Just a word to the men who are seeking city office under the new form of government. It is inspired by the promises some of these men are making regarding the manner in which they will handle the city's business in case they are elected.

This is no campaign for political preferment, as such campaigns have been understood and conducted in the past. In those good old days—which we trust are gone forever—the candidate had behind him a party organization to which he was compelled to swear fealty, in private if not in public. This organization was supplied with funds by men who expected to—and generally did—get full value for what they put into the party treasury. Promises were valueless unless they complied with the intentions of the party leaders.

You who are seeking for the votes of the people of Duluth today are not to have any such protection as this. You are going to be held to your promises, and you will be personally responsible for their performance. If you are insincere, if for any private reason you are not prepared to carry out what you say you will carry out, the people will find it out and will pass judgment on you accordingly. And they will not have to wait for the next city election day to come around before they can pass that judgment. They will have the power to recall you if you fall short of what you give them to understand they may expect.

And in deciding the policies you will follow you will have none of the privileges of the old-time star chamber. You will have to act in the open, and the people will know every move you make and what discussion precedes whatever action you may decide upon.

Perhaps as good a way as any to put the situation before you is to quote what Woodrow Wilson says in the March number of Town Development regarding the attitude of the people toward city commissioners elected as you seek to be elected:

> The way the government under you is constituted is nothing to us. The number of people that are employed by you is nothing to us—at present. The way you organize or reorganize your department is your business, but we are going to hold you responsible for every bit of it, and if it does not work out, then we are going to try somebody else, until we find somebody who knows how to make it work.

And now it will be necessary to break that weather backbone all over again.

WHAT ABOUT A HISTORICAL SOCIETY BUILDING?

What is being done at St. Paul about the proposal to erect a historical society building at the capital?

The appropriations for the legislative session are not yet complete. There ought to be some provision made in them for such a structure. The amount the state can spend in the next two years is said to be limited to some $17,000,000. That is an enormous sum for a state like Minnesota to spend, and there surely ought to be some of that amount available for this purpose.

If there are any appropriations contemplated that are not necessary to be made at this time, they should be allowed to drop out in favor of a historical society building, for that is needed. The records of the Historical society as now placed are not readily available for research or reference work. They must be so available, or their value will be in great part destroyed. The growing encroachments on the Historical society's space in the capitol are continually making these records less and less open to ready consultation and examination.

Don't let the idea of a building for the Historical society drop. One of the greatest needs of the state today is for just such a building. If the present legislature cannot appropriate enough to complete the structure, it can at least make a beginning. The session should not be allowed to close without some definite step being taken to meet that need.

Harry Thaw is said to be ambitious to become a lawyer. His experience evidently has convinced him that that is about the easiest and quickest way to get the money.

SUCH A SENSITIVENESS!

One of the most fascinating things about the Illinois legislature is its sensitiveness. Maybe there shouldn't be any surprise at the existence of some such feeling in a body that has on its records the account of the sending of William Lorimer to Washington to take an unearned seat in the United States senate. But the extent to which the members are carrying that sensitiveness is pretty nearly paralyzing.

For instance, they have adopted a resolution barring from the state capitol any newspaper correspondent who sends his paper anything libelous, defamatory or personal about the members of the legislature. Think of the smiling self-complacence of a bunch of men who could pass any such resolution as that. Think of the smug satisfaction with which they regard themselves.

The newspaper men are there for two purposes. One is to supply the public with the news regarding the transactions of the legislature. The other is to enable their newspapers to keep the public informed as to how the public's servants in the legislature are managing the public business. If this can be done without entering into the personal section of news, will the wise and sensitive Illinois legislators kindly point out how?

Ever since its present session began the Illinois legislature has been deadlocked on the question of United States senatorships. That situation is a duplicate of the one that existed before Lorimer was "put over" at the former session. Are the legislators planning to put something or somebody over again, that they are so fearful the folks back home will know what each individual is doing? Or what is back of the effort to muzzle the state press as to legislators' doings? At its best this Illinois stunt looks like a piece of petty politics of the most contemptible and dangerous sort. At its worst it looks like a preparation for a new "jackpot" and all that goes with that kind of business.

Beginning with this year, the initials "W. W." will not be open to the former strong suspicion of standing for "William Wallace."

HELP THE MAN WHO NEEDS MONEY!

Reports from St. Paul tell of "hard sledding" for the bill to make possible the operation of the loan societies proposed in the larger cities of the state. Some of the legislators are said not to understand the purposes of the bill, and so they are preparing to vote against it.

This attitude is a mistake, and a serious one. The bill would permit the charging of higher than the present legal rate of interest on short time loans, and is intended to make possible the loaning of money to men and women who need it and who now are compelled to put themselves in the power of the loan sharks to get it.

The extent and seriousness of the loan shark evil is not so apparent to the members of the legislature who come from the country districts. They have not seen the grinding of wage-earners by loan sharks who bleed their patrons of from twice to three or more times the amounts of small loans, through the demanding of commissions and other evasions of the law governing interest charges. It is in the cities that the loan shark thrives, and it is in the cities that the salary or wage-earner, in need of funds to meet extraordinary expenses such as come from sickness and other causes, is driven to these men for money.

The bill now before the legislature would legalize loans by properly accredited organizations at a rate of 2 per cent a month, which has been decided upon as the lowest return on such loans that would make the associations self-supporting. Without such associations there can be no hope, outside of uncertain philanthropy, for the deserving needy. And without some such law as is proposed, such associations cannot be conducted legally.

The legislators should withdraw their opposition to the "loan association bill." It is intended to benefit laboring men and men of small salaries, and should be passed by the legislature. Its passage will furnish the means of rooting out the loan shark evil in the state. It should be passed in the interests of humanity and justice.

After they get all the alterations made in the house at Washington, the jokers of the capital will begin to get in their rude jests about the "bench show."

ANNEXING THE ISLE OF PINES.

In various parts of Minnesota people are being approached by earnest advocates who are asking them to sign a petition to congress for the annexation to this country of the Isle of Pines. It is pointed out that of the population of the island today 90 per cent are Americans, and that these Americans are desirous of being brought back to full American citizenship by the annexation route.

Signers of any such petition as that will only be wasting their time and making themselves absurd. The United States cannot annex the Isle of Pines in any such offhand fashion. The only way it can be done is to have the state department at Washington negotiate with the Cuban state department and so secure terms on which Cuba will be willing to cede the island to this country. The terms of such cession must then be complied with, and the formalities gone through with.

To argue the prevalence of Americans in the island is no better than to urge the annexation of western Canada because so many Americans have made their homes there. And to seize the Isle of Pines outright and make it American territory would be no more just than it would be to grab western Canada and annex it to this country without the consent of the government at London.

Those Americans who went to the Isle of Pines to make their homes, voluntarily put themselves under the Cuban government. If they are sick of that government, the simplest way for them to get away from it is to come back to the United States.

If it is desirable that this country annex the Isle of Pines, representations to that effect should be made to Secretary Bryan and President Wilson. Perhaps Cuba does not want to let the island go. In that case the matter must drop. The United States is not in the land-grabbing business, and the advocates of this annexation scheme ought to know and realize that fact.

Dr. Friedmann's cure is taken from turtles, but even that failed to secure a snap decision regarding it.

"IRRELEVANT AND IMMATERIAL."

To the Editor of The Herald:

Do you not think a lot of irrelevant matter is being injected into the present mayoralty campaign?

There are so many candidates and so many issues, that we voters are becoming confused. I was interested in the rather facetious communication of "A Lakesider" the other evening, but what he said rather hit the nail on the head. Just for one example, what has the commercial club's policies to do with the present campaign? I am not a member of the club, and know nothing of the dispute regarding its management. I do not know whether it is a benefit to the city or a detriment, and do not wish to enter into any controversy on this point. What I want to know is what it has to do with the mayoralty campaign, or the election of commissioners. Is it possible that the commissioners will also have the task of reorganizing the commercial club? If so, who is going to be the commercial club commissioner, the mayor or one of the other fellows?

From House to Senate, No. 6

By Savoyard.

Washington, March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—March 4, 1881, Eugene Hale became a senator in congress, the successor of Hannibal Hamlin, who voluntarily retired from public life. A few days later William P. Frye succeeded James G. Blaine, who resigned to be secretary of state in Garfield's cabinet, as senator from Maine. Hale was senator just thirty years; Frye was senator thirty years and a few days. Both Hale and Frye had served ten years in the house of representatives, and Hale was senatorial timber; Frye's place was in the house, which he made a mistake in leaving. Tom Reed was a greater man than both of them together, and ought to have been senator.

And there was a curious situation. Reed cordially disliked Hale and could have had his seat. His feeling for Frye savored much of contempt, and he could have had his seat also. But Reed, who really wished to be senator, was almost as anxious for it as Garfield, put it away from him when it was pressed on him. And he regretted the forbearance, for when speaking of it afterward to a friend—commenting on his failure to seize the prize when offered—he somewhat mournfully remarked: "The chariot of the gods never swings low but once for one of us mortal," which I take to be a classical quotation; but I could never verify it.

There were years while Reed was in the house that he was not on speaking terms with either senator from Maine, and his attitude toward Blaine himself was that of hostility, more or less intense. He believed himself to be a much greater man than Blaine, certainly one of far more respectable character, and being human, he resented the greater prominence of "the plumed knight" as a national political figure.

There was one man Reed positively hated—Ben Harrison—whose administration he relieved of sore, if not fatal, embarrassment, when, as czar, he forced a reluctant, or rather a hostile, majority to substitute the Sherman silver law for 16 to 1. When the writer comes with pen sufficiently trenchant to make a vivid picture and give the American people an adequate conception of the ignoble moral cowardice of the American congress, his chapter will be headed like this: "Attitude of the G. O. P. Toward Silver Coinage, the Double Decade 1873-93."

Reed has been on better terms with Harrison than with any other Republican president since Grant. He was delighted with Harrison's nomination in 1888, and while perhaps it is true that he resented the appointment of Blaine as secretary of state, nevertheless he gave loyal and invaluable support to the administration. When he had saved Harrison's bacon by forcing through the house that hypocricy, the Sherman silver law, that nobody but old Stewart of Nevada liked, he counted on the gratitude of the president, and Harrison was grateful, no man more so, but Reed demanded too much. He insisted on naming the collector of ports, or maybe it was postmaster, or both, at Senator Frye's home town of Lewiston, Me.

Harrison was very greatly embarrassed. Reed lived in Portland, and his demand was unprecedented, enormous. Frye was up in arms, so was Hale, so was the entire senate. Harrison, too, was a great man, a positive man, and he resolutely met the situation by refusing the request of Reed, who broke off all relations with him, and was viciously hostile to his renomination in 1892, going so far as to support Blaine, whom he also hated, at Minneapolis.

But to get back to the senators. Hale was a man of very great ability. He entered the Forty-first congress in 1869, the day Blaine was elected speaker of that body, and it was a treason perpetrated by the "plumed knight" then and there that cost him the nomination for president seven years later, at Cincinnati, when Hayes got it. In his race for the speakership against Henry L. Dawes of Massachusetts, Blaine promised the chairmanship of postoffice and post roads to both Tyner of Indiana and Farnsworth of Illinois, the latter Ben Butler's bitter personal enemy. Farnsworth got it, and in 1876 Tyner threw the vote of Indiana in the Republican national convention to Hayes after Norton was dropped.

Blaine loved Hale and gave him every opportunity to distinguish himself in the house. A small, elegant, handsome, yet masculine figure, a ready but deliberate delivery, fashioned by nature for parliamentary life, Hale was a leader ere he had finished his fifth term in the house of representatives. He looked the aristocrat. Married to old Zack Chandler's daughter, he had both pockets full of money, but in 1878 he met with grievous humiliation. A stone cutter named Murch, an Irish artisan, beat him for a seat in the Forty-sixth congress.

But Hale was a valuable public servant. Laborious to a degree and prompt always, he was ever to be depended on to promote honesty and maintain economy in the public service. An oligarch? To be sure; but, my dear sir, our government, for all practical purposes, was an oligarchy for more than a century, and the oligarchy expired only the other day. May the rule of the people the present century be as successful as was the rule of the bosses throughout the nineteenth century.

Frye was a very different order of man. He had lungs and his was a tuneful voice. He was also fluent. I have been about this capital for thirty years, and when I hear a certain order of statesmen who think they are thinking, when on their legs "a-making of a speech" in one or other house of congress, I ofttime predict that when our glorious Union dies it will be of a malady we may call "Lungs."

In the house Frye did very well. That was his theater. He was a skirmisher, though not a sharpshooter. In the senate he vegetated. He was rather vain and full of affectation. He loved to solonize, and was blissful in the delusion that he did it capitally. All the lawyers in Philadelphia could never have made him to see that he was not a very much greater senator than Hale.

* * *

He loved the gewgaws of statecraft. The senate sometimes does the appropriate thing. He was president pro tempore longer than any other senator in our history.

That was the stuff for him—a ribbon to wear in his button hole, the semblance of excellence.

His tribe is innumerable—that is the devil of it.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—William C. Redfield, the new secretary of commerce, knows a great deal about the very things that his department has to deal with. And yet he starts off under a handicap that is a great source of sadness to his friends, who sit about and wonder if something can't be done.

I refer, of course, to his whiskers. Just how to get him to remove them, without actually using force and perhaps making a scene, is the problem that confronts the administration.

Inasmuch as the Charles E. Hughes whiskatorial decorations have been moved to a comparatively safe and sane basis, there is a feeling that perhaps Redfield, if properly approached, can be made to see the light.

The Redfield outfit is not the usual thing in whiskers at all. Not only are they side whiskers, but they are lacy, zephyry, inutile whiskers that flutter. And they are pink—a rare, delicate pink, but pink. They give him the appearance of a high-priced eye, ear and nose doctor.

Aside from whiskers, nothing can be said against Redfield. During his single term in the house he was one of the few men who ever made tariff discussions interesting. He had a way of throwing rhetoric, romance and human interest into a tariff talk. His speeches were as full of incident as a novel. And always he seemed to have at his disposal an elaborate array of facts.

* * *

The man has a first-class sense of humor, too, although at times he likes the humor visible to the eye. For example, he says that the funniest thing he ever saw was an incident at the table on shipboard. Across from Redfield was a pompous little man who took himself seriously and had little to say to the ordinary six and seven-eighths run of humans. One evening, when this passenger was looking about at his fellow voyagers with an especially high degree of dignity, the ship gave a flop and a large plate of beefsteak and gravy jumped right into the central area of the man's white shirt front. And he still tried to maintain his dignity. Redfield says he laughed for forty minutes.

No matter where he goes, Redfield manages to get in a few questions that produce facts worth remembering. And he does remember them. Over in Japan a few years ago he saw some women driving piles. He inquired how much they were paid. It was only a few cents a week.

"And yet," observed another American in the party, "you are a low tariff man and would place American labor in competition with such as that."

"Well, let's see," said Redfield; "how many piles do they drive a day?" And he began to jot down figures on the back of an envelope. "Now, I happen to know how many piles an American laborer getting $2.50 a day could drive. Here are the comparative figures. In proportion to the amount of work accomplished, the American gets even less than these women do."

Senator Thomas Pryor Gore, the blind man, who was one of the first to foresee Wilson in the White House, never dictates or prepares a speech in advance. True, the manuscript would be of no avail in delivering the speech, but if he so desired he could revise a speech several times, have it read to him, and thus memorize it. Instead, he prepares it, memorizes it, and delivers it before the speech is ever put on paper at all. Gore's speeches are frequently full of statistics, too. And yet he is obliged to speak, not only without manuscript, but without any kind of notes.

* * *

In every other senator's office, an important speech is a big burden on the secretaries and their assistants. The speech must be dictated, revamped, trimmed, manicured, escalloped, fluted and gilded before it is ready for the market. In Gore's office nobody knows when he is preparing a speech. He has things read to him that may or may not be with that in view. When he gets all the information he desires, he sits quietly and composes his argument, and that is all the fuss there is to it.

* * *

Gore's facility at memorizing figures is marvelous. A few weeks before the presidential nominations last year he was riding on the train with a friend and bought an almanac from the train boy to find some election statistics. He asked the friend to read over the figures on the popular vote for Bryan and Taft in the various states.

"Let's see, now, how many I can remember," he said, when he had heard the list read over once.

And he started in and repeated the figures for each and every state in the Union, just as it was in the book!

* * *

Admiral Dewey is still devoted to his hobby of seeing how many years of life and health he can collect, and for that reason is diligent in his avoidance of needless risks to his physical welfare. He was supposed to be one of the distinguished figures in the march from the senate chamber to the inaugural platform on March 4, but declined to appear, simply because he is taking no chances on catching cold by sitting outdoors on a March day. For several years he has had a flat rule against attending banquets and other affairs that call for much eating and loss of digestion and sleep.

The M. P.'s "Did Time."

London Chronicle: The house of commons has its own prison for those that treat it with contempt—the clock tower of the house. It was here that Mr. Bradlaugh was committed in 1880 for refusing to obey the speaker's order to withdraw. He was liberated next day. A more real punishment was the imprisonment there of Mr. Word, a solicitor, in 1879 for a breach of the privileges of the house in connection with a bill. He remained there several days until a medical certificate was produced to the effect that his health was in danger through the perpetual striking of Big Ben. The commons debated whether they should stop the clock or release the prisoner, and Big Ben won.

Minnesota Opinions

Comments of the State Press.

No Blindness There.

Walker Pilot: While everybody admits that love is blind, there are only a small percentage who know what a good optician the divorce court is.

Suggestion to Jobless.

Fairmont Sentinel: The wisest thing for the man out of a job is to get a piece of land and diligently give his time to cultivating Mother Earth.

Do Auto Owners Want It?

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: A Virginia man claims to have invented a perpetual motion machine that is delivering the goods. What a blow it would be to the automobile repair shops and the Standard Oil company if his invention should prove successful enough to be utilized in running automobiles. Then, too, think of the glorious bliss of having an engine that wouldn't buck—but, rats, that would take away half of the joys of motoring.

Coming to Minnesota.

Austin Transcript: Reports continue favorable of the large immigration of settlers from Iowa and Illinois to Minnesota this spring. These are farmers of ample capital and successful experience and they will add to our agricultural prosperity.

Mackenzie at Work.

Pine River Blaze: Secretary Mackenzie of the Northern Minnesota Development association has won his point, and the state fair will not hereafter advertise lands or products for other states in conflict with those of Minnesota. Mr. Mackenzie insisted on this until now it has been acceded to by the state fair board. Good for Mac.

Hard on Lame Ducks.

Waseca Herald: Dispatches from Washington state that Jim Tawney's $10,000 a year job on that international boundary commission may terminate next July, owing to failure of congress to provide funds to pay the commissioners' salaries. The political lame ducks looking for soft snaps under the present administration are liable to be sorely disappointed.

Philosophising.

Cokato Enterprise: No place seems so dreary, when a youth's a youth, as the little town of his early days. How glad we all are to leave and how joyously we plan the going! After a few years of trying to startle the city, and finding our presence is known to only a few don't-care friends and entirely indifferent acquaintances, then is when the little old home town seems a paradise that has been lost. The good old times are lived over in memory and we wish vainly that we had taken our full enjoyment out of the most joyous days of our life, when life was young and free from care. But gone are those days, and fortunate, indeed, are we if we have grown philosophical enough to live now the way we wish we had lived in the days that have vanished with the snows of yesteryear.

Room for Homeseekers.

Austin Transcript: Minnesota still has 1,218,450 acres of government land subject to homestead entry, according to data collected by W. R. Mackenzie, immigration commissioner of the Northern Minnesota Development association. Much of the land contains standing timber. Plenty of room for the wise homeseeker.

Mr. Wilson as a Storyteller

W. G. McAdoo in the Century Magazine: Mr. Wilson is singularly felicitous as a speaker and uses apt stories with great effect. He has an inexhaustible sense of refined humor. More than two years ago, and within a month after he had been elected governor of New Jersey, he was introduced at a dinner of the New York Southern society as "a future president of the United States." He replied as follows:

"Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen: The very kind introduction I have just heard destroys my sense of identity. I am told by psychologists that our memories are the seat of our sense of identity, and that if I did not remember who I was yesterday, I could not for the life of me tell you who I am today. In view of the confused and unexpected happenings of the recent past, I find it difficult to remember who I was yesterday. I find myself in one respect (I hope in only one respect), resembling certain persons I heard of in a story that was repeated to me the other day. A friend of mine was in Canada with a fishing party, and one member of the party was imprudent enough to sample some whisky that was called 'squirrel' whisky.

"If was understood that it was called 'squirrel' whisky because it made those who drank it inclined to climb a tree. This gentleman imbibed too much of this dangerous liquid, and the consequence was that when he went to the train to go with the rest of the company, he took a train bound south instead of a train bound north. Wishing to recover him, his companions telegraphed the conductor of the southbound train: 'Send short man named Johnson back for the north-bound train. He is intoxicated.' Presently they got a reply from the conductor: 'Further particulars needed. There are thirteen men on the train who don't know either their name or their destination.'

"Now, I am sure that I know my name, but I am not so sure as your presiding officer that I know my destination."

The Goose and the Golden Eggs.

Ellis O. Jones in Lippincott's Magazine: A certain man had a goose which laid him a golden egg every day. A foolish friend advised him to kill the goose and realize at once on the future.

"No," said the man, "that is not the proper way. I know a better." Thereupon he organized a company and issued stocks and bonds which he sold at a good round figure. Then he gave out the report that the goose had quit laying. This enabled him to buy the stock back at a low figure. Then he gave out the report that the goose was laying two eggs a day, which enabled him again to sell the stock at a big advance. After he had repeated this process a number of times he was so rich that he didn't care what the goose laid or when. Accordingly, he invested his wealth in gilt-edged securities, journeyed abroad, and went in for art.

Which Is Worse?

Chicago Examiner: "You can't imagine," said the musical young woman, "how distressing it is when a singer realizes that she has lost her voice."

"Perhaps not," replied the plain man; "but I've got a fair idea how distressing it is when she doesn't realize it."

Her Status.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1893.

Congressman Boen of the Seventh district and R. K. Doe of Duluth called upon President Cleveland yesterday. Mr. Doe would like to succeed Dar S. Hall as chairman of the Chippewa Indian commission.

There are numerous candidates for chief of police at West Duluth and among the number are Arthur Briggs, who is the present chief, J. W. Peterson, ex-Chief Brigham, John Reardon, J. Duna, James Hall and William Swanstrom. For street commissioner the list includes P. R. Haley, Andrew Miles and D. Wanger. W. H. Short would succeed himself as chief of the fire department. Dr. Forin's chances are favorable for health officer, and either Krey or Kuhn will capture the village engineer's office.

Zenith City lodge, No. 58, Theatrical Mechanics' association, was organized last night and the following officers elected: President, R. D. Whipple; vice president and treasurer, J.C. Palmer; recording secretary, E. J. Meghar; trustees, Morris O'Rourke, Leonard Schaff and H. Whitaker, Sr.; physician, Dr. W. H. Magie.

The board of trade will hold a meeting this afternoon to consider the proposals offered for the location of the new building. Two propositions have been made. One, by a syndicate of East Superior street property owners of which J. D. Ray is chairman, offers 100 feet at the corner of Superior street and Third avenue east, free and a cash bonus of $50,000. The second offer is the Dr. Collins corner, 100 feet at the corner of Third avenue west and First street. The price asked is $5,000 and the value claimed for the property is $60,000. It is believed the Collins offer will be accepted because of the more favorable location.

Oliver Harris and family have gone to Oxford, Ohio, to visit friends.

Mrs. Julian A. Ford left yesterday for Tecumseh, Mich., in response to a telegram announcing the death of her son, William Ford.

Mrs. E. E. Barnidge of Tower is here on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Harry Elliott.

A little over a week ago a postal card arrived in Duluth bearing the somewhat ambiguous address, "To the Syrians of Duluth, Minn." It was mailed at San Antonio, Tex. After submitting it in vain to a number of people, the postoffice officials sent it to Bishop McGolrick, who found no difficulty whatever in translating the Syrian characters on the other side. It was an inquiry by Simon and Joseph Kozin whether Anton Kozin, from the village of Knat, is in Duluth.

Not True to Life.

Popular Magazine: The son of a man who has been a great philanthropist welcomed a visitor to his office. The talk turned on the career of the father of the young man.

"It was a great blow to everybody—my father's death," lamented the youth. "By the way, here's the last portrait painted of him."

He led the visitor to where hung on the wall a large portrait of the dead philanthropist, depicting him as standing erect with his right hand in his pocket.

"A fine piece of work," said the visitor grimly, "but it's not true to life. Nobody ever saw your father with his hand in his own pocket."

Ignoring Father.

Cincinnati Inquirer: A school teacher recently received the following note from the mother of one of her pupils:

"Dear Mis. You writ me about whippin Sammy. I giv you permission to beet him up eny time he won't lern his lesson. He is jest like his father an you hev to beet him with a club to lern him enything. Pound nolege into him. Don't pay no attention to what his father says. I will handel him."

Conscience-Clear.

"She told me she had six new ways to fix her hair."

About Grandfather.

Milwaukee Sentinel: "Grampa," said the little boy who slurs his letters, "says awful funny things."

"Yes," agreed his older sister. "He's an epigrampa."

A Painful Operation.

New York American: She—John, why on earth are you wearing those goggles?

John—Only a moment, dear, until I finish this grapefruit.

GIVE US A WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION LAW.

Four years of hard work have resulted in the presentation before the state legislature of a reasonable bill providing for compensation of injured workmen. Now it is up to the legislature.

Reports from St. Paul tell of sinister influences at work against the bill. The opposition to it, according to these reports, is now centered in an effort on the part of certain personal injury lawyers—"ambulance chasers"—to make use of money to defeat it. There is other opposition, but it is not regarded as being of so serious a character as this.

Watch the progress of that bill in the legislature. Action on it is to come in both houses within a short time. Meanwhile the ambulance chasers' slush fund will be put to work. The results of that work will show in the vote on the bill.

Minnesota wants a workmen's compensation law. Minnesota has wanted one for four years, or rather the people have known for four years that that was what they wanted. The state needs such a law. Duluth has seen, within the last few months, a striking example of the greatness of the need. Workingmen who have been injured have been fleeced long enough under the old method. Employers have been compelled long enough to pay tribute to the gang that trails the ambulances.

The present bill provides protection for both employers and employes. It is a much fairer bill than the most ardent advocates of compensation could have expected to get before the legislature at this time. It ought to be passed. It must be passed, if Minnesota is not to lose the opportunity to take a leading place among the states that are looking after the interests of their people.

Meanwhile Julian Hawthorne has been accumulating some corking material for a new series of detective stories.

A WORD TO THE CANDIDATES.

Just a word to the men who are seeking city office under the new form of government. It is inspired by the promises some of these men are making regarding the manner in which they will handle the city's business in case they are elected.

This is no campaign for political preferment, as such campaigns have been understood and conducted in the past. In those good old days—which we trust are gone forever—the candidate had behind him a party organization to which he was compelled to swear fealty, in private if not in public. This organization was supplied with funds by men who expected to—and generally did—get full value for what they put into the party treasury. Promises were valueless unless they complied with the intentions of the party leaders.

You who are seeking for the votes of the people of Duluth today are not to have any such protection as this. You are going to be held to your promises, and you will be personally responsible for their performance. If you are insincere, if for any private reason you are not prepared to carry out what you say you will carry out, the people will find it out and will pass judgment on you accordingly. And they will not have to wait for the next city election day to come around before they can pass that judgment. They will have the power to recall you if you fall short of what you give them to understand they may expect.

And in deciding the policies you will follow you will have none of the privileges of the old-time star chamber. You will have to act in the open, and the people will know every move you make and what discussion precedes whatever action you may decide upon.

Perhaps as good a way as any to put the situation before you is to quote what Woodrow Wilson says in the March number of Town Development regarding the attitude of the people toward city commissioners elected as you seek to be elected:

> The way the government under you is constituted is nothing to us. The number of people that are employed by you is nothing to us—at present. The way you organize or reorganize your department is your business, but we are going to hold you responsible for every bit of it, and if it does not work out, then we are going to try somebody else, until we find somebody who knows how to make it work.

And now it will be necessary to break that weather backbone all over again.

WHAT ABOUT A HISTORICAL SOCIETY BUILDING?

What is being done at St. Paul about the proposal to erect a historical society building at the capital?

The appropriations for the legislative session are not yet complete. There ought to be some provision made in them for such a structure. The amount the state can spend in the next two years is said to be limited to some $17,000,000. That is an enormous sum for a state like Minnesota to spend, and there surely ought to be some of that amount available for this purpose.

If there are any appropriations contemplated that are not necessary to be made at this time, they should be allowed to drop out in favor of a historical society building, for that is needed. The records of the Historical society as now placed are not readily available for research or reference work. They must be so available, or their value will be in great part destroyed. The growing encroachments on the Historical society's space in the capitol are continually making these records less and less open to ready consultation and examination.

Don't let the idea of a building for the Historical society drop. One of the greatest needs of the state today is for just such a building. If the present legislature cannot appropriate enough to complete the structure, it can at least make a beginning. The session should not be allowed to close without some definite step being taken to meet that need.

Harry Thaw is said to be ambitious to become a lawyer. His experience evidently has convinced him that that is about the easiest and quickest way to get the money.

SUCH A SENSITIVENESS!

One of the most fascinating things about the Illinois legislature is its sensitiveness. Maybe there shouldn't be any surprise at the existence of some such feeling in a body that has on its records the account of the sending of William Lorimer to Washington to take an unearned seat in the United States senate. But the extent to which the members are carrying that sensitiveness is pretty nearly paralyzing.

For instance, they have adopted a resolution barring from the state capitol any newspaper correspondent who sends his paper anything libelous, defamatory or personal about the members of the legislature. Think of the smiling self-complacence of a bunch of men who could pass any such resolution as that. Think of the smug satisfaction with which they regard themselves.

The newspaper men are there for two purposes. One is to supply the public with the news regarding the transactions of the legislature. The other is to enable their newspapers to keep the public informed as to how the public's servants in the legislature are managing the public business. If this can be done without entering into the personal section of news, will the wise and sensitive Illinois legislators kindly point out how?

Ever since its present session began the Illinois legislature has been deadlocked on the question of United States senatorships. That situation is a duplicate of the one that existed before Lorimer was "put over" at the former session. Are the legislators planning to put something or somebody over again, that they are so fearful the folks back home will know what each individual is doing? Or what is back of the effort to muzzle the state press as to legislators' doings? At its best this Illinois stunt looks like a piece of petty politics of the most contemptible and dangerous sort. At its worst it looks like a preparation for a new "jackpot" and all that goes with that kind of business.

Beginning with this year, the initials "W. W." will not be open to the former strong suspicion of standing for "William Wallace."

HELP THE MAN WHO NEEDS MONEY!

Reports from St. Paul tell of "hard sledding" for the bill to make possible the operation of the loan societies proposed in the larger cities of the state. Some of the legislators are said not to understand the purposes of the bill, and so they are preparing to vote against it.

This attitude is a mistake, and a serious one. The bill would permit the charging of higher than the present legal rate of interest on short time loans, and is intended to make possible the loaning of money to men and women who need it and who now are compelled to put themselves in the power of the loan sharks to get it.

The extent and seriousness of the loan shark evil is not so apparent to the members of the legislature who come from the country districts. They have not seen the grinding of wage-earners by loan sharks who bleed their patrons of from twice to three or more times the amounts of small loans, through the demanding of commissions and other evasions of the law governing interest charges. It is in the cities that the loan shark thrives, and it is in the cities that the salary or wage-earner, in need of funds to meet extraordinary expenses such as come from sickness and other causes, is driven to these men for money.

The bill now before the legislature would legalize loans by properly accredited organizations at a rate of 2 per cent a month, which has been decided upon as the lowest return on such loans that would make the associations self-supporting. Without such associations there can be no hope, outside of uncertain philanthropy, for the deserving needy. And without some such law as is proposed, such associations cannot be conducted legally.

The legislators should withdraw their opposition to the "loan association bill." It is intended to benefit laboring men and men of small salaries, and should be passed by the legislature. Its passage will furnish the means of rooting out the loan shark evil in the state. It should be passed in the interests of humanity and justice.

After they get all the alterations made in the house at Washington, the jokers of the capital will begin to get in their rude jests about the "bench show."

ANNEXING THE ISLE OF PINES.

In various parts of Minnesota people are being approached by earnest advocates who are asking them to sign a petition to congress for the annexation to this country of the Isle of Pines. It is pointed out that of the population of the island today 90 per cent are Americans, and that these Americans are desirous of being brought back to full American citizenship by the annexation route.

Signers of any such petition as that will only be wasting their time and making themselves absurd. The United States cannot annex the Isle of Pines in any such offhand fashion. The only way it can be done is to have the state department at Washington negotiate with the Cuban state department and so secure terms on which Cuba will be willing to cede the island to this country. The terms of such cession must then be complied with, and the formalities gone through with.

To argue the prevalence of Americans in the island is no better than to urge the annexation of western Canada because so many Americans have made their homes there. And to seize the Isle of Pines outright and make it American territory would be no more just than it would be to grab western Canada and annex it to this country without the consent of the government at London.

Those Americans who went to the Isle of Pines to make their homes, voluntarily put themselves under the Cuban government. If they are sick of that government, the simplest way for them to get away from it is to come back to the United States.

If it is desirable that this country annex the Isle of Pines, representations to that effect should be made to Secretary Bryan and President Wilson. Perhaps Cuba does not want to let the island go. In that case the matter must drop. The United States is not in the land-grabbing business, and the advocates of this annexation scheme ought to know and realize that fact.

Dr. Friedmann's cure is taken from turtles, but even that failed to secure a snap decision regarding it.

"IRRELEVANT AND IMMATERIAL."

To the Editor of The Herald:

Do you not think a lot of irrelevant matter is being injected into the present mayoralty campaign?

There are so many candidates and so many issues, that we voters are becoming confused. I was interested in the rather facetious communication of "A Lakesider" the other evening, but what he said rather hit the nail on the head. Just for one example, what has the commercial club's policies to do with the present campaign? I am not a member of the club, and know nothing of the dispute regarding its management. I do not know whether it is a benefit to the city or a detriment, and do not wish to enter into any controversy on this point. What I want to know is what it has to do with the mayoralty campaign, or the election of commissioners. Is it possible that the commissioners will also have the task of reorganizing the commercial club? If so, who is going to be the commercial club commissioner, the mayor or one of the other fellows?

From House to Senate, No. 6

By Sarovard.

Washington, March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—March 4, 1881, Eugene Hale became a senator in congress, the successor of Hannibal Hamlin, who voluntarily retired from public life. A few days later William P. Frye succeeded James G. Blaine, who resigned to be secretary of state in Garfield's cabinet, as senator from Maine. Hale was senator just thirty years; Frye was senator thirty years and a few days. Both Hale and Frye had served ten years in the house of representatives, and Hale was senatorial timber; Frye's place was in the house, which he made a mistake in leaving. Tom Reed was a greater man than both of them together, and ought to have been senator.

And there was a curious situation. Reed cordially disliked Hale and could have had his seat. His feeling for Frye savored much of contempt, and he could have had his seat also. But Reed, who really wished to be senator, was almost as anxious for it as Garfield, put it away from him when it was pressed on him. And he regretted the forbearance, for when speaking of it afterward to a friend—commenting on his failure to seize the prize when offered—he somewhat mournfully remarked: "The chariot of the gods never swings low but once for one of us mortal," which I take to be a classical quotation; but I could never verify it.

There were years while Reed was in the house that he was not on speaking terms with either senator from Maine, and his attitude toward Blaine himself was that of hostility, more or less intense. He believed himself to be a much greater man than Blaine, certainly one of far more respectable character, and being human, he resented the greater prominence of "the plumed knight" as a national political figure.

There was one man Reed positively hated—Ben Harrison—whose administration he relieved of sore, if not fatal, embarrassment, when, as czar, he forced a reluctant, or rather a hostile, majority to substitute the Sherman silver law for 16 to 1. When the writer comes with pen sufficiently trenchant to make a vivid picture and give the American people an adequate conception of the ignoble moral cowardice of the American congress, his chapter will be headed like this: "Attitude of the G. O. P. Toward Silver Coinage, the Double Decade 1873-93."

Reed has been on better terms with Harrison than with any other Republican president since Grant. He was delighted with Harrison's nomination in 1888, and while perhaps it is true that he resented the appointment of Blaine as secretary of state, nevertheless he gave loyal and invaluable support to the administration. When he had saved Harrison's bacon by forcing through the house that hypocrisy, the Sherman silver law, that nobody but old Stewart of Nevada liked, he counsel on the gratitude of the president, and Harrison was grateful, no man more so, but Reed demanded too much. He insisted on naming the collector of ports, or maybe it was postmaster, or both, at Senator Frye's home town of Lewiston, Me.

Harrison was very greatly embarrassed. Reed lived in Portland, and his demand was unprecedented, enormous. Frye was up in arms, so was Hale, so was the entire senate. Harrison, too, was a great man, a positive man, and he resolutely met the situation by refusing the request of Reed, who broke off all relations with him, and was viciously hostile to his renomination in 1892, going so far as to support Blaine, whom he also hated, at Minneapolis.

But to get back to the senators. Hale was a man of very great ability. He entered the Forty-first congress in 1869, the day Blaine was elected speaker of that body, and it was a treason perpetrated by the "plumed knight" then and there that cost him the nomination for president seven years later, at Cincinnati, when Hayes got it. In his race for the speakership against Henry L. Dawes of Massachusetts, Blaine promised the chairmanship of postoffice and post roads to both Tyner of Indiana and Farnsworth of Illinois, the latter Ben Butler's bitter personal enemy. Farnsworth got it, and in 1876 Tyner threw the vote of Indiana in the Republican national convention to Hayes after Norton was dropped.

Blaine loved Hale and gave him every opportunity to distinguish himself in the house. A small, elegant, handsome, yet masculine figure, a ready but deliberate delivery, fashioned by nature for parliamentary life, Hale was a leader ere he had finished his fifth term in the house of representatives. He looked the aristocrat. Married to old Zack Chandler's daughter, he had both pockets full of money, but in 1878 he met with grievous humiliation. A stone cutter named Murch, an Irish artisan, beat him for a seat in the Forty-sixth congress.

But Hale was a valuable public servant. Laborious to a degree and prompt always, he was ever to be depended on to promote honesty and maintain economy in the public service. An oligarch? To be sure; but, my dear sir, our government, for all practical purposes, was an oligarchy for more than a century, and the oligarchy expired only the other day. May the rule of the people the present century be as successful as was the rule of the bosses throughout the nineteenth century.

Frye was a very different order of man. He had lungs and his was a tuneful voice. He was also fluent. I have been about this capital for thirty years, and when I hear a certain order of statesmen who think they are thinking, when on their legs "a-making of a speech" in one or other house of congress, I ofttime predict that when our glorious Union dies it will be of a malady we may call "Lungs."

In the house Frye did very well. That was his theater. He was a skirmisher, though not a sharpshooter. In the senate he vegetated. He was rather vain and full of affectation. He loved to solonize, and was blissful in the delusion that he did it capitally. All the lawyers in Philadelphia could never have made him to see that he was not a very much greater senator than Hale.

* * *

He loved the gewgaws of statecraft. The senate sometimes does the appropriate thing. He was president pro tempore longer than any other senator in our history.

That was the stuff for him—a ribbon to wear in his button hole, the semblance of excellence!

His tribe is innumerable—that is the devil of it.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—William C. Redfield, the new secretary of commerce, knows a great deal about the very things that his department has to deal with. And yet he starts off under a handicap that is a great source of sadness to his friends, who sit about and wonder if something can't be done.

I refer, of course, to his whiskers. Just how to get him to remove them, without actually using force and perhaps making a scene, is the problem that confronts the administration.

Inasmuch as the Charles E. Hughes whiskatorial decorations have been moved to a comparatively safe and sane basis, there is a feeling that perhaps Redfield, if properly approached, can be made to see the light.

The Redfield outfit is not the usual thing in whiskers at all. Not only are they side whiskers, but they are lacy, zephyry, inutile whiskers that flutter. And they are pink—a rare, delicate pink, but pink. They give him the appearance of a high-priced eye, ear and nose doctor.

Aside from whiskers, nothing can be said against Redfield. During his single term in the house he was one of the few men who ever made tariff discussions interesting. He had a way of throwing rhetoric, romance and human interest into a tariff talk. His speeches were as full of incident as a novel. And always he seemed to have at his disposal an elaborate array of facts.

* * *

The man has a first-class sense of humor, too, although at times he likes the humor visible to the eye. For example, he says that the funniest thing he ever saw was an incident at the table on shipboard. Across from Redfield was a pompous little man who took himself seriously and had little to say to the ordinary six and seven-eighths run of humans. One evening, when this passenger was looking about at his fellow voyagers with an especially high degree of dignity, the ship gave a flop and a large plate of beefsteak and gravy jumped right into the central area of the man's white shirt front. And he still tried to maintain his dignity. Redfield says he laughed for forty minutes.

No matter where he goes, Redfield manages to get in a few questions that produce facts worth remembering. And he does remember them. Over in Japan a few years ago he saw some women driving piles. He inquired how much they were paid. It was only a few cents a week.

"And yet," observed another American in the party, "you are a low tariff man and would place American labor in competition with such as that."

"Well, let's see," said Redfield; "how many piles do they drive a day?" And he began to jot down figures on the back of an envelope. "Now, I happen to know how many piles an American laborer getting $2.50 a day could drive. Here are the comparative figures. In proportion to the amount of work accomplished, the American gets even less than these women do."

Senator Thomas Pryor Gore, the blind man, who was one of the first to foresee Wilson in the White House, never dictates or prepares a speech in advance. True, the manuscript would be of no avail in delivering the speech, but if he so desired he could revise a speech several times, have it read to him, and thus memorize it. Instead, he prepares it, memorizes it, and delivers it before the speech is ever put on paper at all. Gore's speeches are frequently full of statistics, too. And yet he is obliged to speak, not only without manuscript, but without any kind of notes.

* * *

In every other senator's office, an important speech is a big burden on the secretaries and their assistants. The speech must be dictated, revamped, trimmed, manicured, escalloped, fluted and gilded before it is ready for the market. In Gore's office nobody knows when he is preparing a speech. He has things read to him that may or may not be with that in view. When he gets all the information he desires, he sits quietly and composes his argument, and that is all the fuss there is to it.

* * *

Gore's facility at memorizing figures is marvelous. A few weeks before the presidential nominations last year he was riding on the train with a friend and bought an almanac from the train boy to find some election statistics. He asked the friend to read over the figures on the popular vote for Bryan and Taft in the various states.

"Let's see, now, how many I can remember," he said, when he had heard the list read over once.

And he started in and repeated the figures for each and every state in the Union, just as it was in the book!

* * *

Admiral Dewey is still devoted to his hobby of seeing how many years of life and health he can collect, and for that reason is diligent in his avoidance of needless risks to his physical welfare. He was supposed to be one of the distinguished figures in the march from the senate chamber to the inaugural platform on March 4, but declined to appear, simply because he is taking no chances on catching cold by sitting outdoors on a March day. For several years he has had a flat rule against attending banquets and other affairs that call for much eating and loss of digestion and sleep.

The M. P.'s "Did Time."

London Chronicle: The house of commons has its own prison for those that treat it with contempt—the clock tower of the house. It was here that Mr. Bradlaugh was committed in 1880 for refusing to obey the speaker's order to withdraw. He was liberated next day. A more real punishment was the imprisonment there of Mr. Word, a solicitor, in 1879 for a breach of the privileges of the house in connection with a bill. He remained there several days until a medical certificate was produced to the effect that his health was in danger through the perpetual striking of Big Ben. The commons debated whether they should stop the clock or release the prisoner, and Big Ben won.

Mr. Mackenzie insisted on this until now it has been acceded to by the state fair board. Good for Mac.

Hard on Lame Ducks.

Waseca Herald: Dispatches from Washington state that Jim Tawney's $10,000 a year job on that international boundary commission may terminate next July, owing to failure of congress to provide funds to pay the commissioners' salaries. The political lame ducks looking for soft snaps under the present administration are liable to be sorely disappointed.

Philosophizing.

Cokato Enterprise: No place seems so dreary, when a youth's a youth, as the little town of his early days. How glad we all are to leave and how joyously we plan the going! After a few years of trying to startle the city, and finding our presence is known to only a few don't-care friends and entirely indifferent acquaintances, then is when the little old home town seems a paradise that has been lost. The good old times are lived over in memory and we wish vainly that we had taken our full enjoyment out of the most joyous days of our life, when life was young and free from care. But gone are those days, and fortunate, indeed, are we if we have grown philosophical enough to live now the way we wish we had lived in the days that have vanished with the snows of yesteryear.

Room for Homeseekers.

Austin Transcript: Minnesota still has 1,218,150 acres of government land subject to homestead entry, according to data collected by W. R. Mackenzie, immigration commissioner of the Northern Minnesota Development association. Much of the land contains standing timber. Plenty of room for the wise homeseeker.

Mr. Wilson as a Storyteller

W. G. McAdoo in the Century Magazine: Mr. Wilson is singularly felicitous as a speaker and uses apt stories with great effect. He has an inexhaustible sense of refined humor. More than two years ago, and within a month after he had been elected governor of New Jersey, he was introduced at a dinner of the New York Southern society as "a future president of the United States." He replied as follows:

"Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen: The very kind introduction I have just heard destroys my sense of identity. I am told by psychologists that our memories are the seat of our sense of identity, and that if I did not remember who I was yesterday, I could not for the life of me tell you who I am today. In view of the confused and unexpected happenings of the recent past, I find it difficult to remember who I was yesterday. I find myself in one respect (I hope in only one respect), resembling certain persons I heard of in a story that was repeated to me the other day. A friend of mine was in Canada with a fishing party, and one member of the party was imprudent enough to sample some whisky that was called 'squirrel' whisky.

"It was understood that it was called 'squirrel' whisky because it made those who drank it inclined to climb a tree. This gentleman imbibed too much of this dangerous liquid, and the consequence was that when he went to the train to go with the rest of the company, he took a train bound south instead of a train bound north. Wishing to recover him, his companions telegraphed the conductor of the south-bound train: 'Send short man named Johnson back for the north-bound train. He is intoxicated.' Presently they got a reply from the conductor: 'Further particulars needed. There are thirteen men on the train who don't know either their name or their destination.'

"Now, I am sure that I know my name, but I am not so sure as your presiding officer that I know my destination."

The Goose and the Golden Eggs.

Ellis O. Jones in Lippincott's Magazine: A certain man had a goose which laid him a golden egg every day. A foolish friend advised him to kill the goose and realize at once on the future.

"No," said the man, "that is not the proper way. I know a better." Thereupon he organized a company and issued stocks and bonds which he sold at a good round figure. Then he gave out the report that the goose had quit laying. This enabled him to buy the stock back at a low figure. Then he gave out the report that the goose was laying two eggs a day, which enabled him again to sell the stock at a big advance. After he had repeated this process a number of times he was so rich that he didn't care what the goose laid or when. Accordingly, he invested his wealth in gilt-edged securities, journeyed abroad, and went in for art.

Which Is Worse?

Chicago Examiner: "You can't imagine," said the musical young woman, "how distressing it is when a singer realizes that she has lost her voice."

"Perhaps not," replied the plain man; "but I've got a fair idea how distressing it is when she doesn't realize it."

Her Status.

Judge: "Miss Lingerlong ought to be an easy catch for some one."

"Easy catch? Why, she has been a regular epidemic for the past ten years!"

Congressman Boen of the Seventh district and R. K. Doe of Duluth called upon President Cleveland yesterday. Mr. Doe would like to succeed Dar S. Hall as chairman of the Chippewa Indian commission.

There are numerous candidates for chief of police at West Duluth and among the number are Arthur Briggs, who is the present chief, J. W. Peterson, ex-Chief Brigham, John Reardon, J. Duna, James Hall and William Swanstrom. For street commissioner the list includes P. R. Haley, Andrew Miles and D. Wanger. W. H. Short would succeed himself as chief of the fire department. Dr. Forin's chances are favorable for health officer, and either Krey or Kuhn will capture the village engineer's office.

Zenith City lodge, No. 58, Theatrical Mechanics' association, was organized last night and the following officers elected: President, R. D. Whipple; vice president and treasurer, J.C. Palmer; recording secretary, E. J. Meghar; trustees, Morris O'Rourke, Leonard Schaff and H. Whitaker, Sr.; physician, Dr. W. H. Magie.

The board of trade will hold a meeting this afternoon to consider the proposals offered for the location of the new building. Two propositions have been made. One, by a syndicate of East Superior street property owners of which J. B. Ray is chairman, offers 100 feet at the corner of Superior street and Third avenue east, free and a cash bonus of $50,000. The second offer is the Dr. Collins corner, 100 feet at the corner of Third avenue west and First street. The price asked is $5,000 and the value claimed for the property is $60,000. It is believed the Collins offer will be accepted because of the more favorable location.

Mrs. E. E. Barnidge of Tower is here on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Harry Elliott.

A little over a week ago a postal card arrived in Duluth bearing the somewhat ambiguous address, "To the Syrians of Duluth, Minn." It was mailed at San Antonio, Tex. After submitting it in vain to a number of people, the postoffice officials sent it to Bishop McGolrick, who found no difficulty whatever in translating the Syrian characters on the other side. It was an inquiry by Simon and Joseph Kozin whether Anton Kozin, from the village of Knat, is in Duluth.

Not True to Life.

Popular Magazine: The son of a man who has been a great philanthropist welcomed a visitor to his office. The talk turned on the career of the father of the young man.

"It was a great blow to everybody—my father's death," lamented the youth. "By the way, here's the last portrait painted of him."

He led the visitor to where hung on the wall a large portrait of the dead philanthropist, depicting him as standing erect with his right hand in his pocket.

"A fine piece of work," said the visitor grimly, "but it's not true to life. Nobody ever saw your father with his hand in his own pocket."

Ignoring Father.

Cincinnati Inquirer: A school teacher recently received the following note from the mother of one of her pupils:

"Dear Mis. You writ me about whippin Sammy. I giv you permission to beet him up ony time he won't lern his lesson. He is jest like his father an you bet to beet him with a club to lern him enything. Pound nolege into him. Don't pay no attention to what his father says. I will handel him."

Conscience-Clear.

"80 Degrees Fahrenheit."

In the summer time, unless a breeze is blowing, nearly everybody complains of the heat, when the thermometer reaches 80 degrees Fahrenheit. Yet it is frequent that living apartments are kept nearly at this heat during the winter months, with windows tightly closed, so that no breeze can possibly enter. It is not surprising that people living in such rooms are constantly "catching cold," having headaches, "bilious attacks" and other minor ailments.

When outside temperatures range around the freezing point, and living rooms are kept 40 or 50 degrees higher, it requires great effort on the part of the heat regulating apparatus to adjust the body to the changed conditions, every time one goes outdoors or comes inside. I have said before in this column that changes of 10 degrees are easily compensated for by the nervous mechanism controlling bodily heat, and that even slight changes in clothing will compensate for 20 or even 30 degrees difference in air temperatures. The reference was made to the effect of temperature changes on the body as a whole, and did not consider the local effects produced on the skin and mucous membrane lining of the passages.

These local effects are, however, produced not by the heat, per se, but by the frequent lack of sufficient moisture in hot air, and are best considered under the question of relative humidity, instead of temperature.

Nature intended that animals should make sufficient heat for the maintenance of life and health within their own bodies, and therefore supplied each body with an elaborate apparatus to get rid of superfluous quantities, and keep body temperature always at about 98. Man, in his desire to conquer the whole earth and live in any climate, has had to supplement nature, first, by adding clothes to conserve body heat, and later, by building shelters, closing them up, and heating them by artificial means. So long as he has respected natural laws, and not attempted to outdo nature, no harm has resulted, and much good has been gained; but the general tendency to go to extremes, a condition which nature abhors, is responsible for most of the ills arising from artificial heat, artificial eating, and nearly all other things invented by man. This tendency to go to extremes differs much in different individuals, and is due to the nervous and mental makeup; and it is, as a rule, the extremist who is found living in rooms kept at 80 deg. Fahrenheit.

The extremists are, however, not a small minority, if we include those mildly extreme in their desires; but, on the other hand, they constitute a large and important part of society; and, to convert them to principles of rational and healthy living is a work well worth while. Too high house temperatures in winter induce a condition of nerve and muscle relaxation which, if continued, becomes lack of tone; and this is a condition of lessened bodily resistance.

Aside from this important effect, the constant readjustments, extreme in extent, which are made necessary on going out or coming in, are sure to result in damage to the heat regulating mechanism, which in turn will still further lower general resistance.

When general resistance is lowered the body becomes a prey to its enemies, the germs, and the lowered local resistance is all that is needed to open wide the door for the admission of colds, catarrhs and pneumonia. Furthermore, too hot air, being frequently too dry air, will be sufficient to cause lowered local resistance in the air passages, and we have now completed the indictment of inside air temperatures of 80 deg. Fahrenheit.

The practical points worth remembering are: High inside temperatures, in the winter, are prejudicial to health; and too high temperatures are, when artificially produced, very frequently associated with low humidities.

These two factors, working together, are productive of much of the winter illnesses to which modern man is subject, and they are both easily remedied. The health temperature at which to keep living rooms is between 65 and 68 deg., and this will be found comfortable as well as healthy, if sufficient water is evaporated to keep the relative humidity between 40 and 50 per cent.

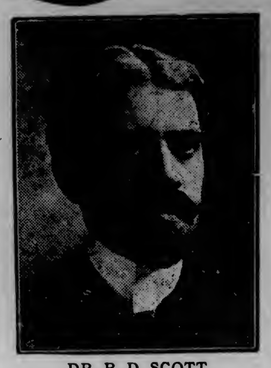
Questions and Answers.

Hygrometer Tables.

W. E. B. inquires: Where can hygrometer tables be secured, for the reading of wet and dry bulb thermometer instruments?

REPLY.

Any local dealer in thermometers and weather instruments should be able to supply you. Complete tables, covering varying barometric pressures, may be had for 10 cents by addressing United States department of agriculture, weather bureau, Washington, D. C., and inquiring for psychrometric tables W. B. No. 235.



DR. R. D. SCOTT.

Salophen.

K. L. writes: What is salophen and is it a safe remedy for grippe.

REPLY.

Salophen is a salicylic acid antipyrin combination, and is useful in some cases of cold or grippe. Being a coal tar preparation, it should not, however, be used without the advice of a physician.

Adenoids.

J. K. M. writes: Please answer in the paper whether there is any other treatment for adenoids except operation? Is operation always advisable and how may one know when it is imperative?

REPLY.

There is no medical treatment having much effect in retarding the growth of adenoids; when, however, the symptoms produced are not of a serious nature and the child is strong and healthy, operation may be deferred and great care exercised as to keeping the nose, throat and mouth scrupulously clean until the age of 18 or 20 is reached, when the natural tendency of adenoids is to shrivel up. 2. Operation is imperative when the child shows dullness of the intellect, deformity of the nasal or palate bones, or constantly recurring cold in the head.

Glycerin As Skin Softener.

E. M. writes: I was told to use glycerin to soften the skin of face and hands. I applied it liberally to my face and now have a severe inflammation of the skin. Was this caused by impurities in the glycerin?

REPLY.

The glycerin was probably too pure. Had it contained a little water it would not likely have hurt your skin. This chemical substance has a great affinity for water, and when pure will absorb it from any substance it is near or in contact with. It was this process of removing the natural moisture in the skin which was responsible for the inflammation. When used on the face or hands glycerin should be always mixed with one-fourth to one-half as much water. There are many glycerin lotions and creams on the market, but they all contain sufficient water to obviate any burning of the skin.

Graham Flour.

F. G. writes: Is whole wheat flour or graham flour better for health than the ordinary white flour? I have been told to use it for the cure of constipation. Do you recommend it?

REPLY.

Whole wheat or graham bread is better only on account of the bran it contains; and this is not nearly sufficient in amount to have much effect on chronic constipation. Why not make some bran bread, or Marion Harland's health bread, to be eaten with one of the daily meals in place of white bread? Then if you add to this diet plenty of coarse vegetables, juicy fruits and quantities of pure water, with ordinary outdoor exercise, constipation should disappear.

REPORT ON RURAL CREDIT SYSTEMS

Secretary Bryan Asks Diplomatic Courtesies for the Commission.

Washington, March 18.—Instructions to the American diplomatic officers in Europe to secure courtesies from the foreign governments for the American commission which is to visit Europe this spring under the auspices of the Southern Commercial congress to investigate rural credit systems, have been issued by Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan.

Before leaving office Secretary Knox gave the state department's approval to the rural credit investigation but since that time the American commission has received approval by congress and President Wilson, which gives it a semi-official status. In his instructions Secretary Bryan points out that congress has appropriated $25,000 for the expenses of several commissioners, who will be appointed by President Wilson, to co-operate with the American commission. No salaries will be paid to these commissioners.

Congress also passed a joint resolution directing the secretary of state "to bespeak for the proposed American commission the diplomatic courtesies of the various European governments." In carrying out these directions Secretary Bryan has instructed the American ambassadors in Europe to secure for the commission "such courtesies and assistance in the line of its endeavors as it may be possible to obtain," and adds "it will be seen that by this joint resolution the commission under the direction of the Southern Commercial congress is given semi-official standing."

This act of Secretary Bryan raises the American commission to the standing of a semi-official body and assures it every facility that can be extended by the European governments for the conduct of its investigations. The commission is directed by congress to submit to that body a report on the subject of rural credit systems and the question of adopting the co-operative principle in all lines of agricultural production and distribution.

SHORT COURSE AT JACKSON

Nearly 100 Farmers Gather to Hear Talks on Agriculture.

George P. Grout Says Dairying Opens Way to Farm Development.

The farmers' short course, arranged by Fred Ward, county agricultural agent, opened yesterday at the church near the Jackson school. The short course there will end tomorrow, and Thursday, Friday and Saturday a similar course will be held at the Canosia town hall.

A. B. Hostetter, superintendent of agriculture of the Duluth Commercial club, and George P. Grout, superintendent of the Jean Duluth farm, were the speakers yesterday and today. Tomorrow, A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the Northeast Experiment station at Grand Rapids, will replace Mr. Grout. Later other speakers will take part in the short courses and one-day institutes, which will continue throughout the county for the next two or three weeks.

There was an attendance of eighty-six people at the day sessions yesterday and eighty-three at the night session. The farmers and their families are taking a keen interest in the course and a greater attendance is expected as the meeting advances.

Yesterday morning's meeting was given over to a talk on potatoes by Mr. Hostetter. After his talk, the meeting was turned into a general discussion session. The farmers told experiences, asked questions and exchanged ideas.

In the afternoon, Mr. Grout gave an enlightening talk on dairying. His subject was "The Building of the Dairy Herd." He gave the reasons for the adaptability of St. Louis county to the dairying industry and gave instructions on feed. He said the Guernsey cattle are best adapted for St. Louis county and the dairyman should select good cattle in building up his herd.

Dairying is in its infancy in St. Louis county, said Mr. Grout, but it is blazing the way for a greater agricultural development. A good cow is the basis for progress in all lines of agriculture he said. He explained the method of determining good cows.

In the evening, Mr. Grout gave an illustrated lecture, emphasizing the points made in his afternoon talk.

In connection with the short course, Mr. Hostetter yesterday announced that he would give a prize for the best essay written by a boy and one for the best essay written by a girl, the talks at the short course to be the subject. The essays will be judged by a committee from the Jackson Farmers' club.

Not a fly-by-night affair.

CHIEF OF POLICE IS FOUND GUILTY

Charges of Gross Immorality Against Kohler Substantiated.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 18.—Members of the civil service commission last night announced they had found Chief of Police Kohler guilty of "gross immorality, conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman and conduct subversive to good order and discipline in the police department," and immediately discharged him from office. The charges filed by Mayor Baker involved alleged visits of Kohler to the home of Mrs. May Schearer on Feb. 2, May 23 and June 5, 1912, in the absence of her husband. On the last named date, Schearer testified in the trial, which occupied the whole of last week, that he surprised Kohler and his wife in the Schearer home "in scanty attire."

Kohler attempted to prove alibis for the first two dates, and declared his mission on "the night of June 5, innocent." Last September Schearer was granted a divorce from his wife in a suit in which Kohler was named as corespondent.

"Had we authority" the commissioners said, "we would add to the sentence a permit to this office to receive a full pension to which a retired chief is entitled in view of the term and character of his service, but we are without power to do so."

In a statement Kohler indicated his willingness to resign if allowed to receive his full pension of $125 a month. If discharged, his pension would be $65 a month.

Kohler is 49 years old and has been a member of the police department for twenty-nine years and chief for ten years. His policy of "golden ruling" first offenders and minor offenders has made him one of the best known chiefs in the country. The title of "best chief in America" was conferred on him by Theodore Roosevelt on the occasion of one of the former president's visits to Cleveland.

The commission's decision praises Kohler's work as chief and says that "while in other cities police officers have been guilty of corruption, Frederick Kohler is a poor man."

Three years ago Kohler was tried and acquitted by the civil service commission on charges of drunkenness and personal misconduct in office.

LAFFERTY IS FOUND GUILTY

Young Man Convicted of Bold Robbery of Saloon Man.

Lawrence L. Lafferty was found guilty of grand larceny in the second degree in district court yesterday afternoon. A jury took the case under consideration at 4 o'clock and returned a verdict of guilty one hour later.

Lafferty will be brought before Judge Cant later for sentence.

The young man—he is 26—on the night of Feb. 9 walked into the Frank Eskro saloon at 204 Lake avenue south and threatening to pull a gun on the proprietor if a false move was made, rifled the cash register of about $30 in change. He did not make a successful getaway.

In June, 1909, Lafferty was sentenced to St. Cloud reformatory on a highway robbery charge, having held up a man at Mountain Iron. He was on parole from that institution at the time of his arrest.

DIES IN MAINE.

Mrs. Robert H. Kidd Passes Away at Home of Mother.

Robert H. Kidd returned yesterday evening from Belgrade, Me., where he went on Jan 28 to be with his dying wife. Mrs. Kidd died on March 3 at the home of her mother, where she has been ill of tuberculosis since last May. The funeral took place at Belgrade on March 7.

Accompanying Mr. Kidd was his mother, Mrs. Ellen Kidd, and his sister, Mrs. D. E. McLennan of Minneapolis. Mrs. Kidd remained in Minneapolis with her daughter.

Besides her husband, Mrs. R. H. Kidd is survived by a 4-year-old daughter, who remains in the East with her grandmother. While Mrs. Kidd lived here she resided at 1525 Jefferson street and was very well known.

MINNESOTA PIONEER BURIED IN MONTANA.

Forsyth, Mont., March 18.—Hiram R. Marceyes, a pioneer of Minnesota and Montana, was buried here, all schools and public buildings closing during the funeral. In the early '60s Mr. Marceyes emigrated with his parents to Minnesota, where he enlisted as a volunteer with the Fourth Minnesota Infantry. He was mustered out in Washington in 1865. He returned to Minnesota and fought the Indians, being present at the massacre at New Ulm and Fort Ridgely. Mr. Marceyes was the first miller at Marshall, Minn. He came to Forsyth in 1881, and later represented his county in the Montana legislature. One of the biggest buildings in Forsyth is named after him.

BANQUET FOR JOHN BURKE

Non-Partisan Affair at Fargo for New U. S. Treasurer.

State Tax Commission of North Dakota Also Meets at Fargo.

Fargo, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will be a large number of prominent Democrats and others from all over the state here to attend the banquet to be given tonight to Former Governor Burke, who is here en route to Washington to assume his duties as treasurer of the United States. The banquet was hurriedly planned by local friends and will be a non-partisan affair.

Examining Pill Mixers.

The state pharmaceutical examining board is in session here today with a fair-sized class, a number of whom are from Minnesota.

The state tax commission is holding a meeting here today with County Auditor Leech and the auditors from other counties in the southwestern part of the state for the purpose of discussing action of the recent legislature. Special attention will be given to assessments.

MAKES OFFER TO BRAINERD COUNCIL.

Brainerd, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Addressing the city council, M. D. Stoner, president of the Cuyuna Range Power company, whose big power dam will be in operation as soon as the ice goes out, stated he had an option to purchase the present Toltz Engineering company's gas producer plant contingent upon his getting a raise in price of current sufficient to warrant first-class service and the maintaining of the present lighting plant as auxiliary to his water power plant. He offered to purchase the Toltz plant and maintain the same as an auxiliary provided he was granted by the city a rate of 2¾ cents a kilowatt for the first 1,000,000 kilowatt hours per year and 2 cents for all current in excess of that amount. A 1½-cent rate would be made for pumping. The council took the offer under consideration.

NEARLY SMOTHERED

Chandler, N. C.—Mrs. Augusta Lomax, of this place, writes: "I had smothering spells every day, so bad that I expected death at any time. I could not sit up in bed. I suffered from womanly troubles. My nerves were unstrung. I had almost given up all hope of ever being better. I tried Cardui, and it did me more good than anything I had ever taken. I am better now than I ever expected to be." Thousands of ladies have written similar letters, telling of the merits of Cardui. It relieved their headache, backache, and misery, just as it will relieve yours, if you will let it. Try.

BETTER ROADS BEING PLANNED

North Dakota Good Roads Advocates Holding Meeting at Fargo.

Fargo, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Good roads are the subject for discussion here today as a result of the meeting of the North Dakota Good Roads association, a temporary organization recently formed to revive the former state association, which has been defunct some years. Representative men from many localities are here. They were called to order by W. W. Smith, temporary president, who outlined the plan. The keynote is to secure uniformity in methods of laying out and constructing highways in North Dakota and to establish organizations in each county.

Committees were named on permanent organization and to prepare a constitution and by-laws. The association is to be state-wide and every effort will be made to include all workers in the interest of the good roads movement.

There will be a banquet, after which Governor Hanna and State Engineer Atkinson will be the chief speakers.

NYE'S LIBELER GETS OFF WITH FINE.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 18.—Alexis E. Georgian, editor of a weekly Socialist newspaper, was yesterday sentenced to pay a fine of $75, having been convicted in district court of criminally libeling Mayor Wallace D. Nye. The article for which Georgian was convicted was published during the campaign last fall. Judge C. L. Smith, in passing sentence, explained that Mayor Nye had asked leniency, which he said was the reason for making the sentence so light.

A second trial of Georgian, on the charge of printing criminally libelous articles involving P. V. Collins, Progressive candidate for governor in the 1912 campaign, will begin April 2.

CLASS GRADUATES.

Commencement Exercises Held at North Dakota Agricultural College.

Fargo, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The classes in the three industrial short courses of animal husbandry, home making and power machinery at the North Dakota Agricultural college were graduated last night. Dean H. L. Russell of the Wisconsin university was the chief speaker. The members of each course were presented by the heads of those departments and the certificates of graduation were presented by President Worst of the institution. Following the exercises there had been a banquet of the graduates at the Copper Kettle Inn and the speakers were guests of honor.

BRAINERD PAY-DAYS LARGE THIS MONTH.

Brainerd, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Approximately $84,800 was disbursed in paydays in Brainerd this month, distributed as follows: Northern Pacific railway shops, $62,500; Northern Pacific railway yards, $1,500; Northern Pacific freight and passenger departments, $1,100; Northern Pacific tie plant, $2,500; Minnesota & International and the Big Forks & International railways totaled $28,000 and of this almost half is spent in Brainerd, equaling $16,000; Northwest Paper company pulp mill, $2,600; Parker & Topping foundry semi-monthly payday, $5,000; Brainerd Milling company, $200, making a total of $84,800.

TO DRILL FOR ORE.

Paul Hale and Other Former Duluthians Form Exploration Company.

Deerwood, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Paul M. Hale, son of Judge James T. Hale, Wilson Bradley, both formerly of Duluth, and O. J. Carlson have formed the Hale-Bradley Exploration company, with offices in Deerwood, whose business is the drilling and exploring for iron ores and the mining of the same. The company is capitalized at $25,000.

TWO MEN ARE DROWNED.

Brakeman Perishes in Yellowstone River and Teamster in Missouri.

Alexander, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—By the ice on the Yellowstone breaking as he was returning from Fairview, Mont., a brakeman on the "Skunk" construction train on the Great Northern railway construction here, was drowned. He had gone over the river for medical treatment for an injury.

Unknown Teamster Drowns.

An unknown teamster for Arthur Slator was washed under the ice and drowned. He had been on Trenton, Mont., and was returning acorss the Missouri, when the team broke through the ice. He was endeavoring to get the harness loose when he was swept away. His body was recovered.

SPEARS BIG MUSKIE.

Fisherman Brings Out Thirty-Three Pounder Near Staples.

Staples, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ed Britton, a fisherman, speared the largest muskellunge that has ever been caught at Lincoln lake. It is over four feet long and weighs thirty-three pounds. The hole in the ice through which the fish was speared was not large enough to pull it through, so in order to gain his prize, Mr. Britton went into the lake after it, and after some struggle in the icy water, the fish was secured. The fishing at Lincoln is of the best both summer and winter.

Fargo Fair Plans.

Fargo, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—By moving up the date of the county fair and combining it with a huge Fourth of July celebration of the old-fashioned kind, the Fargo Commercial club believes as large crowds will be attracted as at a state fair. The latter is on wheels, it alternates between Fargo and Grand Forks and is at the latter place this year. In off years a county fair is held. If the suggestion of the club meets the favor of the fair association the experiment may be tried.

PREVENTED BY FEAR.

Threats Kept Mill City Man From Entering Lumber Business.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 18.—C. B. Enkma of Minneapolis, testifying in the Federal government's hearing in the alleged lumber trust suit here, said that he was prevented from establishing a lumber yard because of fear. He said that while his plans were under way P. B. Walker, editor of a lumber journal and said to be the official organ of the Northwestern Lumbermen's association, asked him his plans, and when he outlined them to the editor, he was told that he had better abandon the project. Enkma said Walker told him he did not believe he would last very long and asked him how he would like it if the lumbermen of the Northwest would "subscribe $10 each to take care of me."

On cross-examination Enkma admitted that he had intended to operate a mail order house. Later he qualified this statement, by saying he intended to employ salesmen to travel throughout the Northwest.

Boyd N. Thompson, a lumber dealer here, testified that about ten years ago he was requested by W. G. Hollis, secretary of the Northwestern Lumbermen's association, not to sell to C. L. Stewart, another dealer, because Stewart sold to the retail trade.

TOO MANY SALOONS.

Wisconsin's Law Reduces Milwaukee's Number Materially.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 18.—There are 400 saloon keepers doing business illegally in Milwaukee and liable to heavy money fines or imprisonment, according to an opinion by Assistant City Attorney E. L. McIntyre.

The opinion is based upon a decision of the supreme court which held the Baker law constitutional. The Baker law limits the number of saloons to one for every 250 inhabitants. There are approximately 400,000 people in Milwaukee and therefore the city is entitled to 1,600 saloons. There are, however, 2,224 barrooms now doing business.

The Baker law was passed by the state legislature two years ago, and declared that all saloons operating at that time could continue to do so but that there could be no change in the proprietor nor could there be any new saloons licensed as long as the number was equal to or greater than the number permitted by the law.

Out of the 624 saloons in excess of the number permitted by the law the assistant city attorney says that 400 are being operated illegally and that he will take steps immediately to close them and punish the proprietors. Many of the largest and most elaborate downtown gardens, it is said, will be affected by the crusade.

LEFT LARGE ESTATE.

Republic, Mich., Wealthy Woman Dies Without Leaving Heirs.

Republic, Mich., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Mrs. Louise Feryre, one of the wealthiest residents of Republic, has just been held from the Catholic church. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Father Hollinger, the pastor, assisted by Fathers Jodocy of Marquette, Dingfielder of Negaunee and Bordas of Ishpeming.

Mrs. Feryre was one of Republic's wealthiest residents. She owned the business block in which the bowling alleys are located and last summer she erected a dwelling which is one of the best in the town. She also owned a farm in Texas for which she refused $14,000 last year.

It has been reported that Mrs. Feryre had left her home to the church to be used as a parochial school, but Rev. Father Hollinger said there was no truth in this report. She made her will recently, but its contents have not yet been made known. Rev. Father Berdas, pastor of St. Joseph's church, Ishpeming, has been appointed administrator of the estate.

Mrs. Feryre had no relatives in Republic or elsewhere, so far as Republic friends can ascertain. Her husband was killed in the Republic mine thirty years ago and her only son died there some eighteen years ago.

Potato Club to Incorporate.

Brainerd, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Farmers' union, or Farmers' Potato club, as it is also known, had a meeting here and voted to incorporate for $50,000. A committee was appointed to investigate the site for a potato warehouse between the Hoist machine sheds and the Standard Oil company depot.

Leases Poor Farm.

Brainerd, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Crow Wing county poor farm of 160 acres of improved land has been leased for three years at $400 per annum to R. N. Potter of Long Lake township. This is considered by most farmers as being a very good rental price.

Kenmare Dairy Meeting.

Kenmare, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—To work up interest in the dairy industry in this section there will be a big meeting here Thursday. The chief speakers will be State Dairy Commissioner Flint, F. W. Merrill, a representative of the dairy division of the department of agriculture in Washington, and E. A. Greenwood, a practical creamery man of Valley City.

Vandals Mutilate Hospital.

Bottineau, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Vandals mutilated the walls and the floors of the new hospital building and did a lot of other damage. Boys are thought to have been responsible.

Enkma of Minneapolis, testifying in the federal government's hearing in the alleged lumber trust suit here, said that he was prevented from establishing a lumber yard because of fear. He said that while his plans were under way F. B. Walker, editor of a lumber journal and said to be the official organ of the Northwestern Lumbermen's association, asked him his plans, and when he outlined them to the editor, he was told that he had better abandon the project. Enkma said Walker told him he did not believe he would last very long and asked him how he would like it if the lumbermen of the Northwest would "subscribe $10 each to take care of me."

On cross-examination Enkma admitted that he had intended to operate a mail order house. Later he qualified this statement, by saying he intended to employ salesmen to travel throughout the Northwest.

Boyd N. Thompson, a lumber dealer here, testified that about ten years ago he was requested by W. G. Hollis, secretary of the Northwestern Lumbermen's association, not to sell to C. L. Stewart, another dealer, because Stewart sold to the retail trade.

TOO MANY SALOONS.

Wisconsin's Law Reduces Milwaukee's Number Materially.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 18.—There are 400 saloon keepers doing business illegally in Milwaukee and liable to heavy money fines or imprisonment, according to an opinion by Assistant City Attorney E. L. McIntyre.

The opinion is based upon a decision of the supreme court which held the Baker law constitutional. The Baker law limits the number of saloons to one for every 250 inhabitants. There are approximately 400,000 people in Milwaukee and therefore the city is entitled to 1,600 saloons. There are, however, 2,224 barrooms now doing business.

The Baker law was passed by the state legislature two years ago, and declared that all saloons operating at that time could continue to do so not that there could be no change in the proprietor nor could there be any new saloons licensed as long as the number was equal to or greater than the number permitted by the law.

Out of the 624 saloons in excess of the number permitted by the law the assistant city attorney says that 100 are being operated illegally and that he will take steps immediately to close them and punish the proprietors. Many of the largest and most elaborate downtown gardens, it is said, will be affected by the crusade.

LEFT LARGE ESTATE.

Republic, Mich., Wealthy Woman Dies Without Leaving Heirs.

Republic, Mich., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Mrs. Louise Feryre, one of the wealthiest residents of Republic, has just been held from the Catholic church. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Father Hollinger, the rector, assisted by Fathers Jodocy of Marquette, Klingfielder of Negaunee and Bordas of Ishpeming.

Mrs. Feryre was one of Republic's wealthiest residents. She owned the business block in which the bowling alleys are located and last summer she erected a dwelling which is one of the best in the town. She also owned a farm in Texas for which she refused $14,000 last year.

It has been reported that Mrs. Feryre had left her home to the church to be used as a parochial school. But Rev. Father Hollinger said there was no truth in this report. She made her will recently, but its contents have not yet been made known. Rev. Father Berdas, pastor of St. Joseph's church, Ishpeming, has been appointed administrator of the estate.

Mrs. Feryre had no relatives in Republic or elsewhere, so far as Republic friends can ascertain. Her husband was killed in the Republic mine thirty years ago and her only son died there some eighteen years ago.

Potato Club to Incorporate.

Brainerd, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Farmers' union, or Farmers' Potato club, as it is also known, had a meeting here and voted to incorporate for $50,000. A committee was appointed to investigate the site for a potato warehouse between the Hoist machine shops and the Standard Oil company depot.

Leases Poor Farm.

Brainerd, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Crow Wing county poor farm of 160 acres of improved land has been leased for three years at $160 per annum to R. N. Potter of Long Lake township. This is considered by most farmers as being a very good rental price.

Kenmare Dairy Meeting.

Kenmare, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—To work up interest in the dairy industry in this section there will be a big meeting here Thursday. The chief speakers will be State Dairy Commissioner Flint, F. W. Merrill, a representative of the dairy division of the department of agriculture in Washington, and E. A. Greenwood, a practical creamery man of Valley City.

Vandals Mutilate Hospital.

Battineau, N. D., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Vandals mutilated the walls and the floors of the new hospital building and did a lot of other damage. Boys are thought to have been responsible.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

HERDING THE SPORTING SHEEP AND GOATS INTO THE DOPE CORRAL, AS SEEN BY BRUCE

LET'S carry a little message along to the business men of Duluth; those men employing the young chaps who represent in the present the substantial citizens of the future. This is simply about rowing, so don't grow in the least alarmed. Up in the machine room of the rowing department, there in the Y. M. C. A., is an orderly assemblage of young men working for positions on the various crews of the Duluth Boat club.

Take it from us—this is not a mob the like of which we used to see in the old melodrama, when the worthy line of supernumeraries formed outside the door of the bank and howled dismally for two bits per night for the hide of the defaulting teller. These young men are taught the value of leading clean lives; are told tersely and simply the things that are good and the things that are not good. They are told best how to utilize the things God has given unto them.

A father who has the best interests of his lad at heart should heartily encourage the boy into the toddling footsteps of athletics. Likewise the business men, the employer of labor who likewise has the welfare of his employes at heart, and thus indirectly the interests of his own business, will encourage the young man in his employ to take up some form of exercise —and rowing is one of the best.

During the past year Duluth has come into its own in the rowing sport. The name of Duluth traveled around the telegraph wires of the country and the prowess of the club's crews was discussed on the piazza and dressing room of every boat club in the United States.

We might state that it pays to advertise, but then that is an old saying, and besides everyone knows this fact full well. But, seriously speaking, it will prove a paying proposition for the business men of this city to co-operate thoroughly along the line of assisting in securing material for the crews of the boat club.

Rowing is good for the health, morals and body; it teaches discipline and mental concentration; it is a fact that a man rows with his head as well as with his back, legs and hands. Rowing is a splendid asset of this town; it has brought to us in the past year renown and creditable advertising. What is good for the employe is generally good for the employer. Let us form a huge mutual society; let the employer of the young man encourage him, let the boat club rowing department help this young man to be a better young man, and, going further, let the crews of the club do it for Duluth.

EDWARD L. SHAVE, who since the dear and departed days of J. Alex Sloan has held down the sport desk on the St. Paul Daily News, yesterday spent something like 40 cents to wire here in regard to Theodore Peter, whom Mr. Shave, who is always next, styles the world's champion light heivyweight wrestler.

Before traveling with this talkalogue the contents of the message shall be divulged. Here it is:

"Dear Bruce. Theodore Peter, world's light heavyweight wrestling champion, challenges winner of Yokel-Willoughby bout. Will wire if wished $250 to bind match and make weight of 165 pounds. Could make lower weight under conditions.

"ED. L. SHAVE."

Peter wrestled Willoughby for an hour something like two weeks ago, the contest taking place in Mellen, Wis. During the hour of wrestling Peter never came anywhere near throwing the great grappler of the little Wisconsin town. In fact, some of the enthusiastic followers of Willoughby have told the writer that Willoughby had all of the better of the contest. Willoughby has already informed the writer that he is ready to meet any man in the world and in the event of his beating Yokel in the coming titular match, there is not the least doubt but that Peter will get a match.

But whether Willoughby or any other man in the world under 170 pounds can defeat Mike Yokel, is an equine of an entirely different shade.

Willoughby today is 32 years of age. He is right in the prime of his career and the Mellen man and a hundred or more friends who are coming up from the Wisconsin lumbering town to witness the contest here, state that there will be a new champion after the match.

Built like an Apollo, clean, a fine looking chap, Willoughby is one of the cleanest wrestlers in the world. The Wisconsin man has met and defeated practically all of the greatest wrestlers of his weight before the public, and judging from his record the battle with Yokel is going to be one that will be talked about for a long time.

LOCAL SPORT NOTES

The deciding hockey game for the championship of the Intermediate league will be played this evening at the Curling club between the Intermediates and Nationals. The winner of this contest will possess undisputed right to the honors in the Intermediate class of the city's teams.

Throughout the present season the two contenders have fought nip and tuck. Both are fast and both have played good hockey throughout the present season, so that the grand windup promises to be a fine game and one that brings neither team to the barrier with any perceptible advantage.

Some fine games are played in the handball tournament at the Y. M. C. A. court. The very best players in the city are entered in these contests and the result is again demonstrating that this city has some of the best players in the Northwest. The tournament is bringing to the fore some of the younger talent of the city.

Yesterday, Lohman defeated Dreves, two out of three, the scores being 21-5, 21-17, 4-21. Sopher took two out of three from Kingston with the scores 21-15, 16-21, 21-5. William won two straight from C. Olson. The scores were 21-7, 21-12.

FAMOUS TRAINER SLOWLY RECOVERING

MIKE MURPHY.

MEETING CALLED FOR WEDNESDAY

Duluth Baseball Association to Hold Annual Business Confab.

The annual meeting of the Duluth Baseball association will be held at the Spalding hotel tomorrow evening. It has been stated that at this meeting Harry A. Blume, former president of the See-Eye league, is to be made president of the local association, succeeding J. A. McCuen, who has found that he has not the time to give his undivided attention to the management of the affairs of the team.

The appointment of A. J. Hersey as secretary to Mr. Blume will be ratified. Mr. Hersey is to travel with the team and to have charge of the financial affairs connected with the ticket sales both at home and on the road.

There are a number of matters to come before the attention of the directors of the association. Most of these are purely of a routine nature, but are of importance as they have to do with extensive improvements at the local baseball plant.

LEWIS DOESN'T SHOW "IMPAIRED ABILITY."

London, March 18.—Harry Lewis, the American welterweight, last night knocked out Jack Harrison, middleweight champion of England, in the third round of a 20-round contest. The fight took place at the National Sporting club.

Harry Lewis last February obtained an award of $3,750 damages in a suit against a motor cab company owing to injuries he had sustained in a taxicab accident which, his counsel argued, had impaired his nerve, vitality and his ability to fight.

PETITION TO MURPHY IN ARCHER'S BEHALF.

Chicago, March 18.—A petition which is expected to contain thousands of names will be put in circulation here yesterday asking Charles W. Murphy, president of the Chicago National league club, to sign James Archer, the "holdout" catcher. Archer has demanded $7,500 for his services this year.

MINNEAPOLIS MEN LEAD IN DOUBLES.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 18.—F. Reimer and J. Stasch of Minneapolis sprang into the lead in the doubles in the International Bowling association's tournament yesterday afternoon, rolling a total of 1,182. Reimer made scores of 224, 200 and 219, a total of 643. Other afternoon scores were comparatively low.

In the five-men team events last night the Fultons of Winona led with a total of 2,648. Other leaders were as follows: Ascensions, Minneapolis, 2,630; M. & G. team, Winona, 2,617; Winona City, 2,615; Walz, Waterloo, Iowa, 2,614.

Fight Is Stopped.

Sapulpa, Okla., March 18.—Adjt. Gen. Canton and a squad of National Guardsmen from Tulsa, acting under orders of Governor Cruce, last night stopped the scheduled 10-round fight between Carl Morris and Jim Stewart of New York.

Fight Ten Rounds.

New Orleans, La., March 18.—Young Denny, a New Orleans welterweight, and Phil Cross of New York, brother of Leach Cross, fought ten rounds here last night. There was no decision.

WRESTLER IS TO ENTER BUSINESS

WALTER MILLER.

Walter Miller is to enter the sporting goods department of a well-known Duluth firm. The little wrestler is now a bona fide citizen of this city. Last evening Walter left for St. Paul to wind up some of his business affairs, and incidentally to try to coax Joe Carr on to the mat again. Miller is still the undisputed welterweight champion of the world, and as such is planning to defend his title at 148 pounds.

TWO EVENTS ARE DECIDED

Dinham Wins Herald and Cleveland Gains Bagley Jewelry.

Steve Jones Badly Beaten, But Stocking Makes Good Fight.

"Billy" Dinham is the winner of The Herald curling event and genial Sam Cleveland likewise last evening came home a winner in the Bagley event. Steve Jones went down to defeat at the hands of Dinham, the count being 12 to 3, while Cleveland breezed home ahead of Stocking by the score of 11 to 10.

As a result of the games of last evening there are but two more games remaining in the list of the regular events. In addition to winning The Herald event Dinham also defeated Bradley in the semi-finals of the Manley-McLennan event. This evening Dinham and Jacobi will play the final of this event and Bradley and Walsh will contest for the jewelry in the Duluth Universal. To the winning rink in the latter event also goes a dinner, Mr. Goodman having already ordered a sumptuous meal for the victor.

The Dinham-Bradley contest was won with Dinham's last rock. It required a perfect shot to win and William was quite equal to the occasion, placing the stone on the button. With the chance to tie the game up and possibly win, Bradley took a long shot and missed. Cleveland and Stocking came home tied up. In the extra head, Cleveland placed a stone that was very difficult to get and this won the game and the event.

Following is the score by ends:

Herald Final.

	E	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
Dinham		0	0	1	1	2	2	1	0	0	1	2	1

Bagley Final.

LEAGUE NAME IS OFFICIALLY CHANGED

Official notice was served today that the name of the See-Eye league in the future is to be the Northern. This comes direct from the office of the president of the professional baseball clubs and is official. In all the future bulletins the league is to be known under the new name.

WORKING FOR OLYMPIC.

Plans Already Being Prepared for International Athletic Meet.

New York, March 18.—At the meeting of the executive committee of the American Olympic committee, recently held at the New York Athletic club, the following resolution, creating a permanent Olympic committee, was adopted:

"Whereas, Invitations have been received by the executive committee of thee American Olympic committee for it to organize a committee to encourage and have charge of participation in the sixth Olympiad, to be held in Berlin, Germany, in 1916; such invitations having been extended by accedited representatives of the committee representing Germany in the matter of such sixth Olympiad and by the American members of the International Olympic committee; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That this executive committee act upon such invitation by organizing itself into an American Olympic committee for the sixth Olympiad, and hy this resolution does so organize itself; further,

"That, as such American Olympic committee, it be and hereby is empowered to add to its number; and, further,

"That until the election and qualification of their successors, the officers of the American Olympic committee for the fifth Olympiad continue in their respective office as officers of the said American Olympic committee for the sixth Olympiad; and, further;

"That the president of said American Olympic committee be, and by this resolution hereby is, authorized, empowered and directed to appoint a committee for the purpose of drawing up and presenting to the American Olympic committee for the sixth Olympiad a plan for the organization and establishment of an American Olympic committee, such committee to continue in existence from Olympiad to Olympiad and to be known as a permanent committee rather than one for any particular Olympaid; it is further

"Resolved, That such sub-committee in organizing a permanent American Olympic committee should plan to have representation thereon from all organizations of the United States which exercise control over any of the sports in which the United States desired and expected to be represented at the sixth Olympiad."

Fights Are Stopped.

Green Bay, Wis., March 18.—The three boxing contests scheduled for last night at Depree were ordered stopped yesterday afternoon by the district attorney.

A protest was made by the citizens against the fights and the attorney was advised by the governor to comply with the law.

SEE-EYE MANAGERS PREDICT A CLOSE RACE AND A VERY SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Assurances Given of the Strength of All Teams---Foundation Has Been Laid for Strong Baseball Association---H. A. Blume Believes Duluth Will Have Best Season in History of Game Here.

Mister Fan, have you awakened to the fact that you have witnessed the building or the expansion of one of the finest little baseball leagues in the country?

Yes, sir; there is not the least mistake about that.

Another word, Mister Fan: Do you realize that in a little over a month from the present time the season in the See-Eye will have been opened and that Duluth will open what promises to be the most successful season in the history of the great national game here?

Looking at the facts as they are, there is hardly the least doubt of the success of the new league.

It has been builded on the solid foundation of common sense and good business ability. Practical baseball men have directed every move in the organization of the league that has suspersided the four club association, and the acme of success thus far displayed is an excellent augury for the greatest season in the history of the great national game in these parts.

In response to letters sent out by the writer, some opinions have been received regarding the coming pennant race, for, fans, 'tis not too early to plunge into the game.

Ted Finch of Virginia is optimistic. "We are going to have the very best," said he. This was before the final signing of Spike Shannon as the manager of the club. "The business men of Virginia, the livest town on the range, are behind the team as a unit, and we feel sure that we are to have one of the best teams in the circuit, and also the best attendance, as the completion of the trolley system on the Mesaba range means much for baseball."

Curtis Is Busy.

"I am hard at work signing some very good material," writes Fred Curtis. "With some of the best of the players of last year back and some good men that Sommer has discovered on the coast, the prospects of the team are very bright."

Darby O'Brien writes: "While the loss of Bluhm and Leber will hurt some, I have the best material signed right now that we have ever had. My pitching staff looks very strong; as a matter of fact I can't see where we are going to be weak, though this may be pretty strong as the team has not been assembled as yet. But the men I have signed up surely look good."

O. H. Clark, president of the Winona Baseball association, is enthusiastic over the chances of his club, though to tell the truth Mr. Clark has not a very definite line on his players as yet. Before leaving Minneapolis for Winona Mr. Clark handed out something along the lines of the following:

"I have only talked with Carney as yet, but he has informed me that he has the material in sight to give us a very strong team. We made up our minds that in the event of deciding to enter the new league Winona was to be represented by a team that will compare with any of the others. We realize that the See-Eye is going to be one of the fastest organizations in the country. We expect to have good players and are willing to spend money to secure them. Winona is going to have a strong team in the field —don't doubt that in the least."

Stronger at Forks.

President Stanchfield of the Grand Forks club says his team will be stronger the present season that it was last. "We entered the league at the last moment of the 1912 season," he stated, "and started playing with a bunch that we knew nothing about and also a bunch that were in no condition, owing to the lack of preliminary practice, to play fast baseball. We were handicapped from the start of the season. Later we struck our stride, but it was too late. There will be nothing like that this season. Sam Foster has already lined up some promising material and Grand Forks expects to start the See-Eye race upon even terms with the other seven teams of the league."

Here is what Charley Jones has to say:

"We will have a good team. Too early yet to say much. Have some very likely looking men in sight. Expect to be in the race from the start."

In looking over the managerial talent that has been signed for the coming season's race, it surely does impress one that the teams in the new league should be far above the general average of the clubs that have shown in these parts since the early days of the old Northern league.

Men like Shannon, Jones, Flood and Carney know baseball and should also use the most effective methods of get the best out of the material signed by their clubs.

Then, besides, there is the eight-club proposition. The more the merrier, up to a reasonable limit, is a general proposition that is true in baseball. The four-team organization is as a rule unsuccessful from the fact that the fans see too much of one team. The addition of four teams gives variety and adds immeasurable spice to the baseball dish.

Will Improve Park.

H. A. Blume, who it is understood, is to become president of the Duluth Baseball association, is enthusiastic as to the local situation.

"I don't see how we can help but make a success of the league and the team here," he stated yesterday upon his return from the Minneapolis meeting.

"In the anticipation of the best baseball year Duluth has ever enjoyed we are going ahead with a number of improvements. The left bleacher is to be moved back and the grand stand enlarged. There will be a new ticket office and an enlarged entrance to the park. The grounds will be repaired and its appearance materially changed. Turnstiles will be put on the gates, for we are in a regular league now and things are to be conducted in a thoroughly business like manner."

Surely if baseball doesn't prove successful this coming season there is little hope for the game here. The prevailing wail herabouts has been for a larger league. The hope of getting into the Twin Cities has been like the lure for the golden apple of the garden of the Hesperides. The more hardened and calloused fans have held it up to ridicule and have laughed long and exuberantly at the earnest efforts of the baseball drones to break into the richer field of baseball honey.

Now we are in. In a trifle more than two weeks the team will start the training trip. It is time for the fans to get the fever; it is high time for the business men and others to come out of it and resolve to give the team here the support it deserves. Duluth is about to come into its own, speaking of baseball only, and there should be an awakening all along the line.

"SPIKE" SHANNON VIRGINIA MANAGER

Old Major Leaguer to Lead Range Team in New League.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 18.—"Spike" Shannon, an oldtime ball player, at one time with the New York Giants, late yesterday signed a contract to manage the Virginia, Minn., team in the new Northern league. Shannon's last active playing was with Kansas City in the American association in 1911.

GOTCH SIGNS TO MEET LURICH

American Will Meet European Champion at Kansas City April 1.

Humboldt, Iowa, March 18.—Frank Gotch, wrestling champion of the world, yesterday signed articles to meet George Lurich for ten years the undefeated champion of Europe, at Kansas City, April 1. The announcement was made by Emil Klank, his manager. It is said Gotch will receive $15,000. He expects a hard match and will be assisted in his training by Marion Plestina of Chicago and probably Farmer Burns.

Lurich is the man who defeated George Hackenschmidt two years ago prior to Gotch's victory at Chicago over the European.

PICKS ALL-WESTERN BASKET BALL TEAM.

Madison, Wis., March 18.—Dr. W. E. Manwell, coach of the University of Wisconsin's victorious basket ball team, has picked the following All-Western teams:

First team—Van Ghent, Wisconsin, C.; Jason, Wisconsin, F.; Vruwink, Chicago, F.; Harper, Wisconsin, G.; Van Riper, Wisconsin, (Captain), G.

Second team—Des Jardiens, Chicago, C.; Teeple, Purduee, F.; Dahringer, Illinois, F.; Norgren, Chicago, G.; Molander, Chicago, G.; Hoffman, Illinois, G.

The team, which won eleven consecutive conference games in the season just closed, scored a total of 291 points as against 187 of opponents, its average score per game being 24 and that of the opponents 15.

ANDERSON AND BROWN MAY FIGHT AGAIN.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 18.—Bud Anderson of Vancouver, Wash., and Knockout Brown of New York, who fought a 20-round draw at Vernon Saturday, were virtually rematched yesterday for the afternoon of April 12.

The only possibility of a hitch is in the weight-making, as Brown wants Anderson to make 133 pounds ringside, and Anderson wants the weighing-in at noon. Both are eager for the match, however, and a compromise is expected.

JESS WESTERGAARD DEFEATS CAZEAU.

Chicago, March 18.—Jess Westergaard of Iowa last night threw Raymond Cazeau in two straight falls at a local theater. Cazeau was outclassed.

Sheer Will Report.

Charlottesville, Va., March 18.—Allen Sheer, drafted by the Washington American league baseball club last fall from the Youngstown, Ohio, Central league club, and who has shown good form in practice here as a hitter and outfielder, will join the Boston National league team in a few days.

Skating Record.

Christiania, March 18.—O. Mathiesen, the Norweglan champion, yesterday established a new skating record for the 500-meters at Hamar, covering the distance in 44 seconds. The previous world's record, 44 1-5 seconds, was made by Mathieson at Christiania Feb. 17, 1912.

FOLLOWING THE MAJOR LEAGUERS IN THE SOUTH

Red Regulars Win.

Mobile, Ala., March 18.—A team made up of Cincinnati "regulars" defeated the Mobile team of the Southern league 4 to 0. Benton, Suggs and Fromme pitched for Cincinnati.

Pirates Beat Red Sox.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 18.—The Pittsburg Nationals won the opening game of a series of nine here yesterday from the Boston Americans, 4 to 3.

Easy for Tigers.

New Orleans, La., March 18.—The Detroit Americans defeated the local team of the Southern league here yesterday, 10 to 1.

Mack's Rookies Win.

Galveston, Tex., March 18.—With the aid of the veterans, Houck, Lapp and Bender, the "recruit" squad of the Philadelphia American league team defeated Galveston of the Texas league yesterday, 9 to 4. Bender appeared only as a batter. He drove out a two-base hit.

To See Giants Play.

Merlin, Tex., March 18.—President Hempstead of the New York National league baseball team arrived yesterday to witness the last few days of practice. The team will begin its training trip schedule March 22 at Houston, Tex., where three games will be played.

Naps.

Pensacola, Fla., March 18.—Because of the unfavorable weather Manager Birmingham sent a squad consisting of several veterans and all of his pitchers and catchers, with one exception, to New Orleans today. The Naps defeated the Toledo Mudhens yesterday by a score of 10 to 2.

Giant Yans.

Austin Tex., March 18.—The New York National league recruits shut out the Austin team of the Texas league yesterday, 9 to 0.

Tigers.

New Orleans, La., March 18.—Manager Jennings was far from pleased today over the showing of the Tigers in their encounter yesterday with the Pelicans. The Tigers were weak against the left-handed hurling of the New Orleans club, but they took the game by a 9 to 2 score. Another game for this afternoon was scheduled.

Nationals.

Charlottesville, W. Va., March 18.—Clarke Griffith is gunning for "Tod" Pendleton, the Princeton phenom, who promised the old fox he would have first call on his services in case he decided to enter the professional ranks. Clyde Milan, the National outfielder, who led the American league in base stealing, has signed up, being the last of the regulars to come to terms.

Whitesox.

San Francisco, Cal., March 18.—The Chicago Americans were defeated yesterday morning by Oakland, and defeated San Francisco yesterday afternoon. Chicago's defeat came in the seventh inning when four runs and five hits were gained off Douglass, who followed Walsh. Walsh pitched four hitless innings. In the afternoon Chicago defeated San Francisco, 10 to 3 easily.

Athletics.

Dallas, Tex., March 18.—The Philadelphia American league regulars were forced to play the hardest game of their exhibition series thus far to defeat the Dallas Texas league club 3 to 5 yesterday. After pitching three innings Coombs left to join the recruit team at Fort Worth, and Grady, Mullins and Harris, who alternated as pitchers, were hit hard.

Athletics' Yans.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 18.—Veasey, pitching for the Fort Worth Texas league team yesterday, allowed no Philadelphia American league recruit to reach first base during the four innings he pitched, and McCafferty, who finished the game, allowed only five scattered hits. The major leaguers lost 7 to 1, their first defeat of the spring. Cottrell and Brumerhoff pitched for Philadelphia, allowing nine hits, one a triple.

Browns.

Houston, Tex., March 18.—The Houston Texas league team defeated the regular squad of the St. Louis American league club yesterday, 4 to 3, in ten innings.

Reds.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 18.—It was announced here last night that the Cincinnati club of the National Baseball league, now training at Mobile, Ala., would move to Birmingham, Ala., Tuesday to complete its spring training. Manager Joe Tinker, it is said, expected to find weather conditions at Birmingham more suitable. The Reds defeated the Mobile Southern league team yesterday, 4 to 1.

Cardinals.

Columbus, Ga., March 18.—Manager Huggins was today hoping that Charlie O'Leary, whom the St. Louis Cardinals purchased from the Indianapolis American association club, would put in an appearance here before tomorrow morning, when the regulars start on their road trip. If O'Leary doesn't appear, Huggins' infield will be crippled for the lack of a shortstop.

ALUMNI CLUB NOW HELPING COLLEGE

Performances Being Given to Assist Hancock Finnish School.

Virginia, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.) — The Suomi College Alumni club, organized here a year ago by progressive young people to gather funds for the national school at Hancock, Mich., has met with considerable success. Concerts have been given in Virginia, Chisholm, Eveleth, Mountain Iron and Gilbert and more will be given in Eveleth and Hibbing. Then there will be the final grand concert in Duluth, which will bring people from many Michigan and Minnesota towns.

The officers of the organization are: President, Rev. Peter Keranen of Eveleth, pastor of the Lutheran churches of Eveleth, Virginia and Mountain Iron; vice president, Adolph Lundquist of Hibbing; secretary, Charles Sandberg of Hibbing; treasurer, John Iver Fraza of Virginia. The musical director of all the concerts is Lauri Siukonen of Chisholm.

IS NOT NECESSARY TO CLOSE SCHOOLS

Because of Few Cases of Scarlet Fever, Says State Health Official.

Hibbing, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—That there is never necessity for the closing of the schools of any city for periods longer than twenty-four or forty-eight hours in epidemics of contagious disease and that the state board of health does not advise or sanction the closing of the schools of any city or town where disease is epidemic for longer periods, is the statement of Dr. H. B. Bracken of the state board of health in a letter to a Hibbing man who has taken the matter up with him.

There has been some talk of closing the schools in Hibbing because of a few cases of scarlet fever, although the board of health has never considered such action necessary. When the Chisholm authorities made their order closing the schools the Glenn school which is within the village limits of Chisholm, but in the Hibbing independent school district was ordered closed. Investigation showed that there was not a case of scarlet fever at the Glenn location and led several parents to take the matter up with the local school authorities and with Dr. Bracken.

Closing Schools Unnecessary.

Dr. Bracken states that in his estimation there is never occasion in cases of disease epidemic to close the schools of any town or city which are under proper medical supervision for periods of longer than 24 to 48 hours and then only that it may be ascertained that quarantine regulations are strictly observed and those known to have been exposed located and placed under observation. He states also that his observation had led him to believe that the closing of the schools of any town operates rather to spread the disease than to control it. He believes that in epidemics of contagious disease they are more rapidly controlled when the schools are kept open under careful medical supervision than otherwise.

Several Hibbing and Chisholm physicians, however, do not agree with Dr. Bracken.

MANY HEADS ARE SLATED TO DROP

Chief of Police Wring Among Hibbing Officials Expected to Go.

Hibbing, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—As he was taking the train for West Baden, Ind., and other points yesterday afternoon for a short vacation before taking hold of Hibbing affairs, Mayor-elect Power intimated there would be a regular housecleaning in the city hall when he got back and took hold. He said he had decided upon various appointments but would not make them public.

Asked the direct question whether Chief of Police Peter Wring was slated to go, the mayor-elect replied, "I should say probably," but he would not state definitely. Neither would he say who is to be the chief's successor. Chief Wring has served eight years, is very popular and many will regret his leaving the force. Personally he does not appear to worry about the matter.

A Few Barkises.

Among those said to be ambitious to succeed Mr. Wring are David Graham, James Butchart, J. P. Murphy, Dwight Booth and C. E. Everett, although the last two named deny they are after the job. Mr. Graham has always been identified with the progressive movement in local politics and has a host of friends, who are urging his appointment, believing he would make an excellent officer. Mr. Butchart has held the position before and also has a good many friends who would like to see him appointed.

The new council takes over the reins of city government April 1.

WANTS TO GO TOO.

Hibbing Veteran Would Like to Visit Gettysburg Field.

Hibbing, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas Dougherty of the Penobscot location, a veteran of the Civil war, wants to go to the Gettysburg reunion and will make application to the proper sources to be taken on the trip. Mr. Dougherty is a veteran of the Tenth Minnesota. He was not at Gettysburg, but was in Gen. A. J. Smith's division of the Army of the West in the campaigns against the Confederate Gen. Price. Mr. Dougherty also fought through the Minnesota Indian war and was one of the regular army soldiers detailed to stand guard about the scaffold in Mankato, where thirty-eight Sioux Indians were hung. Mr. Dougherty makes his home with a married daughter in the Penobscot location. Although well advanced in years he still retains all his faculties and is able to discuss many of the events of the war interestingly.

ZIM WILL VOTE ON CONSOLIDATION.

Zim, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A special election will be held in School District No. 31 at school building No. 1 here on Saturday from 2 to 4 in the afternoon to vote upon the proposition of consolidating two of the four school buildings of the district. It is proposed to do away with buildings No. 1 and 3 and to erect a $12,000 high school, with provisions for domestic science and manual training and to otherwise comply with the law which will enable the district to secure state aid.

School District No. 31 has four school buildings and 117 pupils enrolled. Of these 90 are in the immediate vicinity of Zim and would be served admirably by the proposed new school. There are about 27 school children at Forbes, from which the new school will be difficult of access and it is said that opposition to the consolidation is developing at Forbes.

VIRGINIA MEN IN GREAT MINE

Property Just North of Sliver Said to Be Regular Bonanza.

Virginia, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—If half the stories current about the strike made by Former Deputy Sheriff William Merrill of Virginia and other local men in the property just north of the Sliver are true, they have struck a bonanza high grade Bessemer iron mine in the sw¼ of the sw¼ of section 32, 59-17, a property upon which many have spent their all to no end. Merrill and his partners have acquired a fifty-year lease on the property which comprises forty acres and is said to contain over 500,000 tons of ore.

Those in With Merrill.

Virginia men associated with Mr. Merrill in the property are General Supt. C. H. Rogers of the Virginia & Rainy Lake company and Walter Markham, late of Bemidji, and now proprietor of the Fay hotel here.

The new mine will be developed at once and it is expected that the work of sinking a shaft will be commenced within thirty or forty days' time after which drifts will be run into the various ore bodies. Because the depth of the overburden is less than forty-six feet it is expected that the work of sinking a shaft will be neither very long or expensive compared with the immense value of the known ore deposits.

The lease was secured for half a century from the well known Merritt interests in Duluth, and their old records are said to have shown that the property had been drilled and passed up as not worth working many years ago.

MONEY DISAPPEARED.

Alleged "Short Change" Artist Is in Toils in Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Robert Howard, who claims to be a subscription solicitor for an agricultural paper will be tried on a charge of petit larceny Friday morning before Judge Thomas F. Brady.

Howard was arrested in a hardware store, suspected of being a short change worker. There is little evidence against him. At the store of Johnson Bros., the till was discovered to be $8.15 short at the close of the day's business. The only way the management can account for it is that too much money was given Howard following a dispute over change.

A man answering the same description is wanted at Virginia for working a similar game on several merchants there. Howard put up cash bail of $40 and promises to clear himself of all suspicion when his case comes up next Friday.

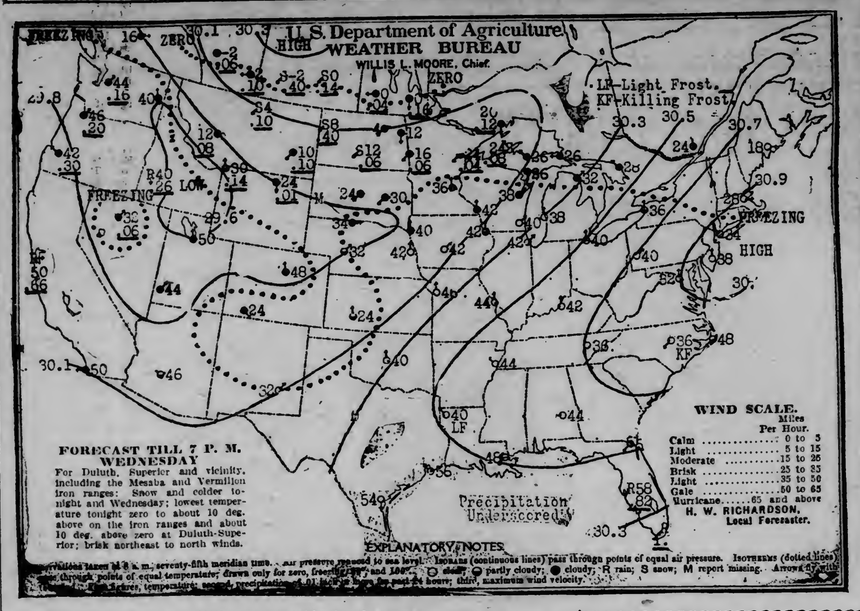
OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER



SNOW

A little more snow fell last night, but winter did not fasten its grip any tighter. Today is gray and soft, but more snow and colder weather are promised for tonight and tomorrow. Mild weather prevailed a year ago today. The sun rose this morning at 6:15 and it will set at 6:17 this evening, giving twelve hours and two minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Much warmer prevails in the Lake region and Central Valley states, but throughout the extreme Northwest the temperature has fallen. This turn to colder will include the Dakotas, Minnesota and Western Wisconsin by Wednesday morning. The disturbance centered over Idaho caused snow or rain over western Canada, Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and Northern California during the last twenty-four hours. Killing frosts occurred last night in North Carolina."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, March 18:—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Upper Michigan—Rain or snow tonight and Wednesday; colder in north portion Wednesday and in northwest portion tonight.

Wisconsin—Rain in east, rain or snow and colder in west portion tonight; Wednesday snow in west, rain or snow in east portion; colder.

Iowa—Rain in south, rain or snow in north portion tonight or Wednesday; colder tonight in north portion; colder Wednesday.

Minnesota—Snow and colder tonight; Wednesday snow, colder in east portion.

South Dakota—Snow and colder tonight; Wednesday local snows; colder in east portion.

North Dakota—Snow and colder tonight; Wednesday cloudy with probably local snows.

Montana—Snow tonight and probably Wednesday.

Shippers' Forecast: Protect thirty-six hour shipments of perishables against minimum temperatures zero to about 10 deg. above in North Dakota and Northern Minnesota and about 10 deg. above zero in Northwestern Wisconsin.

DIES WHILE ON HIS WAY HOME

Father of Mrs. Austin of Chisholm Expires as He Is Traveling.

Chisholm, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Austin left Monday for Richmond, Wis., to attend the funeral of the latter's father, L. C. Tatro, who died suddenly from rheumatism of the heart while in Sagamore, Pa., on his way home after spending the winter in Florida.

Mr. Tatro had spent the winter in Florida and was returning home by way of the East, visiting relatives en route. He was taken ill at Sagamore, Pa., and died before news of his illness had been received at home.

The funeral will take place Wednesday at Richmond. Mr. and Mrs. Austin expect to return to Chisholm Thursday or Friday morning.

WEIRICK INDIFFERENT.

Defeated Hibbing Mayor Said to Have Welcomed the Outcome.

Hibbing, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor H. R. Weirick and Mayor-elect V. L. Power will meet today at West Baden, Ind., for the first time since the election in which the latter defeated the former by a decisive vote. Mayor Weirick left Hibbing election day to accompany H. C. Hansen of the Winston-Dear company to West Baden. He took no interest in the campaign personally and announced before he left the city that he would be satisfied whatever the outcome of last Tuesday's voting. At Duluth it is said he wagered a silk hat with Dick Bailey of Virginia that Mr. Power would be elected. In a letter to a friend in Hibbing the doctor states that he will be unable to return before the latter part of this week and that he is glad to know that the responsibilities that go with the job of being president of Hibbing have been shifted to other shoulders. Mayor Weirick and Mayor-elect Power are personally the best of friends, although politically they held widely different views.

BILL IS PROPOSED

Extending Primary and Australian Ballot to Township Elections.

Hibbing, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The town board of the township of Stuntz has recommended to Senator Boyle and to Representatives Healy and Knapp for introduction a bill extending some of the features of the primary election law and the Australian ballot to township elections in townships having a population of 5,000 and over.

The bill provides that candidates for township office shall be nominated by petition of twenty-five voters. No voter shall sign more than one petition for the same office The certificates of nomination must be filed with the town clerk ten days before the town election is held. The ballot to be used is in all respects the same as the Australian ballot.

PLAN CHARITY BALL.

Virginia Associated Charities to Give Dance April 11.

Virginia, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The recently organized Associated Charities is sending out invitations for a charity ball, to be given April 11 at the Fay opera house. Many well known people are patronesses.

The officers of the organization are: Mrs. George F. Shea, president; Mrs. C. E. Moore, vice president; Mrs. E. W. Kettlety, secretary; Mrs. J. W. Deering, treasurer; Mrs. A. C. Osborn, chairman of finance.

GREAT NORTHERN HAS BETTER RANGE SERVICE

Hibbing, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Great Northern is winning back a good share of the passenger business which it lost between this city and Virginia and intermediate points when the new interurba railway was opened for business and railroad men are confident that by the middle of next summer there will be little difference in the volume of business done between this point and Virginia and that had before the electric line went into service.

The Great Northern is just now taking more precautions than ever for the comfort and convenience of its range passenger business. Its passenger trains are inspected and renovated twice daily. Water coolers in passenger coaches are carefully scalded out at both ends of the line daily.

BOTTLE PICKED UP.

Message Dropped in Ocean By Chisholm Man Found By Frenchman.

Chisholm, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tony Rebrovich, employed by a local butcher, has received word from France that a bottle he dropped in the ocean containing his name and address in October, 1911, when crossing the ocean, has been picked up. He got a letter from one Monsieur Jacques Massy of Bordeaux, France, telling him that a bottle had been picked up on Oleron island, off the coast of France, containing his message one year and four months after the date on which it had been dropped into the sea. The bottle had been found by a man who could neither read nor speak English and it was taken to Monsieur Massy to be interpreted. A second bottle, thrown into the ocean one day after the one found has not been heard from.

FIREMEN'S BALL.

Schley Department to Give Dance Easter Monday.

Gilbert, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Schley fire department members are making preparations for the tournament to be held at Schley location next summer. They will give a ball Easter Monday in Dowling's hall, which is expected to net them a considerable sum of money for the tournament fund. For April 4 they have secured the services of the Caledonian Entertainers, who will give a performance at the Lyceum theater. Both of these performances are given in conjunction with the Gilbert fire department, who are lending the Schley boys all the aid possible to make the tournament one grand success.

OBSERVE HOLY WEEK IN HIBBING CHURCH.

Hibbing, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Mahoning Street M. E. church, which held a very successful revival last week, getting sixteen converts, is observing Holy Week this week with appropriate services. Rev. E. W. Elayer, the pastor, and singers are sparing neither time nor pains to make the services helpful and instructive. The subjects this week are: "Gethsemane," "Christ Before Pilate," "Judas Iscariat," "The Dying Thief," and "The Crucifixion."

Prof. Herbert Bials is arranging for some excellent music for Easter services next Sunday at which time several children will be baptized as well as many adults.

TWO COUNCILS WILL TALK OVER MATTERS.

Eveleth, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the Virginia city council are expected here tonight to meet with the local council and discuss various matters of interest to both bodies. Later they will gather around the banquet board in the Glode hotel.

Osman of Duluth, who has the contract for constructing the outlet of Hibbing's new sewer ditch, will start a crew of men at work at once building a dredge to be used on the job. Mr. Osman will have two dredges working on the job and does not anticipate any trouble in having his contract finished on time. He has until July 1 to complete it.

DON'T GROW BALD, YOUNG MAN!

Take Care of Your Hair While You Have Hair to Take Care of.

It's a safe ten to one bet that the young man who uses Parisian Sage as an occasional hair dressing will never grow bald.

There's a reason, of course, and it's a very good and sufficient one.

Dandruff germs cause failing hair and failing hair means thinner hair and in due time baldness.

Parisian Sage prevents baldness, by destroying the cause of baldness—the little persistent vociferous dandruff germ.

If you have dandruff or itching scalp it means that dandruff germs are sapping the vitality from the roots of your hair. Get rid of all hair troubles by using Parisian Sage. It does not contain poisonous sugar of lead or any harmful ingredients. It is a scientific preparation that abolishes dandruff, stops falling hair and scalp itch, and makes hair grow lustrous and luxuriant.

Many young women as well as men are growing bald and from the same cause—the dandruff germ.

Use delightful, refreshing Parisian Sage; it nourishes the hair roots, if the roots are not dead, and brings to every user a head of glorious hair—radiant and fascinating. Large bottle for 50 cents at drug stores and toilet counters. See that you get Parisian Sage.

Boyce Drug Store guarantees it.

Use
GOLD DUST
instead of soap

You really don't need soap in the house, except for toilet and bath, and possibly a little for your fine laces and lingerie. With Gold Dust—the all 'round cleanser—you can do all your household cleaning more quickly—easily—economically than you can with soap or any other cleanser.

Gold Dust does the work better, too. Soap only cleans off the surface; Gold Dust goes into every corner cleaning and purifying,—driving out the germs as well as the dirt.

Best of all, you don't need any elbow grease with Gold Dust—it does the work itself.

Another Reform Movement

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

GILBERT IS NOW IN FINE SHAPE

Reports at Council Meeting Show Finances of Village Are Good.

Gilbert, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the regular meeting of the village council held last evening the full board consisting of President Cosgrove, Clerk D. M. Mouser and trustees Gisapel, Korpi and Bowman were present. Current bills were allowed and F. Olson was reappointed for a 2-year term for water and light commissioner. The finances of the village are in good condition. Practically all indebtedness has been wiped off with the exception of outstanding bonds. The police department during the past year has been more than self supporting and a credit of over $200 is on hand for the maintenance of the village hall.

The new council which assumes its duties in April consisting of Dr. Fred Barrett, president; A. E. MacInnis, clerk and trustees, Korpi, Kohler and Bordeau will find the affairs of the village in excellent shape. Public Accountant Edwin J. Bishop of St. Paul has been engaged to audit the books of the village with authority to establish an up-to-date system of accounting to be turned over to the succeeding council.

An ordinance confirming the granting of the franchise to the Mesaba Railway company was passed as it has fulfilled its part of the agreement and constructed the line according to agreement.

To Have City Engineer.

An ordinance establishing the position of city engineer and defining his qualifications and duties was passed. More important legislation, especially with reference to a very favorable proposition in regard to electric lighting was also mentioned which will likely be brought up for consideration before the old council adjourns. Gilbert at the present time is lighted from the Gilbert mine which is 250-volt direct current and a large loss is entailed before it reaches the center of distribution owing to the length of transmission line. The village of Gilbert now has an up-to-date waterworks and sanitary sewer system and with the securing of a first-class lighting system it will be in the front rank of the range villages.

New Chisholm Concern.

Chisholm, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Graham building, into which the Island Farm creamery will move and conduct business, is rapidly nearing completion and the opening of the creamery is expected to take place about the first of April.

William Anderson, manager of the Chisholm steam laundry, has installed three of the latest patented finishing machines on the market, known as the American, and are designed to do away with wear and tear so common with the old time apparatus.

Hibbing Baseball Meeting.

Hibbing, Minn., March 18.—Local ball fans will meet at the council chamber tonight to make arrangements for Hibbing's club in the Mesaba Range Trolley league. The schedule will be discussed, the plan for financing the team submitted to the players for their indorsement and other matters given attention.

Virginia Birth.

Virginia, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Prowse are rejoicing over the birth of a son, March 16

MEETING OF BOAT CLUB

New Organization Will Make Plans for Busy Season.

Clubhouse May Be Erected This Year on the Bayfront.

Considerable important business is scheduled for the meeting of the Western Boat club, which will be held tomorrow evening at the Commercial club rooms.

Being the first meeting of the season, all who are interested in boating or water sports in any form in the western part of the city are urged to be present.

The organization is planning for a busy season. It has just launched forth on its career but it fits a long-felt want so perfectly that no doubt exists as to its success. West Duluth is now without any general social organization of substantial character and as the Western Boat club intends to develop along such lines it will merit the support of the business men and substantial residents of that part of the city.

Among other activities the club will endeavor to complete the erection of a modern club house on the site which was secured last fall at the foot of Sixty-third avenue west. The location is considered ideal. It is within easy walking distance of the street car lines and is so situated that an excellent view can be obtained of the whole bay as well as of any races or water parades which may be held.

The club will probably give a number of dances and an active membership campaign will be started. The organization was not formed until last fall, so that this will practically be its first real season.

SECOND ATTEMPT TO END HIS LIFE

Marko Glumac Leaps From Second Story Window of Hospital.

Marko Glumac this morning attempted to commit suicide by jumping from one of the windows at the Graham hospital. He failed in his attempt and as a result is now being carefully watched by the hospital attendants.

Glumac is the man who was found last Wednesday morning lying by the D., M. & N. tracks, near the stone crusher, with his throat slashed. He was picked up by workmen and later taken to the Graham hospital, where he regained consciousness only after the attending physicians had worked over him for several hours.

Through an interpreter, Glumac, who is an Austrian, told the police and Dr. Graham at the time that he had been attacked by two companions, robbed of $30 and then slashed with a razor by one of them just as the duo ran away. He even gave the police a description of his two assailants.

After an investigation Lieut. Wilcox of the local station declared that, from what he had discovered, there was no robbery whatever, but that Glumac had attempted suicide. The razor, which Glumac claimed his assailants used, was identified as his own.

About 7 o'clock this morning Glumac crawled out of bed and jumped out of the window to the sidewalk below. He was picked up by Dr. Forbes and one of his assistants, who carried the man back into the hospital. He was placed in a room, with barred windows, and every precaution is being taken to keep Glumac from making another attempt on his life.

It is thought that Glumac is insane and his case will be referred to the sheriff, who will make an investigation.

Glumac is 30 years old and unmarried.

St. Patrick's Festival.

The men of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street, entertained at a St. Patrick's day festival in the church parlors last evening. The men had entire charge of the entertainment, including the preparing and serving of a luncheon the latter part of the evening.

During the evening the following program was rendered:

Selection ..... String Orchestra.
Recitation ..... William Towner.
Vocal solo—"Wearin' of the Green". Bert Abbott.
Reading—"Life of St. Patrick"..... Miss Clara Goodhand.
Vocal solo—"Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms" ..... Miss Ruth Flaaten.
Reading—"Paddy and the Microbes" Mrs. Milton Fish.

The following had charge of the entertainment: J. P. Wier, William Towner, Andrew Johnson and John Galbraith.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The West Duluth branch of the W. C. T. U. will be entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Florence Merritt, 2105 East Second street. A home-cooking sale will be one of the features of the meeting, with the following members in charge: Mesdames C. R. Keyes, H. H. Phelps, E. McMillan, T. F. Olsen, H. Bevier and T. B. Jones. Miss Jessie Mauck will lead in the discussion on "Amusements, With Special Reference to Purity." Mesdames C. R. Keyes and Alfred Merritt will assist Mrs. Merritt during the afternoon.

Annual Election.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Proctor M. E. church held its annual election of officers yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Noble Downey. The officers elected are: Mrs. Fred Hanson, president; Mrs. George McEwen, vice president; Mrs. Fred Hanson, secretary, and Mrs. Frank Hughes, treasurer. A chicken pie supper will be served by the ladies next Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. building.

Bowling Tourney.

Arrangements were completed last evening for a two-man bowling tournament to be held at the Proctor Y. M. C. A., beginning next Tuesday and ending April 20. About twelve teams are expected to enter the tournament. Prizes will be awarded the best team and the men receiving the highest averages. The following committee was appointed last evening to take charge of the tournament: H. C. Bousett, A. P. Hodapp, W. H. Crane, S. L. Smith, R. R. Brayden, Godfrey Anderson, and E. A. Hill.

REACH FINALS IN CLUB BONSPIEL

Wade and Keyes Rinks Will Compete for Buttons.

Frank H. Wade and Dr. C. R. Keyes are in the finals of the annual championship bonspiel at the Western Curling club, which is played on St. Patrick's day each year.

Play in the event started yesterday afternoon between Wieland and Keyes, the latter winning after a close game by the score of 10 to 9. Wade and Judson met at 4 o'clock, the former winning by the score of 10 to 8. The two victories advanced Wade and Keyes to the semi-finals.

Last evening Zauft forfeited to Olson and the latter played Wade, losing by the score of 9 to 7. Wade entered the finals of the spiel by this victory. Iltis won from Mallory, 13 to 9, and then lost to Keyes, 9 to 7. This put Keyes in the finals with Wade. The two will meet for the club championship this evening.

It was announced this morning that the winning rink in this club championship bonspiel will receive four gold buttons as a gift from the club. With the buttons will go the proviso that the rink must defend the title at any and all times. Any rink at the local club will have the right next season to challenge the Wade rink for the championship. One challenge will be allowed every forty-eight hours and these games must be played according to the rules of the club.

In addition to the Wade-Keyes game this evening, Iltis will play Holland in the finals of the Bagley event. The winner will receive the trophy. The two games are the last of the year.

Dancing Party.

Pocahontas lodge, No 319, Royal League, will hold a private dancing party Easter Monday, March 24, at the Dormedy hall, Central avenue and Ramsey street. The members of the league will meet this evening and complete arrangements for the affair. An informal program is to be arranged for the evening.

Will Confer Degrees.

Duluth Chapter, No. 59, R. A. M., will confer the royal arch degree tomorrow evening at the West Duluth Masonic temple. Following the ceremonies an informal banquet will be held. A large number of the Masons from the uptown lodges are planning to attend the festivities tomorrow evening.

Excavating for Theater.

Work was started this morning on the excavation for the new Colonial theater building to be erected at 321-3-5 Central avenue. The men are compelled to blast in order to excavate. It is planned to start work on the foundation within a very short time. Jacobson Brothers are the contractors in charge.

Shop Meeting.

H. J. Sopher of the Y. M. C. A. spoke this noon at the Proctor D. M. & N. shops. A luncheon was served to the men previous to the meeting. In addition to Mr. Sopher's address, the shop orchestra furnished a short program of music.

Illustrated Sermon.

Rev. W. H. Farrell of the Asbury M. E. church, Sixtieth avenue west and Raleigh street, will this evening repeat the illustrated lecture on "The Crucifixion," which he gave at the regular Sunday evening services. A series of thirty-two illustrated pictures will be shown.

Famous "Pint of Cough Syrup" Receipt

No Better Remedy at Any Price. Fully Guaranteed.

Make a plain syrup by mixing one pint of granulated sugar and ½ pint of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold instantly, and will usually stop the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. It tones up the jaded appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, throat tickle, sore lungs and asthma, and an unequaled remedy for whooping cough and croup.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) is a prime favorite in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, though never successfully. If you try it, use only genuine Pinex, which is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this recipe.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

A SPLENDID TONIC

Cora, Ky.—Mrs. Iva Moore, of this place, says, "I was so weak, I could hardly walk. I tried Cardui, and was greatly relieved. It is a splendid tonic. I have recommended Cardui to many friends, who tried it with good results." Testimony like this comes unsolicited, from thousands of earnest women, who have been benefited by the timely use of that successful tonic medicine, Cardui. Purely vegetable, mild, but reliable, Cardui well merits its high place in the esteem of those who have tried it. It relieves women's pains, and strengthens weak women. It is certainly worth a trial. Your druggist sells Cardui.

YOUR HAIR IS FLUFFY, BEAUTIFUL AND LUSTROUS IN A FEW MOMENTS

Girls! Get a 25 Cent Bottle of "Danderine" and Try This. Also Stops Falling Hair; Destroys Dandruff.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

BLOOD DISEASED? THEN ACT QUICKLY

From the blood all the solid tissues take their food and oxygen. Unless the poison is checked, it will soon affect the entire body. OLOF G. OLSON
CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER
SHORT TERM

I realize the importance of such a position and know that good suitable men should be elected.

If elected, I shall use my best effort for a better Duluth. I am first of all for a clean and efficient business administration. I am for municipal ownership and for impartial enforcement of the laws, without fear or favors to anyone.

My record as a member on the board of public works, the last nine years, shows fair and square dealing to the taxpayers, as well as to the city in general.

I ask for your kind support.

YOU OUGHT TO LIVE 200 YEARS

Man is the Only Animal That Does Not Live Eight Times Its Period of Maturity.

New York American: Nearly all specimens of animal life on this globe, except man, live, under normal conditions, about eight times the period of their maturity, or that time it takes them to attain full growth.

A horse, dog or cow that will obtain its growth in four years will live about 32 years. This rule applies especially to all anthropodial and quadruped specimens.

Man matures or gets his growth at about 24 years of age. Measured, therefore, by the scale of all other animals, he ought to live eight times 24, or about 200 years; but reckoning from the age of 6, man dies at a fraction over 40, which, on this reckoning, is about one-fifth his natural period of longevity, while, if we take into our calculations children under 6, including the infant class, it brings man's period of longevity in all civilized countries down to about 37 years.

Man drinks the same water and lives under the same sunshine as his brother animals. He differs from them mainly in his food, quantity of fresh air and exercise, which are the three fundamental laws governing all forms of life. It is fair to assume that man is no exception to the general rule governing all other animals, and that if he did not commit some very grave error in maintaining life he would live his normal period of years, as probably did his very ancient ancestors.

Man has vastly increased the productivity of labor by invention, and the productivity of the soil by the science of agriculture. He has almost conquered the air and carried the transportation of intelligence (talking through the air) to its seeming limit; but he has forgotten himself. In fact, just to the extent he has progressed in all of the other sciences he has retrogressed in the science of preserving his own health and life.

Man is entitled by inheritance to live 200 years. Science, therefore, can boast only when it has carried him beyond this period.

The difference between youth and age is, in fact, only a chemical difference. The difference between the stiff and flexible cartilage, the hard and soft artery, the normal and irritated nerve, the rich hemoglobin (red) and thin blood, the black and white hair, are only chemical differences. They represent deposits—things taken into the body which in some way and for some reason the body is unable to cast out. If man had studied man, his construction and maintenance, and made of it a true science—if he had given as much thought to the human body and its preservation as he has of other branches of science, these chemical differences would have been known, their causes removed, and man would today be in possession of his birthright, which is a normal life period of 200 years; or if he had carried the science of physiological chemistry and food chemistry to the same degree of development that he has many other branches of science, no doubt he would be able to prolong his life far beyond the normal period.

The three fundamental laws governing all forms of life are nutrition (food), motion (exercise) and oxidation (common air).

The most important of these is food. Fresh air is easy to get, and breathing is automatic, and if the body is properly fed exercise will also be automatic; but feeding the human animal is guesswork, done at haphazard. He is guided purely by his taste. His taste is warped and perverted. He has forced into his body a thousand things that it did not need and could not use, that has changed hunger into appetite, that has poisoned his blood and produced exhilaration, dethroned his reason and enthroned pernicious habits. He has eaten other animals, quadrupeds, bipeds, insects and all sorts of cold creeping things. In other words, he has waited until these animals have collected a few food elements from very questionable sources and built up their bodies, and then he has attempted to preserve his own life by stealing his nutrition from other animals. He has secured food second hand, after it had been collected by and passed into the body of another animal.

The human body is composed of fifteen well-defined chemical elements.

That person enjoys the best health, the keenest mentality and powers of perception, the highest mental, physical and emotional organism who can select and feed upon such articles as will supply all these constituent parts of the body most nearly in the right or natural proportions.

All of the body elements can be found in the vegetable world in their purest form. It requires, therefore, but little knowledge to enable man to select food from such articles as will supply all these elements in approximately the right proportions; but to this important matter he gives practically no thought.

Every housewife, especially every mother, should understand something about the chemistry of the body and its needs, and also understand about food chemistry, which tells how to supply those needs.

No intelligent mother would give her child or husband medicine compounded by a druggist that knew nothing about the chemistry and action of drugs; yet most mothers are putting a prescription of food upon their tables three times a day without any knowledge whatever of the chemistry of foods or the demands of the family.

It is much easier to accept things as they are than to analyze them and show their faults. Thus the great mass of people move on, eating what is set before them or what is listed on bills of fare, without knowledge or concern.

Dr. J. H. Mason Knox, an eminent authority on children's diseases, said in a public lecture in Washington not long ago that 300,000 children under 2 years of age die every year in the United States of curable diseases. Dr. Knox further asserted that the number of deaths among children from careless feeding is twice that from tuberculosis and about one-third the number from all so-called virulent diseases combined. Practically every one of these lives could be saved by correct feeding.

NATIONAL BANKS.

Springfield, Mass., Republican: Fifty years ago—to be precise, Feb. 25, 1863—the national bank act of the United States became a law. In these days, the defects of the act, as it now is written, are much exploited and the need for its radical amendment is undoubtedly vital to the business interests of the country.

Yet the national bank system has performed incalculable service since its organization. Born in response to the imperative financial necessities of the Federal government in the Civil war—for, in granting the note issuing privilege to these banks, the government made a market for its bonds which secured bank circulation—the system has been successful in the years since the war in meeting for the most part the requirements of the enormous industrial and commercial development of the country. Not only has this development been one of the monumental facts of American history; but the national bank system has passed through several financial panics without collapse.

All this is to be said to its credit. Certainly, it has been an immense improvement upon the chaotic state bank system which existed between the downfall of the old United States bank and the Civil war. The recent growth of the country and fifty years of experience have simply demonstrated that the time has come to perfect it and thus make it adequate to the unmistakable requirements of the half-century to come.

THIRTY MEN IN FIERCE FIGHT

Members of Antagonistic Camps Do Battle in Which Many Are Hurt.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fighting with knives and bludgeons, more than thirty men, divided into antagonistic camps, clashed early today on the outskirts of Cologne, Carver county, Minn., on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, thirty miles west of Minneapolis. Several of them were left cut and bleeding on the battleground and three were brought by special train to a hospital here. The men in the hospital are:

Joseph King, residence unknown; stabbed in lung; probably will die.

James Harvey, Boston, Mass., seriously stabbed in back.

Arthur Christopherson, Summit, S. D., seriously stabbed in back.

All of the injured men are laborers employed on railroad track work and were established in a camp near Carver. The attacking party, it is claimed, was composed of men and boys living at Cologne. There were ten men in the railroad party, while the opponents' force was twice that strong, according to the story told to the police at the hospital by Harvey.

Minneapolis and Carver county officials are making an investigation.

THIRD DEGREE ASSAULT CHARGED.

Phineas L. Gayton, negro, was brought to trial in district court this morning on a charge of third degree assault. It is claimed that he set upon one W. J. Webb, white, at Duluth Heights, on Jan. 30 last. Gayton admitted striking Webb, but claimed that it was done in self-protection.

Gayton and Webb were quibbling at the time over Gayton's grievance that Webb had jostled Gayton's wife on the street car and had passed derogatory remarks about the colored race. The case will go to the jury during the early part of the afternoon.
